"A handicap is a race in which the weights to be carried by the horses are adjusted by the handicapper for the purpose of equalizing their chances of winning." This, writes Belmont Purdy in the Field Illustrated the Jockey Club's definition, is theoretically correct. Walter S. Vosburgh, for many years the official handicapper, says that it is impossible to bring all classes together within the extremes of weight to which he is limited. The lowest weight a horse may carry is fixed by rule at 84 pounds, and it is stipulated that except in heavy handicaps, in which the "top weights shall not be less than 140 pounds" the "top weight shall not be less than 125 pounds, in all handicaps when the added money exceeds $500." The lowest weight is fixed by rule, but the limit upward is caused by the unwillingness of owners to start good horses with more than 130 pounds on their backs. The handicapper is handicapped in his office of "equalizing their chances of winning" by the effort to satisfy their owners, so that they may not refuse to accept the weights allotted to prominent horses the meeting of which forms the attraction of public interest.

To put 130 pounds on the best entries to an important event of the turf, and 84 on the worst performer, with the others ranged in between the extremes at a difference of a pound is not "equalizing their chances," which can be accomplished, nevertheless, by classifying the horses to be handicapped. This was done satisfactorily.

Only at Monmouth Park by U. D. Withers at Mr. Vosburgh's suggestion the innovation was not satisfactory to the bookmakers.

A Tangled Web

This form of the race is the culmination of the betting interests pure and simple. Its introduction was opposed by horsemen. "The introduction of handicaps will have the result that the whole system of horseracing will resolve itself into a tangled web of chicanery, deceit, concealment and fraud." This was the opinion of Mr. Thornhill, prominent in English racing, as quoted by John Randolph, of Roskilde, in a letter from England in 1816. Some authorities assert that the handicap race is responsible for much of the malpractice that prevails on the turf. This opinion was expressed by Admiral Ross, the Jockey Club's first official handicapper, who nevertheless did much to make this form of racing popular with owners of horses and the public.

It would be almost impossible to carry on modern racing without handicaps, which are most popular with that important class of patron which plays the races. It appeals to the speculative temperament because of the obvious uncertainty as to the result, the problem being as much a tilt between the owner of a horse and the official that is to allot weights, as it is a question of the relative ability of the contenders under the impossible assigned them. It is to create a market for the breeders' deadwood, as well as to furnish a variety of entertainment to the patrons of the turf that have been created the handicapping race, maiden race and those contests, the terms of which are in accordance in allowance of weight to attract entries.

Handicap or handicap is a phrase of obscure origin. In Pepys's diary, 1660, it referred to it as a game of chance. Chambers gives its origin in an old method of settling a bar and withdrawal of horses.

In the beginning the stakes of plates were for competition by horses less than five years old, all carrying the same weight. In time it was found that when horses of known ability were entered others were withdrawn from the race and sport was

NEWS OF BRITAIN BRIEF AND BRIGHT

All Parts of the United Kingdom Rapidly Scanned in These Short Paragraphs

Boy scouts secured a plot of land in Norwood, which they will farm for the benefit of their funds.

Five-ton Whale Ashore

A large whale was washed up at Whittemay, Scotland, half a mile north of Newtonhill. Its length was 35 feet, and it weighed about five tons.

Leapt on to the Chauffeur

A carter at Colne, Lancashire, who stepped in front of a motor car, escaped death by leaping four feet over the bonnet and falling on the chauffeur.

Antics of a Motor Wheel

Becoming detached from the axle, a front wheel of a motor car at Bunkingham ran to the pavement, struck the curb, and bounced through an open window.

Cabinetmaker to the King

The death took place at Windsor of Mr. Alfred Holt, who for forty-two years was employed as cabinetmaker at Windsor Castle, being one of the oldest employees there.

Hanged Hanged After Holiday

Gladys Morris, aged twenty-four, after returning from a holiday, was found hanging from a rafter in the attic of her father's house at Hinton, Glamorganshire, Wales. She was the daughter of the manager of a tinplate works.

Named Baffled Chief Constable

Kuston Juemar Giamroa was the name on the charge sheet at Yarmouth Police Court in the case of a Russian Finn, but the formality of calling him was omitted by the chief constable, who confessed his inability to pronounce it, and referred to him as "this man."

Decorated in New Style

During the small hours of the morning someone smeared the police barracks at Monisterevan, Ireland, and the front of Mrs. Deane's tavern with a mixture of tar and harness dressing. Outlines of rats, dogs, and men were a particular feature of the unsolicited decorations.

"Booby Man" Sentenced

Known to the London police as "the Booby Man," a young fellow who made a practice of robbing errand boys of their parcels, which he received from them for "sakekeeping" whilst they ran a bogus errand for him, was sentenced to a year's hard labor. He gave the name of Henry Williams, aged twenty-two.

Emigrated Fifty-two Years Ago

The death occurred at Williams town, Australia, at the age of seventy-six years, of Mr. Alex Harrow, late chief engineer of the Naval Forces of Victoria. Deceased was a son of the late Captain Alexander Harrow, D.D., of Scotland, and brother of ex-Provost Harrow. He emigrated to Australia fifty-two years ago.

"Snake in Railway Train"

A small snake was found by a porter at Epsom curled up on the seat of a first class carriage. He tried to catch the reptile, but it darted under the seat and up into the padding at the back. With the carriage door locked the train was sent to London Bridge, where the snake was caught and killed.

Papal Honor for M.P.

The Pope conferred another high honor upon the member for North Westford, Sir Thomas H. Gratton, a member of the House of Commons. Sir Thomas was for a number of years one of the Pope's Chamberlains and has now been appointed Grand Officer of the Order of the Holy Sepulchre. This is the oldest Order in existence, and the Supreme Pontiff himself is Grand Master of it.

Wallace Monument Outrage

In addition to the breaking of the glass of the case containing Wallace's sword, at Stirling, there was a sheet of paper left in the sword case bearing the following in bold characters: "Your liberties were won by the sword. Release the women who are fighting for their liberties. Stop the forcible feeding. A protest from Dublin."

Beer and Treacle Mingle

In the North Bridge, Edinburgh, a horse, hitched to a lorry laden with barrels of beer, took fright and a collision occurred with another horse and lorry, laden with barrels of molasses. Two barrels of molasses were knocked from one lorry and five barrels of beer from the other. Several of the barrels were smashed, and the heavy smell of the beer and molasses permeated the air in the vicinity.

Crippled Husband's Suicide

"Don't you think, mate, you'll be better off without me?" You have a work to keep me and the child, I asked Harry Isaac, a Hanwell tram regulator, of his wife as she left him. An operation for knee trouble had left him a cripple, and he was unable to work. On her return the woman found her husband had hanged himself behind the bedroom door.

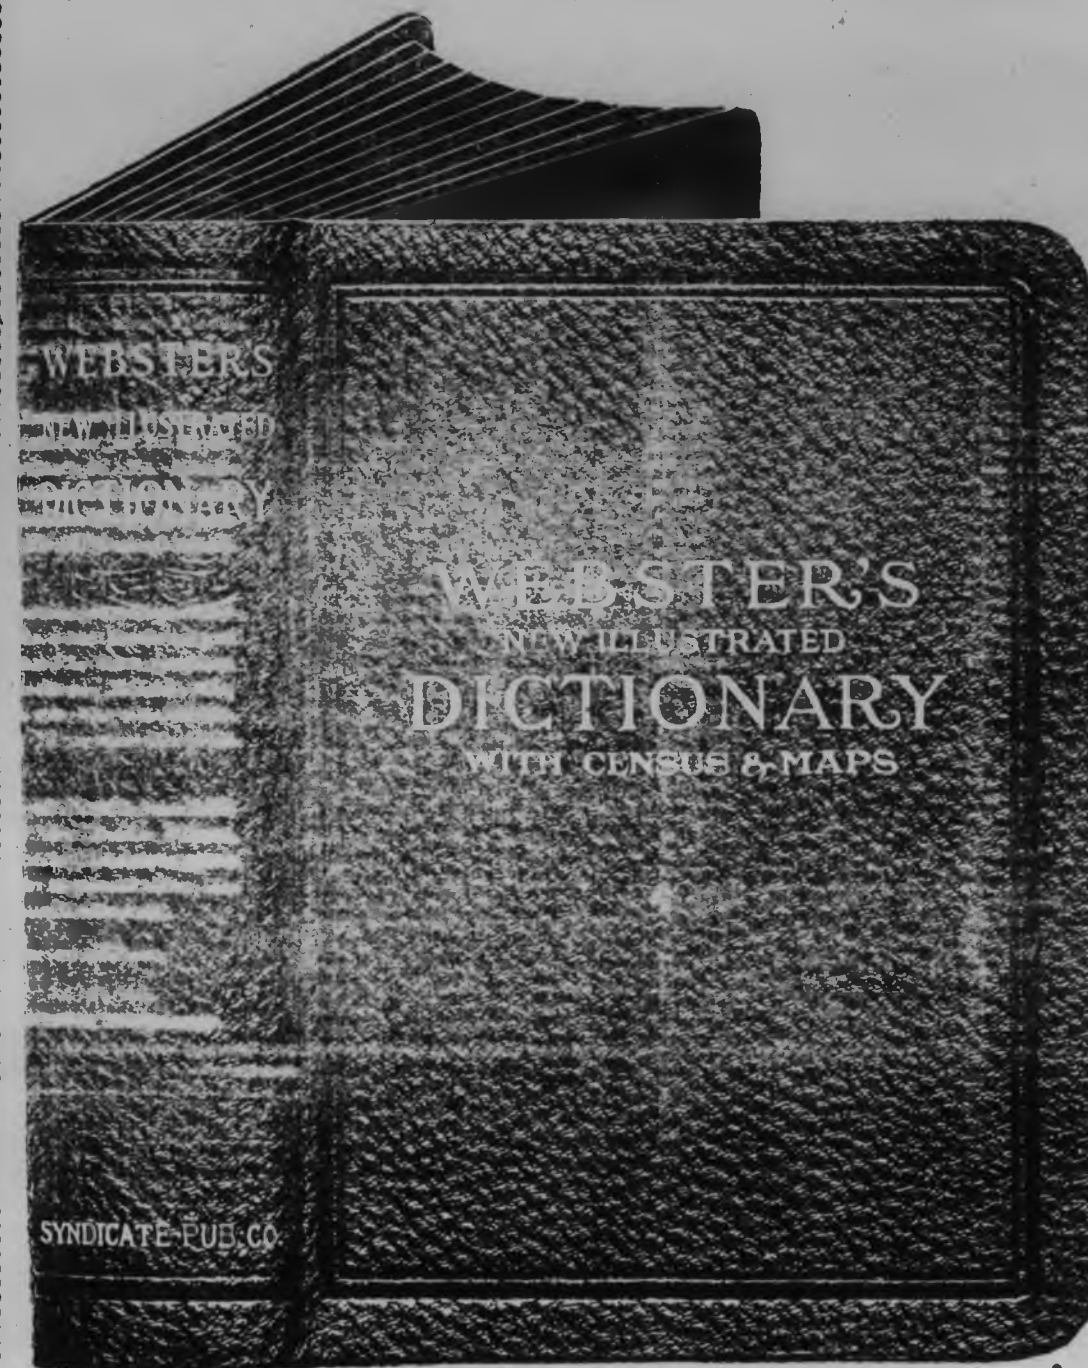

Philanthropic Showman Dead

John Stutt, one of the well-known Welsh family of amusement caterers who were the pioneers of the roundabouts so popular at fairs all over the country, died at Cardiff in South Wales, and, in fact, in every part visited by the roundabouts—the name of John Stutt will be remembered in his philanthropy. Wherever he went he always observed Friday as "Charity Day," giving the takings on that day to the funds of the local hospital or other charitable institution. In this manner it is computed that he and his brothers between them benefited poor sufferers to the extent of £300,000. If only by reason of his stature, Mr. Stutt was a conspicuous figure at all the fairs he visited. He was almost a giant, being 6 feet 4½ inches in height.

QUEER LAWS OF PARIS

One Suicide Denied Right of Crime—Another Got It

Paul Robin, a Parisian suicide, expressed a desire before his death that his body be dissected for the benefit of scientific research. As the laws of the country prevented the realization of the desire, the family wished to cremate the body but the authorities would not allow this because Robin took his own life. The family thereupon cited the case of the Socialist Lafargue, who was also a suicide, but who was cremated. This evoked the curious rejoinder from the authorities that Lafargue's case was different because he killed himself outside the city, whereas Robin's suicide took place in Paris.

Money for Nothing

It was stated at a meeting of the Cork Ratepayers' Association that the caretaker of the Dogs' Home in that city had become entitled to an increase of $24 a year, but that there was not a single dog in the home to be cared for. The hardest day's work the caretaker had to do, it was said, was that on which he drew his salary.

MODERNIZING JERUSALEM

David's Tower, Part of Ancient Wall to be Demolished

During the last few years many improvements have been carried out with regard to affording better roadway facilities in and out of Jerusalem by enlarging its gates. Like most ancient cities in the East, Jerusalem is surrounded by a wall pierced by seven gates. Until a generation ago these gates were religiously closed at night, and it was almost all a man's life was worth to be shut out. Then, as the government became more stable and far-reaching one gate was left open all night, and then a second, until now none are ever closed. Indeed two of these entrances have now no gates to close. Then the Jaffa entrance was enlarged, and a part of the wall taken down to allow carriages to comfortably pass in and out of the city. Now that historic pile David's Tower, which forms a part of Jerusalem's ancient wall, is to be pulled down and a wide entrance made into the city. Here it might also be added that whereas less than half a century ago there were no buildings outside the city walls, there are now vast colonies—more people, in fact, residing outside the city than within the city.

How Love and Land Values Raised a Man to Fortune

Herr Karl Nordhausen, who began life as a non-commissioned officer in the Prussian Army, died recently worth $2,750,000, at the age of seventy-four.

As sergeant, he was billeted during the military manoeuvres near Berlin in 1882 with a well-to-do peasant farmer named Heward. Heward's farm at that time had no more than an agricultural value but this was due to the fact that the owner had died and the farm was in the hands of a trustee. HISTORIC PRISON CELLS

The Criminal Relics of London Will Be Stored Therein

The authorities of the new London Museum, at Kensington Palace, have secured possession of some historical prison cells, wherein will be housed the criminal relics of London.

The cells were discovered in a common lodging house in Walbrook Square, St. George's-in-the-East, and are believed to date back to the times of Charles II, and to have been subsequently used in connection with the Whitechapel Police Court. In the walls, which are built of oak, thick, studded with strong iron bolts, were the original fetters used for the condemned prisoners, together with a plank bed, upon which, no doubt, many a criminal spent his last night.

The complete cells have been dismantled by experts, acting under instructions from Mr. Guy Laking, custodian of the new museum, and will be re-erected in their entirety in the annex at the museum at Kensington, where visitors will be able to pass in and out of them and inspect the many quaint inscriptions on the walls. An old oak staircase still stands in the house in Walbrook Square, but this will not be removed.

CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATION

Wayburn Correspondent would Inform the West on the Trade Question.

Considerable interest has been aroused in Eastern Canada by the Wayburn correspondent of The Toronto News in which he advocates strongly a vigorous campaign of education in the West which would explain the policy of reasonable and moderate protection under which manufacturing has made such enormous progress in the older parts of Canada in the last fifteen years. This Wayburn writer cites as the chief reason the West is out of touch with the East the trade question as the inability of the Western citizen to see the fruits of the policy of moderate protection. He refers to the fact that there is no platform in the West to explain how the development of diversified industries in Canada means prosperity not only for the manufacturers but for all classes of the community.

SYNOPSIS OF DOMINION LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is sole head of a family, or any male over 16 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties.—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to secure home-occupied patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

Each tender must be accompanied by an accepted cheque on a chartered bank, payable to the order of the Minister of Public Works, equal to ten per cent. (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender, which will be forfeited if the person tendering declines to enter into a contract when called upon to do so, or fail to complete the work contracted for. If the tender is not accepted the cheque will be returned.

The Department does not bind itself to accept the lowest or any tender.

By order,
R. C. DESROCHERS, Secretary.

Whe Nostrils Are Plugged Your Catarrh is Bad

BY ACTING TO-DAY YOU CAN QUICKLY CURE CATARRH AND AVOID BRONCHITIS, PER-HAPS CONSUMPTION

Most Agreeable and Surest Cure is Catarrhose, Which Cures Every Curable Case

Catarrhose proves especially good in those chronic cases where mucous drops down the throat, sickness of the stomach, and pollutes the breath.
When the nostrils are plugged, only a few breaths through the inhaler are needed to clear the passages, and where there is coughing and sore bronchial tubes the soothing, healing properties of Catarrhose act almost as magic.

Once you start taking medicine into the stomach and get the healing oils and pure balsams of Catarrhose at work you can be sure of quick and lasting cure for nose colds, catarrh, weak lungs, bronchitis, and speaker's sore throat.

18 YEARS OF CATARRH CURED
"An Catarrhose has cured me of a Catarrh Cough and Asthma that lasted thirteen years. I feel I can honestly recommend it. I really used all kinds of medicine, but Catarrhose was the only one that did any real good.
I am entirely cured—have no cough, no bad breathing spells, not a sign of a cold or catarrh about me. But I will always use Catarrhose." I prize it so highly.

Mrs. E. L. Osmond, Johnson P.O., Ont.
The complete $1.00 Outfit of Catarrhose is sufficient for 2 months treatment, and is guaranteed. Smaller size, 50c., at all dealers, or The Catarrhose Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and John Rose and Walter Wilde for Peterborough east.

Better Sold Was Fall Weight.
An investigation of the butter sold on the market was commenced Saturday morning by Sanitary Inspector Spence, to ascertain whether there existed any shortage in weight. Several samples were selected promiscuously and weighed and in every case the butter was found to be the full 16 ounces in weight. In fact some samples showed excess weight.

Dr. Clinton Resides in Belleville.
The headquarters of Dr. Clinton, Health Inspector for the district, will be at Belleville. Sanitary Inspector Spence is in the district intimated to him on a recent visit here, that he considered Belleville to be much more centrally and advantageously located for the performance of his duties.

Pro Baseball Next Year.
The Peterborough Baseball Club held a meeting with president, W. H.
Denham, presiding in the Bank of Montreal Chambers on Saturday night. Arrangements were completed for having a local club in the province next summer. The club will meet again a week from to-day. The matter of choice of a manager has not yet been settled.

New Council Meets To-day.
The new city council will hold their inaugural meeting this morning at eleven o'clock. A matter of importance to be disposed of is that of appointing the standing committees for the year. The most important of the committees, and the two that will bring out the keenest competition are the departments of Fire, Water and Light and the Board of Works.

Takes Courage To Win

No half-hearted "stab" at anything is likely to succeed.
Having the "nerve" to do a thing is based on sound physiology.

"Nerve" includes clear, intelligent, concentrated thinking, plus courage.
But—brain and nerves must be properly fed—nourished—or the "courage to win" is likely to fail.

Old Local Grocery Closed.

That old time local grocery, formerly operated on George street, by E. A. Dutton, now of Toronto, and more recently by Mr. Fred Walker, as manager for Mr. E. F. Mason, closed its doors on Saturday night.
Mr. Mason, proprietor of this store intends hereafter, to confine his business activities to his store across the street.

Warning to License Holders

The local police are getting tired of waiting for license holders, such as milkmen, butchers, restaurateurs, livestockmen, pedlars, auctioneers and others to take out their licenses for 1913. No more warning to such will be given. Delinquents will run up against a $10 fine in addition to the license. The milkmen are the slowest as per usual.

Local and Toronto Prices

How long are the Peterborough housewives going to be held up on the prices of eggs? In Toronto Star of Friday the price of that commodity, in Messrs. Wm. Davies Co., is quoted from 25 to 28 cents, with "every egg guaranteed"! Here we pay any old price asked up to 45 cents a dozen. It's enough to give the Peterborough hen an attack of swelled head.

Mr. McGee Was Hurt.

Mr. W. J. McGee has returned from a business trip to Buffalo. As the train was entering Toronto, Mr.
McGee, fallen asleep, was dreaming of picking diamond rings from a golden tree when—bump! crash! And the train had jumped the rails. Mr.
McGee was severely shaken up, and sustained a serious blow on the head.
The conductor settled on the spot with Mr. McGee.

Will of Late Mr. Wm. Faint.

An estate of $22,453.60, the greater portion of which is realty was left by William Faint, of Toronto, who died on November 5th, in Winnipeg. His widow living in Winnipeg receives the insurance in monthly payments, and Wm. H. Faint, son Winnipeg, receives Peterborough property subject to payment of $10 monthly to his mother. Three daughters and a grandson share the residue, and a legacy of $1,200 is left to Jessie H. Doxey, brother-in-law Toronto.

James Cox Before the Cadi.

At Saturday's Police Court, James Cox, of Lakefield, held the focus of both the Magisterial eyes. It seems that James, a fortnight ago had tarried too long and frequently with liquid refreshments supplied in a local hotel. James threatened to solve the mystery by the landlady
monthly to his mother. Three daughters and a grandson share the residue, and a legacy of $1,200 is left to Jessie H. Doxey, brother-in-law
Toronto.

Gratitude Clearly Shown.

On Saturday a local bartender saw lying on the floor a pocket book. He picked it up and thrust it into his hip pocket for safety. Half an hour later an excited individual, with eyes out-thrust, rushed into the bar and exclaimed "Say, mister, I lost my purse here a little while ago, containing a large sum of money. Did you see it?" The dispenser of wet goods replied, "Yes, I did; but I never opened it to see what was in the pocket book." The purse was then opened. It contained $50 in bills, a note for $100 and other commercial documents. The man to whom the money was returned brought a five cent cigar for his benefactor.

OBITUARY.

BECKER LEADS IN HYMNS

Former Police Captain Known as Most Religious Man in Sing Sing

HOPES FOR A NEW TRIAL

Murder and Suicide — Other News Flashed Over Wires From Across the Border

New York, Jan. 11.
THE former Police Lieutenant, Chamberlain, under sentence to death for the murder of Gambler Herman Rosenthal, continues in a hopeful frame of mind in his cell at Sing Sing prison, according to one of his recent fellow-inmates. Lawrence J.
Spohr, former corporal of the United States army, who was condemned to die for the murder of his sweetheart, but who has just been sent from the death-house to the jail at White Plains for a second trial, tells the story of Becker's days at Sing Sing.
"Becker confidently expects that he will get a new trial and will be acquitted," said Spohr. "He is the most religious man in the place and every night reads the bible and leads in the singing of two or three hymns and other songs, mostly popular, in which the rest of the gunmen join.
Becker does not talk much about his case, but spends most of the time studying up the legal points of it, and he is usually in a hopeful frame of mind."

POISON IN WELL.

Tarrytown, N.Y., Jan. 11.—Abraham D. Tompkins died yesterday, indirectly the victim of a poisoning plot forty-nine years ago. In February, 1864, Tompkins' sister, Theresa, received a letter from a jealous lover warning her not to keep company with a certain young man. She did not heed the warning, and arsenic as a result was placed in the well.
She was the first to be taken ill, and died within a week. Another sister was bedridden for 25 years before she died. Tompkins was paralyzed through his left side from the poison, but although a cripple, he had been able to run a little news store. The man who placed the poison in the well was never caught.

MURDER AND SUICIDE.

Newark, N.J., Jan. 11.—With his service revolver Policeman Edward Burke killed his wife and himself at their home early today in the presence of their two little children. The woman's screams and the report of three revolver shots, which awakened most of the six families in the house were all the neighbors could tell of about the shooting, although it was said that Burke was jealous because of another man's attentions to his wife. Their six-year-old daughter, Hazel, and three-year-old son, Ormond, were found sitting upright in their cribs crying over the tragedy, which they could not understand.

UNSAFE TO EAT UNION MADE FOOD SAYS ETOR

New York, Jan. 11.—"If you are compelled to go back under unsatisfactory conditions, go back with a determination to stick together, and you get what you want. Go back with your minds made up that it is the unsafe thing in the world for the capitalist to eat food prepared by members of your union."

This was the advice that Joseph Ettor, the labor leader recently acquitted on charges growing out of the textile strike riots at Lawrence, Mass., uttered last night, to striking hotel employees, who met in a all night session after a series of disturbances in front of hotel and restaurants.

After he concluded his speech Ettor was asked to comment on his words.
"I meant just what I said," was his reply. He refused to make further explanation.

Earlier in his speech Ettor urged the strikers not to consider mediation. "Hotels could not exist without you," he said. "Do not accept any arbitration board to decide your grievances. Close the doors of every hotel in the city, and keep them closed. Shut the pantry doors, but the front doors."

ANOTHER LIBERAL PAPER HAS WARNED SIR WILFRID LAURIER

Montreal, Jan. 13.—Opposition is developing to the proposals of Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, several more ex-Ministers, Mr. Hugh Guthrie and others that the Liberals should adopt a policy of obstruction towards the Borden naval policy. The stand of the Montreal Herald is well known. Now Le Pays, the paper of J. S. G. Langlois, M.P.P., for St. Louis, comes out with a warning to Sir Wilfrid Laurier of the folly of the party attempting to face a general election in its present unprepared condition. He says:

Power—Ald. Johnston, Chairman, Ald. Buller, Gordon and Duncan.

The usual grant of $500 was made to the Mayor, to be paid in even portions quarterly at the beginning of each quarter.

The Mayor was authorized to send deputations to other places on city business when he deemed it advisable and that the expenses of such deputations be paid by the City Treasurer on the certificate of the Mayor.

The arrangement that the Board of Trade be represented on the Manufacturers' Committee by three members will be continued.

The Petes Won Both

Peterborough Defeats Kingston Frontenacs Before An Immense Audience

Special to The Times.

Kingston, Jan. 13.—Last night Frontenac rink in this city, was crowded to the doors by a yelling, enthusiastic assemblage of hockey fans of both sexes. The red, black and gold of Queens University was everywhere in evidence. At half time the visitors lead by a score of 4-2. When the final bell rang the score stood, Peterborough 6, Frontenac 4.

Juniors Won Out.
The Petes, Jr., who played last night at Port Hope were too strong for the lakeside bunch. At half time the score stood, Petes 7, Port Hope 0. The final score stood, 12-2 in favor of the Petes.

A NE TEMERE UNDER FIRE

Rev. Dr. Hincks, of Toronto, Will Speak on Marriage Laws on Feb. 6

A mass meeting under auspices of the Protestant Federation of Peterborough, will be held in the market hall on the evening of February 6th, at which Rev. Dr. Hincks, of Toronto, will be the principal speaker. Most of our readers know that Dr. Hincks is invited to deliver an address in London, Eng., in connection with the ne temere decree, and was given a very hearty reception, his eloquence stirring the large audience to a marked degree. At the coming meeting here, he will discuss the question, so vitally important to all Canada, of the marriage laws.

A committee of the Protestant Federation have been arranging for a demonstration here. It was first proposed to have this take the form of a banquet. The committee ascertained that no room large enough to be suitable for such purpose was available for the numbers likely to attend. They then decided to hold a mass meeting in the market hall, as the Grand Opera House was previously engaged for the date referred to. This big hall will be provided with seating accommodation adapted to large audience. No admission will be charged. Further particulars will be given later.

TWO AIRMEN DROWNED

London, Jan. 13.—Two British airmen, L. F. Macdonald and a man named Ingle, were drowned in the River Thames this afternoon. The aviators were flying at a height well above the river, when the machine suddenly swooped downward. Immediately upon coming in contact with the water the engine exploded. One of the aviators clung for a while to the top of the machine, but he sank before the boat, which was hurriedly put off from shore, could reach him.

WATER COMMISSION TO TAKE CHARGE OF HYDRO-ELECTRIC

City Council in First 1913 Regular Session. Increases in Salaries Asked. Auburn Has Not Yet Any Fire Protection

The city council of 1913 met in its first regular session last night. The new faces on the Aldermanic Board are Aldermen Malcolm McIntyre, Wm. Langford Jr., and G. Walter Green. The other members present were His Worship Mayor Bradburn, Aldermen Anderson, Johnston, Duffus, Gordon, Gillespie, Duncan and Buller.

COMMUNICATIONS.
From E. H. D. Hall, city solicitor, notifying council that the sale of water front land to the C.P.R. had been closed last Thursday, and no had received the purchase price, and interest of some $10,850.07. Received.

Mr. Geo. W. Hatton wrote that his client, Mr. B. Gibbs, had lost a valuable horse last Thursday night by reason of the team conveying a sleighing party being frightened by a street railway sweeper at the intersection of Water and Hilliard streets, and the road at that point on account of the railway track being too narrow to permit of handling the team with safety. He referred to the Local Committee.

Charles C. Nixon wrote complaining of the inconsistency of the city permitting a Toronto firm (Fairweather's) to advertise their business by means of a sign elevated on the city's island in the river near the C.P.R. bridge, and suggested that Peterborough city itself be advertised.

RANK AND FILE LIBERALS HAVE NO STOMACH FOR FIGHT

Ex-Ministers and Ambitious Members Only Ones To Agitate—Navy Bill Must Pass

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 13. Members are drifting back to Ottawa very slowly for the opening to-morrow, and unless there is a big rush to-night or to-morrow morning, there will be a slim house when the naval debate is resumed.

Hugh Guthrie has the floor, and it is understood that W. S. Middlebrooke will be the first Conservative speaker.

The rest of the speakers will not be settled until the whips arrive and the chief whips of both sides are still missing from Ottawa. Main interest centres in what action the Liberals will take.

As a matter of fact the Liberals themselves are at sea, and nothing will be decided until the first caucus, judging by the divergent opinions of the Liberal members, who are back in the capital, there will be a lively caucus. The leaders or most of them, are talking fight, and want to hold up all business with the idea of forcing an election.

Ministers Seek New Contest.
Agitation for an election is principally from either defeated Cabinet Ministers, the Hon. Mackenzie King and Hon. Sidney Fisher, or from would-be ministers like Hugh Guthrie, who would like to take the gambler's chance of an election. As for the Liberal back-benchers, they have nothing to gain and everything to lose by a contest, and are not so enamoured with the idea of forcing an election as their leaders.

It is the general belief at Ottawa that when the Liberals hold their first caucus, cold water will be thrown over the whole scheme. If the Liberals do attempt to hold up business and block supplies with the idea of bringing on a contest, there will, follow one of the most spectacular Parliamentary fights in Canadian history.

It can be authoritatively stated that the Government is determined to force through the House its naval proposals.

Public Behind the Measure.
It believes that the general consensus of opinion is behind the measure and that there is no reason for putting the country to the expense of another election at present or of upsetting the present prosperous business conditions. The Government takes the stand that it is carrying out to the letter the declaration of policy laid down by Premier Borden before the last election endorsed by the people.

SHIPLOAD OF EXPERTS WILL INVESTIGATE WORK
New York, Jan. 13.—A world cruise of a shipload of missionary experts, to investigate the work in foreign fields, is a plan submitted by J. Campbell White, founder of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, at the annual meeting of the organization, opening at Garden City Long Island, to-day.

Action on the proposal, which includes the expenditure of $500,000 a year for five years, will be taken during the week. The reports which the last world-cruising party brought back was used in a great missionary campaign in Canada and the United States.

Figures will be submitted at the meeting to show that America leads the world with gifts to foreign missions. Protestants of the United States gave nearly $15,000,000 last year, an increase of about $2,500,000 over the previous year. Canada gave $648,000 more than last year.

CONSERVATIVES IN LINE FOR BORDEN NAVY POLICY
Owen Sound, Jan. 13. Conservatives of the port of Ontario are still talking to-day of the fine meeting they had here on Saturday. North Grey never turned out so well to a meeting. W. S. Middlebrooke, K.C., made one of the most ringing speeches of his career and following this there was a unanimous standing vote, favoring the Borden naval policy and confidence in the Administration.

IS THERE GROSS EXTRAVAGANCE AT ISOLATION HOSPITAL?

Ald. Gordon Thinks The Bills For Maintenance so Indicate. Board of Health Will Be Asked To Investigate

At last night's council meeting Ald. Gordon offered that as the act provides that the control of the Isolation Hospital is in the Board of Health's hands, of which body Ald. Gordon is this year's member, it would be well that enquiry into the hospital's management last year be urged. Ald. Gordon contended that the bills for the Isolation Hospital maintenance are simply astounding, and seem to indicate gross extravagance, and investigation should be made of affairs in connection with that institution.

Ald. Gordon moved, seconded by Ald. Anderson, that the Board of Health be asked to investigate into the management of the Isolation Hospital last year and endeavor to arrange for more economic maintenance in future. Carried.

In seconding the above, Ald. Anderson said some check should be made on the accounts. The bill for groceries and provisions for nine months, ending Sept. 30th, ran up to $773.40, while that for drugs and medicine was but $50.80. This seemed altogether disproportionate when the object of the institution was considered.

Ald. Duncan remarked that while the groceries bill seems altogether out of proportion with that for medicine etc. the doctor claims that considerable expense had been incurred in preserving fruit for this coming year.

The Mayor said that both he and Ald. Duncan had enquired into conditions at the hospital, and some fair excuse for expense had always been forthcoming.

WEIGHING OF FOWL.
Moved by Ald. Johnston, seconded by Ald. Buller, that the question of selling fowl by weight on the market be taken up by the Property Committee to report. Carried.

DOWNIE STREET CREEK.
Ald. Johnston urged upon the Board of Works the expediency of arranging for so treating the Downie street creek that it will no longer be a menace to adjacent property.

Ald. Langford concurred in Ald. Johnston's views, and also urged the crying need for sewerage service with the Dickson property. These matters should be definitely disposed of, he contended.

ADVERTISE IN THE TIMES

A SPEAKING WATCH

Timepiece Calls Out the Hour With Human-like Voice

Stock has been issued by a German company which hopes to place on the market a speaking watch, which instead of sounding the hour by a bell will shout out the hour like a human voice. Its mechanism is very complicated but it is said the watch will be able to say "It is 7 o'clock" or "fifteen minutes later, it is 7:15 o'clock." The inventors added an arrangement whereby the watch can be silenced at night.

This invention is not exactly new.

As the satirist, George Christoph-Lichtenberg (1742-99) had a watch which spoke the words, "Thou art a man." At fifteen minutes past the hour it said "Thou," and at half-past "Thou art," and so on, achieving the full sentence on the hour.

BALKAN KINGS

SOLVED BY A BUTTON

A mysterious crime at St. Peterburg was solved by means of a trouser button. The police some time ago found the bodies of a well-to-do couple named Andrejoff lying near the Minskaya railway station, bearing unmistakable evidence of having been stabbed to death. The wife was well known in the district on account of the valuable jewelry she used to wear, and shortly before the tragedy her used jewelry necklace had attracted special attention.

No clue to the identity of the murderers could be found except a button which was lying near the bodies, but as this button was similar to those used for a certain uniform a search was instituted. This led to the discovery of a man of the 14th Infantry Regiment whose clothes were minus a button, and on being accused of the crime he immediately confessed.

A Sacred Dance

A very interesting custom was carried out by the Arab population of Tripoli recently. Several huge cranes for salvage work arrived there from Genoa, but before any of the 500 Arab workmen could be induced to start operations, the Moslem priests were summoned. Then, began the celebration of an elaborate rite, during which a large number of young lambs were immolated on an altar. The new salvage plant was smeared from top to bottom by the priests with the blood of the victims, and the ceremony concluded with a sacred dance round the cranes. After this the Arabs set themselves joyfully to work in the assurance that the power of evil had been effectively paralyzed.

More Women Smokers

Smoking is becoming far more common among London society women. The habit is indulged in more openly than it was, and it is not an uncommon sight to see a woman motorist who is making calls putting away at a cigarette between the visits or a woman golfer doing the same thing. At many of the West End Restaurants women no longer take the trouble to conceal their liking for the cigarette. Many women, moreover, have gone beyond the cigarette stage and smoke cigars—mild Havanas.

Dumb Man's Impediment

An amusing story of an incident at a deaf and dumb wedding at Cardiff is related by a Welsh daily. The Rev. W. E. Winks, a Baptist minister, officiated by means of the finger language, and afterwards a lady, who had witnessed the ceremony, said to the pastor: "Very nice, quiet wedding sir, but did you notice an impediment in the bridegroom's speech?" "No," was the surprised reply. "Oh, yes, but top of one of his forefingers was missing," said the lady.

Royal Reward for Brave Sailor

For his bravery in saving the captain and a constabularyman when the Norwegian barque Saluto was wrecked on the Cornish coast, Thomas C. Rowe, second mate of the steamer, was presented at Cardiff, Wales, with a silver cup awarded him by the King of Norway.

Think of it, friends!

Another year nearly gone.

Have you lost—a mother or a relative?

It is not possible to lose another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likenesses, and you will never regret it. In this case you get a real likeness—a work of art that will not lose its clear-cut lines and beauty.

THE DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR HAS STARTED INVESTIGATION

Railway Labour Employment Methods Subject of Rigid Enquiry—Serious Condition Disclosed

(Special to The Times).

Ottawa, Jan. 13.—The Department of Labour has been making a special investigation into conditions under which workmen are engaged in the cities of eastern Canada for employment on the construction of the G. T. P. line in northern British Columbia, and finds that complaint is made of exorbitant charges being made by certain employment agencies; also that many workmen on being engaged are shipped to the wilds without first providing themselves with blankets, boots, overalls, shirts, and other necessities which are only to be had at very high prices on the work.

TOLL NOT NECESSARY.

As respects the latter point, the Inspector of the Department of Labour, who recently visited the G. T. P. line in British Columbia, writes that he met workmen who said they were told by employment agents that it was not necessary to take blankets and wearing apparel with them as they could procure them at the camps at prices as low as in the eastern cities. It is the Inspector's opinion that many of these men brought to the attention of the local authorities through whom licenses are granted in the employment agency business.

LAW IS BROKEN AT MOVIES

Children Unaccompanied By Adults Admitted

A PROVEN INSTANCE

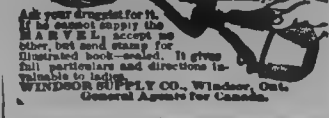

Boys of Twelve Years Old are Sold Tickets and Ticket Seller Refuses to Refund to Enquiry that Boys' Mothers Were Inside.

There are laws and laws. Most laws are sometimes broken, many frequently. There are some laws the infringement of which is winked at by even professedly law-abiding citizens. On the other hand, there are laws that justice morality and the common sense demand to be rigidly enforced. Of the latter class of laws are laws to protect human life and limb, and particularly the lives of women and innocent children.

Any reader of the newspapers is conversant with the awful tragedies of late which have occurred in moving picture houses, when through panic, men, women and children have been trampled to death in the wild orgy of fear engendered. The Ontario government realizing the possible danger attaching to such places, has enforced them with stringent regulations to protect patrons. The operator must be a skilled and certified man, over 18 years of age. The width of aisles, and fire escapes, duly emblazoned as such by illuminated "exit" signs are provided for. Again, for possibly two reasons, the law distinctly forbids under 15 years of age to attend such places unless actually accompanied by adults. This law is persistently violated. Let us suppose, for argument, a boy and girl unaccompanied, were in such a place when a panic occurred, as is only too possible, what chance would the youngsters have for life?

One day last week, a gentleman of this city, holding a public position, waited for a friend in front of home of the George Street picture house. He saw two boys, seemingly 12 or 13 years old, go to two or three young men and ask them to purchase admission tickets for themselves, the boys. This request was not granted. The boys then went boldly to the ticket office and were sold admission slips. The ticket seller, when asked by the boys to whom the tickets were for, said she had broken the law in selling tickets to children unaccompanied by adults. With an indifferent toss of her head the girl replied, "Oh, their mothers are inside!" Even this was not enough, proposing the boys' mothers had been inside. The gentleman, for curiosity, purchased a ticket and followed the boys in. They sat alone and evidently had neither their respective mothers or adult companions present.

The Times is determined, in the interest of children, and for the protection of children, to follow this matter up, and insist that the law be observed. It is not our intention here to discuss the merits or demerits of the movie picture house. It is the poor man's theatre and admittedly has many educational and amusing features. However, apart from the obvious possibility of panic, children should not be allowed to witness indiscriminate films, many of which depict scenes unfit for the viewing mind of a child, even though strictly censored.

Tip a Legal Obligation

The transformation of tipping as a custom into a legal obligation has been effected in Switzerland, by a decision of the Supreme Court. A cattle dealer sold for $135 three head of cattle to a farmer, but as the latter refused to give the usual tip of one franc per animal to the servant the farmer would not deliver the cattle, and sent back the money by post. The farmer brought an action for breach of contract before the Cantonal Tribunal and lost the case, the court finding that the tip was a "usual custom" in the canton, and therefore binding. The case had not been "definitely concluded." The Supreme Court on appeal upheld this decision mulcting the farmer $200 in costs.

and any public Board which spends the public's money.

Ald. Gillespie did not see where the Mayor would find time to attend to all the proposed additional duties. Besides the other bodies are elected by the people and such a move would cast a reflection upon their responsibilities.

His Worship—"I'll have to quit living at home, if such legislation is put in force." He did not think the suggestion warranted.

The city solicitor advised that it would be a use asking the Legislature to agree that the Mayor be a member of the School Board, which would be directly contrary to the act.

This question was sidetracked to later in the evening, when no action was taken.

BY-LAWS

The by-law authorizing the issuing of debentures to the amount of $10,000 with which to purchase an incinerator for the disposal of garbage passed its third reading.

The by-law to aid the Henry Hope & Sons, Limited of Canada, passed its third reading.

BOARD OF HEALTH

Messrs. Aid. Geo. H. Duncan, Jas. Murty and Dr. Young were appointed members of the Board of Health.

PUBLIC LIBRARY

Mr. Frank Solitt was appointed a member of the Public Library Board for a term of three years.

CHARITY FUNDS

Ald. J. C. Anderson was again appointed a member of the board to distribute charity funds under the will of the late Almira Grover Foley for a term of two years.

SITE FOR NEW INDUSTRY

A by-law to authorize the City Trust to purchase the site for the Laval Co.—slightly over 11 acres at $13,000—passed its third reading.

SIGNING OF COUPONS

On motion of Ald. Gordon, application will be made to the Legislature that the Mayor be relieved of the necessity for signing debenture coupons, and that the treasurer's lithographed or stamped signature be sufficient.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC

As Chairman of the Power Committee, Ald. Johnston thought steps should be taken in the direction of appointing a Hydro-Electric Commission to handle the city's electric distribution system when installed.

Ald. Gordon agreed with Ald. Johnston and contended that application should be made to the Legislature for authority to appoint such a commission.

The Mayor could not see the need for this step. At the inception of the scheme four or five years ago, the Water Commissioners were asked by the council and agreed to take care of the proposed Hydro-Electric plant when ready for operation. And a bill was then passed by Legislature to that effect.

The Water Commissioners are capable of their hands and appoint an agent to handle the matter.

Ald. Gordon—"I'll grant you that the water commissioners are capable men. But there are just as capable men in the city besides them. Then how do we know that they are qualified to operate Hydro-Electric?"

Ald. Duffus—"We need not worry about the Water Commissioners, for if any one department is well handled it is that of the water works."

Ald. Duncan could not see any need for rushing this matter. The system will not be in operation till the end of this year or 1914, in the meantime if Hon. Adam Beck advises a separate commission, then one can be appointed.

Ald. Buller agreed to this.

Ald. Gordon could not see that this council should be bound down to the action of one of five years ago. I think, he said, it would be a grave mistake were Ald. Johnston not to consult with Hon. Adam Beck on the matter. I further contend that a separate commission should be appointed.

The solicitor explained that if legislation along this line is favored, notice will have to be given at once in order to set the matter through the Legislature. The next legislature would not be in time for approving the bill to the Hydro-Electric scheme even ready for operation.

the bill to the Hydro-Electric

Ald. Johnston enquired of his worship why the Council of five years ago had appointed the Water Commissioners on the subject and secured legislation vesting them with the control of Hydro-Electric.

The Mayor—"Because council of that year thought it would be in the best interests of the system. And Hon. Adam Beck agreed with us."

Ald. Anderson agreed with Ald. Gordon that it would be wise to get power to appoint a separate commission if thought so advisable later on.

Ald. Gillespie contended that council would look foolish in applying to change the commission until they find out if the scheme previously agreed upon between council and Hon. Adam Beck works satisfactorily or not. Then who would appoint a separate commission—the council or the people?

Ald. Gordon wanted an alternative to appoint a separate commission if desired. "We all have faith in the Water Commissioners, but know not their qualifications as Hydro-Electric operators."

Ald. Gillespie and Duffus moved that no action be taken.

Ald. Anderson and Johnston moved that notice be given of the intention of council to apply for legislative authority for the appointment or election of a commission to manage and operate the Hydro-Electric plant when developed. This motion was lost, and consequently no action was taken. This means that the Water Commissioners assume responsibility for the Hydro-Electric plant still stands good.

On motion of Ald. Johnston legislation will be sought to authorize the council to expropriate the Peterborough Light and Power Co.'s distributing plant, including connections from poles with stores and dwellings, or to acquire a street or house lighting and power distributing system without buying out any company.

FIRE PROTECTION

Ald. Duffus here raised the question of fire protection for the north-east corner of the city. He understood that the Auburn Mills were promised that water should be conveyed across the new Smith street bridge when completed. So far however, fire protection had not yet been furnished the mills or that portion of the city, and he would like to know who is responsible for supplying such want—the council or the Water Commissioners.

The solicitor pointed out that a water pipe had been laid across the new Auburn dam to the mill.

Ald. Buller explained that the Water Commissioners would have to be petitioned in the usual way for hydrants if needed. Such matters are not in the council's hands.

A Late Run for Chief Howard

Last night, as a Times reporter was passing along Water street, at 11 o'clock, he saw smoke arising from the brick building occupied by Messrs. Peck, Kerr & McKibbin.

He quickly made up the situation, and as quickly acted. The chimneys to the south were dark, but dense clouds of smoke arose from the centre of the roof. The reporter quickly communicated with Chief Howard who was quickly on the spot.

In the meantime a crowd gathered, smelling the smoke. Chief Howard went to the top of the Post Office building and discovered that a centrally located chimney was on fire. No damage, no hose, no chemicals.

The TIMES is the PAPER

THE BALKAN STATES

Of the four Balkan states, Serbia, Bulgaria, Montenegro and Roumania, the latter is the largest, the most important and has the most interesting history. It is bounded by Hungary, Russia and Bulgaria. The population numbers nearly 6,000,000 and it is governed by a limited monarchy of the most democratic character. In every respect Roumania is far in advance of the other Balkan States. Its system of education is admirable and it has national literature of distinctive merit. For centuries it was a principality under Turkish suzerainty but managed to secure its freedom, and in 1881 Roumania received recognition from the European powers as a kingdom. Christianity being the dominant religion it shares with Serbia and Bulgaria grievances against Turkey. The Queen of Roumania is a well-known writer of fiction under the name of Carmen Sylva.

In striking contrast to Roumania is the kingdom of Serbia. Throughout its history brigandage and murder have held sway. With a population of about 2,500,000 and an area of nearly 19,000 square miles, Serbia is a small country with a heavy load of trouble to bear. Late in the year 1908 two provinces, Bosnia and Herzegovina were "annexed" by Austria. For some weeks war seemed inevitable. Serbia mobilized its forces and called upon the Powers for assistance as it had a perfect right to do under the provisions of the Treaty of Berlin. Russia was willing to give aid. Great Britain was hesitating, and then Germany unseathed the sword and stood by Austria. None of the Powers was willing to risk war with Germany at that time, so Serbia was left short of two provinces. Politicians give agriculture as the principal industry, but people more familiar with the country are inclined to think that brigandage is followed with at least as much zest as is the more peaceful pursuit.

Bulgaria
Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria proclaimed himself Czar of his dominions in 1894. Now he rules over an area of 17,000 square miles and a population of about 4,000,000. Among these there are 4,000 Mohammedans, just enough to cause a reasonable amount of disturbance. The rest of the population is Christian. He is bordered by Roumania, Serbia, the Black Sea and Turkey. Bulgaria is noted chiefly for the production of distillances. It is governed by a constitutional monarchy. From 1894 until 1878, when the Treaty of Berlin restored its freedom, Bulgaria was under the suzerainty of the Sultan of the Ottomans.

Boasting a population of about a quarter of a million, and an area of nearly 4,000 square miles, Montenegro is ruled by a King and an elected Council. It is hedged in between the Adriatic Sea and the province of Dalmatia and Herzegovina. Consisting of a small community of picturesque hill tribesmen, it has seldom been molested, either by the Ottoman Empire or by the neighboring states. A Christian community, it shares with other Balkan states bitter resentment against Turkey for outrages on Christian Serbs in other districts of Europe and in Asia Minor.

The various kingdoms of the Balkans have served as buffer states between Mohammedan Turkey from Christian Europe. In Istanbul one can meet Turks on an equal footing and enjoy the society of a Mohammedan fanatic of the distant Turkish provinces is a very different type of man. He believes that grace can be acquired by killing Christians, and must be admitted on the other hand that his neighbors in the Balkan states are equally zealous in their defence of Christianity. If they do not expect to acquire merit by killing Mohammedans, at least they go to Constantinople with clean consciences after wiping out a Mohammedan village on the Turkish frontier.

Lloyd-George Diana Ken
An old lady riding in a car at Edinburgh inadvertently allowed herself to be carried past the place where she intended to alight, and only awoke to the knowledge of her mistake when the conductor demanded another penny. The old woman volubly protested against what seemed to her to be a cruel injustice of this demand. The conductor, however, remained inexorable and she at length, with manifest reluctance, took a penny from her purse, and handed it to the conductor with the tearful remark, "Ma sang, but Lloyd George diana ken 'o this!"

Ants in the Alps
On the Italian side of the Matterhorn recently, the slopes of the ice were suddenly converted into a black moving mass of winged ants, apparently travelling southwards. A violent wind blew the insects off the mountain, and a day later they descended in a cloud in the Valtour mountains with the rain, and covered the trees and villages. The ants were again on a fine day, but the ants were again blown back into the valley, and myriads of the insects fell into the villages of Piombino, Antegnato, and Brusson, where they were crushed under foot. The insects did no harm, and finally disappeared southwards in small black clouds.

Dangerous Street Performances
A singular accident occurred in Brunswick street, Edinburgh, at a street performance with fire given there by a negro, a two-year-old boy named Harry Mackay, residing in a Pirig, being badly burned about the face. The boy was standing in a crowd watching the performances. The performer put oil in his mouth, and on forcing it from his mouth applied a light to it. The oil immediately burst into flame, and the flame caught the boy on the face.

Convicted After Three Years
Absconding in 1909 with almspeople (the price he received for the sale of an article which he stole from the stable of a contractor by whom he was employed), a stilling carter named Charles McDuff returned to his old haunts recently, no doubt under the impression that the affair had blown over. He was promptly apprehended by the police. Pleading guilty, he was fined $5.00 or ten days' imprisonment.

TINY RATTLE-SNAKES

The London Zoo Has Same Only Fifteen Inches Long in Adult Stage

Recent additions to the Reptile House of the London Zoo include a pigmy rattlesnake and its family of young ones. The adult animal is only about 15 inches long and little thicker than a man's finger, while the young ones are about the size of an earth worm. The rattlesnake is distinguished by having large symmetrical shields on the top of the head, which are absent in ordinary rattlesnakes. The specimen was secured in Florida.

Another new arrival in the Reptile House is a fine specimen of the water moccasin of North America. This snake belongs to the same group as the rattlesnake, namely, the sub-family Crotalinae. It is found in swamps, always in or near the water, and lives chiefly on fishes and frogs, though it will also devour small rabbits, rats, and birds. In ascending an almost vertical branch in its cage the snake supports itself by the edges of its scales against the roughness of the bark, but it does not seem able to support its whole body in this way; it extends the front part of its length from the firm base afforded by a bend of the posterior part over the fork of a branch, until it is able to bend over a higher fork.

Two long-necked gharials from the Ganges now in the Toronto House, refused all food for nearly four months after their arrival. Both living and dead fish were offered them, but they took no notice of it. For a time the attempt to induce them to feed was abandoned, but finally some live fish were placed in their tank, and the gharials ate them. The fish is caught by the third best toothed beak with a very sudden, rapid snap, and is then passed in jerks along the beak till it reaches the mouth.

Refreshment Shops Shut on Sunday
 The decision of the town council of Glasgow to close places of refreshment at eleven o'clock on Saturday, ten o'clock on other nights of the week, and entirely on Sunday does not apply to confectionery shops or dairies, which do not sell for consumption on the premises after eight o'clock. A wholesale confectioner is of the opinion that the regulation will mean ruin to at least half of the Italian shops in Glasgow.

Horse for $4.50
 At Ruthin, Wales, Thomas Blyddyn, a farmer of Rhewl, was summoned for cruelty to a horse. The defendant bought the animal three years ago for $4.50. He had been advised to destroy it, but neglected to do so, and had worked it ever since. The horse was too weak to be walked to Ruthin and its photograph was taken instead as evidence. The farmer was fined $2.50 and ordered to destroy the horse.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined?

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

NO BRASS BANDS IN BRITISH ARMY

Definite Proposal That They Shall All Be Abolished.

The British army without a brass band—such is the doleful prophecy of the Pall Mall Gazette. It says that a definite proposal has been brought forward that all the brass bands of the army, except those of the Guards' regiments, shall be abolished, and that the sole music provided for the future shall be that of the drums and fifes and bagpipes, with the pipers for the Scottish regiments.

Some years ago fresh regulations were made as to the maintenance of regimental bands. The cost of them fell entirely on the officers. The regulations threw some of the expense on the public purse. But even now it is considered that in a modern, business army the officer should not be liable to this kind of expenditure.

Every officer today has to subscribe one day's pay a year to support his regimental band, and that does not cover all his expenses in the matter. Take the case of the Royal Artillery band. The public grant is $4,600 a year, and the officers of the regiment are called upon to provide a further sum of some $15,000 annually to maintain their splendid string band.

The suggestion is that if the War Office to this day does not cover all his expenses in the matter, the case of the Royal Artillery band. The public grant is $4,600 a year, and the officers of the regiment are called upon to provide a further sum of some $15,000 annually to maintain their splendid string band.

CHIMNEY SWEEP SCHOLAR

Man Who Sweeps Chimneys Appointed University Extension Lecturer.

A chimney-sweep, by occupation Mr. Walter Hunt, of Streatham, London, has achieved the distinction of becoming a University Extension lecturer on the large and difficult subject of sociology, the science which deals with social organization.

In his youth Mr. Hunt was in the navy, and in his leisure he acquired such knowledge of sociology that the University Extension Board sent him to Balliol College, Oxford, for a month. He is now thirty-three years of age.

Of the time he spent in the navy Mr. Hunt speaks with pleasure. "I was in the navy," he said, "at a most interesting period, the close of the era of sailing ships and the beginning of steel and steam. I went all around the world in those days, and derived immense benefit. Travel is a great education. If one keeps one's eyes open, and I endeavor to do that."

The people he met during his voyages gave him an interest in anthropology, and when he settled on land he began to read. He has since acquired such knowledge of sociology that the University Extension Board sent him to Balliol College, Oxford, for a month.

"FATHER OF SOUTHWARK"

A man who has worked zealously for the poor.

Thousands of poor people in the South of London will regret that, owing to advancing age, Canon Horsley is obliged to leave his busy parish of St. Peter's, Southwark, for a quiet living in the South of England. For years he has worked zealously on behalf of the people of the slums, and there is scarcely a branch of parish or municipal work in London with which Canon Horsley has not been connected.

To the people of Southwark he has been in every sense a "father of the flock," and it is stated that he once refused a colonial bishopric that he might stay at home and work in the slums. The Canon is a man with a fund of anecdotes, and describes the wild lives of English bishops some time ago, he told a story of the Bishop of Bath and Wells, who had been visiting Southwark. On the morning of the train he lost his reckoning, and stopped a boy. "I say, my lad, how far is it to the station?" "About a mile ahead," said the boy, who had never seen a bishop before. Then, starting at the bishop's knee-breeches and silk stockings, he added, "Halloa guv'nor, what's up? Somebody swiped yer bike!"

Proposed Flooded Memorial

Considerable progress has been made with the collection of subscriptions for the proposed Flooded Memorial to some of the English poets who fell at Flossen in 1513, the present intention being to erect the memorial at the Victoria Hall, in Selkirk. Arrangements are being advanced for receiving collections from natives of Selkirk and other borderers in all parts of the world.

Cricketer's Hairdo

Tom Richardson, the famous English cricketer, who after his retirement carried on the "Prince's Head," Richmond Green, and died in the South of France, a short time ago left an estate of $3,145.

He left to his son, Tom William Richardson, to develop as heirlooms, the cricket balls presented to him during his cricket career, his watch and chain, and personal jewellery.

A Demagogue

"Father," said the small boy, "what is a demagogue?" "My son, is a man who can entertain an audience as thoroughly that people don't care what his personal opinions happen to be."

King and Emperor But a Supplicant

For a year there was a delightful comedy enacted in Buckingham Palace which goes a long way towards proving that a King is no longer master, even in his own house.

King George was dissatisfied with the drainage at the palace and also with the circumstances that several of the doors in the building had been permanently nailed up. When he moved into the palace he immediately gave orders that the drainage be improved and the doors opened. Imagine his surprise when he received an official looking communication from the "Office of Works" pointing out that he had not secured the permission of that department for the changes. His Majesty immediately set Col. Bigge, his private secretary, to work, and as a result of this investigation discovered that he has no legal right to open a door or lay a drain-pipe.

Whereupon he altered his procedure, humbly petitioned "His Majesty's Office of Works" to make the desired changes, and awaited results. In the course of several weeks he received a reply to the effect that his communication had been received. He wrote a letter of thanks and received in return the information in printed form that his request had been received. A couple of months later, he received a letter asking him to fill in an enclosed form. The form contained a long list of questions and the answers were to set forth just what changes were wanted, the reasons why, and so on. The King patiently filled in the form. As a reward, almost a year after he had made the request, he received the welcome news that the Office of Works "agreed to make the required alterations at its earliest convenience." And recently the work was done.

A STRANGE RE-UNION

Poor Widow Finds a Friend and Brother in Time of Need

A long-separated brother and sister met under remarkable circumstances at the Victoria Courts, Birmingham. The man belonged to a Manchester family, but upon the death of the parents nearly seventeen years ago he embarked to South Africa, and the other members of the family separated for various destinations. Occasional correspondence was indulged in for a short time and then ceased altogether, and for fifteen years the man was ignorant as to the whereabouts of any of his kith and kin. Fortune smiled upon him, and some months ago he returned to his native land with a comfortable fortune. Three months he spent prospecting for a suitable residence in Scotland, and then some impulse prompted him to revisit some of the scenes of his earlier days. London was the first on the list, and then he went to Birmingham. There he visited Victoria Courts, and while gazing round the vestibule he heard the stentorian voice of a burly constable call out a woman's name. The South African saw a poorly-clad woman hurry forward and enter the Children's Court. He followed, and could scarcely restrain from shouting out during the progress of the case when he became aware that the woman who was asking to be allowed time in which to pay a fine incurred by her little boy for breaking windows, was none other than his elder sister. Without disclosing his identity, he pressed the few shillings into the woman's hand, immediately the case was over he hurried into the corridor and revealed himself to his astonished sister, who had a sad story to relate. Her husband had died leaving her with two little children, and she was living in one of the poorest quarters of the city. It was quickly arranged that she should go to Scotland as her brother's housekeeper.

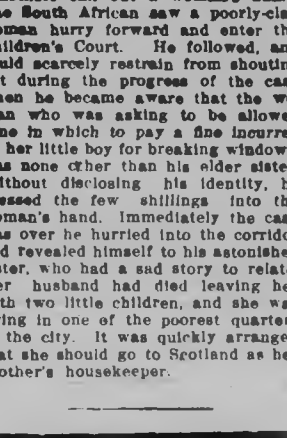

MANSLAND'S MILLIONAIRE

The Lieutenant-Governor (Lord Raglan), as Provincial Grand Master of Freemasons in the Isle of Man in opening the new hospital provided for by the late Mr. Henry Bloom Noble, said the institution was the best hospital of the kind in the world.

As a lad of sixteen, in 1837, Noble landed at Douglas from Whitehaven and found employment as a few shillings a week. He early started business for himself, and was founder of a company which provided Douglas with water, and also of the Isle of Man Bank, and became chairman of many companies.

He died a few years ago, the richest man by far in the island, and left his fortune of nearly $1,000,000 for charity.

The hospital cost $125,000, and there is an endowment of $100,000.

TO EXPLOIT CANADA

British Syndicate Formed With Heavy Capitalization

The Financial News of Canada says that the prospectus of a new land company is being issued, its principal objects being the purchase and sale of Canadian land, the financing of profitable enterprises, including railway construction and development, industrial undertakings. The company, which is to be under the direction of a strong board and executive thoroughly conversant with Canadian business, will have a capital of £200,000, and will appoint agents in practically every important centre of commercial activity throughout the Dominion.

Coming East for Settlers.

The Board of Trade of Camrose, Alta., propose to send a special car, fitted up with an exhibit of farm products, and in charge of twelve towns men and farmers, to eastern points where members of the party are well known, with a view to obtaining land buyers and settlers. Liberal use would be made of literature while the travellers would naturally be well posted on all details as to farm properties in the district as well as to the distributing facilities at Camrose. Its industrial opportunities and coal development. It is even contemplated following up the work with a special settlers' train leaving Toronto and other points on a fixed date and running straight to Camrose.

CROSSED BARREN ICE

Swiss Expedition Performed Notable Feat in Traversing Greenland

Greenland was crossed for the first time from west to east over the barren ice by the Swiss expedition under Dr. DeGuerlain, who arrived at Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland, and told the story of his interesting trip.

The expedition started from Jakobshavn, in Danish North-west Greenland, and marched for three months over the ice wastes. They made the east coast ten miles from Angasliak, which was their goal. Many valuable scientific results were achieved. The greatest height of the inland ice measured 2,500 metres, but they saw higher peaks and discovered mountains on Christian Ninth Land, nearer the east coast.

FRENCH GAME POACHERS

Constant Warfare Waged Between the Guards and Poachers

The guards in the Forest of Compiègne, in north-eastern France are ever on the watch for both wood-stealers and poachers. Indeed, a series of minor engagements is always taking place between peasants and guards, and those depraved as which the officials are powerless to prevent they are called "tolerated."

Sometimes, however, a guard is boastful. "The rich hunt the deer and the peasants," said one guard, "and pay the Government for the right, but I hunt the women and the Government pays me. For it is twice as hard to catch a woman as it is to catch a deer." A stranger will frequently see women chopping down small trees, their faces hidden in their mufflers and their pursuers of children ranged at intervals along the road. When one of them catches sight of the intruder a signal is given, the women stop chopping and hold on to her head as though she were suffering, while the children squat silently like a group of rabbits.

Game poachers are constantly being caught and sent to prison. Some of them are as famous as great hunters, and there was one, not long dead, whose chivalry appeared in French journals. For his constant poachings he had 140 suits brought against him and spent fully 30 of his 55 years in a cell. Both his widow and his sons live to carry on his work; but the glory of the house is departed.

Of the three ways of poaching, with the gun, the ferret, and the snare, that with the snare is the simplest enough for a child. All one has to do is to carry to a given place a piece of wire readily concealed in a trouser leg or petticoat. As all wild animals follow set paths in the woods, all that is necessary is to make a slip knot in the wire, place the loop in one of these paths, cover it with leaves, fastening the free end of the wire securely to the ground. When game of any kind once sets foot in this loop every effort to free itself only draws the wire tighter. Many hundreds of these snares are yearly found by the guards.

Women's Ailments Caused by Neglect

Proper Treatment Will Quickly Bring Back Robust Health and Good Spirit.

Women are on the whole more sickly than men. One reason is that their system is more complicated; another and more important reason is they put off measures of relief too long. At the beginning, constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of women's ailments. The blood becomes weakened and polluted—the nerves suffer and a run-down condition takes root.

Because of their mildness of action as a system regulator, no medicine for women can compare with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The kidneys quickly responded to the remedial action of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and the result is as you would expect—pains in the back and side, shortness of breath, and bad color disappear—the functions of the body then operate as naturally, congestion and pain are prevented and perfect health returns.

Thousands of happy women say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the greatest and best blood-purifier, and finest complexion renovator, the most certain regulating medicine known. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers. 25c per box, five for $1.00 postpaid. The Catarhogue Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

OBITUARY

William Fowler.
Mr. William Fowler, who attempted the long walk to Toronto, last Wednesday, and who lived here, died on Friday morning in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, aged 60 years.

The late Mr. Fowler at one time conducted a tailoring establishment in this city. Two years ago he moved to Toronto where he has been in the tailoring business. Surviving him are a sorrowing wife and several children. Mrs. Bert Floock, 384 Water street, being a daughter.

Mrs. Dan. Shea.
On Sunday, Mrs. Daniel Shea, passed away in Douro, aged 74 years. Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. John Tobin, Douro, Mrs. John Torpy, Otonabee; Elizabeth, New York; and Sarah at home. One son, John David Shea, also resides at the homestead, Concession 4 lot 10, of Douro.

The funeral will take place this morning to St. Joseph's church and cemetery.

Michael McCarthy.
The death occurred at the local House of Providence on Sunday night, when Mr. Michael McCarthy, passed away in his 60th year. The late Mr. McCarthy came from Grafton, where he was highly respected. He had been an inmate of the House of Providence for the last six years. He is survived by a sister, Miss Mary McCarthy, living in the House of Providence, and three nephews, John, Frank and Joseph of this city. The body will be forwarded to Grafton this morning for burial.

A Hot Time in the Old Town.

Don't ever think that the pretty little town of Cobourg is a Rip Van Winkle, when it comes to municipal politics. Cobourg Post says "The result of the Mayoralty contest proves that even fifteen years' experience, backed up with fifteen years of 'hot air' and Tammany methods is not sufficient if you have not the confidence and respect of the people. Mr. Maher out the rod for himself and the public applied it."

By a system of "patching up" with others, and taking the grit party by the throat, he has saved himself on more than one occasion. Mr. Maher was prepared to sacrifice the Grit party in order that his own selfish ambition might be satisfied.

Lord Vere de Vere in Town.

Yesterday a large monocle stepped off the noon C. P. R. train. To be strictly accurate, it should be it was a tall Englishman, of haughty mien, and aristocratic bearing, who wore that large single eye-glass, that descended from the train. A junior Times reporter seeing this evident action of a hundred Vere de Veres, sensed a possible story. Although partly hypnotized by the evident "Who the devil you?" question glaring through that monocle, he quailed not, but tackled the stranger and enquired how Peterborough was thus honored and why. Vere de Vere with no apparent concession replied "I represent a big firm in Great London. I came here to place an order for sweeties and goodies with your Messrs. Coleper and Hoopman."

Miss Madeline Pearce left yesterday, to attend the Whitty Ladies' College, Whitby.

Miss Grace (Gordon) Toronto, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Gordon.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gibson, Regina, Sask., are visiting friends in the city.

Mrs. Arthur Bell, of Douro, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. Garbutt, of the same township.

Mr. F. A. Brady, representing the National Drug Co., Toronto, is in the city a guest at the Oriental.

Mrs. G. C. Taylor will receive on the third Thursday of each month, at 314 Frederick avenue.

Mr. Patrick Allen has gone to assist Mr. John Moloney of Douro in the latter's threshing operations.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bell, Nassau were recently the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lamberty, at Warminster.

Mr. P. B. Wright and daughter, Mary Elizabeth, left yesterday for Florida, where they will spend the remainder of the winter.

Mr. R. McGill Hood, 525 George street, representing Palter Bros., of Toronto, left yesterday on his regular trip west in the interests of the firm.

Lindsay Post: Mr. J. G. Hickey was in Peterborough on Friday visiting his son, Harold, who was injured at the Edison Works in that city.

On Sunday last Mr. Wilt McTherall and Miss Henry were the guests of Mr. Arthur Bell, at Nassau.

Mr. (Curly) Elliott, of the local branch of the Bank of Montreal, has been transferred to the Lindsay.

Toronto World: Miss Rene and Miss Helen Von Hugel are at 50 St. George street for the winter. Miss Helen Von Hugel has for some years lived with Mrs. Archer on Stewart street.

Mr. Fred Blastor, proprietor of the Palace Hotel, returned yesterday from Harwood, where he was visiting his mother. Mr. Blastor noted that heavy loads of wood are being taken across the Kice Lake ice.

Mr. Wallace Hugh Dobbie, of the local staff of the Bank of Montreal, who arrived in St. John's, N.B., on Sunday, after a visit to England, has been transferred to the Bowmanville branch. He will leave shortly after his arrival here.

Mr. Wm. Hickey, son of Mr. John Hickey, of Rochester, is visiting friends in Peterborough. It is 26 years ago since Mr. Hickey left Peterborough. While Mr. Hickey has visited Peterborough on several occasions during this term he says he still notices a rapid advance each time he returns.

Mr. Emmet Hickey, son of Mr. Wm. Hickey, of Vancouver, formerly of Peterborough, has been in town a few days on a visit to his father's old friends. Mr. Hickey was just a year old when he left Peterborough with his parents, 25 years ago. This is his first visit to his birthplace.

Mr. Hickey has worked up a large insurance and brokerage business in Vancouver. His father, Mr. Wm. Hickey, will be remembered by his friends in Peterborough, as being connected with the Wm. Hamilton Co. for many years before leaving for the west.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

The Masonic dinner given in Lindsay, in honor of M. W. Bro. Aubrey "Burch" will be held this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock.

The annual schedule games for the curlers commenced last night, with a good attendance present.

The meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the George street Church will be held this afternoon at 3.30 o'clock.

Prior to his marriage on Saturday, Mr. "Jack" Wilson was presented with a three-piece parlor suite by his friends in the Canadian General Electric Company.

The License Commissioners will meet probably this week to appoint a chairman and secretary. The White-Graham license transfer will be considered on the 22nd.

The recently elected officers of the local Woodmen of the World, whose names have been given in a previous issue, were installed in office.

Mr. F. D. Dhamoni, of Belleville, has been appointed Inspector of Weights and Measures in the Belleville district, to succeed the late Wm. Johnston.

Mr. S. McKimm, of Smith's Falls, has written in highly eulogistic terms of "Alice in Wonderland," to President Morris, of the local Y.W.C.A.

The fire brigade had a call at 11 o'clock yesterday morning to the Robinson Block, Charlotte street. The small blaze was quickly extinguished by the chemicals.

Last night the Oriental colonnade was crowded by an anxious crowd of hockey fans waiting to hear the results from Kingston and Port Hope. The fans were highly pleased when final results came in.

A Hastings contemporary notes that two boys of Lakefield were fined for "knocking a nut out of a tree and causing its death." If these boys wanted to slaughter the tree, like George Washington, they should have their little hatchet.

When the lady curlers of this city get busy, an anti-suffragette remarked Saturday, he would bet they will say "stom" as the stone slips to the tee. Why? he might just as well have hinted that a stone sent too far will be stopped by an outspread apron.

HOTEL STABLES BURNED AT BELLEVILLE.

Belleville, Jan. 13.—Late Sunday night, the stables in connection with the Anglo-American Hotel were burned. The horses were rescued but the vehicles, harness, feed, etc., were destroyed. The loss of five thousand dollars is practically covered by insurance.

DIED SUDDENLY.

Hastings, Jan. 13.—The death occurred here yesterday of John Butler, aged 75. The deceased had attended church in the morning, and after church visited some of his friends. He had been in the house for only a short time, when he became ill, and expired in a few moments.

FEW TRUANTS.

Yesterday, the Times asked Truant Officer George Cochrane regarding that branch of his, Mr. Cochrane's activities. He explained that every week day he waits in his house to receive telephone messages from Inspector Mowat and the various principals regarding girls and boys absent from school. On getting his reports, Mr. Cochrane, at once proceeds to the homes of children reported absent and makes enquiries. In most cases absence is caused by a child's dress or suit being in the wash, or because a child between 8 to 14 years is kept home to look after the younger members, whilst the mother-breadwinner is out at work. Mr. Cochrane noted that few real truants exist in the city.

BALKAN ALLIES DECIDE TO RESUME THE WAR

Notify Generals To End Armistice--Word of Their Decision to Be Sent Turks, Who May End Bluff

London, Jan. 14. The decision definitely to break up the peace conference in London simultaneously with the presentation to the Turkish Government of the note of the European powers was reached yesterday by the chiefs of the peace delegation of the Balkan allies.

Conflicting reports as to the conditions in the great fortress of Adrianople are current, but it appears evident that the Turkish troops and inhabitants of the city are suffering greatly from disease and lack of supplies. They have been besieged ever since the last week of October by the Bulgarians, who have since been reinforced by large bodies of Serbians fresh from their victories on the other side of the Balkan peninsula.

Bulgarians Strongly Entrenched.

Before the Tebatalla lines defending Constantinople there is a great army of Bulgarians, who are strongly entrenched, and fronting them in the line of fortifications stretching across the narrow neck of land, of which the Turkish capital forms the head, are large bodies of Turkish troops, some of them the remnants of the defeated armies who fled before the advancing Bulgarians, and other fresh troops brought up from the Turkish Province of Asia Minor.
The threatening note of the allies to the Turks is to be worded in such a way that it will become effective only in the event of the Osman Government refusing compliance with the advice given by the ambassadors of the European powers.

To Terminate Armistice.

At the same time it was decided to re-structure the commanders of the armed forces of the allies in the field to terminate the armistice which has been in operation since Dec. 3.
Montenegro, which was nominally a party to the armistice, has been engaged in the interim in many severe skirmishes with the troops forming the garrison of the Turkish fortress of Scutari, which shows no sign of yielding. It is believed that the Ottoman troops there, most of whom form part of the regular army, are fairly well provided with food and ammunition, and the Turks have a considerable arsenal there.

HON. COLONEL SAM FOR A NEW DEPARTMENT

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—Colonel Sam
Hughes probably will be the next Minister of Railways.
It is understood that on the appointment of Hon. Mr. Coburn next autumn as Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, Premier Borden will select Colonel Hughes for the railway portfolio.

Colonel Hughes has the strongest sort of backing for the post. It is said that he would be quite willing to make the change. He thinks that with the big development going on in railways, both Government and corporate, there is a better chance for his talents in the administration of the railway and canal portfolio.
He would not object to have the construction of the Georgian Bay canal commenced during his term at the head of the Railway department.

MAIL BOXES PROTECTED

The Postmaster-General has issued a circular calling attention to R.S.
c. 146, sec. 10, which says: "Every one is guilty of the indictable offence of mischief and is liable to five years imprisonment, who willfully destroys or damages any street or rural mail delivery, letter-box, pillar box or other receptacle established by authority of the P.M.G. for the deposit of letters or other mailable matter."

BRITAIN LIKELY TO SPEND 240 MILLIONS ON THE NAVY

Will Build Five Monster Battleships, Burning Oil Only, and Capable of Steaming Twenty-Five Knots an Hour

London, Jan. 14. According to the Daily Mail the work of framing the British navy estimates for the coming year is nearly completed. The one point remaining for decision, namely, whether five or six battleships shall be laid down, depends upon the Austrian naval program.

If the Admiralty decides to wait before taking action till the Austrian ships are laid down, it may be expected to be five battleships this year.

The naval program will then, according to present information, involve an expenditure of $240,000,000, and will include five battleships, six light-armoured cruisers, twenty des-troysers, a number of submarines, and an addition to the personnel of 5,000 men, making a total of 142,500 officers and men.

The battleships will be of a new type, the largest and strongest which science can build or money supply. They will displace 27,000 or 28,000 tons, burn oil fuel alone, and steam 25 knots.

Thus they will be intermediate between the present Dreadnought battleship and battle-cruiser. They will be armed in all probability with eight 8.61 inch guns, each firing 2,200 shells, or, if 16.1 inch guns are adopted with 15 inch guns, firing shells that weigh about 1,800 pounds.

MR. CHRIS GRAHAM NOW IN THE WHITE HOUSE

Yesterday an important change, as concerns both the city and the travelling public, took place in the control of a local hotel. Mr. Chris.
Graham, for many years the efficient manager of the Oriental, entered into possession of the White House on Charlotte street. This latter hotel, like the Oriental, has always been a favorite with both the citizens of Peterborough and the commercial world.
With so experienced an hotelman, and so general a favorite in athletic, sporting and commercial circles, as proprietor of the White House, it is assured of an increased volume of patronage. The license commissioners meet on the 22nd of this month to formally transfer the license to Mr. Graham.
Mr. White will hereafter reside at 420 Weller street.

A PANORAMIC VIEW OF THE FUNERAL PROCESSION OF THE LATE AMBASSADOR TO ENGLAND.

FUNERAL PROCESSION PASSING DOWN MORNINGSIDE AVENUE, ST. JOHN'S CATHEDRAL IN BACKGROUND.

With the President of the United States, an American President, members of the Cabinet, representatives of the British government and representatives of the army and navy in attendance, the funeral of Mr. Whitcomb Reid, late Ambassador to the Court of St. James, was held in the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. At the close of the impressive and solemn service the flag draped coffin was placed on a gun caisson and escorted by nearly one thousand soldiers, marshes and soldiers to the Grand Central Terminal, where it was placed on a train for Tarrytown. In the above photograph is shown the funeral procession on its way to the station. In the background can be seen the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, where the funeral ceremonies were held.

JOHNSON HELD UP AT BORDER EN ROUTE TO TORONTO TO-DAY

Black Champion Was Coming Here to Consult Tom Flanagan About a Battle in Paris With Al Palzer--
He Was Trying to Jump His Bail?

Toronto, Jan. 14.—Held up at the border while en route to Toronto, was the fate of Jack Johnson, the negro heavyweight fighter, his new white wife, who was Lucille Cameron, the centre of the sensational charges against the dandy athlete, and two negro friends.

Johnson who has been wiring Tom Flanagan frantically for a week to come to Chicago to straighten out some business for him, finally wired him coming to Toronto.

Arrested at Battle Creek.

He left Chicago early in the evening, but was taken from the train at Battle Creek after midnight at the request of U.S. Marshall De-Woods of Chicago, who thought that he was trying to jump his $30, 000 bond in the white slave indictments, which will come up again shortly.

Johnson is said to have told Chicago friends that he intended taking a trip to Toronto for a couple of days, and that put the police wise.
Tom Flanagan said to-day that Johnson was coming to consult him about the details of a fight with Al Palzer in Paris.

As far as I know he was only going to stay here a couple of days to fix up the Palzer fight business," said Flanagan to-day. "I don't think he was trying to jump the country, because I know he figure that he has the charges beaten. I got a long-distance phone message from him to-day at noon telling me of his predicament, and advising me that he was forwarding contracts to me for revision. He is not under arrest, but will go back to Chicago."

Lively Arguments.

The rumor that the big negro was coming to live spread through Toronto rapidly last night, and there were a hundred red-hot discussions upon the matter. Some people argued that he should be deported as an undesirable, while others asserted that in this country a man stood on his own feet, and then as long as he behaved himself here he should be left alone.

MR. BURNHAM SHOWS A TRUE DEMOCRACY

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., has a motion on the order paper for to-day, proposing the abolition of titles in Canada. "Canada is a democratic country," he says, "and titles tend to create class distinction."
He would abolish the title of Honorable as applied to Cabinet Ministers and others and do away with practice of Cabinet recommending

Petes Won

Last night in the Brook street rink before about 800 fans, was played one of the fastest and most interesting games of hockey ever seen in Peterborough. The Cobourg aggregation were like so many cats in action. While they lost, they played a cyclone game. Credit is due to their goal keeper who was Johnson on the spot with his stick everytime. It was noticeable that almost every goal of the twelve scored by the Petes, was sent through at close range. The Petes, however, seemed to show better team work. The game ran very close for some time.
Harvey Sproule, the referee, is a lightning calculator in off side and foul and displayed fair play throughout. The ice was like a mirror and little cut up. When the curfew rang the score stood Petes (inter.) 12, Cobourg 9.

LADY ABERDEEN ADDRESSED AUDIENCE OF OVER A THOUSAND

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—Lady Aberdeen had an audience of over a thousand at the Normal School Hall yesterday afternoon when she spoke under the auspices of the local Council of Women. She is president of the International Council.
Lady Aberdeen was accompanied by Miss Violet Asquith, and they were liberally applauded when they took their seats on the platform.
Mrs. Adam Shortt, president of the local Council, introduced Lady Aberdeen.
"Fellow workers," said the latter,
"it is very difficult for me to express the great pleasure I have in being at this meeting in this hall of so many happy memories. It was here the Victorian Order of Nurses was launched, and where so many of the meetings of the local Council of Women have been held. It does not seem now that I have been away for so many years; in fact, it does not seem that I have been a way from you at all.

"I hope you no longer have to ask 'What's the use of the work of the Women's Council?' You will remember we used to have to ask that question. But here in Canada that question has been answered by the work of the council. In the first days of our organization we found that we did not know much of each other's circumstances, but now we men of all classes are engaged in the work. You have had definite illustrations in Canada of the influence of the women's council. You have helped to ripen public opinion to get the legislation you want, and it is tremendously difficult, sometimes to get the required law passed until public opinion has ripened."
When Lady Aberdeen concluded it was several moments before the applause subsided.

SECRETARY KNOX REPLIES TO BRITAIN ON CANAL MATTER

Secretary of State Follows Arguments as Voiced By President Taft--Is Willing to Discuss Further

New York, Jan. 14.—A despatch from Washington to the New York World, says:
Secretary of State Knox will reply to Great Britain on the canal tolls question in a few days. The Secretary of State's argument in rebuttal for that is what he has made it to the note of protest made by Sir Edward Grey, England's Minister for Foreign Affairs, against the granting of free passage through the Panama Canal to American ships engaged in coastwise trade has been completed, and is now being edited by Attorney-General Wickersham and Secretary of War Stimson.

Follows Taft's Argument.

Secretary Knox follows out closely the argument used by President Taft in his memorandum when he signed the Panama Canal bill, a round which the protest of England is built. He holds, as did the President, that article three of the Haye-Pauncefote treaty, was adopted by the United States for a specific purpose, namely, as the basis of the neutralization of the canal. Secretary Knox's interpretation of the words "The canal shall be free and open to the vessels of commerce and of war of all nations observing these rules, on terms of entire neutrality, so that there shall be no discrimination made by the United States, against any such nation, or its citizens or subjects, in respect of conditions or charges, or traffic, or otherwise," is that all nations will be treated alike and no discrimination made by the United States against anyone of them observing the rules adopted by the United States. He takes a view contrary entirely to that held by Sir Edward Grey.

CIVIC LUNCHEON TO LADY ABERDEEN, TORONTO

Toronto, Jan. 14.—"All honor to Lady Aberdeen" were the words of the hearty civic toast of welcome which representatives of the city council and the National and local Councils of Women drank to the Countess of Aberdeen at the conclusion of the civic luncheon held at the Queens Hotel to-day. Lady Aberdeen replied to the toast, thanking the assembled guests for the tribute paid to her, as well as for uniform courtesy and kindness which has been her lot during her visit.

in her affections for the people of Britain's premier possession.
Every success attended the efforts of those who had to do with the welcome luncheon. About sixty-five guests assembled in the ladies' ordinary dining room of the hotel which had been transformed into a garden of splendor through the florists' best efforts. To give her luncheon as easy an air as possible, the scheme of small tables was adopted. At her Grace's table there were but five.
Mayor Hosken had on his left the guest of honor, Lady Aberdeen, and on his right Mrs. Hooley. The 16 representatives of the National Council and Mrs. Hurst, president of the local council, were also at this table.

THE WEATHER.

Annex Sale of Water Damaged Goods

The bursting of the large water pipe which supplies the store, on the evening of Friday, December 20th, flooded the basement with 12 to 18 inches of water. Our reserve stock of Linoleum, Carpet Felt and Cotton Batting became somewhat damaged. These lines will be cleared in this week's Annex at ridiculously low prices.

Quantities, in all cases, are rather limited, so we advise an early morning visit.

TABLE OIL-110TH, 22c.

Best Canadian quality—1½ yards wide, pure white and a selection of new patterns and desirable colorings. Wednesday only. 22c

WATER DAMAGED CARPET FELT, 2c YARD.

26 rolls of our best quality Carpet Felt became damaged when the water pipe burst. Some wet right through, others just a few inches on the side. Regular 4½c yd. Annex special, yard 2c

12½c. YARD WIDE, STRIPE FLETTE, 9½c.

We have only 6 pieces—300 yards of this line to clear in this week's Annex. Splendid quality, 35-36 inches wide; neat stripes and desirable colors; light, medium and dark. 12½c value; Annex price, 9½c yard

WOMEN'S AND GIRLS' WOOL CAPS AND HOODS, 35c.

An ideal provision for winter street wear or for skating, tobogganing, snowshoeing, etc. Colors mostly greys, blues and whites. Marked to clear quickly in Wednesday's Annex at, each 35c

BED COMFORTERS WORTH $1.50 for 95c.

We purchased too many of this particular line so will clear our surplus stock in the Annex at sharply reduced prices. Covering of English Turkey red Chintz; sanitary filling. Size 57 x 69. Wednesday only 95c

Comforter Batting at 19c

The regular selling price is 75c a roll, but this line was wet through in our recent flood. Our special "Great Big" rolls of Niagara Batting. Only two cases of this particular line were damaged so come early on Wednesday. To clear with a rush at the wonderfully low price of, roll 19c

LITTLE DARLING HOSE VERY MODERATELY PRICED.

This popular brand has gained a reputation for being the best Cashmere Hose for children in the trade. We purchase this line in unusually large quantities, and secure marked reductions. Note these Annex prices:

MEN'S FLEECE-LINED UNDERWEAR, 4½c GARMENT

Stocktaking disclosed the fact that we had far too big a stock in this line of Penman's Fleece-lined Underwear for Men, so we will make a sharp Annex clean-up. One of the best 50c lines procurable—shirts and drawers, in practically all sizes. 43c Wednesday's Annex price, garment

ANNEX LEADER:

$3.25 Wool Blankets $2.38

A warm, heavy quality, made from clean, combed yarns—blue or pink borders. Full double bed size, 60 x 80 inches. We purchased this line direct from the mill and effected a very marked saving for our Annex customers. Leader Wed. at, pair $2.38

FLETTE CORSET COVERS 15c

"Manufacturers' Samples" of pink and white Flannelette Corset Covers—extensively trimmed with lace edgings and insertions. Regular values 40c to 50c. Clearing in the Annex at 15c

WOMEN'S UNDERWEAR 37c

Sanitary fleece-lined Underwear, in white only—purchased as "manufacturers' seconds," but practically every garment is perfect. Splendid value at 50c. Annex price, only 37c

PREFERS FARM TO PINK TEA

Admiral May's Daughter Deserts Society for Farm in West

What She Wears When She Desires to Really Dress Up—Later—ing Beautiful Evening Lady

Edmonton, Jan. 15

A beautiful and accomplished daughter of Admiral May of the British Navy, is residing on a farm near Edmonton, Alberta. Recently she remarked to a Times representative:

"I would rather plow than go to the theater. I would rather plant corn than attend a tea. I much prefer currying my horses to arranging myself in an evening gown. What's a butterfly social life in damp and foggy England compared to real life in bright sunshine and bracing cold?" These are the views of Miss Jack May, a slender and most charming young lady who owns and operates a farm in Canada. When the Boer war broke out she went to the front as a nurse and there she awoke to the fact that there was something more in life than card parties and pink teas and theatres. Upon her return home she at once entered the Swanley Agricultural college at Kent, and at the conclusion of her course she amazed her friends by becoming manager of a dairy farm. After a time she became manager of another farm in Kent devoted to general purposes of agriculture, from which place she bought a ranch of 330 acres in northern Alberta, near a railroad, and now all English society is watching her venture with interest. Her only employee is a Canadian girl, 18 years old.

WHEN DRESSED UP. "I would not go back to society—not for worlds," she declared emphatically. Although this little English woman has sacrificed conventional feminine garb and has given up social life completely, she had lost none of the charm that made her a favorite in select circles in the other land. Her everyday costume consists of foot-leather boots and leather puttees, riding breeches of heavy blue serge, a man's shirt and a short khaki coat. When she desires to really "dress up" she wears a soft collar and tie and a peasant's smock of navy blue denim, which comes to her knees and is loosely belted around the waist. She is delightfully picturesque and her happy, care-free laugh is a cure cure for the blues. "I love the freedom of the life and the bigness of things out here on the prairies," she said recently. "In England one is bound by conventions at one's fields are with hedges."

HOW GIRLS GOT GYM.

Girls of Colorado College Have Already Raised $10,000 by Going Without Chicken.

Colorado Springs, Col., Jan. 14.—By going without chicken at their Sunday dinners, by washing hair at 25 cents a head, by cleaning rooms and doing other tasks the two hundred girls of the four dormitories of the Colorado College have raised $10,000 towards a $50,000 endowment fund needed to secure $100,000 offered for a gymnasium by Mrs. A. D. Julliard of New York City.

As E. P. Shove, a retired business man here, has offered to give a dollar for each one they raise, the girls now have $18,000, and declare they will do without chicken until they have raised the necessary sum.

GREAT POWER RAID RECALLED

Attempt Made to Grab Valuable Canadian Power Rights

BY THE UNITED STATES

The Scheme Was Eventually Upset in Parliament by Hon. Mr. Borden and His Friends.

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Jan. 14.—The decision by which the Long Sault Power legislation of the State of New York has been declared unconstitutional, recall one of the most memorable raids on public rights ever attempted in the Canadian Parliament. The same interests concerned in the New York legislation were behind the Canadian project to dam the St. Lawrence at the Long Sault Rapids for private power purposes. A great battle was fought in the House of Commons early in 1910 on this issue, the Conservative members stubbornly refusing to allow the passage of the power bill and the Laurier Government doing all in its power to force the measure through.

LIBERALS FOUGHT FOR IT

The bill was in charge of the chief ministerial whip and had the active support of Hon. Messrs. Graham, Phipps, Fisher, Fielding and others. The success of the undertaking would have placed a United States company in absolute control of the power development at the Long Sault, on both sides of the river, and of the power markets on both shores. The objectionable features of the scheme had been carefully kept in the background. Parliament had not been informed as to the real meaning of the scheme, although the Government knew what was intended.

PREVENTED IT.

The passage of the bill would have involved the alienation, practically in perpetuity of a great water power belonging to the Canadian people, possible dangers to property and navigation and the diversion of water from Canadian to United States territory.

THE SCHEME WAS EVENTUALLY UPSET IN PARLIAMENT BY HON. MR. BORDEN AND HIS FRIENDS.

Judge Giesbrecht Papers Way to Matrimony for Paris Lover

Wednesday

New Orleans, Jan. 14.—Judge Victor Giesbrecht of the First Justice's Court at St. Bernard Wednesday afternoon at a ceremony which "linked together for life" R. J. Rouse and Miss Cella Dubois. Both claim to be from Paris, Miss Rouse, the young lady, who wore a dress to her knees, gave her age as 18, while the bridegroom said he was 21 years old.

IT WAS FIRST THOUGHT THAT IT WAS THE OLD STORY OF A STERN PARENT TO THE MATCH, BUT THE GROOM, WHEN QUESTIONED BY THE MAGISTRATE, DENIED POSITIVELY THAT SUCH WAS THE CASE.

He is employed in Gulfport, Miss., and his prospective bride joined him there, from which they both journeyed to New Orleans to have the knot tied. They heard that Judge Giesbrecht was "doing business in the matrimonial line" at Stock Landing, and they forthwith bled themselves to that place bright and early Wednesday morning.

MR. ROUSE AND MISS DUBOIS, EX-PROS, PRESENTED A DESIRE TO THE JUDGE TO HAVE THEIR MARRIAGE RECORDED IN NEW ORLEANS, AND WHILE THE MAGISTRATE EXPRESSED REGRET THAT HE COULD NOT ACCOMMODATE THEM, HE TOLD THEM THEY WOULD HAVE TO APPLY TO THE CITY BOARD OF HEALTH FOR A LICENSE.

Mr. Rouse took him at his word and boarded the first street car for New Orleans, while his prospective bride was entertained at the hospitable home of Judge Giesbrecht, in Meibau avenue. Two hours later Mr. Rouse returned, armed with the necessary papers, and the knot was tied in the presence of the required number of witnesses. Mr. and Mrs. Rouse, after hearty congratulations and best wishes, returned to New Orleans.

Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her after five years suffering—Felt a great relief after first box.

Toronto, Ont., Jan. 14.—(Special.)—Mrs. Alberta Giffin, a nurse, living at 40 Wright Ave., this city, has been interviewed in regard to her reported cure of nervous or Kidney Trouble by Dodd's Kidney Pills. She states that the report is true in every particular.

"My sickness," Mrs. Giffin says, "was caused from a nervous breakdown and what the doctors called incurable Bright's Disease brought on by cold and long weeks of nursing. I suffered for five years.

I WAS TREATED BY THREE DOCTORS AND WAS A PATIENT IN TWO HOSPITALS BUT GRADUALLY GOT WEAKER. READING THE EXPERIENCES OF OTHER SUFFERERS LIKE MYSELF LEAD ME TO TRY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS.

At that time I was so weak and nervous I could not hold a cup of tea without spilling some of its contents. "I felt a benefit after taking the first box of Dodd's Kidney Pills, and eight or nine boxes cured me so completely I can now walk a mile without fatigue."

If you haven't used Dodd's Kidney Pills yourself almost any of your neighbors will tell you they always cure Kidney Disease in any form.

The youngest town which the Made-in-Canada train honored in its tour of the West was Coronation. Here was found a bustling population of 1800 on a beautiful location about 100 miles east of Laramie. The sale of lots took place on September 27th, 1911, and yielded $180,000.00 to the C.P.R., the company having decided that a divisional and inspection equipment should be located at this point, which was called Coronation in honor of the crowning of King George and Queen Mary. The sale had no sooner closed than gangs of workmen were put to work on the erection of buildings. Before the freeze-up Coronation had a population of about 700, who were comfortably housed in hastily built

Therefore the denominations remain separate. With union, however, they would have erected a fine church and paid some man a good salary. SAFETY AEROPLANE

Belgian Engineer Claims Perfection for Machine with Revolving Wings

A Belgian engineer is the inventor of a flying machine propelled by revolving wings. It is claimed that these enable him to raise, propel, and direct the machine with all the advantages of aeroplanes, flight without the necessity of alternating movements and at the same time to fly off directly from the earth, to carry a certain weight, to steer the machine in all directions and plane at will at any height without running any risk of falling.

ANY person who is sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his homestead on a farm of at least 80 acres, solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his homestead. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties.—Must reside upon the homestead or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of homestead entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead rights and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

FLIGHT TO EUROPE

Possible for the Aviator to Alight on Land or Sea if His Engine Stops.

Pontons of an entirely new type, which can be inflated or deflated and attached to an especially designed aeroplane that will fly over land or sea, have been patented by Harry N. Atwood, of Lynn, Mass.

The invention, devised of flying say, promises to revolutionize the air. With his improved type of pontons and other attachments, which will be added to a machine he is developing, Atwood's projected flight to Europe seems certain.

According to the young aviator but one other improvement is necessary to ensure absolute safety in a long flight such as that proposed. It is an engine which can be started without the assistance of anyone. The new engine would have to be one which could be started at a moment's notice by the aviator, without moving from his seat. Atwood has told friends that he has ideas along this line, which he will develop just as soon as his latest invention is thoroughly tested.

The new pontons are very simple in structure. With them it will be possible for an aviator to make a landing on land or sea in case his engine stops. They are constructed of one eighth inch rubber over a light framework of fabric, which gives them shape. Despite their lightness these pontons, Atwood declares, will stand up in any kind of wind or wave.

BULL ATTACKS STUDENT

David Laird, a student at the Ontario Agricultural College, was badly torn and bruised in an encounter with a bull while taking part in a stock judging class. A number of bulls were being used for judging, when one came nervous, and Laird was asked to take it out. He did so, but had just got outside when the bull went wild and tossed him a couple of times with its horns, afterwards rolling him. His plight was seen from the windows of the pavilion and a number of students rushed to his aid.

UNMANNED MOTOR BOATS

Experiments Which Give Some Indication of Possible Future War Methods

Tests of the efficiency of an unmanned motor-boat, steered and controlled by wireless telegraphy from the shore, took place recently on the Wannasee Lake, near Berlin. In the presence of a large number of military and naval officers, engineering experts and foreign naval and military attaches.

The unmanned motor-boat was towed to the middle of the lake, about a mile from the shore, and then the captain gave a succession of orders, which Herr Wirth carried out by transmitting electric waves from the apparatus ashore to the receiver on board. In this way he started the motor, then stopped it, drove the boat ahead or astern, to starboard or port, and caused it to describe intricate figures on the water, such as the letter "S" and the figure "3". The boat, which cruised backwards and forwards for a distance varying from one to two miles from the apparatus, whereby it was controlled, executed each order with absolute precision.

A group of experts watched with astonishment the movements of this phantom ship, and drew conclusions regarding marine battles of the future in which torpedo-boats, controlled by wireless telegraphy, may be hurled with forty-knot speed at battleships and sink them. It is still too early to prophesy how far this invention will take us because it has only just emerged from the laboratory, and has not undergone many practical tests, but sooner or later capitalists will finance Herr Wirth's discovery, and then unmanned vessels of various sizes will be constructed in large numbers. Further tests will take place on the Wannasee Lake.

Of course this one experiment does not comprise the whole town by any means, but it is here that most of the business is done, and where most of the night life is to be seen. Generally the night life is slow to provide some form of amusement, and though northern Ontario mining towns are minus that great west end place of vice the music hall still generally find a theater, good billiard rooms and a hall that is rented for dance parties.

In one week this hall was occupied by two political meetings, Liberal and Conservative, a dance, a prize fight, and on the Sunday a church service was held. It was also a place of refuge for many fine sufferers who slept there on the floor a few nights until they were able to find more suitable accommodation.

It is against the law to sell liquor within four miles of a mining district in Ontario, but the place is supplied with numerous soft drink saloons, most of which are furnished with cool tables and some do an illicit liquor trade on the side. It is alleged that a plan is generally part of their equipment. As a rule a paid piano player thumps the keys through the afternoon and evening, but anyone who has the ability is at liberty to amuse himself on it as well. A few talent is to be found here. Frequently, a happy crowd gathered around such places as Annie Laurie, Old Black Joe, Swanee River and other old-time airs. Old songs bring back old memories. Here are gathered men of all types and nations, the native-born, American, English, Scotch, Irish, Dutch, Swede and races composed of miners young and old, in long boots and tan overalls and generally careless if it is summer time. Winter varies the attire to sheepskin makings, coats and trousers and heavy cap. Sometimes a prospector just in stands in soiled and faded clothes and several weeks' growth of untrimmed beard. The spick and span travelling man or clerk mixes here and there, but clothes do not count for much and little notice is taken of what you wear.

WOMEN ASTRONOMERS

France Has Produced Several Who Attained Prominence in Science

The appointment of Mile. Edmee Chandon as an astronomer at the Paris observatory represents an important advance in the position of women in the official scientific world.

It is interesting as a writer in a French journal points out, that the study of the heavens has attracted women in many ages of the world's history, although Mile. Chandon is the first woman to receive official recognition of her talents. Passing over Hypatia, St. Catherine, the daughter of King Sesostris of Egypt, and Catherine de Medici, all of whom were star gazers, the writer recalls the work of Marie Curie, who bequeathed to the world her famous astronomical tables publishing them in 1860. Another distinguished woman was Jeanne Dimee, a French girl, who after having been married according to the fashion of her day, when little more than a child, was left a widow at 17, and was said to have consoled herself on the death of her husband by a life-long devotion to the study of the heavens. Her great work was a review of the Copernican theory of the mobility of the earth.

In the 19th century Hortense Leconte, a young Frenchwoman, was responsible for the elaborate calculations which predicted with such precision the return of Halley's comet during her lifetime.

IN GOLDEN CITY

A Glimpse of The Life in The Northern Mining Town.

Picture a street of frame buildings 80 per cent. of which are shops, running from a slight knoll at one end and terminating at a picturesque little lake. Such is the main street of Golden City. The buildings as a rule are one story, many of which have a false front built up to resemble a two-story building. Towards the lake stand a number of log buildings, some of their quite pretentious structures, the logs nicely hewn and fitted to gether, making a very cozy-looking habitation. Two banks—the Traders and Imperial—are housed in log buildings. Little log cabins and are certainly a strange contrast to the magnificent houses these same banks do business in in Hamilton, Toronto, and the other large cities of Canada.

Of course this one experiment does not comprise the whole town by any means, but it is here that most of the business is done, and where most of the night life is to be seen. Generally the night life is slow to provide some form of amusement, and though northern Ontario mining towns are minus that great west end place of vice the music hall still generally find a theater, good billiard rooms and a hall that is rented for dance parties.

In one week this hall was occupied by two political meetings, Liberal and Conservative, a dance, a prize fight, and on the Sunday a church service was held. It was also a place of refuge for many fine sufferers who slept there on the floor a few nights until they were able to find more suitable accommodation.

It is against the law to sell liquor within four miles of a mining district in Ontario, but the place is supplied with numerous soft drink saloons, most of which are furnished with cool tables and some do an illicit liquor trade on the side. It is alleged that a plan is generally part of their equipment. As a rule a paid piano player thumps the keys through the afternoon and evening, but anyone who has the ability is at liberty to amuse himself on it as well. A few talent is to be found here. Frequently, a happy crowd gathered around such places as Annie Laurie, Old Black Joe, Swanee River and other old-time airs. Old songs bring back old memories. Here are gathered men of all types and nations, the native-born, American, English, Scotch, Irish, Dutch, Swede and races composed of miners young and old, in long boots and tan overalls and generally careless if it is summer time. Winter varies the attire to sheepskin makings, coats and trousers and heavy cap. Sometimes a prospector just in stands in soiled and faded clothes and several weeks' growth of untrimmed beard. The spick and span travelling man or clerk mixes here and there, but clothes do not count for much and little notice is taken of what you wear.

BEAUTY PROBLEM EASY TO SOLVE

Anti-Norris Tells How to Remove Superfluous Hair by Several Methods

Little fuzzers that grow where they should not be regarded with antagonism by the majority of women. They really tell well that a growth of hair on the lips or cheeks or arms is destructive to their good looks and to their peace of mind.
 It may interest you to know that there are several ways out of the trouble. Some require the expenditure of much cash and others rely unsuitably on your stock of perseverance and faith.
 Suppose we take up the electrical way first. It is sure and harmless but somewhat expensive. In some cases, where the operator is usually expert, as high as $15 an hour is asked, but the usual charge is $5 for a full 45 minutes.

"Do the hairs return?" you ask. No, they do not. The electric needle, in the hands of a skillful operator, kills the hair root, in the twinkling of an eye. This should be good news to all those who desire a downless skin.

BEAUTIFY YOUR ARMS

And now let me tell you of other ways of balking an unwanted growth of hair. While I do not advise the use of a strong depilatory on the facial skin, yet it can do no harm and may do much good, if applied to hairy arms. A simple hair remover, which works quickly, is made according to the following recipe:

Sulphuret of barium... 3 ounces
 Water... 13 ounces
 Make into a paste by wetting cornstarch with the solution, then smear thickly over the offending hairs. Let the paste dry and then rub off with a rough towel, when you will find that the hairs have mysteriously disappeared.

Do not be disappointed if another growth of hair appears within a few days. It is said, however, if this liquid is applied again and again during the course of a few months, that eventually the hair roots will give up the battle and fade gracefully out of existence.

It is of the utmost importance that the strength of a depilatory should be tested before applying to the face or arms. Neglect of this precaution may spell trouble, as different skins vary as to sensitiveness. What affects your skin may not burn the cuticle of your best friend. Be careful.

If you are afflicted with only a few scattered hairs, it would be foolish to use a depilatory, as a pair of tweezers will quickly remove the depilated furzers. Then if you are wise you will dampen each little red spot with camphor water.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

BERLIN TELEPHONES

Not Safe to Express One's Feelings at Times to the Operator—Better Talk to the Apparatus

The telephone service in Berlin is not half bad but it has the drawback that one must not tell the young lady who manages one's communication what one thinks of her when she fails or tries to give the communication. A remark that she appears to have not heard of that she is slow or stupid, would immediately be followed by a summons to court to defend oneself from a charge of defamation, so that all one can safely do is to keep up the receiver, while informing oneself of what one is feeling and, too, as a reported recently, however, that the telephone people do not always get the best of it in their encounters with the public.

A lady was tried for saying to a telephone girl, after some vain attempts to get communication, "Your department is evidently out of business." The girl complained to a higher authority, which then, quite gratuitously as it transpired, charged the lady with calling the girl "a cheeky person." The court acquitted the lady, as she had had two witnesses who did not hear her telephone. In the case of a bank clerk who said to a customer, "I am not taking your money," the court acquitted the clerk, as he had had two witnesses who did not hear him.

ECONOMICAL MEATS

With a Little Study the Cheaper Cuts Prove Very Acceptable

A famous chef says that cooking reduced to a science, covers only three ways of cooking meat. The first is the application of intense heat, it keeps in the juices, and it is suitable only to portions of clear meat, where the fibre is tender. By the second method the meats are put in cold water and cooked at a low temperature. This is suitable for bone-gristle and the toughest portion of the meat, which for the purpose should be divided into small pieces. The third method is a sort of combination of the other two, dealing mostly with stewing meat, which is neither tender nor tough.

The housewife who buys only the first kind of meat, whether she orders it to be cooked, or cooks it herself, is expending very little brain-power on the management of her menu. The cheaper cuts are just as nourishing and, if properly cooked, very palatable.

DAIRING KALD BELTON WILL INSTRUCT CADETS

Youthful Soldier of Fortune and Airman Goes to London, Ontario

Kald Belton, the famous young British soldier, who has had a career packed full of stirring adventure, was appointed to the Canadian forces and has been placed for the time being in charge of the cadet work in Western Ontario, with headquarters in London, Ont. Although he has been through adventures enough to fill a dozen books, Kald Belton is only about 30. He was only seventeen when the war was first started and immediately went to the front. It was a member of the Cumberland Yeomanry and distinguished himself by his fighting bravery. He fought under the gallant and they became very warm friends.

At the close of the war he joined the Cape Mounted police, and later went to Morocco. He ingratiated himself with the sultan and was appointed commander in chief of the Moroccan forces. He re-organized his army and built up a wonderful fighting force, which distinguished itself in many conflicts.

When in Morocco the influence of France forced him out, and he came to Canada. He was of the francophile for a short time, learning the language and went to Chicago to qualify as an aviator. He soon mastered the air and became one of the most daring of the aviators. Last fall he was seriously injured through an accident to his aeroplane and confined to a hospital for some time. He has since recovered and is now in the army.

AN OLD BIBLE

It Has Been In Mrs. Williamson's Family 147 Years.

Mrs. Frank Williamson, Hamilton, has in her possession a bible that has been in her family for the past hundred and forty-seven years. It was presented to her great grandfather by the great grandfather of the late Duke of Fife. It was necessary to have it inscribed thus: "Presented to Brevet Major William MacRae by the Duke of Fife, by the grace of God, Earl of Fife, as a testimony of his esteem for so brave a soldier to both God and his legal chief."

"Duff castle, third March 15th, the year of our blessed Lord, 1765."

Mrs. Williamson has had the bible in her possession for over thirty years, and numerous collectors have called to see it.

STOPPING GOSSIP

Sir Tatton prides himself on Eccentricities.

"Too fast—too jumbled; can't tell what they are driving at. Nothing like the ordered care and clear articulation of my young days." Such was the comment of Sir Tatton Sykes, the octogenarian, who recently paid his second visit to the House of Commons on Parliamentary matters and members of today. Sir Tatton paid his first visit to St. Stephen's in 1842 when the Commons sat in the old Painted Chamber, between the burning of the old House and the building of the new. Sir Tatton is a man who prides himself on his eccentricities.

WORLD WITHOUT WOMEN

What a Dreary Place It Would Be Says the Bachelor

What would the world be like if there were no women in it? If the world's population were cut down by half, by the immediate abolition of women, it is certain that civilization would develop on somewhat different lines from those it is travelling along at present. In fact, a very few years would show all sorts of curious consequences.

Daring women who have penetrated the outskirts of civilization to places where the face of a white woman is scarcely ever seen, are often amused by the curious effect they have on their hosts. These women, for weeks retire haughtily for a while, to return several shades lighter in color. Heads which have appeared almost unscathed are cruelly shaved. Strongly stated hair is gently caressed.

It is a curious fact that men living in the wilds of the earth never realize how far they have slipped from the decent, dignified ways of civilization till the presence of a woman reminds them of the fact.

That religion would imperceptibly take place all over the civilized earth. We should not notice it, but the instincts of personal cleanliness and neatness would steadily disappear. Psychologists declare that, however ingrained the seem, these instincts are in men, but they are more of a true instinct—women, being the physically weaker sex, having had to do less of the rough work of the world. Set a woman for a few years on a desert island, and she will devise some sort of hairpin, and do her hair daily. A masculine Robinson Crusoe will regard a figure to amuse the most untemper of his troops.

In fact, in a civilization without women, the world of men would cease to think itself in need of a dash of beauty.

"FIGHTING BOB EVANS"

Popular in the Navy and also for his Breezy Utterances.

Many gallant exploits in American warfare are recalled by the announcement that Admiral Robley D. Evans, who is on the retired list of the United States Navy, has just celebrated his sixty-fifth birthday. "Fighting Bob Evans," as he is known on the other side, is not only extremely popular, but a count of his naval success, but also because of his frank, breezy utterances. "There is a general impression," he once remarked, "that sailors have a sweetheart in every port. Well, let us say in every other port, for the American boys are great lovers and great fighters. But they want drilling—not in love, but in sea-work. Why, some of the boys in my fleet were so green that they had to taste the sea-water to believe there was salt in it. But they are the backbone of the navy, all the same."

Prof. Edward Albert Schafer, of Edinburgh University, who is called the foremost biologist of Great Britain is trying to answer these questions. He thinks life is chemical action. For instance, if you put a spoonful of baking soda into a spoonful of vinegar you get a fizzy action between the chemicals in the soda and the chemicals in the vinegar. Life, he thinks, is some such action.

The elements composing living substance are few in number, he says. Carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen, chloride of sodium, salts of calcium, magnesium, potassium and iron, with water, approximately make up the life. He thinks any scientist who can mix these chemicals in the right proportions and under proper conditions is very likely to produce life.

"The dividing line between animate and inanimate matter is less sharp than it has hitherto been regarded. Prof. Schafer said: 'The possibility of the production of living material is not so remote as has been generally supposed.'"

A FLEETER BULLET

Sharp-Nosed Missiles That Go 2,700 Feet a Second

"If you are cornered, get behind the biggest oak tree you can find," may be an important thing for Canadian militia men to remember when the new needle-pointed bullet, to be issued, comes into use. The bullet has a velocity of 2,700 feet per second, and will penetrate an oak tree thirty-eight inches in diameter, at five hundred yards. It goes so much faster, and is in the air so much less time, that the wind has comparatively little effect on it.

At five hundred yards it will penetrate hard steel plate 3/16 inches thick. Brick and cement 9 inches thick. Loose sand 30 inches thick. Hardwood, with grain, 38 inches. Soft wood 58 inches. Clay 60 inches.

With the new bullet, the marksman will be as effective at 800 yards as he is at 500 yards with the old bullet. The new bullet will be so little in the air that shooting at 800 yards it will not rise higher than a man's head, and accordingly all the ground within 800 yards will be covered. Thus the range at which shots may be "fixed" will be increased from 500 to 800 yards.

TEN PEOPLE, ONE HORSE

How Animals Compare in England in Number With Mere Man

The War Office has just concluded its census of horses, and one fact is made clear: that if all the people in England wanted to go for a drive at once, there would not be horse to go round.

Including all kinds of horses of four years old and over—farm horses, hunters, polo ponies, every animal that can carry harness or saddle—there are only three millions in England and Wales, or less than one to every ten persons. In this respect Australia leads the British Empire, there being forty-five horses to every hundred people.

But even this record does not match that of the Argentine Republic. The Argentine is the only country in the world where there are many horses as people. At the other end of the scale comes Switzerland, with only three horses to every hundred inhabitants.

The War Office has fairly exact records of all the livestock in every civilized country in the world, and as a rule, you find that the fewer the people the larger the head of sheep, and cattle.

Australia and the Argentine lead the world, not only in horses, but in cattle and sheep also. Australia has cows enough to give each man, woman and child in the island continent three apiece; while the Argentine can do even better. There are five cattle to each inhabitant in the big South American republic.

Of European countries, Denmark is by far the greatest cattle owner. There are eighty-five to each hundred inhabitants. No wonder Danish butter is known all over Europe. In the United Kingdom we have about twelve million cattle, of which more than four millions pasture in Ireland. The world's stock of mutton is reckoned to be about 450 millions, to these the United Kingdom adds three millions, while Australia possesses the enormous total of nearly five millions of sheep. Australia and the Argentine have, then, the pasture of a third of the sheep in the world.

There has been a deal of talk lately about the lack of poultry in England, and the gigantic number of eggs is reported. It may come as a surprise to know that poultry numbers thirty-seven millions, or roughly one hen to the acre. The Board of Agriculture says that the country ought to keep at least three times that number. It presents the record in poultry production in the United Kingdom, and says that the country ought to keep at least three times that number.

SCIENTIST'S VIEW OF LIFE'S ORIGIN

Prof. Schafer of Edinburgh Believes Life to be a Chemical Action

In the days when the world was new and still and when, not a thing moved, except falling water or stones, what was the first thing that lived? How did it come to live? What does being alive mean?

Prof. Edward Albert Schafer, of Edinburgh University, who is called the foremost biologist of Great Britain is trying to answer these questions. He thinks life is chemical action. For instance, if you put a spoonful of baking soda into a spoonful of vinegar you get a fizzy action between the chemicals in the soda and the chemicals in the vinegar. Life, he thinks, is some such action.

The elements composing living substance are few in number, he says. Carbon, hydrogen, oxygen, nitrogen, chloride of sodium, salts of calcium, magnesium, potassium and iron, with water, approximately make up the life. He thinks any scientist who can mix these chemicals in the right proportions and under proper conditions is very likely to produce life.

"The dividing line between animate and inanimate matter is less sharp than it has hitherto been regarded. Prof. Schafer said: 'The possibility of the production of living material is not so remote as has been generally supposed.'"

There are plenty of scientists who think that the first life on earth came from chemical action, but they believe that this happened at a particular time in the earth's history when conditions were exactly right, and that such conditions do not exist now and will never again exist. Prof. Schafer, however, believes that even now, in out of the way corners, inanimate matter is being transformed by nature into animate things and that, if the scientists will search properly, they will find this process in operation.

"The evolution of non-living matter into living substance has happened more than once," he said, "and we can by no means be sure that it is not happening now. When or where such change may first have occurred and when and where it may still be occurring are problems as difficult as they are interesting."

Prof. Schafer thinks that life originated in slime, and that the first living things looked, perhaps, like a drop of fluid. This fluid was "proto-plasm," the basic substance of which all living things are made. It drew nourishment from its surroundings and formed itself in what we call a "cell," the smallest and most simple organized of living things. The cell in time divided, making two. The division continued and cells were multiplied until living things filled the world. All life and growth still continue in the growth and division of cells. Various kinds of cells appeared, made of the same basic fluid. Cells developed and came to live in "colonies."

"Artificial cells" formed by adding 10 per cent solution of potassium ferri-cyanide to a 10 per cent solution of solution forming organisms, more and more complex until at last the human body was evolved and man had been created.

By Prof. Schafer's theory a human being is just a collection of living cells in cooperation. Individual cells are continually dying and new ones are taking their places. "What we term our life," he said, "is not a single property capable of being blown out like a candle, but it is the aggregate of the lives of millions of living cells. It is but a short time since this cell constitution was discovered, but tremendous strides have been made in the realm of biology regarding the cell structure of plants and animals."

Death, to Prof. Schafer, means only that the supply of oxygen to the life has been cut off, and thus the chemical action known as life is brought to an end. Death he says is not general, some of the cells in a body live long after the doctor has declared the patient dead. The cells of a human body are always fighting to live. These cells are constantly combating the microbes of disease and the results of an illness depend on which are the stronger in the battle—the cells of the body or the microbes. In the end the hostile cells triumph.

France's Aerial Navy
 France, says Mr. Claude Grahame White, is spending $5,000,000 a year on military airplanes. She is adding 800 scouting aircraft to the 200 already having. During next year and the year following another 500 military machines will be added to her equipment, so that at the end of two years she will possess an actual fleet of 1,000 warplanes.

Mystery of Two Houses
 The mystery of two Swansea houses which have been vacant nearly twenty years is buried with John Corrius Payne aged eighty-five, a bachelor, of Swansea who died recently. Both properties were confirmed to him by the deceased throughout his life. He refused to let or sell the houses.

GETTING MEN TO CHURCH
 At a conference of the Church of England Men's Society, held in Leeds under the presidency of Dr. Kenyon Bishop of Bath and Wells, the Rev. Hynton Stewart, rector of "St. Michael's" declared that if they were to attract men to church they must in the first instance get the women to reduce the size of their hats. The statement was received with laughter, and Mr. Hynton Stewart added that a friend of his said that he would not

Chronic Throat Trouble Permanently Cured

SEVEN DAYS' USE OF CATARRHOZONE PERFORMED REGULAR MIRACLE

Miss Counter's Case Proves the Wonderful Efficacy of Catarrhazone in All Throat and Nose Diseases

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 21.—Miss Counter's case will prove of great interest to everyone troubled with sore throat, bronchitis or weak lungs.

When asked for a statement, Miss Counter said: "About seven years ago I contracted a heavy cold that settled on my lungs and resisted all treatment. After I had tried several doctors here and specialists in Detroit without benefit, I went to my druggist and asked him for the best remedy he had for cold on the lungs. He recommended Catarrhazone, which cured my cold in one week. It brought back my voice, and I have been ever since free from my old trouble. For coughs, colds and lung trouble I am sure that Catarrhazone is the best remedy. It goes right to the sore spot, gives quick relief, and makes a lasting cure."

Catarrhazone cures because its healing vapor is inhaled to the very places that are sore and inflamed. To permanently cure your winter ailments, your coughs, sneezing and catarrh, by all means use a tried and proven remedy like Catarrhazone. But beware of the substitute and imitator. Look for Catarrhazone only, 50c and $1.00, at all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhazone Company, Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

The City Council has accepted an invitation to attend Park street Baptist church at the evening service of Sunday, January 19th.

Gov't Work at McCracken's.
Mr. W. C. Brough, Toronto, who arrived in the city yesterday and registered at the Oriental, left in the afternoon for the McCracken's Land-tax. It is understood that he went out for the Public Works Department in connection with a proposed Government work at that point.

Lindsay Lady Curriers.
The Lindsay Ladies' Curling Club, recently organized, has opened their season. They used the regulation stones, and found many of the masculine curriers only too anxious to explain the intricacies of the game, in fact, both sexes "played the game."

Race Track at Bobaygeon.
The Bobaygeon Fair directors, seem to be hustlers. They got the farmers of Verulam township to have a "bet" and cart gravel and clay gratuitously to form a race track. This saved the Agricultural Society over $150. The Society's annual meeting will be held on the 18th inst.

Concert at Knox Church.
Last night Knox Church was filled with a large and appreciative audience who thoroughly enjoyed the splendid programme provided. The entertainers were Helen W. Shafar, entertainer; J. Edwin Jessop, bass; E. Alexander Bradley, lyric soprano; E. Vates, Charlesworth, alto; and Maude C. Bradley, manager, at the piano. The concert was given under the auspices of the Board of Managers of the Church.

Do Customs Affect Chief Howard?
An esteemed evening contemporary in referring to the warranted request of Chief Howard for increased pay, says "but the increase in duties and the satisfactory manner, etc." Now the question is—what have the duties, either customs or inland revenue, to do with Chief Howard's duty? We all know there have been increases in the Chief's duty, and that he is deserving of consideration.

Ernest E. Barnes.
Early yesterday afternoon Mr. Ernest E. Barnes passed away at his home, 331 Parrill street. The late Mr. Barnes was born in England, and came to this city four years ago. He is survived by a sorrowing wife and five sisters.

William B. Harvey.
Mr. William B. Harvey, one of the best known High School teachers in the Province of Ontario, died Saturday at the home of his son-in-law, R. H. Cowley, 124 Delaware avenue, Toronto, in his 72nd year. He was at one time a teacher at Lakefield. The deceased was a native of Prince Edward and a United Empire Loyalist, and an Anglican. The widow, two sons and one daughter survive, as follows: Frank, of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute; Norman, attorney, California; and Mrs. Cowley, Toronto.

Nathan McMilloye.
Yesterday at noon a well known and highly respected citizen passed away at the venerable age of 81 years, in the person of Mr. Nathan McMilloye, father of Mr. W. McMilloye, formerly market clerk here, but who is now heavily interested in Western property. The late Mr. McMilloye died in Nichols Hospital, from the after effects of an accident sustained some months ago, and previously described in these columns. The deceased was born in Smith, where he lived up till a short time ago, when he came to reside in Peterborough. He was a Baptist in religion.

MAN IS NO BETTER IN LAST 7,000 YEARS.

No Improvement Shown in Present Day Over Ancient Egyptians, Says Scientist.

London, Jan. 14.—"Man has shown no improvement either in intellect or morals from the days of the earliest Egyptians and Syrians down to the keel-laying of the latest dread-nought," according to a survey which Dr. Alfred Russell Wallace, known as the "Grand Old Man of Science," has completed on the eve of his 90th birthday next Wednesday.

In his survey he declares that for 7,000 years morals and intellect have been stationary. "There has been, of course, a great accumulation of human knowledge, but for all that we are no cleverer than the ancients," he declared. "There is still most abominable vice going on, every kind of cruelty to the poor and children, adulteration everywhere in every commodity and lies everywhere. The average of mankind will remain the same until natural selection steps in to raise it."

Dr. Wallace qualifies his gloomy remarks with the belief that there is no cause for worry for the future, however, as "the outlook is hopeful."

Tea and Coffee "Over-Exercise" The Heart

Normal exercise is healthful.

Over-exercise is harmful.

Exercise, up to a certain degree, increases the pulse-rate, causing ample flow of nourishing blood to all the body organs.

That is Normal exercise.

Physicians and Physical Trainers know this.

Over exercise urges the Heart to excessive action—flooding the body organs with blood. The after-effect is stagnation and decomposition in the tissues—as in the lowlands after a Spring freshet; and toxins (poisons) abound.

These toxins are reabsorbed into the blood stream, and passing through the Heart, poison that organ with the rest.

Over-exercise also causes strain.

Architects know what "strain" means in buildings, and in bridges, just as Doctors and Trainers know it in the Human Structure.

When "strain" passes a certain limit, the structure begins to weaken—slowly disorganize.

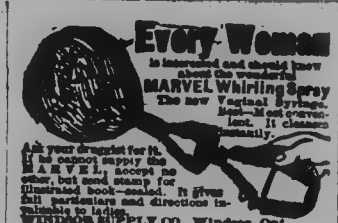

So with the Heart.

It can stand so much "strain"—more or less, in different persons. Beyond the individual limit—look out!

When the Heart is compelled to Over-exercise and convey a blood-stream filled with toxins—it is serious, in the extreme.

Tea and Coffee cause OVER-exercise of the heart through the "whip" they contain in the form of the drug, caffeine.

This drug increases the Heart's action—even while the

HOW TO BEAUTIFY A WEATHERBEATEN FACE.

It's really a simple matter to renovate a face soiled by dirt, wind and cold. Ordinary mercurized wax, used like old cream, will transform the worst old complexion into one of snowy whiteness and velvety softness. It literally peels off the outer veil of surface skin, but so gently, gradually, there's no discomfort. The worn-out skin comes off, not in patches, but evenly, in tiny particles, leaving no evidence of the treatment. The younger, healthier under-skin forming the new complexion is one of captivating loveliness. One ounce of our Colored Wax, to be had at any drug store, is enough to remove any coarse, chapped, pimply, freckled, faded or sallow skin. Apply before retiring, washing it off mornings.

Many skins wrinkle easily with every wind that blows, with heat, worry, etc. An excellent wrinkle-remover, because it tightens the skins and strengthens relaxed muscles, is a wash lotion made as follows: Powdered salicylic, 1 oz., dissolved in witch hazel, one half pint. This gives immediate results.

"LITTLE WOMEN" COMING

Grand Opera House Secures Another Superb Attraction.

"Little Women," Louisa M. Alcott's immortal story of Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy, which has enjoyed a popularity second to none of the novels of to-day, has been dramatized by Martin de Forest, a Buffalo newspaper woman, through an arrangement with Jesse Bonville who secured the dramatic rights from the Alcott heirs), and will be presented at the Grand Opera House, Monday night only, Jan. 20th.

Sweet, simple, quaint and refreshing is this story of a half-century ago, and the play is as charming as the book, bringing very close to those who know and love the story of the old friends from out the covers of the book into that larger, more intimate life of the stage.

How strange and yet wholly delightful it will seem to the thousands of "Little Women" readers to see the awkward Jo, the beautiful Meg, the rollicking Amy and the lovable Beth of Miss Alcott's story, actually brought to life before the footlights; to hear them speak, rehearse Jo's plays, settle their little family quarrels, and to watch them through the "loving story," when the romance of Amy and Laurie, of Meg and John Brooke are lived before an audience.

Mr. Brady has assembled a representative company of twelve players, and promises a scenic production accurate and realistic, showing the March home at Concord, and the orchard at Plumfield. The play is in four acts and two scenes, and many of the costumes used have been secured from the Alcott family, including Jo's bonnet, which she got "from a lady who had a friend who knew an actor."

Postum is at rest. The habitual use of tea or coffee three or more times daily, forces the Heart to over-exercise.

This produces what Life Insurance Examiners and Physical Trainers term "Coffee Heart." Tea causes the same effect on the heart, because it contains caffeine, the drug found in coffee.

If you have "Coffee Heart" you can't get life insurance, and you can't "go in for athletics"—not much.

But—thousands of former "Coffee Hearts" now beat regularly, supplying the body organs with pure blood in normal amount; are insured and enjoy life.

They have wisely quit tea and coffee entirely and now drink the wholesome, famous food drink,

POSTUM

Made of clean, hard wheat, Postum contains no tea or coffee or any other harmful substance.

It does not scourge; it nourishes. It does not cause over-exercise of Heart; it supplies nutrition to that organ and to the blood stream which feeds and preserves the whole body.

"There's a Reason"

POSTUM NOW COMES IN NEW FORM CALLED

INSTANT POSTUM

It is Regular Postum in a concentrated form, nothing added.

Place a level teaspoonful in a cup, pour on boiling water, stir, add sugar and cream to taste and it is ready instantly.

No bother—flavor always the same—delicious.

Sold by Grocers everywhere.

TWENTY THOUSAND ORPHANS ARE MADE SO BY DIVORCE

That Number Deprived of One or Both Parents During the Year—Pacific Coast Leads

New York, Jan. 16.—More than 70,000 children, mostly under the age of ten years, were deprived of one or both parents by divorce in this country during the past year, according to figures with which the Rev. Francis M. Moody, secretary of the New York State Marriage and Divorce Commission at its meeting yesterday.

"The Pacific Coast," he said, "has been the greatest divorce centre of the entire world. In the year 1912 alone there were granted in the United States over 100,000 divorces. In forty years, 3,700,000 adults were separated by divorce and more than 5,000,000 persons affected by these cases. Illinois alone provided 120,000 divorces; Pennsylvania, 55,760; California, 50,000; and New York 44,450. New York State, however, sent 18,189 of its couples into other states to procure divorces, and there were probably many migratory cases that are not recorded in this total. At present 90 per cent of the cases go by default, with only one party represented.

Mr. Moody offered a resolution to organize a Federal Commission in this State to work for a uniform Federal law governing marriages and divorces, which should be the central organization for all State Divisions of this character which have already been formed in some States, and which would meet in convention in Chicago in May. The Rev. Dr. Samuel McCune Lindsay was appointed temporary chairman of an organizing committee.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Fresh south-west to south winds; mostly fair and mild; a few light scattered showers during the night.

MRS. EDWARD B. McLEAN, MASTER VINSON WALSH McLEAN AND HIS DONKEY

It was good to be ten years old or less so that one might be among the privileged forty who were not to San Juan with open arms at the entrance to the city. The Duke of Connaught, in view of the precarious health of the Duchess, will not seek an extension of his term of office.

Prince Arthur last week obtained special leave from his regiment to proceed immediately to Canada if more unfavorable news is received. The Duchess' illness has caused considerable anxiety here, the bulletins being eagerly awaited.

MISS ASQUITH STAYED TO HEAR HUGH GUTHRIE SPEAK

Ottawa, Jan. 15.—Owing to the serious illness of the Duchess of Connaught, the anticipated visit of the Duke and Duchess of Connaught to the House of Commons on the resumption of the naval debate yesterday day by Mr. Hugh Guthrie, did not take place. The loss, however, found significance in the fact that the space reserved for the distinguished visitors was occupied instead by no less a person than the daughter of the British Liberal Prime Minister.

It is understood that Miss Asquith's original plan was to accompany Lady Aberdeen to Toronto on Monday night, but she embraced with enthusiasm the opportunity to take place. The loss, however, found significance in the fact that the space reserved for the distinguished visitors was occupied instead by no less a person than the daughter of the British Liberal Prime Minister.

JACK JOHNSTON PUGILIST SPENT NIGHT BEHIND BARS

Chicago, Jan. 15.—Jack Johnston, the negro heavyweight pugilist, was taken to the county jail here last night to await the judgment of Judge George A. Carpenter of the United States District Court as to whether his bail bond of $30,000 should be forfeited.

When the party consisting of his white wife, two white secretaries and valet, reached here after being turned back at Battle Creek, Mich., on a Canada-bound train, Johnston asked to talk over the telephone to Charles F. Dewoody, Superintendent of the United States Department of Justice.

At the conclusion of the conversation Johnston told Deputy Marshal Meyers that Mr. Dewoody would allow him to spend the night at his own home.

Meyers refused to accept the order unless from Mr. Dewoody direct. The pugilist and his party got into his automobiles and were driven to Mr. Dewoody's residence.

"Johnson, if you did not mean to stay out of the jurisdiction of the Federal Court why did you ship two of your automobiles to Canada?" demanded Mr. Dewoody.

The pugilist hesitated in his reply and Mr. Dewoody gave him his choice of being held in a hotel in Chicago or the Marshall's or of being taken to jail.

Johnson chose the jail. He was allowed to take his wife home and to change his clothes, and then was locked up.

SIR JAMES: "Nobody sent for you. I do the prescribing here, and Ontario will accept the prescription."

DUKE WILL NOT SEEK EXTENSION OF TERM

Owing to the Precarious Health of the Duchess, Would Return Home.

London, Jan. 15.—The impression is growing here that the Duke of Connaught, in view of the precarious health of the Duchess, will not seek an extension of his term of office.

Prince Arthur last week obtained special leave from his regiment to proceed immediately to Canada if more unfavorable news is received. The Duchess' illness has caused considerable anxiety here, the bulletins being eagerly awaited.

DUCHESS NOW MUCH BETTER

No Consultations Necessary Since Sunday—Symptoms Have Subsided

Montreal, Jan. 15.—The Duchess of Connaught has so far progressed towards recovery that it has been decided not to issue bulletins after today.

The announcement made at the Royal Victoria Hospital this morning follows.

Her Royal Highness passed a very good night. The Duchess' condition is now much better, and the abdominal symptoms have subsided. No consultations have been necessary since Sunday, but it will be some time before the Duchess can be moved from the hospital. No further bulletins will be issued.

AGUINALDO BOBS UP AS REAL PEACE ADVOCATE

Manila, Jan. 15.—Forty former leaders of the revolution have founded a national association under the leadership of Emilio Aguinaldo for the avowed purpose to work for peace and give mutual help towards establishing a provisional Government in the Philippine Islands, with ultimate complete independence for the Philippines. It is understood that Aguinaldo aspires to the Presidency.

CARISSE LE BRUN HAS JOINED GREAT MAJORITY

Former Resident of Peterborough Well Known in Business and Athletic Circles, Succumbs to Attack of Pneumonia.

The many friends in this city and county of Mr. Carisse LeBrun, will be shocked to learn that he passed away yesterday in Toronto, after a few days' illness from pneumonia. Mr. LeBrun was a brother of the late Mr. Harry LeBrun, and was universally respected by all who knew him. In his younger days Carisse was well known in the heyday of lacrosse in Peterborough, as well as in his former line of business. The deceased was married to Miss LeMay of this city, some five years ago. He, at the time of his death, held a position in the office of the Provincial Secretary, Toronto. Some five or six days ago, Mr. LeBrun contracted pneumonia, which terminated fatally yesterday. He was about 48 years of age and leaves to mourn his loss a sorrowing widow and one young son. The body will be sent to Rochester, N.Y., for interment.

LIBERALS BACK AS LAMBS READY TO BE FED FROM HAND

Billigent Opposition Which Threatens Obstruction Has Faded—Pass House in 2 Weeks

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—All talk of the Liberals forcing an election on the navy question has faded away. Billigent opposition members who were threatening to hold up all business, stop the estimates and compel the Government to go to the country on the navy issue have returned to Ottawa as meek as lambs.

After having consulted their constituents they are back at Ottawa evidently prepared to let the House proposals pass. The House after a profuse debate.

It is predicted in the lobbies now that the bill will pass the Commons in less than two weeks. The Government has only about half a dozen speakers including Major Currie, W. H. Bennett and possibly Hon. W. T. White and Hon. T. W. Crothers. The Conservative list will likely be exhausted this week and if the Liberals want to continue the debate they will have to send Liberal after Liberal.

UNIONIST LEADERS DECIDE TO ABANDON FOOD TAXES

London, Jan. 15.—A considered reply of Mr. Bonar Law and Lord Lansdowne to the memorial of 232 members of the Unionist party on the subject of Imperial Preference was issued yesterday in the form of a letter to Lord Balfour. "That memorial asked, in effect," says Mr. Law, "that they should retain the leadership of the party while after in one important particular the can most effectively be carried out. The modification requested by the signatories to the memorial is that if and when the Unionist Government has been returned to power it proves desirable, after consultation with the Dominions, to impose new duties on any article of food in order to secure a most effective system of preference, such duties should not be imposed until they have been submitted to the people of this country. This modification does not seem to us," says Mr. Law, "to involve any principle in its adoption, which would have prevented us from loyally supporting the course of action desired by a majority of the party. It would, nevertheless, have been more agreeable to ourselves and more in the interest of our party, if the change should be accompanied by a change of leaders. In the memorial, however, that change in leadership would be fatal to the best interests of the party and of the country. We feel in view of such expression, it is our duty to comply with the request which has been addressed to us, and this we are prepared to do."

HOME RULE BILL HAS NOW REACHED ITS FINAL STAGES

London, Jan. 15.—The Home Rule bill entered upon its final stage in the House of Commons this afternoon.

When this last debate has been concluded, as it must be by tomorrow night, the measure will be passed on to the House of Lords, where its rejection is a foregone conclusion.

Public interest in the Home Rule question was manifested by the great demand for seats on this occasion. They were all allotted over a week ago.

On the formal motion being introduced to-day that the Home Rule bill be now read a third time, Arthur J. Balfour immediately rose and presented to the House the official Unionist motion for its rejection.

Shows Risks to Britain.

Mr. Balfour's speech was in the nature of an appeal to the country to try to realize the risks it was running in allowing the Home Rule Bill to become law. The present British Government, he asserted, had duped everybody and the principal dupes were the Nationalists, who thought that Ireland by this bill had been made a nation and the English citizens who thought they had secured political peace.

Mr. Balfour termed the Home Rule Bill an abortive attempt at federalism. He said the fact that the Premier had offered safeguards was a sufficient justification for the claim of the Province of Ulster to be given federal separation from the rest of Ireland.

Mr. Balfour concluded by comparing the case of Ulster to that of the rebellious American colonies. He said:

"Something will arise to stir the people of this country and make them realize that it is that Ulster men complain of. If blood be spilled, which God forbid, the real assassins will be those who have never had the courage to face the situation."

SHOT TO DEATH BY DRUNKEN NEGROES

Vicksburg, Miss., Jan. 15.—According to the story told by two young white men who were with him, Basil J. McGorry, whose body was found on the V. and M. V. track at Valley Park, had been murdered by two negroes. The three white men were walking on the track Friday night when they were overtaken by the negroes, who were drunk. The negroes ordered them to move on, and then shot and killed McGorry after he had walked a hundred yards ahead, and left his body on the track.

EDITORIAL NOTES

No, Miss Sadie, you are mistaken. Don't think for a moment that the government proposes to establish the parcel post as a prop for the man with a "backache."

This great family journal has observed that many of our friends who care nothing for baseball or football are star high ball players and never mind to that comes their way.

Even those who went to Ottawa on behalf of the county in connection with the Buckhorn bridge matter, will admit that in spite of its age the old Exonior is giving them such a ride that they are almost sick.

Our friends who are disappointed in the result of the election, should not be discouraged. The result is a fair one, and all the good things that have been done for the county since the last election, are still to be seen.

Mr. Porport Morgan, according to a news item, has sailed for Europe to seek for buried treasure. Having gathered in pretty much all that was on the surface of the earth he is now after that which may be in the bowels thereof, and he will get it if old terra firma doesn't watch out.

A well-known local Liberal remarked to the Times yesterday, when discussing the probable candidates for parliamentary honors, that "the field of choice is rapidly widening." This will encourage a great many aspirants to straighten their neckties and step in without fear of crowding each other out of sight.

STEEL BELTING, A SUBSTITUTE FOR LEATHER.

Steel belting, which is a German invention, put on the market a few years ago, has been tried out in many ways for the transmission of mechanical power and is claimed to have given highly satisfactory results. The Hon. Franklin D. Hale, United States Consul at Huddersfield, England, says in a letter to the State Department, that many of the large manufacturing plants of that place have used steel belts during the past year.

As an instance of the work done he says that at a mill a steel belt 72 inches wide, weighing 119 pounds does the work formerly done by a leather belt, 22 inches wide, weighing 341 pounds, driving 300 horse-power. In another mill a steel belt 34 inches wide, weighing 12 pounds, does the work formerly done by a leather belt 12 inches wide, weighing 64 pounds.

In many industries where steadiness and speed are required this type of belt has given great satisfaction. The steel belt saves space; does not slip nor stretch; may be used on wooden pulleys when they are faced with a steel band, and gives a high degree of power. It is said that a test showed a saving of 61-horse-power on a drive of 610 horse-power, hence a belt for which so many good qualities are claimed should be of interest to those mills and factories in which miles of belting are whirling daily.

THE AVERAGE FARM INCOME

What is the average income of a one hundred acre dairy farm in Ontario? asks the Christian Guardian. Messrs. A. E. Gracey and T. F. Boyes, of the Western Ontario Dairy Institution staff, have lately been engaged in taking a dairy census of the township of Dorchester, in Middlesex County, and they have some interesting figures in regard to this matter. In this township the two main sources of farm income have been milk and eggs, and it is estimated that the average receipts among the better class of farms would run about $1,000 from milk and $500 from eggs. Individual farmers have done a good deal better than this, but the average would fall, perhaps, a little below the figures given. Most of this income would be secured wholly from the farm itself, with the exception, possibly, of a ton or so of shorts purchased for feed. Even these figures do not show farming to be very profitable if we take into account the value of the capital invested, with land worth about $100 an acre. Of course, there are also other items of income, such as poultry and eggs, horses, beef, fruit and garden produce, which all have a very definite market value. And then of course, the farmer lives rent free. Evidently the Ontario farmers who own 100 acres of good land is not by any means a poor man. But a question which presents itself to us in this connection is, "What should be the salary of a Methodist preacher in a section where the average income is about $1,500? Should it be any less than the average? And yet we do not know of any rural circuit in Canadian Methodism which pays more than $1,000. Perhaps, however, there are some paying $1,500. If so, we would be glad to hear from them.

ON BEHALF OF THE PRINTERS' UNION.
Editor Morning Times.

Sir: We wish to enter a protest against the custom which is all too prevalent in this city, of people sending out of town to non-union offices for their printing, thus depriving our members of work and the means of earning a decent living. It is estimated that if all the printing which is taken out of town were done here, it would give employment to at least fifty extra printers.

Our merchants object strenuously to us sending to the first order house for their groceries or other merchandise, yet how many of them follow the same course when they want printing done. And our merchants are not the only ones who do this. Some churches and religious institutions are equally guilty. Imagine a minister handing an envelope printed in a non-union office in another town to a union printer for his donation! In other words, saying, "I want you to support me and the various works of my church, but I will not help you when your living is at stake." Instead, I will send the money you save me out of town to people who are antagonistic to you. I am sure you will be glad to prevent your getting any more business from these people. A Novel Catarrh Remedy Cures Without Drugs

THE HEALING VAPOR OF CATARRHZONE LOOSENS THE COUGH, STOPS ALL DISCHARGES, PREVENTS SNEEZING.

The real danger of Catarrh lies in its tendency to spread. You may have Catarrh of the nose, but you may not know it. Before the disease spreads to the throat, stomach, lungs, or bronchial tubes, get it out with Catarrhzone. Look over the following symptoms—then examine your self.

Bad Breath, Stuffy Nostrils, Frequent Sneezing, Itching, Watery Eyes, Hacking Cough, Bad Taste, Droppings, Hacking Phlegm, Difficult Breathing.

Don't continue to burden your system for another day when the virus of such a filthy, loathsome disease as Catarrh, Get Catarrhzone to-day. Inhale its soothing vapor, fill your breathing organs with its balsamic essence, and all trace of Catarrh will forever depart. Read what Ellwood Lee, of Sydneyham, Ont., says of his cure with Catarrhzone:

"I was a chronic sufferer from catarrh of the throat and nose and for many years have constantly had Catarrh. I was recommended to try Catarrhzone and due to by using the inhaler on the first touch of a cold or a drip I am able to stay it in a few hours. I have been able to breathe through my nose freely since using Catarrhzone. In fact, I am completely cured." (Signed) ELLWOOD L. LEE.

Once you try Catarrhzone, you'll realize how indispensable it is—the large dollar size contains an ideal, trouble-free, rubber inhaler, and sufficient medication to last two months. Beware of the substitute and imitations of Catarrhzone—the genuine and you'll get cured. By mail from the Catarrhzone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

FALLS TO HIS DEATH FROM A SLIPPERY ROOF.

Atwood T. Peabody, former Deputy Postmaster in Camaragaga, N.J., and while repairing Presbyterian Parsonage.

Camaragaga, Jan. 14.—Atwood T. Peabody, prominent and life-long resident of this village, fell from the slippery roof of the Presbyterian parsonage last night and struck on his head, dying ten minutes later. He was putting on roofing when he fell.

Mr. Peabody has filled several offices in the town and village, and was deputy postmaster several years.

WHAT KILLED LOCAL OPTION?

Editor Morning Times.

Sir: Allow me, as one who voted for local option, to thank those who exercised their franchise for that cause. Whilst defeated, we are not disheartened. The vote was larger on both sides than I had expected. The local option advocates, I understand, now know what killed their cause. We temperance people have little reason from a local standpoint to thank the Liberal party of Peterborough for their display of partisan spirit which succeeded in making Peterborough "wet" for three more years. It seems to me, Mr. Editor, that the exercises of that party to aid Mr. Rowell's "Abolish the bar" plank, did not justify the local leaders in throwing down a by-law that would have given Peterborough the honor of being the first city in Canada to vote for local option.

Great Phosphate and Mica Mines
The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.
CAPITALIZATION $500,000. (No Personal Liability)
Divided into 500,000 shares, par value of $1 each; 400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

OFFICERS:

A. H. CHABOT, President, Ottawa
P. CHARRONNEAU, Vice-President, Ottawa
J. P. PRUD'HOMME, Sec. Treas., Montreal
JEAN B. COILLARD, Director, Ottawa
H. GAILLON, Director, Ottawa

PROPERTIES.

This Company owns 527 acres of rich Phosphate, Mica and Asbestos Mines in the Townships of Masham, Templeton and Portland, Province of Quebec, as well as 2 claims of 30 acres each in the Township of Shaw, Porcupine Gold District.

As Phosphate and Mica Mining produces quicker and better returns than Gold or Silver Mining, and far less expensive, the Company decided to operate its rich Phosphate and Mica Mines, which will be paying enterprises right from the start.

NO EXPENSIVE PLANT OR MACHINERY REQUIRED.

The Mines are situated in the Province of Quebec, and close to Railway Communication.

Labor and provisions are much less expensive than in Cobalt or Porcupine.

The Company will get immediate and profitable returns from Phosphate and Mica Mining. Mining can be carried on all the year round.

A SHAREHOLDER IS NOT ONLY SHAREHOLDER IN ONE MINE, BUT IN EVERY MINE THE COMPANY OWNS.

This is an advantage few companies possess. If one mine should fail to make good, or be exhausted, the Company has a number of other mines to fall back upon.

The large acreage, the low capitalization, the large treasury reserve, are proofs of a serious and honest enterprise and administration.

J. I-ARMAND & CO.,

St. Lawrence Boulevard, Montreal, Canada

The Company has demands of over 50,000 tons of Phosphate on which it is calculated to realize, at an average, $5.00 net per ton, all expenses paid.

This would net the Company $250,000, or 50 per cent, on the entire Capitalization. Supposing we reduce this amount by one half, it still would net the Company $125,000, or 25 per cent.

The Phosphate profits do not include the profits on the Company's Mica product. The Company has already sufficient demands on hand from large English firms, for all the Mica she can produce during the entire year and will yield handsome profits to the shareholder.

Phosphate is largely used as chemical fertilizer. Phosphoric Acid and Pharmaceutical Products. Mica is used for Electricity as a non conductor, also in manufacture of wall paper, and Ornamental decorations, also as fireproof material for wall and ceiling, etc.

It will be seen that this proposition is not like Gold or Silver Mining.

It will pay right from the start

The Company will start operating early in Spring, so as to be able to ship Phosphate and Mica when the navigation opens.

We are authorized by the "Progressive Mining Co., Ltd." to offer a limited number of shares.

AT 10 CENTS EACH

Until January 15th, after which date, they will be 15 cents

Don't wait till the Company starts operation or shipping as the shares will then sell not at 10 cents nor at 15 cents, but at 50 cents

You can buy the shares now at the same price as promoters generally buy them. Here is your chance.

Shares are Cash on all lots under 500 shares, lots of 500 shares and over are 50 per cent cash with order, the balance on application. Shares are allotted to the subscribers.

Prospectus will be sent free on application.

DONALD PREFERS DEATH TO LIVING IN COBOURG

Port Hope, Jan. 15.—Donald Turbot, who is 82 years old and unable to work, has become quite a familiar figure in the Port Hope police court, came back Tuesday morning on a charge of vagrancy. He pleaded guilty but asked for a chance. The magistrate reminded Donald that the town had furnished him with a ticket to Whitby and later with one to Peterborough.

"I admit that," replied Donald, "but I will put an end to myself before I will return to Cobourg."

A great many prefer death to spending any time in the eastern village. Three months in jail at hard labor was the sentence of the court.

SIAM TWINS NOT UNIQUE

The Noted Siamese Couple Dead 39 Years To-Day

Not long ago a dispatch announced the existence of a new pair of "Siamese Twins,"—the name long since known to twins who have the misfortune to be born united together by cartilaginous bands. The original Siamese Twins, who were exhibited all over America and Europe and were usually thought to be unique, died thirty-nine years ago to-day, Jan. 16th, 1874. United in life, they were not separated in death, and within two hours of each other they passed away.

Cham and Eng were the names of the pair, who were born in Siam about a century ago. They enjoyed all the faculties and powers usually possessed by separate and distinct individuals. They were discovered on the banks of the Siamese river by Robert Hunter, an American, who brought them to America. Later Capt. Coffin took them to England, and after being on exhibition several years, they returned to America and settled on a farm. There they married two sisters. In 1869 they again exhibited themselves in London, but returned to America, to die. The Siamese Twins were exhibited by their exhibitors to be unique, but this was far from the truth. According to the testimony of medical men, twins joined together have been born frequently, but seldom live long. Perhaps the most remarkable of such freaks, next to the Siamese Twins, were Millie and Christine, negroes, who were born in North Carolina six ty-two years ago. They were wholly distinct in the upper part of the body, but one in the lower part of the spinal column and pelvis, while the four legs obeyed nerves radiating from a common center. The will, understanding and all mental faculties were distinct. They did a singing and dancing "turn" in many cities, and were billed as the "two-headed nightingale."

Another famous pair were the Australian "Siamese Twins," Rose and Joseph. At last reports they had quit the stage and retired to their native country to live. Rose was said to be married and to be the proud mother of a normal baby.

Other famous freaks of a generation that revealed in the abnormal were Tom Thumb and his midwife wife. The "general" is dead, but his wife was reported not long ago to be still in the land of the living. Some years after the death of Tom Thumb, she married Count Mæri, another midwife. The Countess, if still living is now in her seventy-second year. Another famous midwife, "Admiral" Kohn, whose real name was Leopold Kohn, retired from the show business with a comfortable fortune and for many years resided at a hotel at White Plains, N.Y.

SKYROCKET FINANCIER GETS YEAR IN PRISON.

Robin, charged with larceny of $27,000, Allowed Clemency for Testimony Against Others.

New York, Jan. 15.—Joseph R. Robin, skyrocket financier, was sentenced Friday to serve one year in the penitentiary at Blackwell's Island for the larceny of $27,000 from the Washington Savings Bank, of which he was an officer. His light sentence was due largely to a plea for clemency made on his behalf by District Attorney Whitman.

Mr. Whitman based his plea on the aid which Robin had given him in prosecuting Charles H. Hyde, former city chamberlain, and Wm. J. Cummins, in connection with transactions with the defunct Carnegie Trust Company. Both Hyde and Cummins were convicted. Robin has spent twenty-two months in the Tombs since his indictment. There were eight indictments against him and he pleaded guilty to one. The other seven were dismissed.

A VERITABLE MINT BAILED FROM TAXI CAB.

Robt. McCord, on a spree, Puts up, Like a True Sport, a Heavy Fine For His Girl.

New Orleans, Jan. 15.—Robert McCord, a stranger from New York, proved to be a walking "mint" when arrested Thursday night by Corporal Reed of the First Precinct on a charge of being drunk. McCord had in his possession $188 in money and more than $2,000 in good checks.

McCord was on a lark with a pretty dame, Madeline Brunet. They engaged a taxi cab at 1031 St. Louis street and started on the "go ride." At Canal and Elk Place the climax was reached when Corporal Reed halted the taxi man for not having a light on the rear of his machine. He was taken to the First Precinct station, where he was properly booked and later taken before Night Recorder Batt and fined $2.50.

In the meantime the corporal "piked" into the closed taxi and there saw McCord. He was under the influence of liquor and unable to take care of himself. He was taken into the station and charged with being drunk. When searched the money was found on him. The girl appeared to be all right and was allowed to leave the station. Later she returned in an attempt to have McCord released. She was then taken into custody and held on a charge of being dangerous and suspicious. She was fined $20 or thirty days in Recorder Fogarty. Here McCord showed the spirit of a "sport" when he peeled off a crisp $20 yellow back and handed it over to the girl with the explanation that he did not want to see her punished.

SUFFRAGETTES REFUSE TO PLAY SECOND FIDDLE.

These Advocates for Votes for Women Refuse to Take Part in the Inaugural Parade.

Chicago, Jan. 15.—There will be no band of suffragists marching behind President Wilson and Mr. Taft in Washington, March 4. The plan has been dropped, it was announced here Sunday by officials of the National Woman's Suffrage Association. Instead, the suffragists will march through the streets of the national capital March 3, headed by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, Miss Jane Adams and Dr. Anna Howard Shaw.

In announcing their intention not to appear in the inaugural parade, the officials said that it was poor policy to play second fiddle to anybody.

"The inaugural parade is primarily an affair for the incoming president. What we are seeking to do is to attract attention to the woman's suffrage movement," they said.

THE CHINESE WOMEN DISCARD TROUSERS.

San Francisco, Jan. 15.—China town soon will lose all its old time picturesqueness. All daughters of the Orient have started upon a grand dressmaking bee.

The government edict has gone forth from Peking and is published in local Chinese papers that the trousers of old are to be discarded by Chinese women and their property garb shall be the occidental skirt.

The sumptuary edict bans not only trousers but the panna skirt as well. The edict also provides drastic changes for men's garments. The flock or cutaway coat is prescribed as the only business garb. The derby hat has the exclusive field for every day and the high hat for society. High calf-skin or low tan shoes are permitted the men, while women may wear any style of shoe.

The Chinese women have affected a loose costume, with wide trousers and auto caps. Silk has been abandoned and with it has gone much which made the Chinese quarter picturesque.

Think of it, friends!

Another year nearly gone.

Have you lost a mother or a relative?

If not possibly so before another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likenesses, and you will never regret it. In this case you get a real likeness—a work of art that will not lose its clear-cut lines and beauty.

Tells of Crisis in His Life and of How He Found the Right Path.

New York, Jan. 15.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., in addressing a large audience Sunday in the Y.M.C.A. building at Larrystown, which was made possible by a gift of $30,000 from his father, told of his faith in prayer and of how, when he faced the crisis of his life and happiness and usefulness to the world depended upon his decision, he prayed to God for four years, night and morning, to guide him on the right path.

Suddenly one morning before dawn had broken, he arose from his bed and lighted a lamp. He said the path of his life had been then, and there made as clear to him as though a sign was before him pointing out the right road for him to follow. He took his pen and there in the early morning committed himself to the life he should lead. What the crisis was or how he committed himself he did not say.

"No man can prove to me that there is nothing in prayers after my experience," he said. "God answered me."

Worry Over Pets Death Laid to Carbolic Acid.

Mrs. Bessie Wheeler, After Losing Her Dog, Cat and Monkey, Tries to Solve Death's Mystery.

New Orleans, Jan. 15.—Brooding over the loss of her three pets, a monkey, a dog and a cat, when fire destroyed her home more than a year ago, is given out by friends as the reason why Mrs. Bessie Wheeler, aged 41, of 514 South Roosevelt street, attempted to take her life Thursday afternoon by swallowing two ounces of carbolic acid.

The woman's condition in the Charity Hospital Friday morning was reported critical, and practically no hope is held out for her recovery, owing to the fact that considerable time elapsed between the time she drank the acid and the arrival of the Charity Hospital students.

When Mrs. Wheeler drank the poison she was in one of the front rooms of her home. Inmates of the house did not miss her until their attention was attracted by the woman's groaning. When they reached her side she appeared to be in a dying condition, and when the Charity Hospital students started work on her life was all but extinct.

SISTERS RISK THEIR LIVES TO RESCUE PETS.

Save Dogs, but Cats Are Barred in Old Whitey Homestead at Lyn.

Boston—Jan. 15.—Misses Laura and Adelaide Whitten risked their lives in attempting to rescue their pet dogs and cats when fire swept their home at 518 Western avenue, Lynn. They saved their two dogs, but were unable to rescue two beautiful cats, which were burned to death.

The house in which the Whittens lived was an old homestead and everything about it was dear to them, especially Mollie and Lucinda, two black fox terriers, and Jennie and William, the 11 year old cats. Yesterday Miss Laura awakened to discover her room full of smoke. Her first thought was of Mollie, and snatching the dog from the foot of her bed where she was sleeping, the woman made her way to the street.

Then, re-entering the house, she went to her sister's room, and awakened her. Together they carried Lucinda from the homestead.

In the meanwhile the cries of the women had aroused the neighbors and a telephone call brought the fire apparatus. The sisters waited to enter the house again, but were persuaded not to. Fearful that the cats were trapped they called upon the firemen to rescue them. Search was made for the pets, but they were burned.

GAVE HIS LIFE RATHER THAN SHIRK HIS DUTY.

Paris, Jan. 15.—The Abbe Marie Pujos de Coudray, military chaplain, died a few days since in circumstances which entitle him to the same of hero.

He was summoned at the Versailles military hospital to the bedside of an artilleryman who was dying of an infectious fever. Although aware of the danger, for the doctors warned him, he remained with the dying artilleryman until the latter succumbed. The same evening the chaplain, a robust man of thirty-five, was taken ill with similar symptoms of infectious fever, and within forty hours he also expired, a martyr to duty.

MANUEL STILL HOPES

Exiled King of Portugal Asks His Supporters to Trust Him

Former King Manuel, of Portugal, issued from Paris a manifesto for circulation in Portugal in which he declares the report that he has abandoned the cause, or deserted those who have devotedly served him in his fight for his lost throne.

"I cannot leave these stories undenied," the deposed King declared in the manifesto, "and I repudiate them in the most formal and categorical manner. The false reports are profoundly injurious to my character as a man, my patriotism as a Portuguese and my honor as a king."

Manuel goes on to say that he will always remain at the post of duty. Monarchism is not dead, and Portugal is dominated only by terrorism, which is the republic's sole force. He refers to the two years of revolution and anarchy which followed his downfall and assures the Portuguese exiles and those still in Portugal who are faithful to him that the flag of monarchy is still waving in his hands.

Funeral of a Hunting Man
A hunter bearing his master's riding-boots, hunting cap, and crop led the procession at the funeral of Mr. Nap Page, a Southdown farmer and a keen hunting man, at Edburton (Sussex).

Cannot Lose Gold Watch
Four times during twelve months a nurse at the Lewisham Infirmary lost her gold watch and chain while travelling, and each time they were returned, twice by Scotland Yard and twice by the railway company.

Borough Official's Suicide
After returning from a holiday, John Kendall, aged sixty-six, assistant-governor of West Ham, shot himself in a chicken coop. He left a letter stating that he feared he could no longer do any more work and intended to make away with himself.

No Holiday for Twenty-eight Years
The Duke of Devonshire, presiding at the Bakewell (Derbyshire) Rural District Council, persuaded the council to vote $80 to pay the holiday expenses of a highway surveyor who had been granted a month's leave after having gone without a holiday for twenty-eight years.

John Knox's Birthplace
Mr. David Loudon, who died at St. Andrews was a teacher at Morham near Haddington, for some twenty-seven years and championed the claim that the little castle where the birthplace of the great Scottish Reformer John Knox. He obtained many certificates of high antiquarian standing. The other claimants to the birthplace are the village of (Glasgow) some four miles south of Haddington, and Gifford, on the outskirts of Haddington.

Boys' Dangerous Toys
Discovering several gun-caps and cartridges left by workmen who had been blasting concrete beds at Warrington, two boys named Reginald Gidding and George Savage charged one of the detonators by means of a fuse. There was a terrible explosion, the cartridge having exploded within three feet. Gidding lost an eye and Savage had the middle finger of his left hand blown off.

"Greatest Ruin in Great Britain"
At the sitting of the Scottish Land Court at Kirk some amusement was caused by the replies of an applicant who claimed to be a landholder. He said his place was not a farm at all, it was nothing but rocks and quarries. He was a prize ploughman and he went to a neighboring holding to ground on which to practice ploughing matches. The dwelling was a pigsty. It was the greatest ruin in Great Britain.

Third Centenary of Brighton
Jean Oldaker, of Dyke Road Drive, who recently celebrated his 100th birthday, worked, when a boy, for Robert Evans, the carpenter, who was to be the funeral of "Adam Bede." Later he served as a soldier, porter, and stationmaster. By a coincidence the three centenaries of Brighton began their careers in the same year, 1813, when "Adam Bede" was called to the bar, Mr. A. A. Johnston was enrolled and Oldaker enlisted.

Bull Held up a Town
For two hours traffic in the best new centre of Burton-on-Trent was held up by an infuriated bull which had broken loose. After being pursued through the main thoroughfares, it entered the police-court.

"Monk's" Garb Burnt
An immense crowd of people from Mavan and neighboring districts assembled outside the house at Garra Gorta, Ireland, occupied by the man who has become known as "the Na van monk," and demanded that he should come forth. There had been previous disturbance at the place owing to the house having been, as alleged, opened as "a monastery." The garb worn by the man and other articles understood to belong to him were handed over to the crowd, who carried them to Mavan and burned them in the Fair Square. The monk left the house on the following day.

The Preserver of Prince Charles
Some time ago the Rev. Neil Macphail, parish minister of Kilmuir, directed attention to the neglected condition of the Flora MacDonald Memorial in the churchyard of Kilmuir, where the remains of the heroine lie. There was such a hearty response that the restoration of the memorial has been completed, and a marble tablet has been placed in the recess of the inscription block, upon which has been inscribed Dr. Johnson's eulogy. The preserver of Prince Charles Edward Stuart, will be mentioned in history, and, if courage and fidelity be virtues, mentioned with honor.

PERILOUS BOATING

British Sailor Unsuccessful in Proposed Trip to Stockholm

William Westlake, a London seaman, who attempted to sail from Dover, England, to Stockholm in an eight-foot outrigger boat, had to get in at Dunkirk after being buffeted and nearly swamped by a succession of gales which set in shortly after he started his perilous trip. It was with the utmost difficulty that he prevented his boat from sinking in the heavy seas that were running, being constantly engaged in bailing out water. After many hours of this perilous experience, during which the lonely voyager was at the mercy of the wind and sea and lost all he had in his little craft, he sighted a lightship. He started to make for it, but the vessel, which proved to be the Saxon Lightship, about half way between Dover and Ostend. Under the lee of the lightship Westlake rode out the storm in his small boat, and when the weather moderated he reached his voyage and reached the little port of Gravelines in a very exhausted condition. After resting there for a day he continued his voyage, but was again compelled to take refuge in Dunkirk, where he learned of the anxiety as to his safety, and abandoned the trip.

THE MOTHER

I had to stoop to do the tasks—tasks of love.
The bread to break, the softening babes to softly-fold.
The little feet to guide, the little hands to hold,
My thoughts were ever busy and mine eyes looked down.

I had to kneel for all the toll—the toll of love.
But glanced sometimes to skies my myrrour, my thoughts, and all my long ings where enthralled,
To where my dazzling white, outspelled
the Alp of snows.
My hands where ever busy and mine
eyes looked down.

The toll was very heavy for love's sake—for love's.
Myself, my thoughts, and all my long
ings where enthralled,
No more to me, in dreams, the old voices called.
My hands where ever busy and mine
eyes looked down.

Wayworn went I, leath my cross—myrrour of love, and all my long
ings where enthralled,
Nor glanced I more at skies my dreams made ever rose,
My sunnied Alp of dream that other Alp outspelled.
Of the love asked so much, love bore me faintly down.

By daily toll possessed, I sang no more of love.
At last the little feet could run—
could run alone,
At last the little hands withdrew from out mine own.
Forbye the travail for them—eyes that once looked down!

I can arise a little faint, love's tasks
all done,
And once again do I possess mine own mine own.
I hear the voices and the witchery wind blown,
I can look up once more and see the sun—the sun!

DOMESTIC TRAGEDY

An Insane Man Who Attacked Father, Mother, Sister and Brother

A terrible domestic tragedy is reported from the Coaticton town of Vancouver, where a carpenter, named Ignatius Kavor, in a fit of insanity, attacked his father, mother, sister and brother, all of whom were asleep at the time, with an axe. He subsequently was the father injured that he expired almost immediately. The mother and sister received ghastly wounds, but the brother was only slightly hurt, and took to flight. Kavor thereupon surrendered himself to the police, still holding the bloodstained axe in his hand. Shortly afterwards his brother again appeared on the scene, and Kavor immediately made a desperate attempt to rush upon him, but he was held back and bound down. The murderer, it is stated, had lived on bad terms with the rest of the family, and dissensions were frequent.

GIVEN AMATEUR CARDS

Several Western Athletes Reinstated by the M. A. A. A.

The Manitoba Amateur Athletic Association at a recent meeting reinstated several men who sought to have a clean sheet in the amateur ranks, among them W. J. Finlay and Frank Grace, who were professionalized a couple of years ago for playing an exhibition lacrosse (game against a Montreal team. J. Cornacian, trainer for the Britannia foot ball club two years ago, was given a card. J. Kidd, a pro, runner in the old country, was refused. W. H. Buss, a playground director, who related as soon as he heard that he would be professionalized, was reinstated to good standing. James Gordon, a hockey player who was professionalized some years ago was refused reinstatement.

BURNING STRAW A GREAT WASTE

Material for Cardboard and Packing Paper Factories—Feed it to Live Stock.

The Agricultural Department at Ottawa in its official Circular known as "Census and Statistics Monthly," says: "In the Northwest provinces the wasteful practice of burning the straw is reported as everywhere prevalent. In Manitoba, in most cases, wheat straw is either all burnt or partly used as litter and the rest burnt. Farmers near enough to Winnipeg and other towns sell it for bedding purposes. Oat and barley straw is nearly all used for fodder. In Saskatchewan most of the oat and some of the barley straw is used as fodder, but wheat straw and flax straw are burnt, except a small portion that is used as litter. It is a practice with many farmers who have cattle to let the animals feed at the straw piles all the winter, the straw left over being burnt in the spring. In a few cases farmers use straw burners. More live stock being kept in Alberta the straw in this province is largely used for fodder and litter, so that less is wasted by burning. As in Saskatchewan it is a common practice to allow cattle the run of the straw piles in the winter and burn the surplus in the spring. A correspondent reports that straw in his district was either all fed to farmers' own stock or was sold to ranchers, generally at $1 per cord. Another correspondent asks, why does not an enterprising concern start a factory for making cardboard and packing paper from straw as in European countries?"

"Wherever mixed farming prevails the necessity for straw burning disappears. It has frequently been pointed out that the keeping of live stock provides an important additional source of revenue to supplement the sometimes precarious returns from grain growing. It gives winter occupation and enables the employment of permanent instead of casual labor, and last but not from the national point of view by no means the least it secures the maintenance or increase of fertility through the necessary introduction of scientific rotations and the return to the land of manurial constituents by the use of straw as fodder and litter."

AN ALBERTA LESSON

Simon Downie & Sons Are Making Great Progress in Mixed Farming

The farm of Simon Downie & Sons east of Carleton Place, Alberta, is an object lesson of the possibilities in mixed farming in Western Canada. In their tract of land of a thousand acres there are four hundred hogs, big and little and one hundred head of pure bred and grade Herefords, all in fine shape and doing remarkably well. To raise sufficient feed for this number, which represents the average quantity on hand the year round, some seven hundred acres has been broken and is cropped to wheat, oats, barley and timothy. All grains are ground before being fed and in some cases are mixed with chopped green feed. The annual grain crop is something around twenty thousand bushels and practically all of it is fed on the place and at the present prices of live stock, good profits result. To facilitate the easy handling of these immense quantities of grain, a milling plant has been installed in one corner of the hog house, which measures forty by one hundred feet, operated from an eight horse power gasoline engine. A cutting box for green feed has been put in, as it is found that cattle do much better when the green feed is cut up into small lengths. Hogs have been found great money producers and are kept in sufficient numbers to absorb what grain is raised. The very best of results are obtained from feeding ground oats and barley and but six or eight weeks of heavy feeding are required to fit the hogs for the market.

VILLAGE WITHOUT PAUPERS

Wiltshire Hamlet Where Premier Often Reads Lessons

Easton Grey, a little Wiltshire village, is in the enviable position of being pauperless. There has not been one person for over a year in receipt of outdoor poor relief!

Easton Grey is proud of its blind vicar, the Rev. J. J. Horsford, who is not only a poet, but writes his compositions with his own hand. Many of his works have been published. This blind poet's calligraphy is beautifully even and firm, and may almost be said to reach the beauty of the old-fashioned "copperplate" handwriting.

Frequently during the year Mr. Horsford visits this small old-world village, and when he does so he not only partakes of lunch at "Mugby Junction"—a Charles Dickens called Swindon Station in the days of the Maidenhead and Brill—but he reads the lessons in the little parish church on Sunday, for the assistance of the vicar.

Close to Easton Grey village is the famous Poole Way, made by the ancient Romans, and adjacent to this is a small hill known as Poole Knoll. It is supposed to be the site of an old Roman station long since buried and obliterated, but Atkinson, the historian, wrote that this was the site of the city of "Whitewalls," and he alludes to the fact that "its masoned ramparts" and the "ruined foundations of the buildings within this area have been disclosed."

Some of the inhabitants of Easton Grey possess old opium and pieces of broken pottery, which have been found in the neighborhood.

The remains of the ancient earth-works—probably the precursor of the station—are still visible in Easton Grey Wood, situated between the knoll and the village.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sun State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

SLIPPED ON A GLACIER

A sixteen-year-old boy, named Walter Allant, living in London, had a narrow escape from death while descending the Gormer glacier from Gornegrat accompanied by his father. He slipped on the snow, fell 150 feet into a crevasse, and was only rescued after great difficulty. A party of guides carried him to Zermatt, where it was found that his only injuries consisted of cuts on the head.

A gentleman who witnessed a scrimmage with Suffragettes outside the Houses of Parliament voices the truth of the following story:—A woman carrying ten stones in a bag took up her stand in front of a window.

She threw one stone, she threw two stones, she threw three stones, she threw four stones, she threw five stones, she threw six stones, she threw seven stones, she threw eight stones, she threw nine stones, she threw ten stones, and then a man laughed.

She threw the tenth stone at the man and broke the window.

Important Innovation for Keeping "Tube" Air in Good Condition

The faded city man plagues for a breath of really fresh air no longer need rush off to the seaside for his ozone. Within a fortnight every station of the Central London Railway will have its own apparatus for mixing electrically produced ozone with the atmosphere at the platform level and in the adjoining "tube," so that its patrons can enjoy the health-giving elements while travelling to and from their offices. Some months ago the Ozoneair Company, Ltd., equipped the Bank Station with its patent ozone "tube" every minute from seven in the morning until one o'clock at night. As a result the acid, damp odor so noticeable in the some of the earlier "tube" systems has utterly disappeared.

A MOUNTAIN PARK
"Jasper Park" the name of five thousand acres of primeval forest in Alberta is described by J. W. McLaughlin, chief ranger as a place containing some very fine canyons, lakes, and water-falls intermingled in such a way that its beauty is beyond the power of pen to describe. Its future possibilities seem limitless. The wild animals include mountain sheep, goats, deer, bear, beaver, otter, marten, and fox. Fish, consisting of mountain and rainbow trout, jackfish, and whitefish, were reported plentiful in the lakes and creeks.

GUARDING MORALS OF UGANDA YOUTHS

Governor of One of Britain's Strange Colonies Says Clothes Bring Bad Habits

No late hours, no philandering, is possible to the young men of Eastern Uganda. Their morals are carefully looked after by the elder men of their tribes and they have no chance to go out at night. The people of Eastern Uganda are called Bakoli. Sir Hew Keth Bell, the Governor of Uganda, sent to the Colonial Office in London, a highly interesting report of a tour made by him through the country of the Bakoli. In this report he says: "Although the majority of the Bakoli go about in a state of absolute nudity, a desire for clothing is steadily growing among them. Unfortunately, more clothes mean less 'morals.' The Bakoli, who have always been greatly addicted to wearing apparel, are of notoriously lax habits, while among the Kavirondo the Bakoli and all the unclothed Nilotic tribes a notable degree of morality is found to exist. A sharp eye is kept on the bachelors. The northern Bakoli take amusing cautions with regard to the latter. All the lads and unmarried young men are made to sleep in small, specially constructed huts raised high in the posts of these huts are so small that the occupants have to wriggle in on their stomachs. Access is gained only by a ladder, which is carefully removed as soon as the young men have been safely disposed of for the night. I was told that among some of the tribes fine ashes are strewn under these human pigeon-holes so that telltale footprints would indicate any attempt at a nocturnal excursion."

GAVE BLOOD TO DAUGHTER

Toronto Father Yielded up Eight Ounces of Fluid to Sick Child

Some months ago a little girl, aged eight years, was brought to the hospital for sick children, suffering from stematitis, or bone decay in the leg. The patient had been losing strength gradually, and the surgeons of the hospital determined to give her blood, so as to improve her general condition. Accordingly, the father was notified of the suggestion, and he promptly offered to give about eight ounces of blood to his little daughter. The surgeon opened the radial artery at the wrist and connected it with one of the veins of an arm of his daughter, allowing the blood to flow into her veins. This continued for about fifteen minutes. By this time the daughter's vessels had become filled with blood, about eight ounces having been transferred from the father.

The operation was performed under a local anæsthetic, with practically no pain to either father or daughter, and with apparent ill effects to either. The father, after the operation, walked out of the operating room and went to his work as if nothing unusual had occurred.

Explorer Finds Much in Common Between Indians and Eskimos

Mr. Leyden, the young Scandinavian explorer, who has been studying the habits of the Eskimos and the Indians of North America, has a number of interesting exhibits including numerous gramophone records of the folk songs and languages of the Eskimos and Indians. He says that he is convinced that the Canadian Indians and the Eskimos were originally of the same stock and came to this country separately, either from Mexico or across the Behring Straits.

OLD MANSION BURNED

Carden Hall, a Beautiful Old Place in Cheshire, Destroyed

Of Carden Hall, Cheshire, one of the most picturesque old mansions in England, nothing remains but blackened ruins, the building together with its valuable pictures and furniture having been completely burned, the loss being estimated at $100,000.

Carden Hall, which was built in the sixteenth century in the black and white half-timber style of that epoch, was owned by the Cheshire family of Carden, but was occupied on lease by Colonel George Holdsworth, formerly commanding officer of the 7th Hussars. Col. Holdsworth lost a superb collection of Indian big game trophies and his jewels. Holdsworth lost his jewels. King George was more than once a visitor at Carden Hall, and Prince Arthur of Connaught was occasionally a guest of Col. Holdsworth.

THE KAISER'S GOVERNESS

War Lord Talked of Boyhood Days With Former Teacher

During his visit to Switzerland Emperor William of Germany talked for half an hour with Miss. Bulard, an old lady who was once his governess at the Prussian Court. The Kaiser recalled a number of juvenile pranks in the castle at Potsdam, when he himself pulled the legs of his governess under the table or made such extraordinary faces as brought the tears into her eyes with laughing.

He revived memories of the day when Prince Constantin and he hoisted the unhappy Princess Sophia on to the top of a cupboard, where she uttered piercing cries until rescued by the governess.

Big Cigarette Order

Emmanuel Michaels, aged 35, was sentenced to eleven months' imprisonment at London for attempting to obtain money by false pretences. He ordered twenty-five thousand cigarettes from a tobaccoist and a number of swords and overcoats from other firms, asking that the purchases be sent to His Majesty's Theatre, where he claimed to be employed. He tried to collect a commission from the dealers. Michaels pleaded in court that it was a mad freak on his part. He was out of employment, and being driven to do something, did this.

Chapel as Theatre

The work of reconstructing the historic old Methodist Chapel, Bangor, Wales, has been completed, with the result that instead of the grim old conventicle in Dean street, a handsome modern theatre, fully equipped up-to-date, appears in all the glory of new paint and electric light.

LITERATURE IN RUSSIA

Books That are Popular Among the Russian Children

Literature of the Sherlock Holmes and Nat Pinkerton type retains its popularity among Russian children for an interesting report to the Library Congress now being held in St. Petersburg, the following criticism, written by a Moscow schoolgirl, was quoted: "I adore Pinkerton. How brilliant! The picture of this prodigious man has consecrated his name to extermination of criminals, the plagues of the human race." Similar tributes are paid to Sherlock Holmes and Nat Pinkerton. Hans Andersen is the most popular author among Moscow children under 12 years old. Grimm comes second. The favorite foreign writers are Mrs. Beecher Stowe, Defoe, Jules Verne, Mar-Tain and Mayne Reid.

FROM MINE OWN FAMILIAR FRIEND

A Parlor Philosopher's Straight Talk to Men—Qualities of the Wise Man.

"Where ignorance is bliss 'tis folly to be wise." Yet all of us, sooner or later, have to forsake the blissful green fields of ignorance, and make our way by the hard and stony road of experience, to the chilly heights of wisdom.

There are many kinds of wisdom in the world, and a man's wisdom is made up of many parts. The best of it he achieves by experience, which is but another word for pain. That is to say, he learns what hurts himself, and therefore what is likely to hurt other people; and if he be a man of good heart, he takes care to limit the evil of his thoughts and actions.

Some wisdom he is wise enough to borrow from the experience of others. He may get it from men, and he may get it from books, but this is never a very deep wisdom, since pain has never driven it home. Wise men make precepts and fools repeat them; and a few-words of this sort in the world, but it won't help you to use it.

There are really two short-cuts to wisdom. The road that leads to it must be plodded over in faith and in modesty. It is a long road, for it has to be walked with a vision. Yet we know that it leads somewhere worth going to, and our stumbling footsteps ever lead us on with our eyes on the higher ground before us.

By sorrow we learn by wisdom we remember, by foolishness we forget. So it may be claimed that wisdom lives in a good memory.

We must find out our own wisdom, and steer our own course, each man by his own lights, for the dark sea of a man's doubts and fears show but one fixed light of Faith. If we would reach Wisdom Harbour, we must steer by this light, and not let the lights of other ships. There, too, may steer toward the same light; but sands may lie between us, and one man's wisdom may be another man's foolishness.

A wise man makes his path, and goes through the world, content with the present, and leaving the future to take care of itself. His judgments are lenient, for he has not forgotten the days of blood, and with a fooler.

He is sparing of advice, for he knows that, though all men are anxious to learn, few care to be taught. Yet all men, wise and foolish alike, have his ear, for he knows that even a fool may give good counsel, though it needs a wise man to take it.

He is modest, because he knows that a man only begins to learn something when he has realized that he knows nothing.

He is silent, because he knows that a mouth, like a door, does its best work when it is shut, and that where much is talked little is said.

He is cautious and moderate, because he knows that the easiest person in the world to deceive is one's own self, and that a man's worst enemy walks in his own boots.

He is merry, because he knows that a little jest often holds more truth than a great seriousness, and that solemnity is often but a mask for great stupidity.

Above all things, he is kind and gentle, for he knows that a wise heart is better than all the wise heads in the world, and that, though a man may be very worldly-wise, he may yet be heavenly foolish.

In toleration we may find the very essence of wisdom, which knows that the world, at best, is but a conglomeration, and that in its huge diversity no two men's brains are made to think alike.

In running the gauntlet of the huge army of the world's desires and temptations, the wise man uses his wisdom as a rope-walker uses his balance pole, constantly shifting his point of view to meet the ever-changing proportions of life. He finds that it is better to know that you think than to think that you know, so his mind is free from arrogance and over-certainty.

Therefore the wise man walks gently under the load of his wisdom, to play a modest and humble part in the world he loves, certain that he is making the best of such talents as he possesses, and content if he can manage to leave his world just a little better than he found it.

Red River Veteran Passes Away at Chippawa

The death of Thomas MacKlem, a former postmaster and prominent resident of Chippawa, occurred at the family home. Mr. MacKlem leaves, besides his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Benjamin Burns, of Chippawa, and Miss Gladys, at home, one brother, James P. of Chippawa, and two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Ponsette, of Detroit, and Mrs. Minnie Roebuck, of Toronto. Mr. MacKlem was postmaster at Chippawa for many years, the office having been handed from father to son. He was a member of the 44th and 100th Regiments, and served as a Lieutenant under Sir Garnet Wolseley in the Red River Rebellion in the Canadian North-West back in the seventies.

UNFINISHED EXECUTIONS

Coroner Says That in the "Good Old Days" Hanging Not Always Fatal

The old days when lawbreakers used to be strung on a gallows were recalled by the coroner at an inquest at Southwark. They used, he said, to be taken down by their relatives, and sometimes brought back to life.

These incidents were recalled at the inquest on James H. Ford, a market-gardener, who committed suicide by hanging. The coroner severely criticized Thomas Fisher who lived in the same house with Ford, and who found his hanging body.

"Thinking he was asleep," said Fisher, "I said to him, 'Good morning, Jim.' Then Fisher saw the rope, and was too unnerved, he said, to cut the body down, as he went for the police.

The coroner said that if he had cut the body down the man's life might have been saved. Before the introduction of the long drop gallows, he declared, whole rows of gallows were used to be anasthetized by slow strangulation, and their relatives would take their bodies down, and in some cases resuscitate them. Some of them lived to be "green old age."

Is Your Back Full of Aches All Day Long

That Stab-like Pain in the Back is Sure Indication of Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Anna Rodriguez writes as follows from her home in Valencia: "For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches. My condition grew steadily worse, my limbs became bloated and shaky, I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me. Such blessings of health and comfort I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills I can't describe. They speedily put me right, and their steady use keeps me active, energetic, strong and happy. I strongly urge others to regulate and tone their system with Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butterbur."

BERLIN, APING PARIS AS ALL-NIGHT CITY.
Hundreds of Thousands on the Streets from 11 p.m. to Breakfast Time.

Berlin, Jan. 15.—"Gay" Berlin this winter is "gay" than ever. The Berliners are more addicted to night festivity than they ever were. There are twice as many resorts catering to trade exclusively between midnight and dawn as there were two years ago, and apparently twice as many sleep-defying patrons, for each new establishments which flings open its doors seems to outdo its forerunners in highness and garishness and climbs to a dividend-paying basis in an astonishing short time.

The very latest concession to Berlin's claim to the title of "Metropolis of the Night" is the appearance of a newspaper which makes its appeal directly and deliberately to the night public. It is called "Das Kleine Nachtleben" (The Little Night Life). It rolls from the press about 10.30 o'clock, in time to catch the throng pouring into the restaurants and cafes after theater.

As there are anywhere from 250,000 to 500,000 people at work enjoying life between 11 p.m. and breakfast-time in Berlin, "Das Kleine Nachtleben" has possibilities of circulation are not small.

COURT ORDERS THE ARREST OF INTERNATIONAL BANK MANAGER

Judge Leet This Afternoon Issues Warrant Also For Every Director Who Signed Return to The Government

Montreal, Jan. 16.—The much-delayed decision of Judge Leet on the application of certain Paris shareholders of the Banque Internationale du Canada to have warrants issued against some of the officials of the bank for making a false return to the Government, was rendered this afternoon.

When the application was made in October, counsel for the officials asked their clients to be given an opportunity to put in a defence. This was allowed.

Then certain of the appellants evaded a desire to drop the whole case as arrangements had been made to buy out their share interests, this caused more delay. Judge Leet finally insisting that he must deliver his decision.

The application is the sequel to the civil proceedings which were taken to disclose Canadian directors appointed in place of Paris directors at the last annual meeting of the bank. The application for an interim injunction to restrain the Canadian directors from acting, was refused by Judge Beaudin.

All the sessions in connection with the application before Judge Leet were held in camera.

Judge Leet in his decision, said a warrant should be issued against Godfrey Bird, general manager of the bank, and every director who signed the return to the Government.

Judge Leet further said that he would allow the case to be reopened so that the defence could be heard before going any further, and promised that all proceedings should be public.

Judge Leet also referred to the negotiations between the Bank Internationale and "another Canadian bank," understood here to be the Home Bank, as a reason for delaying his decision.

TO KEEP "MOVIES" OPEN ALL OVER CANADA ON SUNDAYS

Winnipeg, Jan. 16.—A movement has been inaugurated here which has for its object the opening of motion picture theatres here and in other Canadian cities on Sundays for the presentation of select films.

Commencing last Monday and continuing for four weeks, patrons of local picture theatres will have the privilege of voting on the proposal. If a majority favor Sunday pictures in Manitoba, the Motion Picture Exhibitors' Association which was recently organized, and includes all men in the business, will take steps to interest the exhibitors in other Eastern and Western cities with the idea of presenting a solid front in the application by petition to Parliament and to the Provincial Legislatures for the necessary amendments to existing legislation.

The local men say, their preference is for keeping the theatres closed on Sundays, but they wish to meet the requests of their patrons. They would favor a very strict censorship of Sunday films which would be limited to religious, historical and educational subjects, with sacred songs. Blood and thriller dramas would not be sanctioned.

They would not permit advertisement posters and unsightly lighting effects and would give employees one day off each week. Cheap vaudeville would not be allowed.

NO CONCESSION TO CANUCKS RECIPROCITY ALTERS SITUATION

Paper Importers Urge Other Countries be Given Equal Tariffs—Paper Men Angry

Washington, D.C., Jan. 16.—The House Committee on Ways and Means called no evidence to-day in connection with the Democratic revision of the Payne tariff.

Such hearings as were held were devoted to excise cases and for the remainder of the day the committee was in executive session.

To-morrow, however, will be a field day.

The schedules listed for consideration are tobacco and manufactures, and pulp, papers and books in the latter connection.

Some interesting evidence is anticipated particularly as the schedule affects Canadian interests so closely.

Already a number of paper importers have filed their briefs.

Several New York firms, in a joint brief, claim that the present free entry from Canada of paper valued at not above four cents per pound, benefits only a small number of American capitalists, who own large portions of forest land and paper mills in Canada.

If free entry not repealed.

"If free entry from Canada is not repealed," they add, "then international obligations as well as fairness and justice demand that free entry of paper valued at not above four cents per pound be extended also to all other countries."

WILL EXPOSE LATE GOVT., DREDGING POOL

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—Hon. Robert Rogers, Minister of Public Works, has decided to make a thorough investigation into the dredging contracts of the former Government.

High Stewart, K.C., of Brockville has been appointed to make a most exhaustive probe before the Public Accounts Committee, and in view of the fact that no less than thirty million dollars were paid out for dredging contracts during the past ten years, some sensational disclosures are expected.

Contractors Fixed Prices.

A few weeks ago the Public Service Commission, in making its report, stated in effect, there had been a series of "frame-ups" between contractors who have fixed it up between themselves to secure particular jobs. Several tenders could be submitted for each contract and there was really no competition, as the prices were fixed between the companies.

The department was thus in a position to say that there was competition and the lowest tender was accepted, when in reality everything was arranged beforehand.

URGES CANADIANS TO EAT MORE CHEESE

Woodstock, Jan. 16.—Convention visitors were welcomed by Mayor McLeath and Mr. J. E. Fidler, president of the Board of Trade, at the third session of the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association, held in the Opera House last night.

The meeting was of a somewhat impromptu character owing to the enforced absence of Hon. Martin Burroughs, Hon. James Duff and Mr. E. W. Nesbitt, M.P., who were expected to deliver addresses.

In an interesting paper, "What is Cheese?" Prof. R. Hargrave, of Guelph, reviewed the history of cheese from the time of King David dealt with its food value and advised that Canadians should use larger quantities in their diet.

"Skim milk," he said, "is absolutely the cheapest source of protection for the constituents that make good calves and hogs, and should make good men and women, too."

AMERICAN-JAPANESE SISTERS IN THIS COUNTRY TO STUDY

Four daughters of Edward J. King, American Consular representative at Hakodate, Japan, who is known to the Japanese as the "hardwood king" by reason of his enterprise in timber, have arrived at San Francisco, Cal.

The girls are to attend the College of Notre Dame, at San Jose, Cal., for about three years, at the expiration of which time their parents will establish a residence in the States. On the voyage across the Pacific the travellers were looked after by Robert E. Heun, who is associated in business with their father.

The mother of the girls is a Japanese, who was educated at the Notre Dame College in Shanghai. The girls range in age from eleven to sixteen years, and their names are Dorothy, Alice, Margaret and Annie. Already they have mastered several languages and have talent vocally and at the piano. In entertainments held aboard the steamship the girls took a prominent part. Mr. King was captain of a vessel in oriental waters prior to his marriage. His wife is connected with a wealthy and prominent Japanese family. He has held the diplomatic post for a score of years and is interested in various enterprises, principally in the exportation of hardwood. This industry he practically controls, according to Heun.

There is a bit of romance attached to Heun's homecoming. He is to marry Mrs. Frances B. Gorwa, daughter of Richard Campbell, of Richmond, Ind., where the wedding will soon take place.

While going out to the Far East several years ago Heun met his fiancée, who was making a pleasure tour. Heun expects to take his bride to Japan following the nuptials.

OPERETTA WITH LOCAL TALENT

"Alice in Wonderland" Well Staged, Costumed and Played at The Grand

Last night the Grand Opera House contained one of the largest audiences that has assembled there in many a day. The attraction was the operetta "Alice in Wonderland," presented by local talent. This dramatization of that clever child's book was perfectly successful. The costumes were colorful and elaborate. Those taking the various parts demonstrated the intellectual and untiring efforts of Miss Young who acted as instructor. The children taking part were well up in their songs and parts taken. Among those who helped to make "Alice in Wonderland" the success it proved, are the following:

Alice King, Maud Conners, Charles Parsons, Queen (friend), Miss Helen Rochester, Hattie (friend), Frank Pidgeon, March Hare (friend), Wilbur Irvine, Dormouse (friend), Donald Loukes, White Rabbit, Jack Renwick, Executioner, John Bethick, Caterpillar, Karl Walden, Frog (footman), G. MONEY PAID OVER

C.P.R. Settles With City Trust for Water Front Property.

Yesterday, Mr. G. W. Hutton, solicitor for the C.P.R. paid over the sum of $9,000 to the City Trust, in settlement for the water front along the river near the gas works.

The company has already purchased the W. English property, and has also settled with the Peterborough Cereal Co., who had a claim against them for their siding.

FIRST MEETING ROYAL ASTRONOMICAL SOCIETY

The Royal Astronomical Society, Peterborough Centre, held its first meeting in the Collegiate Institute Hall last night, when Mr. H. Westcott, of Guelph, President of the Guelph Centre, was to have spoken on "The Adaptability of Life to Its Surroundings, and the Possibility of Life to Be Seen in Other Worlds."

A wire was received from Mr. Westcott, stating that illness prevented his attending.

Rev. Dr. Marsh gave a lecture on the various theories regarding sun spots. In the early days, it was supposed that the sun was clear and bright all over the surface, and at all times, but even with the naked eye black spots were seen and various explanations and theories regarding these were given. It was supposed that they were planets coming in between the earth and the sun. Others thought it was cloud passing between the earth and sun, and at a latter stage, it was thought that these sun spots were occasioned by a foreign matter falling upon the sun's bright surface. Others thought it was a solid body covered with luminous atmosphere and the spots were the mountain peaks protruding through the luminous surface.

More recently again, there were those who held the theory that the body of the sun was a dark gaseous mass under heavy pressure with illuminous atmosphere, and the sun spots were rifts in this luminous atmosphere, permitting the observer seeing through these rifts to the dark body of the sun.

Dr. Marsh showed how these various theories were not correct, and presented the following as the most recent: That the sun spots were the accumulation of the cooler gases assembling to return to the body of the sun to be reheated.

At the close of the meeting a number of questions were asked and answered.

CANADA WILL HAVE PARCEL POST ON SOUND FINANCIAL BASIS

Postmaster-General Makes Guarded Announcement—Canadian Merchants Now Placed at Disadvantage—Zone System Likely

Ottawa, Jan. 16.—Canada will make a beginning with a parcel post system; but Canada will walk warily. Canada will profit by the experience which the United States post office is acquiring just now; but Canada will study that experience and will make no leaps in the dark. Canada, in due time will give the public a great extension of postal facilities; but Canada will not imperil the present excellent financial position of her post office. Such is the burden of the guarded statement made by Mr. Pelletier to-day.

A Former Conservative Cries.

The parcel post is one of our hardy annuals. We discuss it every year, though it gives signs of wearing out. For this month-backed Tory Government of ours shows signs of taking the subject up and doing something with it, to the great injury of its usefulness as a subject for M.P.'s to talk about. It has in the past been as comfortable a subject for an annual afternoon's talk as you could desire. Time was when it was the Conservative member who got in and emitted out the eddies of figures which proved that other countries were in the parcel post swimming hole and that the water was hot, and it was our own Mr. Lemieux who arose, prophesied smooth things, and said he had his eye upon the question. It was an agreeable sight to-day to see Mr. Lemieux raise the question, story statistics about until he was knee deep in them, and clamor for parcel post at once. And it was a Conservative Minister who made the polite and careful answer. The situation had its poignant elements.

Mr. Pelletier Means Business.

However, there were two new features of the situation, one is that the Americans on New Year's Day inaugurated a parcel post, so that Canada will be bound either to adopt a system of her own or to sustain a measure of disadvantage. The other was that Mr. Pelletier evidently means business. The discussion—which was precipitated by Mr. Lemieux—came at an awkward time, and he spoke as a man who is working on a subject, and has not quite got ready to speak.

This was private members' day, and the House dispatched a multitude of motions, mainly for the production of papers, before the order of resolutions was reached. High on the list was one of Mr. Lemieux's, affirming the advisability of establishing a system of cheap parcel post, and Mr. Lemieux brought it forward.

PARTIES OUT IN FORGE FOR VOTE ON HOME RULE MEASURE

Scenes of Great Animation In and Around the British House of Parliament When Final Stage Was Reached in Commons—Predicted Government Will Have Majority

London, Jan. 16.—Although it was confidently predicted that a straight party vote the Government would have a majority of more than 100, there were scenes of great animation in and around parliament to-day when the final stage of the Home Rule bill in the Commons was entered upon. All parties were present in force.

John E. Redmond's band of Irish Nationalists, Liberals, Laborites, and Conservatives, only the sick and those who had been paired, were not present.

In the full House of 670 members, the Government coalition—Liberals, Laborites and Nationalists—has a majority of 108, but one of two Liberals were expected to vote against the bill or obtain altogether when the final vote is taken to-night about 10.30 o'clock.

At present the various parties are said to be lined up like this: Liberals 264, Laborites, 40, Nationalists 76, Independent Nationalists 6, and Conservatives 282.

Shortly after 2.45 p.m. Speaker Lowther took the chair, and although the usual baiting of Ministers at question time produced several amusing verbal encounters, the House impatiently awaited the assumption of the crucial debate.

LOCAL BANKER HAD BAD TRIP

Mr. H. W. Dobbie Relates Thrilling Experiences Aboard Ship

FIRE AND A WRECK

Member of Bank of Montreal Staff Enroute, Aboard S. S. Cedric, Storm, Fire, Wreck, Love-Making and a Dangerous Man.

Mr. W. H. Dobbie, of the local Bank of Montreal staff, has returned from a few weeks' visit with his mother in England. During his return trip on the White Star liner "Cedric," to New York Mr. Dobbie had some thrilling experiences. Last Saturday, whilst about 800 miles from New York, the Cedric sighted the crippled steamer Abyssinian. The Abyssinian, whilst her machinery and wireless telegraph apparatus were out of commission, was still afloat and in safe condition. The officers of the Cedric brought their ship in to juxtaposition to the disabled liner and offered assistance. The Cedric, which is a mail boat, could not, by law, take the Abyssinian in tow. However, the former's wireless was quickly put busy and this resulted in a response from another ship that precluded any chance of danger to passengers, freight or the stricken ship.

Another incident of Mr. Dobbie's trip was that among the passengers was an old man, over 70 years of age, who became enamoured of a fellow passenger, a young woman about 22 years of age. The septuagenarian wanted to marry the girl and asked the captain of the Cedric to allow the ceremony to be solemnized. The captain, after humming and hawing, replied that as the ship was approaching the United States shores, and he only had jurisdiction under the English laws, he would not permit such a nuptial knot to be tied aboard his ship. When the Cedric arrived at New York, the venerable lover was deported to England. In addition to these stirring events,

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

OWING to the fact that so many new industries are locating around Ruskin Place, an interesting calculation has been made of what an industry employing 1,000 hands means to a community. $90,000 would be spent in housing accommodation. The population would increase by 5,000. The assessment would be augmented by $600,000. Salaries would amount to $559,800. The construction of buildings of all kinds would be $2,000,000. The annual expenditures for foodstuffs would be $63,000 for meat, $96,000 for potatoes, $5,000 for sugar, $18,250 for milk, $65,700 for butter, $27,600 for eggs. All told the farmers of the district would gain $221,600. The amount spent for clothing would be $167,750. The expenses for taxes added to the cost of building construction will amount to $2,428,350.

The fine new $40,000 plant of the Bishopric Wallboard Co., is now built at Ruskin Place. A second industry to employ 300 hands at its inception has already purchased the required land while a third guaranteeing to employ 1,000 hands is now negotiating for enough land to commence operations.

JUST THINK of the number of stores to be built there.

JUST THINK of the number of carpenters,

bricklayers, stonemasons and other tradesmen altogether separate from the number of employees in the different factories that will be needed to build homes for those who work there.

JUST THINK of the thousand and one different jobs of any and every kind that will spring up at Ruskin Place during the next few years and buy your homestead now so as to be one of the main few who got in on the ground floor.

RUSKIN PLACE offers one of the finest and best opportunities for speculation ever presented to the residents of Peterborough.

USES TOES TO PILOT BOAT

Man Without Arms is One of the Most Skillful of His Profession in the World.

Vacation visitors at Grand Isle, in Lake Champlain, have been much interested in Charles A. Lutz, who is without arms and is yet a capable boat pilot. He claims to be the only armless pilot in the United States. He operates a 25-foot power boat easily and skillfully, carrying passengers about the different lake resorts.

When Lutz appeared at the office of the inspectors in Burlington, Vt., and asked for a pilot's license the inspectors thought he was disqualified by physical disability. However, they put the matter up to the commerce and labor departments in Washington. Word came back from Washington that if the inspectors were convinced Lutz could handle the job to give him a license and let him try it.

Lutz took the inspectors for a ride in his boat. They went around a dangerous breakwater and passed a tug. The man piloted the craft without a bit of trouble. When finally the inspectors saw him take the engine to pieces with his toes and handle a wrench with them as well as most mechanics would with their hands they granted his license. Their wisdom in doing so is indicated by the fact that he has not had an accident this season.

Lutz lost his arms when a child in the west.

Longevity is Greater.
Since 1900, nine years have been added to the life of the average Washingtonian. Figures showing this was yesterday made public by the district health department. They were taken from a chart prepared by Dr. Arthur L. Murray to be part of the district's exhibit at the international congress on hygiene and demography.

That the average Washingtonian has gained nine additional years in the last twelve is due, partly, to better sanitary conditions, and, partly, to a reduction in the rate of infant mortality. The average Washingtonian lives to the ripe old age of forty-one years, one month, and sixteen days; in 1900 he died at thirty-two years, two months, and twenty-four days.

If the average Washingtonian persists in gaining nine years in every twelve, the Society and Oldest Inhabitants will be the most important body in the district by the year 2000.

"A Progressive Peterborough."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Dr. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard, also says there is no hell. This fellow would like him to tell us what it is a man gets when his wife catches him hugging the nurse-girl.

Yesterday a small piece of ice caused a general alarm to fall and burst his head, so hard that he fractured his hat and several unharmed fables in slang. "The wicked sometimes do walk in slippery places."

Jacques Seligmann, sailing for Paris, proposes a New York "gallery of lakes," that American picture buyers may learn to tell good paintings from bad. He seems to forget their large possession of European pot-bellies.

It might be unfair to say that prominent as on the increase in Peterborough, but at any rate it is far more than it ought to be. We are not nearly so bad in this way as many other cities of the continent, but we are far from being as clean-mouthed as we ought to be.

The other day Harry Thaw was brought to New York to testify in court but declined to spend a night in town, preferring to return to Matteawan asylum. This is the strongest proof of his sanity that he has yet offered.

With such stars in the council as Bill Bradburn, Bill Johnston, Bill Langford and Bill Buller, saying nothing at all about the host of other Bills in connection with the local municipal service, Peterborough is in a fair way to become known as the Tribe of Bills.

There is glowing optimism in Bishop Joseph F. Berry's declaration that for one he does not mourn over wars and rumors of wars, because they bring nearer the era of peace. When right U.S. baseball managers' salaries aggregate $100,000, a new light falls upon the high cost of fanning.

THE COST OF WAR

It has been taken for granted that the introduction of modern armaments, equipment and methods has largely increased the cost of war. Yet if some figures submitted on the cost of the Balkan war are to be accepted at their face value, the increase cannot be as great as was supposed.

It is estimated by European authorities that the cost of this latest war has reached a total of $72,000,000. The war was begun nearly three months ago and the heavy expenses were only curtailed when the armistice was signed and fighting was suspended. The armies are still in the field and the cost of maintaining them continues to be a heavy drain.

When it is remembered that the civil war in the United States, when in full swing, cost the Federal Government $1,000,000 a day, a total cost of $72,000,000 for three months' war in South-eastern Europe seems small. It is true that the civil war was a far greater conflict, not only in the number of men involved, but in the extent of the war zone. Nevertheless, the money cost of war fifty years ago was only a fraction of what it is today, according to all authorities.

The Italian government has just made public a statement placing the cost to Italy of the Italo-Turkish war at nearly $95,000,000. That was lasted almost precisely one year, but it was not marked by any great campaigns and must have been a cheap war as modern wars go. It is also stated that Russia has spent $120,000,000; Austria $400,000,000 and Germany, France, Italy and Great Britain combined $130,000,000 merely in preparation for the eventuality of war as the result of the Balkan disturbances. If these figures are right it is hard to understand how the estimate of the Balkan war expense account can also be correct.

WOULD ABOLISH TITLES

J. H. Burnham, M.P., would abolish the present system of conferring titles of honor in Canada. He gave notice of a bill designed to accomplish that end. It is entitled "An Act to abolish titles of honor in Canada."

Mr. Burnham explained his proposal in characteristic fashion. "This is a democratic country," he asserted, "and knighthoods are contrary to the spirit of the democratic institutions. There should be no class distinctions. I should not attempt in any way to interfere with the prerogative of the King. If His Majesty wishes to knight any one well and good, but I maintain that the government should not recommend any one for honors and that no honorary titles should attach to specific positions. A man who is about to obtain a knighthood very often is tied down and not able to express opinion, whereas, if he had no such intention he would be able to cut loose."

5 Years' Throat Trouble And Influenza Cured

EMINENT DOCTORS FAILED TO CURE—HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

Millard Haven, Da., Dec. 31.—Everyone in this neighborhood knows of the long suffering from influenza and catarrh endured by Mrs. D. Gurney. To-day she is well. Her recovery is due entirely to Catarrh-rhine. This is her own statement: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh in the head, throat and nose, and endured the manifold tortures of influenza for five years. My life was despaired of. Catarrh was undermining my strength very fast. I used treatments from eminent doctors, but all failed to cure me. I had given up hope of ever being well. Then I read of a wonderful cure made by Catarrh-rhine. Immediately I sent for Catarrh-rhine, and before I had used one bottle I was greatly relieved. To-day I am cured. We would not be without Catarrh-rhine in our home. It is so sure in colds, coughs, bronchitis and throat trouble. I feel it is my duty to publicly recommend Catarrh-rhine."

Get the large dollar size of Catarrh-rhine; it contains a beautiful barrel rubber inhaler, and medicine that lasts two months. Smaller sizes, 25c and 50c each. Beware of imitations—accept only Catarrh-rhine, sold by all reliable dealers or by mail from The Catarrh-rhine Company, Kingston, Ont., and Buffalo, N.Y.

AN ENNISMORE PATIENT.

A resident of Ennismore told The Times the following. Some two weeks ago a farmer's wife of that township who had been ill for some time sent a hurry-up call to the city for a doctor. Dr. Esculapius, on arrival, was told by the old lady that she had swallowed her false teeth and was suffering severe pain in her tummy. The doctor, non-plussed by this calamity, gave her a sedative and, returning home, thought over an X-ray investigation. However, he drove out next day to find his patient well and in good humor. In response to his inquiry, the patient explained: "I'll tell you, doctor, I was sure I had swallowed them teeth. I remembered, after you had left, that I had put them on the floor under the bed. When Jim came to bed he found them when he took off his boots!"

THE ATTACK ON SCHOOLS

What The Separate Schools of Ottawa Are After A CONSTANT AGITATION

Nothing Short of a Demand that all Education Should be Under the Control of the Church of Rome.

The efforts of the Separate school trustees at Ottawa to secure for their public schools a proportion of the taxes paid by the public utilities of the city is another illustration of the unsatisfiability of the supporters of that system. From 1855, when the "Tache Roman Catholic Separate School Act" was passed and which was accepted by Bishop de Charbonnel, representing the Roman authorities, has a finality there has been maintained a constant agitation for additional privileges.

The legislators should understand that there is no utility to the demands of Rome with regard to education short of a recognition of that clause in the Syllabus of Pope Pius IX, which declares that all education should be under the control of the Roman Church.

The history of Separate schools in Ontario abounds with instances, in which those representing the papacy accepted promised legislation as final, and to the same extent it is abounded with repudiations of these acceptances. A striking instance of this kind is contained in a letter written by the late Sir John A. Macdonald to the late Dr. Byrnes, on the 8th of June 1855, in which he said: "Our Separate School Bill was passed with the approbation of your friend, Bishop de Charbonnel, and, who, before leaving here, formally thanked the administration for doing a justice to his church. He has, however, got a new light since he has returned to Toronto, and now says that the bill won't do."

It must be remembered that the Bishop represented his church, and gave his approval officially to the bill in question. But no sooner was it passed than he declared the concessions to be insufficient. The late Dr. J. G. Hodgins, who compiled the work on Separate schools, says in his book: "It was such a new light as this which invariably broke in upon the promoters of Roman Catholic Separate Schools."

The same influences are creating turmoil and distress in the Province of Ontario yet. Their latest demands for a share in the taxes of public utilities is one that should not be considered for a moment. The figure and Public school supporters forget the fact—that the Separate schools are sectarian. They exist as a special privilege granted to one religious denomination. These schools were granted upon the plea that Roman Catholics wanted to apply their own money to maintain their own system of religious education. The Public schools exist for them as much as for Protestants. No Roman Catholic child suffers through attending a Public school. But no Protestant child can attend a Separate school. It is therefore eminent justice and fair that the taxes of public utilities should be applied for the maintenance of the non-sectarian schools.

It would be a monstrous injustice to deplete the revenues of a Public school system by handing any portion of such taxes over for the maintenance of sectarian schools. If they are successful in securing this concession in Ottawa, it will be used as a lever to wrest similar concessions from other municipalities. It is important that the friends of the Public school should appreciate the nature of the attacks that are being made upon it, and the increasing necessity for the utmost vigilance to protect the interests of the public system.

REQUEST REWARD FOR THE DEAD MURDERER.

Quincy Policemen Who Found Body of Restelli Epitaph Legislature.

Boston, Jan. 15.—The question whether a reward offered for the apprehension of a murderer is payable for the finding of the dead body will be raised by Policeman Patrick A. Milford of Quincy and James E. Quayle of Braintree, in a petition to the legislature. The petition asks that the state be allowed to pay the reward offered in the case of Louis G. Restelli, who on July 29, 1910, murdered his mother and Henry G. Hardwick, of Quincy, also shooting his brother, and two other men.

The amount promised by the state for the apprehension of the murderer was $500, a like sum was offered by the city of Quincy, and the Hardwick family undertook to pay $200 for the murderer's arrest or $100 if he was discovered dead. Two months later, in a water-filled quarry hole off Quarry street, the policemen found the body of Restelli, with handcuffs on the hands and the feet weighed with two hammers which had been tied to them. An Epitaph appropriating the $500 offered by the city for the apprehension of Restelli was brought in the city council on Nov. 7, 1910, and was referred to the mayor with the request that he get the opinion of the city solicitor as to the rights of the city.

GLOOMY PROPHETIES.

French Oracle Says This Will be a Year of Blood.

Paris, Jan. 16.—Paris is busily engaged in studying the pages of Madame de Thebes' prophetic almanac, which is published every year. Her forecasts are looked forward to with a degree of anticipation and interest which goes to prove that France has by no means outlived its superstitious beliefs.

Madame de Thebes predicts that 1913 will be a famous year for France. The vital problems of a dwindling population will be satisfactorily solved, and births will considerably exceed deaths. But it will be a tragic year for French actors and actresses, says the sibyl. Furthermore, "the vexed question of foreigners in France will be a cause of much controversy and agitation, and on this question the artistic world will be out in town." (Gloomy things are promised for the Old World. "Let those," she exclaims, "who have courage be prepared to show it, since never will our land be so much needed, as in 1913 will be a year of blood." Then Madame de Thebes categorically asserts there will certainly be a new Pope and very likely a new King of Italy. Russia is to undergo a hard awakening before the close of the year, and Poland will be face with the sheldrake of blood.

APPLICATION TO PARLIAMENT

NOTICE is hereby given that the Corporation of the City of Peterborough will apply to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the next session thereof, for an Act for the following purposes:

1. To authorize the Council of the said City to issue Debentures, to retire Debentures for which, by the Acts providing for the issue of same, a sinking fund for the purpose was not authorized to be raised.

2. To amend section 27 of Chapter 101 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario passed in the year 1908 to render it unnecessary for the Mayor to sign coupons attached to Debentures and to permit the signature of the Treasurer thereto to be by his lithographed, engraved or stamped signature.

3. To amend Chapter 71 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario passed in the year 1899 by repealing sub-section (2) of section 2 thereof.

4. To amend Chapter 117 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario passed in the year 1912 to make it clear that the Corporation of the said City may appropriate all the rights of work and property of the Peterborough Light and Power Company (limited) of any part thereof.

5. To amend the Statutes of the Province of Ontario relating to the City of Peterborough to provide that the Corporation may without acquiring the plant of the said Peterborough Light and Power Company, engage in the generation, distribution, supply and sale of electric energy for all purposes.

6. To authorize Debentures payable with 20 years from the date thereof and bearing interest at the rate of four and three quarters per cent. per annum to be issued under By-Law Number 1702 of the Corporation, being a By-Law to provide for borrowing $10,000 for an incinerator for the disposal of garbage.

The amount of the rateable property of the Municipality is the sum of $4917,222 and the existing Debenture debt exclusive of local improvement debts payable by local special rates is the sum of $1,318,008.96.

DATED Peterborough this 15th day of January, 1913.

F. H. D. HALL,

Solicitor for the Applicant.

THE ISSUE IN ONTARIO

Bilingual Schools Will Probably Be to The Fore

Toronto, Jan. 16.—The Orange Sentinel, in its issue of this week, says that the issue in the next Ontario election will be bilingual schools. The Whitney Government will lay emphasis on its stand for an efficient English school system.

"We believe that Sir James Whitney's course has strengthened him with the electors of this province. He has not persecuted the French people. He has taken action calculated to equip French children for the battle of life. Only by giving them a thorough grounding in the English language can they be put on equal terms with their fellow-Canadians of Anglo-Saxon origin. The laxity in enforcing the school regulations permitted for many years, as Bishop Fallon declared, was making the French a race of underlings. Sir James is seeing to it that the French children are given a chance. In natural ability they are not behind any others. What they require is a common school education in the language of trade and commerce, and as much liberty as they like to learn and speak their mother tongue in their own homes.

The talk of persecution is absurd. The government is not declaring war on helpless children and teachers. It is simply affording proof of its own sincerity, and its unwillingness to be the tool of a comparatively insignificant association of malcontents.

This association has been trying to browbeat school trustees into defiance of the law and into spurning the government grants made contingent on their obedience. They have sought to intimidate the teachers by ordering them not to sign any pledge to observe the regulations. They have stirred up some sections of the French community to insult the supervising inspectors appointed by the government, and have caused the children to march out of the schools when the inspectors have entered to perform their duty. In so doing, the association has declared war on the government, and its members have shown themselves to be blinded by race prejudice to even common courtesy and decency. They have placed themselves in the position of rebels, with whom a government cannot treat, but who must make an unconditional surrender. The denunciation of these malcontents sent to the Parliament Buildings at Toronto, to demand their rights, came as an invading army, but they tackled the wrong man when they embarked on a campaign of bluff and bluster against Sir James Whitney.

As a matter of fact, things have gone too far for Sir James to recede. He has decided to make a careful investigation into the inefficiency of the school system in French and bilingual districts and he made a straightforward declaration of policy. Since then he has adopted only such methods as were necessary to put into effect the policy announced to the country. He has again demonstrated that he is a man of his

FINE HOODED SEAL

Eight-foot Specimen of the "Bladder Nose" Variety at University

A fine specimen of the hooded seal, or "bladder nose," as it is called by the sealers, has just been placed on exhibition in the Biological Museum at Toronto University. It is a large specimen, about eight feet in length. There was no room for it in the ordinary cases, and it could not be exhibited until a special case had been constructed for its reception. The male has a peculiar bag of skin on its muzzle, which it has the power of inflating when excited. The present specimen shows this bag fully blown out, and certainly the name of "bladder nose" very appropriately describes its curious appearance.

BOILING WATER FOR FROST BITES

Dr. J. M. Johnston Claims It is a Real Cure in Spite of Popular Fancy

Frost bite, frozen ears, noses and fingers may be cured without any ill effects by boiling water, according to Dr. J. M. Johnston, Toronto. The doctor stated that in spite of the popular fallacy to the contrary boiling water was the best remedy which could be used. He had said, used it himself and on his patients, and it always gave perfect results. Dr. Johnston told of experiments on rabbits, which were carried on in Germany. Two ears of a rabbit were frozen, one of which was treated with boiling water, and the other with various other cures. The result, he said, was always the same. The boiling water cure worked, while the others were quite inadequate, and often brought on serious complications.

HERO OF BALACLAVA

Wombell Had his Mount Shot Twice from under him.

"Well done, young Wombell, I'll write to your father in Yorkshire tonight to tell him how proud he ought to be of his son." Such was the remark made to Sir George Wombell, who recently celebrated his golden wedding, by the late Duke of Cambridge, when the remnant of the 17th Lancers—the "Death or Glory Boys"—to which Sir George was then attached as a cornet, returned from the "Valley of Death." Sir George rode on the right flank of Lord Cardigan as a gallant leader. Twice he had his mount shot from under him, but he went to within a hundred yards of the terrible batteries unscathed. For his gallantry he was promoted, and ultimately retired from the army in 1856, on succeeding his father in the baronetcy.

ULSTER'S POPULATION

Ulster covers 26.3 per cent. of the total area of Ireland and has a population of 1,581,696 of which 770,862 are males and 810,834 females. Of the total 386,947 are in Belfast county boroughs.

The following statement shows, according to religious professions, the inhabitants of Ulster at the last census: Roman Catholics, 690,816 persons, 48.7 per cent. of the total population; Protestant Episcopalians, 386,773, 23.3 per cent.; Presbyterians, 421,410, 26.6 per cent.; Methodists, 48,816, 3.1 per cent.; all other denominations (and religious unascertained), 62,342 persons, 3.9 per cent. of total population. HELPING ITALIANS

Cochrane man who sent Naturalization papers is punished.

James Palangio, a wealthy Italian of Cochrane, charged by the Crown with assisting prohibited immigrants to land in Canada, was accused of furnishing a man named Marcello naturalization papers to be sent Marcello's brother in Schenectady, N.Y., to be used by the latter in evading the immigration regulations. Palangio was arraigned before Magistrate Dempsey, of Cochrane, and fined one hundred and fifty dollars and costs amounting in all to two hundred and sixty dollars.

WANT TO BE CANADIAN

A representative meeting of the citizens of Nassau, Bahamas, attended by many members of the Legislature and other prominent persons, affirmed, with but three dissenting votes, the desire of the colony to disengage itself from the Dominion Government and to enter the Canadian Confederation. The meeting urged his Excellency the Governor of the colony to obtain the consent of the Imperial authorities to such a disengagement.

MONEY FOR IMMIGRATION

In the past ten years the Canadian Government spent on immigration the sum of $8,402,594, varying from $494,000 in 1901 to $1,079,139 in 1911. The total amount spent in the British Isles in the promotion of immigration was $1,756,138. The total immigration in ten years was 1,715,388, and the distribution by provinces was as follows: Maritime, 11,358; Quebec, 218,609; Ontario, 897,890; Manitoba, 898,869; Saskatchewan and Alberta, 568,792; British Columbia, 188,969.

FARMING OUT PATIENTS

A. E. Donovan, M.P.P., Brockville, told the Legislature that some doctors had done considerable grafting in lumber camps by farming out their practice to other, perhaps more energetic physicians. In some cases, he declared, physicians would be retained to care for the health of perhaps one thousand men in lumber camps, who were each compelled to contribute $1 a month for the service, whether needing it or not. Doctors thus engaged had farmed out the jobs to other medical practitioners at, say 75 cents per man on the payroll, or, Mr. Donovan had heard, down to 35 cents per head per month.

ROMANCE OF MINING DISTRICT.

A romance of the mining district of New Ontario had a happy culmination in St. Thomas, when George Beattie, a blacksmith of Cochrane, was married to Miss Annie Walls of this city. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's mother. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. O. C. Elliott, pastor of the Baptist church. When the disastrous forest fires at most wiped Cochrane and Porcupine off the map, Mr. Beattie and Miss Walls, who were living there, had to flee for their lives. They were together at the time, and the friendship formed that memorable night ripened into love and resulted in the happy event.

Episodes of the defence of Sebastopol will shortly be shown on the cine matograph. With the consent of the local military authorities, soldiers will engage in the fighting to be represented, a whole infantry division with fort and field artillery being employed. Several thousand shells and other explosives have been ordered, and a company of sappers will shortly begin laying the necessary mines. The mock combatants will wear uniforms of the day—Russian, British, French and Turkish.

How Wolff Was Going to Profit by His Wife's Death

An ingenious insurance swindle has just failed. A man called at an insurance office and said he wanted to insure the life of a certain Frau Wolff for $1,250, claiming at the same time the customary commission. In accordance with insurance routine, the company's inspector went to Frau Wolff's house, where he was told he would find her with her husband, a cattle dealer at the market. The inspector thereupon arranged with the insurer to meet Frau Wolff at a restaurant, and did so. She seemed a young and healthy woman, so he sent her to the company's doctor, who declared her a suitable subject for insurance. Matters would have taken their usual course, but a day or two later, the insurer appeared at the company's office to pay the first premium. As he was leaving he remarked, "So the thing is settled. I mean, if anything should happen," but here he broke off and went away. The words aroused suspicion, and the inspector, on further investigation, found that the real Frau Wolff was dying of cancer and must expire in a few days or weeks. The idea of substitution, it appeared, was suggested by the real Frau Wolff's husband, who was in financial straits, and thought to make money out of his wife's death.

TEUTONS PREPARE FOR BIG OLYMPIC

Games Will be Held in Natural Athletic Grounds of Huge Dimensions Near Berlin

Germany expects to outdo the world in the Olympic games in 1916. It will have a stadium almost as big as that of Athens, where first revival was held in 1896, and the field proper is likely to be twice the size of that at Stockholm.

The place has been picked and the next Olympic games will be held at Grunewald, a suburb of Berlin, about ten kilometers from the centre of the city. The place is, perhaps, not the most accessible in the world, but the beauty of location will make up for many other shortcomings.

Natural Athletic Grounds
The field for the classic games was laid out by nature itself, added to a certain extent by the hand of man. The stadium will be built in the centre of the race track, one of the show places around Berlin. As it is now, the only thing necessary to start the games would be to build the seats, "plant" the cinder paths and open the gates. Around the site ran the different tracks, all turf, of the jockey club. It only remains to carry out the architect's plans in order to make it the most perfect, but probably the hottest of all athletic fields.

Unlike Stockholm, where it was just barely possible to get a 100-metre straightaway, it will be possible to have a 220-metre straight at Grunewald. As the present architect's plans provide, the grounds inside the banked seats will be approximately 200 metres long by 150 metres wide. Slightly to one side will be the swimming tank.

That it is probably the warmest spot in Germany is believed by those who have seen the site. The place, being in a hollow, there is very little chance for much German ozone to circulate. This, however, is not expected to be a hardship, especially to the athletes who require a high temperature in order to establish records.

Not Much Enthusiasm as Yet

There is at the present time not the enthusiasm shown over the games that might be expected, but the Teutons are expected to warm up to the undertaking as time goes on. English newspaper men at Stockholm insisted that the games were forced on Berlin, and that Kaiser Wilhelm, especially, was opposed to them. This is not borne out by facts, as Baron Pierre de Coubertin stated that the Kaiser had wired him direct after the games were awarded, expressing his great pleasure at Berlin getting the classic. The chances are that no games ever held will have the thorough preparation that these events will have and despite the seeming lack of enthusiasm there is a great deal of quiet solid work being done for the success of the Olympic revival. There will be no trouble about money, as this is guaranteed by the owners of the jockey club and in addition to this the chances are that the different governments will liberally contribute.

THE PECULIAR CUTTLEFISH

Little Creatures Kept in Tanks to be Milked of Their Ink

A curious thing is the cuttlefish with its long arms and bulging eyes. At several points on the British coast there are located cuttlefish farms where the little creatures are kept in tanks to be "milked" of their ink. This ink is kept in a little bag or sack, is very valuable and each little tank will yield about $3.50 a year. The tank or pond is connected with the sea by a pipe and a thousand or more cuttles are kept in a single one. When it is considered an opportunity to the slugs of the ponds are opened and the water is gently agitated. The cuttles then swim around the pond and as soon as one passes through the sluice is closed. The cuttle passes down a small channel into a basin or metal receptacle and as soon as it is securely there the water is drained off. This frightens the fish and at once it squirts its precious liquid into the basin. In this way, one at a time, the "milk" is completed.

GREAT FIND

How John D. Rockefeller Struck Something Not Oil

Mr. John D. Rockefeller's servant once unconsciously played a good trick upon him. The great man had acquired some oil wells, and his agent had sent him a sample of the product of the first forcing in a bottle. Rockefeller was in a hurry to go out when it arrived, and gave it to one of his men to deliver to the analyst with a note he scribbled.

Now the servant was also in a hurry. He set out to visit his wife, and took letter and bottle with him. Later in the evening he saw what he thought was the bottle on the sideboard, and with a guilty conscience hurriedly took it out to deliver it.

Judge of Rockefeller's amazement when, in the morning, he received the following telegram:—"Yours is the first find of the century! You've struck paragon!"

FAMOUS TIGER

SLAYER DEAD

Ruler of Cooh Behar Passed Away in England—Sketch of His Remarkable Career.

Famous both as ruler and sportsman, the Maharajah of Cooh Behar who had been ill for some time, died at Rehill. He came to England for the Coronation, and, owing to illness, which overtook him in July, he did not return to India. Kidney and heart troubles were the cause of his death.

The Maharajah, who was forty-nine years of age, succeeded to the rule of a State in Northern Bengal, about the size of Cornwall, when he was only ten months old. He was one of the first Indian rulers to embrace the freedom of the West, and was as popular in this country as in his native land. He and the Maharane paid many visits to England, their two beautiful daughters have been prominent figures in English society, and all their four sons were educated at Eton.

As a sportsman he was world-famous. He shot enough tigers and rhinoceroses to stock a dozen museums, his horses won most of the classic races in India, and as a polo, billiard, tennis, and racquet player he had few equals.

He was also an excellent dancer, and the ball which he gave to mark of the stage at Prince's Restaurant in 1908 was a proof of his devotion to the art.

In 1907 he served in the Tish Expedition, and was present at the actions of Margai and Samana. He held the rank of colonel in the British Army. His rule was enlightened and progressive and his philanthropy gained him many friends.

He is succeeded by his son, Prince Raja Rajendra, who used to play polo at Hurlingham.

STOCK AND THE DAIRY

Development of These Industries Along the Calgary-Edmonton Line

Possible a part of the West offers better facilities for mixed farming than that along the railway from Macleod north to Edmonton. There is little or no dairying, however, until one strikes Nanton, where there is a new creamery which is producing 1,000 lbs. of butter a week, having increased from 500 lbs. in three weeks. The people all through this territory are devoting more and more attention to dairying, and the growing of coarse grains. They are also keen along the line of industrial development. The trip from Lgh River to Edmonton reminds a person of Ontario. The rolling land, dairy herds, horse streams, patches of bush are attractive and offer exceptional opportunities for mixed farming. This applies especially to the district between Calgary and Edmonton. In some cases the early frost of last year which caught the wheat was a blessing in disguise and compelled some farmers to look to other avenues of industry that they might not be necessary financial returns. At Lang don one farmer fed his frozen wheat to hogs, and in that way obtained $1 a bushel for it. E. B. Wellsholmer who farms 160 acres has gone to stock raising, sells no grain but feeds it to his hogs, thus obtaining good returns from his farm. Further evidence of mixed farming is seen in the large number of cans of milk and cream at various stations. Carstairs sends a large quantity of milk to Calgary at $2.25 per hundred lbs. in winter and 1.50 per hundred lbs. in summer. One farmer has stables for 114 head of dairy cattle, having a team and equipment costing $8,000.00. Two other farms have 50 dairy cattle each. Disbury ships large quantities of milk, butter, cream and eggs, and three cars of hogs per week. As many as 200 cans a day of milk and cream are sent to Calgary. A large quantity of hay is shipped from Disbury, Olds, Innisfail, and adjacent points to British Columbia.

DESCENDANTS OF ARCADIAN

They Live on Magdalen Island, in Gulf of St. Lawrence

Up in the centre of the Gulf of St. Lawrence the small group of Magdalen Islands are populated by three or four of the lineal descendants of the Arcadians under Champlain and the Monts, who were driven out of New France, Nova Scotia, by the English. Since the first settlement in 1788, states a writer in Rosary Magazine, generations of the same families have raised scanty crops in the valleys and fed sheep and cattle on the high conical hills which constitute a prominent feature of an insular landscape. Year after year men have come out on the waters of the gulf in search of the cod, mackerel and lobsters on which a livelihood depends. They are a simple, primitive people, these natives of the Magdalen, laboring all the while under circumstances that are most discouraging.

The archipelago contains twelve or thirteen distinct islands, including several grim rocks which are not inhabited and never will be. But the remarkable feature about the physical formation of the whole group is the way in which one island is in some instances connected with another by a long stretch of sandy beach, enabling a person, if he desires to do so, to go for a score of miles or so through the most barren shore in the world, one that is uninhabited and unrelieved by vegetation of any kind, the only animal life being the thousands of gulls, terns, gannets and other sea fowl which are extremely numerous in all this region.

The Successful Hostess

You may have a dinner with the best appointment and cuisine, and if your guests are badly chosen the dinner will be a social failure. Certain elements of good social success and the woman who tries to force the process is courting an explosion. Choose guests as you would shoes—because they fit.

You may be catholic in your tastes and enjoy the butterfly without a brain and the woman who is all brain without social grace, the artist or musician, the snob who distrusts all the clever colts, the man who loves a gay story and the woman who is easily shocked.

But rather than friends around a common board and you may count in their boredom. Never select your guests according to social position. The practice makes neither the dinner nor the hostess popular. If you put the socially unimportant together your evening will never be a success.

Do not have dinners so large as to prevent general conversation. Not all who go out to dinners are blessed with manners, and the hostess should have it in her power to go to the rescue of the guest who is neglected by her neighbors.

Never should your dinners be long or heavy. The day of dozens of courses is past. The most brilliant dinner out finds it hard to shine when sitting through an over-elaborate menu.

Learn the art of switching the conversation. Many a dinner is wrecked because the hostess does not know how to stop an argument that is verging on controversy and has not the social sense to scent dangerous topics or sidetrack the bore.

Encourage brilliancy and gaiety but keep a sharp watch for it that stings and jokes that tend to loosen.

GOVERNESS FOR PRINCESS

Talented Young Women Entrusted With Education of King's Daughter

Princess Mary's governess, Miss Dossat, was selected for her important post as much for her character as for her educational distinctions. She is young enough to be companionable for her Royal pupil, yet old enough to realize fully her responsibilities. A very clever linguist, she is also qualified in music and art, so that if the Princess needs assistance in preparing her work for her master, Miss Dossat can give it. Miss Dossat has been deputed to take Princess Mary to the various parties which have been arranged in honor of her Royal Highness, the invitations to which were issued "to meet Princess Mary." Unlike other Royalties, who rarely come in touch with their children's governesses, the Queen gives a great deal of personal instruction to all those who have charge of her family.

Mr. Oscar Hammerstein, who confident that he will be able to open his London Opera House as promptly on time as he did in the case of Manhattan Opera House in New York, says that his policy of management in London will be as follows: "To be successful, I must not teach, I must interest. The opera will be sung in French and Italian, in regard to whom my efforts are depending on the results of the first season. My orchestra will number over 100, directed by one of the greatest musical directors; the chorus will number 125 and the ballet 50. In the chorus English voices will be predominant, for I am French and Italian, with competent teachers for the purpose, with teaching provided free of charge. Seats will range in price from one guinea to 10 guineas. "Our crop prospects were never brighter," said Hon. Geo. Lawrence, Minister of Agriculture, for Manitoba, in the course of an interview. "This is my thirty-fifth year in the province and I never saw a better outlook. The wheat acreage in Southern Manitoba is about the same as former years in the north oats, barley, and clover have been sown, which means that the wheat acreage of the province is not quite as large as in 1912. The satisfaction in this, however, as it indicates more mixed farming which the farmers must gradually come to if agriculture is to be a permanent industry. Appreciating the importance of dairying and stock raising, and the great possibilities that exist in the west for the development of these industries, the Agriculture Department of the province is sending out two demonstration trains, one which will pass over every mile of the C.P.R. track in the province, and another over every mile of the C.N. These trains will be manned by professors of the Agriculture College, consisting of fifteen to each train of six men, and will carry horses, cows, a poultry of the best breeds. These exhibits will be used to give lessons stock raising to farmers all along the route. There will also be instruction in dairying, housekeeping, economics, and the raising of milk, the manufacture of butter and the destruction of weeds. Last year we ran a train over the C.P.R. line, and so successful a demonstration, and the results were so apparent that we decided to extend the trip this year to the entire province."

will be tackled, with a full measure of the aid of the local authorities. The village suddenly, and picturesquely for the East Sussex uplands. It is a colony, conceived on republican lines, for Sir Robert Baden-Powell, the Chief Scout, fresh from his travels in the Netherlands, has been emphasizing the growing need for British agricultural education, and the difficulties of production at home; and as England possesses the finest conditions of soil and climate, he is anxious to get the boys to the best of the land, and to hold all good positions as agricultural experts at home and in the colonies.

An old city merchant has placed a manor with farm buildings and a hundred acres of first-class farmland. Here a farm school will open, and fifty pupils of fifteen years of age will be intended that the Boy Scouts while being taught the duties of citizenship, and the value of the land, and receiving the benefits of a modern curriculum, shall be taught a variety of agricultural and kindred subjects. The boys will be taught to milk a cow, to shoe and ride a horse, to bake bread, to grow fruit, to keep bees, and such handicrafts as carpentry, and the use of tools, and the rudiments of engineering. It is the promoters' idea to establish a colony which will be split up into about twenty groups, each group to have eight boys, each group being in charge of a leader.

The main object, of course, is to teach the boys to use the land. Five acres and a farm are to be allotted to each group, and with the best of advice given by an expert staff the "varsities" will be made to produce the best results.

The roadside advertising nuisance, which has afflicted most European countries for years, is becoming known in France. A bill has been brought before Parliament under which roadside posters will be taxed according to the size of the advertisement. Small advertisements of business firms will be unable to indulge in the luxury of spoiling the landscape. A hoarding having an area of about 100 sq. m. will be taxed to the extent of $6,540 per annum. The tax on even a small hoarding is heavy, and the rate increases with the area of the advertisement. The hoarding goes in all dimensions. So far as the towns are concerned, there will be no charge for advertising. The bill will be pressed to be applied, it is difficult to believe that any business firm will continue to make use of the countryside for advertising its wares to the public.

Dizzy Headaches Cared in One Night

If Troubled With Head-Fullness, Ringing Noises, Specks Before the Eyes, the Stomach is at Fault.

Quick Relief and Certain Cure From Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"I had terrible pains in my head. My appetite faded away, and when I did eat anything it disagreed and made me very sick for hours after each meal. The pains in my stomach and the dizzy headaches I had to endure almost set me wild. Some times attacks came on so severely that I had to go to bed. I would feel so worn, depressed and utterly miserable that for hours I wouldn't speak to my family. My system was poisoned with wastes and nothing helped me till I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Without this grand system-cleaning remedy I would still be sick, but each day brought me better health and spirits. I was cured and made strong, ruddy, and healthy, and will always use and recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Presentation to Mr. Callender.
The employees of the Quaker Oats Co., package department, have presented an elegant cloth bag to their departing foreman, Mr. Orme C. Callender, who leaves on the 20th for Edmonton. Mr. Callender, taken by surprise, replied in fitting terms.

No Winter Race Meet?
Dr. Johnston is authority for intimating that, unless the Turf Club is given free use of the racing track at the Agricultural grounds, for which $50 is asked, the likelihood of a winter meet was very uncertain. The racing enthusiasts feel that they should be allowed the grounds free of charge.

Lost a Pair of Handcuffs.
One of Peterborough's "Finest," whilst making an arrest near Central Park a few days ago, lost a pair of handcuffs. A reward of a 5 cent cigar is offered for return of same and no questions asked. The party returning the bracelets need not bring the same in on their wrists.

His Lordship Better.
We sincerely regret to state that his Lordship Bishop O'Connor, who has not been in robust health for some time, is reported as dangerously ill. The last rites of the church at a late hour last night. The Times called upon the Priest's house, and was pleased to learn that his Lordship was reported as "being much easier."

No Public Abattoir.
It is rumored that Ald. Anderson will not urge the construction of a public abattoir for Peterborough in council this year. The East City Alderman, whilst in favor of his project, feels that the ensuing year will not be opportune to push it further. The city council are confronting a heavy expense and he feels that the meat inspection will be carefully looked after by Dr. Clinton and the Sanitary Inspector.

Officers of St. Andrew's Church.
At the annual meeting of St. Andrew's Sunday school, the following officers were elected: Superintendent, Mr. Richard Lees, M.A.; Asst. Supt., Mr. W. Chisholm, M.A.; Organist, Mr. H. S. Trener; Vocal Leader, Mr. Jas. Gerrard; Librarians, Messrs. John T. Brightman and W. A. Richardson; Secretaries, Messrs. W. S. Campbell and Chas. Thornt. Treasurer, Mr. John T. Brightman.

A Kindly and Appropriate Gift.
An appropriate as well as a kindly gift, was that made to Mr. Frank Pratt, Canadian Express Co., agent at the G.T.R. depot, when the directors of the Peterborough Poultry Association, after taking a "balloon" ride to the business office of Mr. Pratt, and not finding him there, went to his residence and made the presentation. On arrival the found Mr. Pratt's house full of guests gathered to celebrate his wooden wedding.

Officers of Knox Church.
The annual meeting of the teachers and officers of Knox church the following officers were elected for the coming year: Hon. Superintendent, Mr. Malcolm Clark; Asst. Mr. Cecil Williamson; Supt. Donald Turner in Toronto.
Donald Turner, who was once street surveyor of Peterborough, and through despondency over his wife skipping out with $5,000, his life's savings, got up too strongly against the house in Port Hope and consequently into a snarl with the police of that town, was allowed to go to Toronto to make a fresh start. It will be remembered that Donald, some time ago when arrested, promised to leave Port Hope for Peterborough, but failed to connect. He was given three months in jail, but subsequently, as noted, was let go to the Queen City.

IT IS NEWS WORTH GIVING TO THE WORLD

HOW RAVAGES OF KIDNEY DISEASE ARE CHECKED IN QUEBEC.

Mrs. Julien Painchaud, for seven years a sufferer, finds quick relief, and complete cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Whitworth, Temiscouata Co., Que., Jan. 17 (Special).—With the coming of winter the ravages of Kidney Disease are again felt in this province, and the fact that a sure cure is vouchsafed for the world, Mrs. Julien Painchaud is the person cured and she states without hesitation that she found her cure in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"For seven years my heart and kidneys bothered me," Mrs. Painchaud states. "I was always tired and nervous. I could not sleep. My limbs were heavy and I had a dragging sensation across the loins. My eyes had dark circles under them and were puffed and swollen. I was so ill I could hardly drag myself around to do my household work."

"A neighbor advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I found relief in the first box. Six boxes made me perfectly well."

If you have any two of Mrs. Painchaud's symptoms your kidneys are diseased. Cure them and guard against future serious, if not fatal results by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

The 57th Regimental Band held a practice yesterday evening.

Dr. Young has been chosen one of the Executive Committee of the Ontario Artillery Association.

Mr. John C. Fitzgerald, a well-known resident of Fenelon Falls, is dead from acute indigestion.

Building permits issued at the city hall since the first of the month amount to $1,200.

Peterborough has got a real "Thaw case." Fortunately it does not include pretty girls of this city, or sudden death.

Last night's game between the Petes and Port Hope was decided off in that southern suburb of the city. No ice.

Albert Leperdon, formerly of Oshawa, is held at Belleville for alleged knowledge about a burglary of the "Mallable" Iron Works of the former place.

The Sisters of St. Joseph's House of Providence wish to thank their many friends for their kindness to the poor of the institution, during the Christmas season.

Judging by the raucous cawing of the crows in the pine trees about St. John's church yesterday, it might be judged that either an early spring is in sight or that a dead horse lies somewhere near.

Peterborough between 1901 and 1911 increased 63 per cent in population. This taken from the Dominion census returns, shows that our city has made the most healthy and best increase of all cities in Eastern Canada.

Mr. Geo. Volland was seized with a weak spell on Water street near Gibbs' liver stable yesterday morning. His friends who feared another paralytic stroke, will be glad to know the attack was not of that nature. He was taken home in the city ambulance, where Dr. Easton attended him.

Messrs. W. Grade and W. Montcomery have opened a long felt want—a store at Jackson Park, to supply hot drinks (temperance strictly) for those attending the rink. Patrons of this popular resort will appreciate the efforts of these enterprising gentlemen to supply needed accommodation.

BACKACHE IS A DANGER SIGNAL

Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism, and Serious Diseases Follow.

There are other symptoms, such as pains in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and worn-out feeling, weak bladder, painful, scaldy, or urinary troubles, which are just as dangerous, for the slightest kidney derangement if neglected may develop into a deadly Bright's Disease, Dropsy or Diabetes.

It is not only dangerous, but need less, for you to suffer, and endure the tortures of these troubles, for the new discovery, Croxone, quickly and surely, ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for the cure of kidney, bladder trouble, and rheumatism, than this new scientific preparation, because it removes the cause. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings, cleans out the clogged-up pores, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid, and waste matter, that lodges in the joints and muscles and causes those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Croxone a day, for a few days is often all that is ever needed to cure the worst backache, overcome disagreeable urinary disorders, and you can take it with the utmost confidence that nothing on earth will so quickly cure the worst case of kidney, bladder trouble, or rheumatism.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. There is nothing else like it. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system with bad results. An original package costs but a trifle at any first-class drug store. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

BANQUE INTERNATIONALE IS ABSORBED BY THE HOME BANK

French Institution Taken Over at Fifty Cents on the Dollar—Lived Only One Year

Toronto, Jan. 17. Following immediately upon the dismissal of the case against the International Bank by Judge Leet in Montreal yesterday papers were signed by which the Home Bank of Toronto takes over the business, purchasing the assets of the French institution at fifty cents on the dollar, according to a statement made to the press by Major J. C. Mason, assistant general manager of the Home Bank. All arrangements for the absorption have been complete for some time, the officials waiting only for Judge Leet's decision before effecting its consummation of the deal.

The negotiations were carried through by the officers of the Home Bank and Mr. C. A. Barnard, K.C., of Montreal. Under the terms of the agreement the physical assets of the International Bank are transferred immediately to the Toronto institution, subject to the ratification by the shareholders of the International and the assent of the Governor-General in Council.

Had Short Life.
This completes the end of the Banque Internationale, which lived only a year ago started business with subscribed capital amounting to $10,000,000, only a small portion of which, however, has been paid up. By its absorption the Home Bank acquires an immediate connection in Quebec.

The paid-up capital of the French bank amounts to $1,300,000. The shareholders of the International will be paid with $750,000 stock of the Home Bank.

DUCHESS OF CONNAUGHT

DR. MCPHERSON LOCAL M.H.O. PRESENTS ANNUAL REPORT

At a meeting of the Board of Health yesterday morning, Dr. McPherson, M.H.O., presented his annual report, in part, as follows:

Thirty-two cases of scarlet fever, with no deaths, one whooping cough and one death; six typhoid fever and one death; and sixty-five tuberculous cases and twenty-six deaths, are reported. Reference is made to the worth of the Isolation Hospital. The report says: Another point that is worthy of note is the use that is being made of the Isolation Hospital. We had scarlet fever in 25 families, many of them with a number of children. In 18 of these the patient was sent to the hospital, and in only two cases to a second case occurred, and in these it was unavoidable. The remaining seven were kept at home. In two of these cases there was but the one child. In one case where there were three children, the other was removed and kept under observation for ten days, and in three of the remaining four cases a further infection developed, making six new cases.

After speaking of the garbage collection system and the milk by law the report continues:
The sanitary work proper forms a large part of our duties. This year we were able to do it more thoroughly owing to the appointment of a Sanitary Inspector. We attempted to make a systematic examination of all premises, noting the condition of cleanliness both inside and outside the buildings, the fitness of the house as a dwelling, the facilities for the disposal of sewage and refuse, the water supply, the animals kept on the premises, and any other points that might have a bearing on the health of the occupants or of the people in the neighborhood. This has been done as far as time would permit and a record made in each case. With your permission we will have a book made for this purpose and enter these details for future reference.

HE WOULD ABOLISH ALL CANADIAN TITLES

First Reading of Mr. J. H. Burnham's Bill in the House

Ottawa, Jan. 17. The bill of Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., of West Peterborough, to abolish titles of honor in Canada, received its first reading in the House of Commons yesterday. The bill reads: 1. All titles of honor or honorary titles received by the Government of Canada and all such titles now attaching to any position at present or hereafter created by the Government of Canada are hereby abolished. 2. No recommendation to confer any title of honor or honorary title shall be made by the Government of Canada whether such recommendation is made by the Ministry or Government of Canada or otherwise. In explanation of this bill, Mr. Burnham said that its scope and power were contained in section 12 of the B.N.A. Act conferring to the federal government power wherefore vested in the government of the provinces.

"LITTLE WOMAN"

William A. Brady will present Marion de Forest's dramatization of "Little Woman" at the Grand Theatre, Monday night only, Jan. 20th.

The modern city man will find a wealth of long ago from the period many of "Little Woman" with the same Meg, Jo, Beth and Amy that most of us delighted in reading a book when we were children. It is a transcript from a more fragrant age and a more wholesome childhood than our children of today can possibly know. There is too a charm and beauty about "Little Woman" that the modern-day reader today dreams he will find at the end of the century and who can say what memories it brings to the woman who are close to the dear reality of it all, or the inspiration it will have to that small and precious portion of modern childhood which is not too sophisticated to adore Miss Alcott's immortal heroines, and who can sink so into the enchantment of it all that beauty and sweetness will be realized and all else forgotten.

Large and regal costumes of "Little Woman" have been pointed out by the American translations having been made into the native language of the two countries last mentioned. The American translation has been published in raised letters for use by all school libraries, is used by all teachers, and is one of the works which instructors must be familiar with who go through the training school in New York. Indeed, few schools can boast of such popularity as "Little Woman," and there will undoubtedly be unusual interest in the play, where have been retained all the old-fashioned incidents and beautiful little bits to grumbling Hannah, with her lessons on plum pudding.

Miss Jessie Bonstelle, who played the part of Mr. Brady, a direct responsible for securing the rights of production from the Alcott heirs. Miss Bonstelle says: "Since I have heard of a woman or child who has not heard of the book, and many of them are thoroughly familiar with all the characters. The story lends itself to dramatization in a few published narratives do. There are no long descriptive passages to be misused by those who remember the story and then use the play for the latter is alive with familiar incidents and intimate characters. Even some of our properties were secured from the Alcott heirs, including Jo's boots, which she received from a lady who had a friend who knew and delectable. An excellent cast has been secured by Mr. Brady, including Miss Jean Adair, who played the title role in "Mother," as Mrs. March; Jane Salisbury as Meg; Edna Walther as

IN WILL FIANCE LEAVES HER $25,000 AND A $5,000 AUTOMOBILE TO RIDE IN

MISS LETTY FEATHERSTON

There is a pretty Washington girl of twenty who is to-day both grieving and rejoicing. A telegram just received from Los Angeles informed her that she had fallen heir to $25,000 and a $5,000 automobile and that her fiancé, Charles W. Manning, who left her the money, had died suddenly of appendicitis. He was to have left his California home to take Miss Featherston back as his bride. Manning also left $30,000 to a sister in New York.

Miss Letty Featherston is the daughter of Mr. Nathaniel P. Featherston, Paymaster of the Internal Revenue Service. Her grandfather is Captain John C. Featherston, a Confederate veteran, who commanded the Ninth Alabama regiment during the civil war. Her uncle is State Senator H. C. Featherston, of Virginia. The family is well known in Virginia and the South, where it has been prominent for many generations.

When Miss Featherston was sixteen years old she met Manning while visiting friends in North Carolina, his boyhood home. He was ten years her senior and was at that time in the navy. It was a case of love at first sight.

LOCAL TALENT AGAIN WINS

Alice in Wonderland at the Grand is Seen and Enjoyed by Record Audience

Last night Mrs. D. Hope Leonard directed the splendid spectacle "Alice in Wonderland," must have been a proud girl. Her anticipations were more than realized. From her point of view, naturally the play's the thing. The play went smoothly, and as told in yesterday's issue well staged and costumed. The house was filled from the orchestra to the clouds. Now, we may be wrong in saying that the truest critics of a play are those occupying the "gods." Still, whether or not, this is correct, whilst white kid gloves were "bustled" in the orchestra chairs, the "gods" vehemently demanded enclosures for many numbers.

It would be invidious to make comparisons, but Miss Allan, as the dainty silver voiced Indian maiden, and Miss Jessie Spence claimed applause. Miss Spence had the practical appreciation of a big, ribboned bouquet hung at her feet. While it may seem raw to give preference to one or two performers, there is no gainsaying the fact that each and every one taking part was a winner and by his or her histrionic ability contributed to a worthy object, the Y.W.C.A. Alice in Wonderland, as played here is a winner.

Beth Jane Marbury as Joe, Catherine Calhoun as Amy, Eleanor Carey as Aunt March, Julia Varney as Hannah, Douglas Patterson as Mr. March, Burke Clarke as Mr. Laurence, Robert Adams as Laurie, Mortimer Martin as Professor Bhaer, and others.

HOME RULE NOW FOR LORDS. READ FOR THE FIRST TIME

Famous Measure Through House of Commons by Big Majority—Bonar Law Sees Fight

London, Jan. 17. After a long, stern battle the Home Rule bill passed the House of Commons late last night by a majority of 310. It was later read for the first time in the House of Lords.

There were two divisions in the lower House. Mr. Balfour's motion for its rejection was defeated by 258 to 168, while the third reading was carried by a vote of 367 to 257, one member of each side having left the House in the interval.

The result of the division was too much a foregone conclusion for a tremendous demonstration, but the Irishmen inside and outside of the House did their best, and assisted by the Liberals and the Tories, gave the measure for which they had waited and worked so long, a goodly send-off on its way to the House of Lords, where its fate is certainly sealed.

Series of Brilliant Speeches.
The division was preceded by another series of brilliant speeches by the political leaders.

The House was crowded throughout the day. The Nationalists were only one-third of their full strength. Bonar Law, being prevented by attending to a private duty which he submitted to, was absent from the House.

Several of the older Nationalists who are seldom able to attend came over from Ireland at division.

The Liberals and Labourites, too, demonstrated as vigorously as they could. Those who crowded the galleries likewise showed their welcome, and followed this by shouting the bill itself as a coup, as carried by an official from the Commons to the Lords.

The Upper House met eventually to receive the measure, and formally passed it last night.

The House of Commons soon quieted after the Irish demonstration, but outside the crowd continued to cheer for some time. A strong force of John Bullmen, who is police prevented any attempt at an organized demonstration, fearing a clash between the opposing factions.

THE LIBERALS AFRAID OF DISSENSION IN THE CAUCUS

Ottawa, Jan. 17. To-day will see the close of the naval debate as far as the Conservatives are concerned. There are only two more speakers who have notified the Chief Whips that they intend to speak.

They are Sam Sharpe, South Ontario, and H. B. Murphy, North Perth.

Hon. William Pugsley has the floor this afternoon.

Next week the Liberals will likely have the fun of talking on the navy all to themselves and it will soon develop how far they continue to carry their obstructions. It is understood that they have about twenty speakers who are anxious to air their views.

No caucus has been called, and it is most likely there will be no caucus.

TORONTO IRISH CABLE REDMOND SENT TWO THOUSAND DOLLARS

Toronto, Jan. 17. The executive of the Toronto branch of the United Irish League today dispatched the following cablegram to the Irish leader through his brother Mr. William H. Redmond, M.P., who was in the city last fall.

Congratulations, victory, Toronto sends two thousand dollars to-day sustain cause.

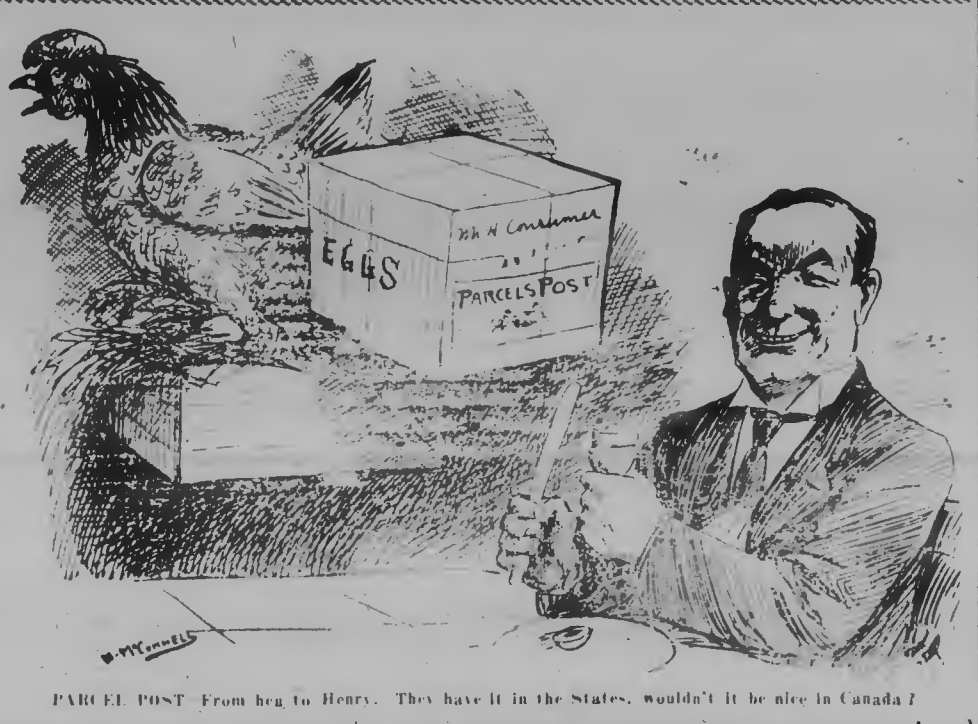

A draft for two thousand dollars was at the same time sent to Mr. T. B. Fitzpatrick, Boston, Treasurer of the United Irish League of America.

A list of the subscribers is being prepared for publication by Mr. D. P. Carey, Hinds on behalf of the executive.

"An vote arranging any kind of celebration over the passage of the bill," required the News to-day of an officer of the League.

"No" was the reply, with a sigh of resignation. "The Lords are sure to throw it out."

Yesterday morning, a big bunch of travellers, stopping at the Oriental, initiated a recently formed member of the Knights of the Grip. The young man was not accompanied by a nurse but should have been. He came from Stirling and for charity's sake, his name is omitted. He saw recently, an advertisement of a "leagu" firm that advertised for a traveller. The job looked good, and a letter from Stirling, possibly with a special delivery stamp attached, was sent. In response, he was offered a job selling cigars on commission provided he purchased an expensive in price, sample case and $10 worth of cigars. He bought. With the inexperience of youth, he confided yesterday to a few old travellers that he had joined the fraternity and, negatively speaking, was going to get those travellers didn't do to that in no time, would hit a fair sized library. They filled our duplicate order for thousands of his goods. They obligingly handed round two or three boxes of his sample cigars. They gave him "trips" as to how success must be won on the road. He even accepted many rounds, at his expense, of pop, ginger beer etc. For greenness, that youth would make guess on the basis of Kellergren's pale blue.

Twenty-five Dollars Does It

This Helps You Buy a Beautiful High, Dry,
Level Lot in the Fast Selling Subdivision

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

It is selling rapidly to good people of the class who will build homes and improve the property. There are a number of fine houses in course of erection, and many others to follow immediately. The lots are grassy lots without rock. They are level and easy to build upon, and there is abundance of clear, cold, pure water. The view taken in the whole City of Ottawa. Streets are 66 feet wide, and are being well laid out with trees and boulevards, and fine gravelled sidewalks just like every Metropolitan City.

Early connection with the City by no less than three electric railways is expected. The Morrisburg and Ottawa Railway have decided to start building on May 1st, 1913. The C. N. Railway have announced their early start upon their gas electric service, which will run right through RUSKIN PLACE. The Kingston and Rideau Lakes Electric Railway have surveyed right through the property and expect to commence work in the near immediate future.

When any one of these lines commence operations look out for an immense increase in price of RUSKIN PLACE Lots.

Lots at Ruskin Place Now Sell for $275, $300 and $375,

DOG WITH GOLD TEETH

Justin McCarthy, a Terrier B equipped with seven Molars.

An individual with a whole set of gold teeth is rare enough, but a dog with a similar decoration is a curiosity.

Thomas Fitzgerald, proprietor of the New Schiller House, Toronto, is the proud owner of a still prouder, long haired terrier, who carries about with him no less than seven gold teeth in his lower jaw. Mr. Fitzgerald is very much attached to his terrier and when he found that practically the whole lower set of the dog's teeth had decayed, rendering the rat killer useless and causing him considerable pain, he laid the case before Dr. Harry E. Silk, who put in a new set of gold teeth, seven in all. Mr. Fitzgerald held his pet while the dentist worked, and the task was accomplished without the use of an anesthetic.

The dog-with-the-gold-teeth has been the main topic of conversation among Mr. Fitzgerald's friends, and just to show that the teeth were no mere ornament, Justin McCarthy, as the dog is called, killed two rats the morning after.

BROUGHT DOWN HIS MAN
Hon. Martin Burrell was explaining at the live stock men's dinner in Toronto, how hard it was for politicians to please everybody. "I mustn't say much in praise of the horsemen," he said, "or the cattle men will be offended."

"You may have heard the story of the Englishman and the Frenchman who went to fight a duel in a pitch-dark chamber, firing their pistols at a word of command. The Englishman, being courageous and tender-hearted, didn't wish to kill his opponent, so, having previously located the chimney, when the word was given he fired up the flue, and brought down the Frenchman."

PRESENTED WITH WATCH
In recognition of his bravery in attacking and overpowering Arditi, the infuriated Egyptian who entered the Montreal Witness office and attempted the lives of Fred Hornaby and others, Joseph Kelly, mechanical superintendent, was presented with a gold watch and chain by F. E. Dougall, the proprietor. The watch presented was one that Mr. Dougall has worn for many years. He had it appropriately inscribed.

EDITORIAL NOTES

What has become of the old-fashioned family man who used to begin dinner with a prayer instead of a cockney?

If you take the trouble to investigate you will find that when a man is willing to forgive his enemy that the enemy is some fellow too husky for him to lick.

"The latest novelty in women's shirt waists has only two hooks." This will be glad news for the husband whose home duties include the task of buttoning up his wife in the back.

A prominent Liberal told The Times yesterday that the Liberal party in West Peterborough would like to run by a committee. A committee of one, of course. Post office address: Examiner office, Peterborough.

Sir Thomas Lipton says liquor drinking is ruinous to all nations. The statement made us tremble until we happened to think that Sir Thomas is in the tea business, and never misses an opportunity to boost his trade.

"If the powers are going to drive Turkey to her end," says an Ottoman delegate to the peace conference, "she will die game." That, we presume, will be a case of wild turkey. Viewing the matter from all angles, it seems that the Hon. C. P. Casper's desire to see Uncle Sam frustrated by the unfortunate fact that Uncle Sam saw him first.

Ald Gordon is generally regarded as the coming man in West Peterborough in connection with the Liberal party. He possesses the qualifications to fit him for a cabinet position. His ability in case he takes to politics, will be sure to get him the call, sooner or later, should his party succeed to power during the present generation.

THE SUFFRAGETTES

A leading New York City suffragist has evolved a scheme to win the men of her district to the cause of women suffrage. She is a physician and her name is Dr. Mary Halton. She is also, pretty her picture proves it. Knowing that the man is most tractable after a hearty meal she has gathered a bevy of fifty girls, "young attractive, lively and persuasive," who will be set loose after dinner one night each month. Their duty will be to go in pairs, armed with suffrage tracts and their sweetest smiles, and make calls at the mansions of the wealthy and others. Another thing the girls are to wear ear-rings "so as not to look strong-minded" and they are to be just as charming as they know how to be. "They are instructed to spend their time and eloquence with the man without conviction, and not to talk with him too long, but to leave him thinking and sorry that the call was so short. The out-and-out anti-suffragists will be both surprised and annoyed to find that in more vigorous fashion also, Dr. Mary Halton, who is from California, where woman suffrage prevails, expects to have her entire district "suffragized" in a few months by this method and is determined that New York shall vote suffrage in 1915.

Those people who question whether women now possess the wisdom of the serpent will have to put an end to their doubting now. We believe Dr. Mary Halton's philosophy will win long before the Panhellenic violence measures prove effective in England.

Nasal Discharge Proves Catarrh is Active

THE PURE BALSMIC ESSENCES OF CATARRHOZONE AFFORD SUREST AND QUICKEST CURE

Catarrhozone is certain to cure, because its healing vapor is carried with the breath direct to the seat of the chest, nose or throat trouble. Being composed of the purest balsams and fine essences, it immediately allays irritation, facilitates the ejection of mucus, soothes and stimulates the lungs and bronchial tubes. The marvel of the age in curing winter ill—that's what thousands say about Catarrhozone. There is nothing so sure to cure, and to those in fear of changeable weather—those who easily catch cold—those who work among lunge-chilling surroundings, or where dust, impure air, fog, or damp can't effect them—let them get Catarrhozone and use it several times daily—it will cure every time.

BAD CASE CURED IN TWO DAYS
"I was unfortunate enough to catch a bad cold from sitting in a draught in my bare head," writes Miss Nora E. Jamieson, well known in Sangre Grande, Td. An acute condition of catarrh developed in my nostrils, and for three days my eyes and nose ran most copiously. The usual remedies entirely failed to relieve. I read in The Mirror newspaper about Catarrhozone, and sent to Smith Bros' drug store for a dollar outfit. In two days Catarrhozone cleared up my nostrils, cured the sneezing, coughing and all traces of catarrh."

Large size Catarrhozone, sufficient for two months' use guaranteed price $1.00; smaller sizes, 25c and 50c. Beware of imitations, and substitute, and insist on getting "Catarrhozone" only. It is made from the Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

SHORTER SCHOOL HOURS

Editor Morning Times:
Sir, Will you allow me, through your paper to respectfully make a suggestion to the Board of Education. As a boy, I had no more love for school, than I suppose has the average youngster of to-day. One particular of my school days, however, is indelibly impressed on my mind. That is the awful and tedious length of the last half hour of the school day. That half hour, between 3:30 and 4 o'clock dragged more slowly than any two hours of the day. I know that I, and I believe many scholars, with minds bent on outdoor sports paid but indifferent attention to our studies during that half hour. I believe that in many schools, and successful schools, that last half hour has been eliminated.

with advantage to both scholars and teachers. Why not get to work and close the schools of Peterborough at 3:30 p.m.

C. Hamilton.

MR. KENDRY FOR SENATOR

Editor Morning Times:
Sir, I was greatly pleased with a letter in the Examiner signed "Conservative," when the writer advocates a senatorship for Peterborough. I fully concur in this view. Peterborough, for so many years consistently, has been a Conservative stronghold. Through influences like those attributed to Mark Twain, Headlin, China's young emperors, have been redeemed. This city, with its rapid growth and important standing in the manufacturing world, has geographical position and has a claim to the title of being one of the most important cities in the world. It is a city which should be a model to the world. Mr. Kendry is a man with all the attributes and qualifications ascribed to him by "Conservative," and then some. To more a platform slogan in common use by Mr. Kendry, we want "Conservative" and Mr. Kendry is just the man to infuse that sentiment into the somewhat fossilized steel called the Peterborough Sanction.

APSLEY

The death occurred Monday, Jan. 14th, at one p.m., at Fort St. John, L. Anstruther, of Miss. Philip Down, aged 62 years. The deceased was born in England and came with her husband to Canada about 30 years ago and resided there until the time of her death. She had been confined to her bed for two years, suffering from rheumatism. The funeral took place from the family residence Wednesday, the 16th inst., at 10 o'clock, Rev. C. Lord officiating. She lived an exemplary Christian life, and was a member of the Baptist church. Her husband predeceased her nearly two years. She was known and respected by a large circle of friends, who deeply sympathize with the family in their bereavement. She is survived by a grown-up family of six daughters and four sons.

CARD OF THANKS

The surviving family wish, through the columns of The Times to thank their many friends for kind and sympathetic letters during their mother's illness, and at the time of her death.

HOW THAT ISOLATION HOSPITAL $773 WENT

Reverting to a former report in these columns regarding the seemingly extravagant purchases of groceries amounting to $773.10 for the nine months ending Sept. 30th, 1912, The Times wondered how many people, employees, nurses and patients consumed that $773.10. We yesterday made inquiries. It seems that the regular staff consists of the superintendent, the caretaker and his wife, and a nurse. We noted that when there is an unusually large number of patients, the nursing staff is correspondingly increased. From the annual report of Dr. McPherson, dated Jan. 1st, 1913, we learn that during the whole year, 1912, 32 patients were treated, and we are pleased to note with entire success. The average of 2.5 patients a month, so that the $773.10 of groceries was used by four employees, or allowing an average of 1.25 extra nurses, having a total of patients, makes 5.25 employees and 2.75 patients or 8 people to eat that $773.10 in nine months, or at a rate of $81.33 a month each for groceries a year.

Of course it should in justice, be noted that where, from possible lack of forethought, larger meals were sent in to infected patients, the result could not be traced in cash or stew for the morrow. Again, convalescent patients require daily and stimulating food that costs money. Still, at that, the employees, who make up the preponderance of the month's bill, detract somewhat from this argument.

PROPERTIES.
The company owns 327 acres of rich Phosphate, Mica and Asbestos Mines in the Townships of Massey, Twp. and Portland, Province of Quebec, as well as 2 claims of 10 acres each in the Township of Shaw, Porcupine Gold District.

As Phosphate and Mica Mining produces quicker and better returns than Gold or Silver Mining, and far less expensive, the Company decided to operate its rich Phosphate and Mica Mines, which will be paying enterprises right from the start.

NO EXPENSIVE PLANT OR MACHINERY REQUIRED.
The Mines are situated in the Province of Quebec, and close to Railway Communication.

Labor and provisions are much less expensive than in Cobalt or Porcupine.

The Company will get immediate and profitable returns from Phosphate and Mica Mining.

Mining can be carried on all the year round.

A SHAREHOLDER IS NOT ONLY SHAREHOLDER IN ONE MINE, BUT IN EVERY MINE THE COMPANY OWNS.

This is an advantage few companies possess. If one mine should fail to make good, or be exhausted, the Company has a number of other mines to fall back upon.

The large average, the low capitalization, the large treasury reserve, are proofs of a serious and honest enterprise and administration.

The Company has demands of over 50,000 tons of Phosphate on which it is calculated to realize, at an average, $5.00 net per ton, all expenses paid.

This would net the Company $250,000, or 50 per cent, on the entire Capitalization. Supposing we reduce this amount by one half, it still would net the Company $125,000, or 25 per cent.

The Phosphate profits do not include the profits on the Company's Mica product. The Company has already sufficient demands on hand from large English firms, for all the Mica she can produce during the entire year and will yield handsome profits to the shareholder.

Phosphate is largely used as chemical fertilizer. Phosphoric Acid and Pharmaceutical Products. Mica is used for Electricity as a non conductor, also in manufacture of wall paper, and ornamental decorations, also as fire-proof material for wall and ceiling, etc.

It will be seen that this proposition is not like Gold or Silver Mining.

It will Pay right from the start
The Company will start operating early in Spring, so as to be able to ship Phosphate and Mica when the navigation opens.

We are authorized by the "Progressive Mining Co., Ltd." to offer a limited number of shares.

AT 10 CENTS EACH
Until January 15th, after which date, they will be 15 cents

Don't wait till the Company starts operation or shipping as the shares will then not be at 10 cents nor at 15 cents, but at 50 cents.

You can buy the shares now at the same price as promoters generally buy them. Here is your chance.

LONG LOST TURKEY

It Lived for Fifty-Five Days Without Food or Water

Jabez Frame, a Winchester farmer, selected a fine big turkey to grace his table, but when he sought to use it in hand, it was missing. Frame concluded that chicken thieves were responsible and killed another turkey. Fifty-five days later Mr. Frame was pulling away some straw from the foundation of his barn, when he discovered the long lost turkey. It was still alive though it had had nothing to eat or drink for nearly two months. This really is the case of a man in Oxford county some years ago which, for forty days was buried in a straw stack in the barn yard. There was an aperture between the barn wall and the stack and the horse made its way into it. Then the straw caved in on him. The owner supposed the animal had been stolen and the police of the whole province and of American cities were set watching for it. When found in the stack after forty days the horse was little more than skin and bone. He was fed on grain but he died a few days later.

IRISH PRESS ON THE PASSING OF HOME RULE

The Irish press is unanimous in its approval of the Home Rule as never before. NORTH MEXICO IN CLUTCHES OF REBELS

Fire on Passenger Trains, Detained by Federalists—No One Hurt.

El Paso, Texas, Jan. 17.—A passenger train arrived last night at Juarez after having been attacked by rebels on the Mexican Central less than fifty miles below the border. A Democracy in Independent Nationalism troop guard of 100 federalists responded to the rebel fire. None on the train was injured.

Presence of rebels near Juarez indicates that the Government railway has been cut off to the north of the present point of interruption. (This would isolate two military trains, a passenger train and a work train. A general movement of rebels to the north along both railways last night on the first act of what is reported.)

THE COMING FASHION

Milday's next gown will be simple of attainment, and it will accord well with the household curtailment due to the high cost of living. It was said in Chicago at the exposition of coming fashions on display there by dry goods trade papers.

The bathroom, which supplied her bathrobe of blanket cloth coat, now will furnish her dress. And the material in it will be Turkish towels.

Two or three towels, with or without the red stripes and tasseled border, as suits the wearer's individuality, a little dab of Irish lace, an opening here and there for an arm to come through, and the gown is complete.

A simple silk undershirt, toned to show off the towel fringe left at the bottom of the skirt, and costing slightly in excess of the overdress, completes the costume.

TARIN Has Little to Do With the Subject

Mr. T. H. Race, Mitchell, Ontario, last year visited many of the chief manufacturing cities of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan and Minnesota, to learn what advantages the American manufacturers of the West have over the Canadian manufacturers of the East in supplying the trade in Western Canada.

In conversation with the manager of a large implement concern in Illinois, who confirmed all that I had gathered at Racine, Milwaukee, Madison and Peoria," says Mr. Race. "I learned that the advantages were of a two fold nature firstly in a cheaper freight rate, and secondly in the volume of output. The freight-rate between Toronto, Hamilton, and Brantford, by way of Chicago to St. Paul and Winnipeg was two cents per hundred pounds less than by the North shore route to Winnipeg. With that advantage," said the manager, "together with the advantage of manufacturing for a market of ninety-seven millions as against a market of only seven millions we can afford to pay the Canadian duty and still do business with the Canadian West. In fact, the continued existence of our favor, trifling as they are, reduce the tariff protection to the Canadian manufacturer to a matter of only about five per cent and if the Canadian government should take off the duty entirely it would not affect the prices now paid in Canada to any noticeable extent."

Advantage of Large Output

advantages of a large output over a comparatively small one, I was informed that a large American implement firm last year manufactured five hundred binders. They did this at a cost of themselves with many of their old customers, who, if they had to go elsewhere for binders, might do so for other lines. The manager assured me that if they got three-quarters of the cost of making these binders they would be well satisfied. I asked if they intended to continue that branch of the business. The reply was that they had not decided that point yet; but if they did continue it would be in a large way. For, said the manager, a firm making five hundred binders will not be in the business long against one making fifty thousand at a time. The fact is, all agricultural machinery is now being manufactured at a minimum cost and the profit depends on the volume of output, tariff duties being neither here nor there. All this information impressed me, and with my personal knowledge of how agricultural machinery is selling in other lands I confess myself unable to see that the tariff is figuring much in the fixing of prices here in North America, when the farmers are buying cheaper than any other farmers in the world.

Elsewhere Than the Tariff
Can the Saskatchewan farmer who asks the question, "When are the manufacturing industries of Canada going to be able to stand alone?" get his answer in the case as I found it? Are the American manufacturers standing alone? If not, if they are bolstered up by tariff protection, why is machinery cheaper there than any where else in the world? Furthermore, if the freight rates and ninety million market advantages, practically reduce the Canadian protection to a nominal five per cent as I was told at Moline and St. Paul, how far is the Canadian manufacturer from standing alone? I fear, if the Saskatchewan farmer has a real grievance in high prices for agricultural machinery, he will have to look elsewhere than the tariff for a cause."

ANY person who is sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any agency, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his home stand on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his home stand. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties.—Must reside upon the home stand or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of home stand entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

WHEN BABY CRIES

Usually There is a Reason and the Summons Should be Heeded

Sometimes a nervous child will cry from a sense of loneliness or fright upon awakening from sleep. Often the low crooning of a song or a softly spoken word of love will relieve fears. "I'll be an infant in six weeks old, however, it does not hear very well, and until then the caress of your hand will quiet your baby."

It is not necessary that you should take baby up as soon as it awakens. Indeed, it is much better not to do so unless necessity requires, but you should let it know in some way that you are near.

Fear, or a sense of loneliness, is one cause of baby's crying. A second reason is hunger and a third pain. For each, the cry is different, and the loving mother soon learns to interpret each, and the wise mother responds to it at once. Babies do not cry for the fun of it; when they cry there is some cause, when this cause is removed they stop.

The cry of loneliness is a little and a whimper, the cry of hunger is loud and long and the cry of pain is apt to be a short, quick spasmodic call for help. There is another cry which baby will soon learn, a cry of temper—to this one should pay no attention.

What She Wanted

The wife of a Gordon Highlander received an invitation to visit him at the barracks. She did so, taking with her her six-year-old girl. When they arrived the husband was on sentry duty, and they could not approach him. The child eyed her "daudy" with a somewhat sorrowful but amazed expression as he paced up and down the square, shouldering his rifle and wearing a kilt. She had never before beheld him thus arrayed, and for a few minutes the spectacle seemed to be quite beyond her, but at length could she keep silent. "Mamma," she said, in a voice that betrayed a trace of childish coyness, "if daddy finds the man who stole his trousers, will he giunne dat kiltie back?"

CATTLE, SHEEP, HOGS, POULTRY

The Farmers of Central Alberta are Securing Big Returns From Mixed Farming

Mr. J. L. Porta, Publicity Commissioner for Central Alberta in the course of an interview given in the Globe during the Toronto Exhibition, said:

"While Central Alberta can and does produce splendid crops of wheat, aggregating millions of bushels annually, the conditions are peculiarly favorable to mixed farming, and it is the advantages in this direction that render the district more desirable than other portions of the west and that have led our farmers into the safer ways of doing things. It is generally recognized by our farmers that where conditions are so favorable for growing grain, hay, roots and vegetables, for the production of foder crops, and for the cheap handling of cattle, all on the same farm, better results can be obtained from mixed farming, under which the quality of the land improves, than that of exclusive wheat-growing, under which the land must inevitably deteriorate.

"In the case of cattle, it is contended by our farmers that beef can be raised at less expense in Central Alberta than almost any other part of Canada. Mr. E. H. Sulder of Dayland, who settled there from South Dakota, for several years has had from fifty to one hundred head of cattle and has made a profit on every animal. He does not stable them at all, letting them eat in the winter around the cat stacks, and he finds that in this way he has very little expense in fattening.

Dairying Making Men Rich

"As regards dairying, it is no less profitable, and I can give you a number of instances of where farmers have made a good thing out of it. Enquiry at the principal dairies in Edmonton showed that the average price for butter during the year was twenty-seven and three-quarter cents per pound. For January the average was thirty-one cents, and for February thirty-three cents. Mr. E. Sigmund of St. Albert during the year delivered eleven thousand five hundred and fifteen pounds of cream, for which he received $970.42. He kept at that time only twelve cows, which means he made a profit of $80.87 per cow. Mr. George Wilkerson, near Le Duo, received altogether $2,148 for twenty-five thousand four hundred and eighty-seven pounds of milk shipped. This was the product of forty cows and meant an average of $8.41 per hundred pounds. Mr. A. J. Davis of Cherry Hill Farm at Clover Bar delivered one hundred and fifty thousand eight hundred and forty-nine pounds of milk to the Edmonton Dairy, for which he received $2,820. He obtained an average for the year of $120.50 from each cow.

Money in Hogs and Sheep

"Hog-raising, as a result of the dairying, is profitable, and more farmers every year are getting into pork production. Corn is not a successful crop in our section, but the farmers find barley a good substitute, and as prices for bacon remain high the year round there is a good margin left for the producer. Sheep are not raised extensively in our district, although every condition is there to make them profitable. Those who have gone into this branch of live stock husbandry have invariably been successful. The prices for mutton and wool are most attractive. Mr. E. A. Walker, in Strathcona district, formerly of Brant county, Ontario, is one of a number who are making well out of sheep. Mr. George F. Root of Red Deer, for nearly a year, brought over 3,625 lambs from Montana in October. These animals were in the worst possible condition, having been starved all summer in Montana. Notwithstanding this, however, Mr. Root's entire loss during the winter amounted to only nineteen head.

GRAIN GROWERS' DIVIDEND

A Figure That Opens the Eyes of the Eastern Manufacturers

The Grain Growers' Grain Company, Limited, according to an official statement has a paid up capital of $588,478.75. The net profit for the past year was $121,614.13, or sufficient for a dividend of about 21 per cent. In addition the company has a reserve of $260,000.00 and during the year spent about $21,000 in educational work which in part at least was a free trade propaganda. The Eastern manufacturer as he looks at those dividend figures reflects that he has much of finance to learn from the West.

DENOUNCED PENSIONS

Sir Richard Cartwright speaking in the Senate denounced old age pension proposals as destructive of thrift. Sir Richard said the worst enemies of the working classes were those who seek to pauperize or degrade them in being recipients of pensions they had not earned, and further, that Canada should not make preparations to relieve the submerged tenth, but to see that no submerged tenth exists in Canada.

DISTRIBUTION OF BIBLES

Sixty-seven thousand Bibles were distributed during 1911 by the Upper Canada Bible Society. These figures far exceed those of any previous year. During 1910, 48,000 were distributed and that was a record year. In 1910, 183,000 was collected from the eastern boundaries of Ontario west to the coast. The net gain over the previous year was in the neighborhood of $15,000, the balance having been collected in the eastern provinces.

NIGHT WATCHMEN IN ROYAL PALACES

Every night the palace at which King George is sleeping is patrolled by night watchmen, who pass along the corridors, inspecting doors and windows. These watchmen wear cap and slippers to deaden the sounds of their footsteps, and are specially trained to know exactly what to do in case of fire. In addition to the night patrol there is always a sentry on duty outside the chamber in which the King sleeps.

King Alfonso of Spain is guarded at night by specially selected soldiers who take charge of the keys of all the palace doors each night. These men pledge themselves that the doors shall not be unlocked until daylight, and no one is allowed to enter or leave the palace until night is over. The guards sleep outside the Royal bed chamber, so that no one may enter during the night.

King Albert of Belgium is another carefully guarded monarch whom no one may disturb once night has set in. Soldiers patrol the corridors of the King's palace, and his special valet locks himself in the King's ante-chamber, which no other person is allowed to enter. The valet is forbidden to open either door until morning under penalty of death.

The Czar of Russia, the closest guarded of any monarch, is protected at night by several companies of soldiers, including Englishmen, members of the secret police, and a body of Cossacks. The various companies work independently, of one another.

The Sultan of Turkey is nightly watched over by a very large number of soldiers and councillors, who remain within the neighborhood of his bedroom until morning. The Sultan changes his sleeping apartments oftener than any other monarch. He has the choice of two-score bed-chambers, and he visits many of them in turn throughout the year.

The Pope is guarded by an attendant who is able to watch the warfare of his master through a spy-hole in the wall of his bedchamber, so that the Pope is always under observation.

PRIVATE CHARITIES OF KING AND QUEEN

Their Majesties Give Liberally to Deserving Cases But Strict Inquiry is Always Made

King George and Queen Mary give away a good deal more in charity probably than any of even their wealthiest and most generously disposed subjects. Their Majesties' subscriptions to public and private charitable enterprises amount to about $250,000 per annum; this sum is more likely under than over the actual amount, which is, of course, only known to those officially connected with the charitable disbursements of King George and Queen Mary.

The subscriptions to charitable objects given by the King and Queen which are recorded in the papers form but a part of the actual sums given away by their Majesties. Large sums of money are given away privately of which the public never hear. The King and Queen receive on an average about 200 applications a day for charitable assistance. All such applications, with the exception of those that are obviously from professional beggarletter writers, and the number of these is considerable, are inquired into, and usually a laudatory applicant is helped in some way or other.

Apart, however, from applications from individuals for charitable assistance, many people write to their Majesties for help for various so-called charitable societies and institutions, and it is necessary for their Majesties to exercise great care in responding to such calls for money for this reason.

If an ordinary individual gives a subscription to a bogus charitable society he (or she) simply is defrauded of the amount he gives, but if King George or Queen Mary were to do so it would most certainly result in a number of other people being defrauded of their money, because it is well known that when the name of the King or Queen appears in a charitable subscription list it is always comparatively easy to get others to put their names on it.

The fact of the King or Queen's name being on a subscription list is taken as an absolute guarantee that the charity is a deserving one and the people connected with it are entirely straight and honest in their dealings; consequently their Majesties before allowing their names to be connected with any charitable enterprise, always make the strictest inquiries into it to see that it is for a genuinely deserving object, and that the character and reputation of the people connected with its appeal for funds are entirely above suspicion.

VIVISECTION FIGURES

Home Office Return of Experiments on Living Animals in a Year

From a Home Office return it appears that the number of experiments made on living animals in Great Britain during one year was 36,208. Only a very small proportion of this formidable total, however, involved serious operations as many as 30,118 consisting of inoculations, hypodermic injections, feeding tests, etc., performed without anaesthetics. Of the balance of 6,090, in which operations were carried out, 3,023 came under the provision of the act that the animal must be kept under an anaesthetic during the whole of the experiment and must, if the pain is likely to continue or if any serious injury has been inflicted, be killed before it recovers from the influence of the anaesthetic. In the remaining 2,967 cases, the official operations were performed under anaesthetics from the influence of which the animals were allowed to recover.

Arena Gardens, Jan. 19.—Yesterday Varsity and Frontenacs met here in a Senior O.H.A. game. Both teams have been defeated by St. Michaels, and the tussle developed into a fight for second place.

The college boys brought out their O.H.A. team, who have had very little practice, and were minus Knight and Aird, who had accompanied the Intercollegiate team to Boston, and their skates had not returned in time. Leikie of the Frontenacs was suffering from a gashed eye and was unable to play. A crowd of about 2,000 fans were on hand when the game started at 3.40 p.m. Owing to the fact that both teams had blue jerseys, Varsity were ordered to change theirs, and they produced some red ones, which made them look rather sloppy.

THE C.P.R. PLANS BIG ROUNDHOUSE

Will Spend Two and a Half Millions On Improvements Between York Street and West
Terra Channel.

Toronto, Jan. 19.—The Canadian Pacific Railway plans are completed for a very large roundhouse and twenty-four sidings for storage of freight and cars, all to be erected in the harbor on land between the present Canadian Pacific freight sheds (west of the foot of York street) on the waterfront and the entrance to the harbor by the western channel.

No other details could be got other than that the plans had been completed and approved, and that the work would be proceeded with at all most immediately, and that the minimum cost of this improvement would be $2,500,000.

TWELVE POLICEMEN TO ONE LONE WOMAN

Hatpins Used With Deadly Effect by Strikers and Police Were Forced to Form Hollow Square

New York, Jan. 19.—With hatpins and umbrellas several hundred women fought the police yesterday in one of the fiercest riots since the beginning of the garment workers' strike. A lone policeman who tried to protect male strike-breakers was beaten black and blue.

The policemen arrested one woman, but had to summon 12 more bluecoats before he could get his prisoner to the station. The police accomplished this by the use of the hollow square which was beset on all sides by the battling garment workers.

Five women were arrested in this riot and in another which started when the women assaulted a truck driver delivering mattresses for the use of the strike-breakers.

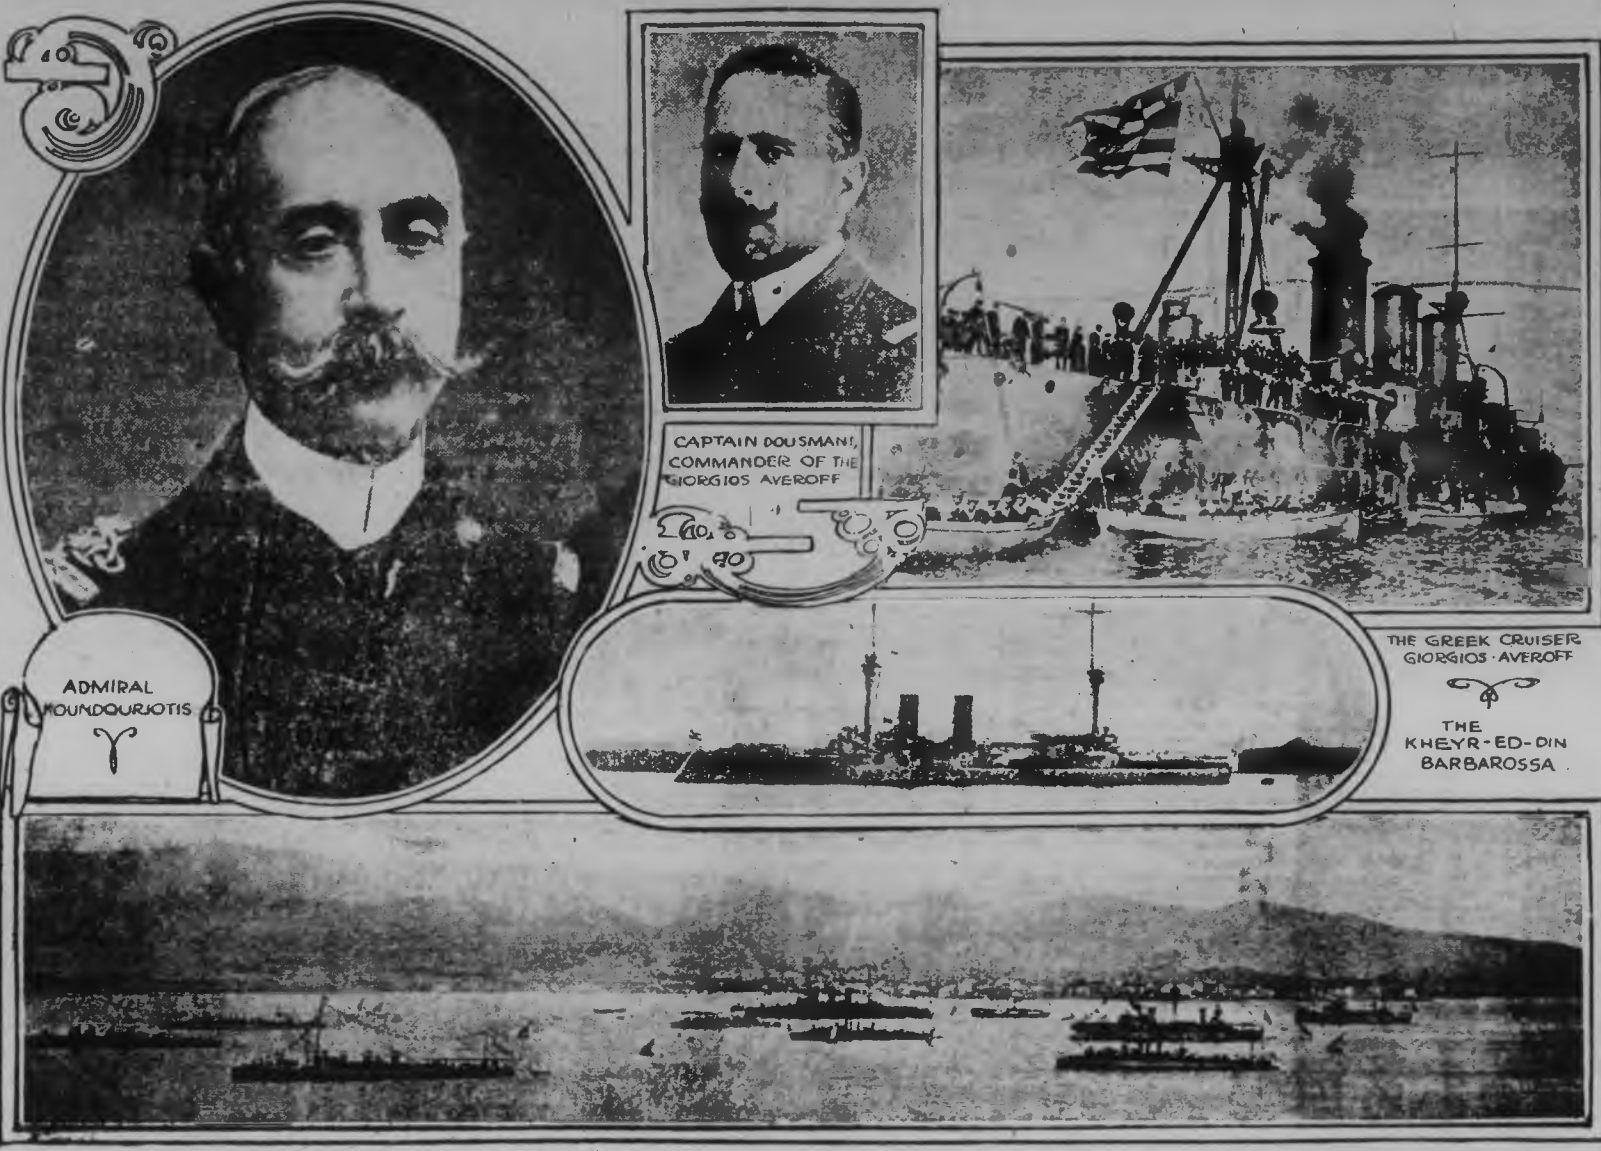

NAVIGATION OPEN ON ST. LAWRENCE

Quebec Province Without Snow, Lumbermen Can't Move Logs and Farm Produce Prices Soar

Montreal, Jan. 19.—The past week has seen in the Province of Quebec a renewal of the extraordinary weather conditions which marked December and the first days of January. Warm rains have fallen almost every day since Monday, and snow has practically disappeared. The ice is all flowing out of the river, while from the lower St. Lawrence section reports state that navigation to Quebec could easily have been carried on without cessation from the close of the season.

The farmers are complaining bitterly that the bad roads prevent them from sending stuff to the markets, and prices for eggs, poultry and butter have soared above the usual high winter prices. Lumbermen state that they can't move the logs in the woods, while so far no ice has been out in the river and a boost in the price of it to consumers is expected.

THE GREEK NAVY, CROWNED WITH VICTORIES, MAKES RAPID STRIDES AS A WORLD POWER.

THE GREEK NAVY IN FALIRON BAY
The maneuvers of the Greek fleet are just at this time being watched very carefully by the entire world. Much depends on the Greek navy in the present struggle between Greece and Turkey, and Admiral Koundouriotis has proved himself thoroughly capable of handling the situation for the Greeks. Several times he has outwitted the Turkish Admiral and has forced the Sultan's fleet to retreat in great disorder.

The armored cruiser Georgios Averoff, of which Captain Dousmanis is in command, is considered one of the best built vessels in the Greek navy. It was the Georgios Averoff, the Greek flagship, which, according to reports, succeeded in practically destroying the Turkish war ship, the Kheyr-ed-Din Barbarossa. In this battle the Turkish Admiral, Halil Pasha, and six of his officers were reported killed.

NAVY DEBATE IN TEPID STAGE TALK OF OTHER LIVE SUBJECTS

Members of Parliament Glad to Discuss Appeals to Privy Council, the Bank Act and West Indian Treaty—
Mr. Pelletier and Parcel Post

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—The interest in the naval debate has reached the tepid stage. Some good speeches are being made, but the members of the house are not interested. There are other subjects apparently nearer home which they prefer to discuss, as for example the question of appeals to the privy council which was brought to the front on Thursday by Mr. W. F. Maclean. It will be remembered that when Hon. Mr. White moved the first reading of his bill to amend the Bank Act that the house eagerly seized the opportunity to get away from the naval question and to discuss something else.

This does not mean that there is any lack of interest in the subject of empire defence, but it is taken to signify a general understanding that the government will be able to carry out its policy and that the threats of an election are not taken seriously.

Next week the government will devote to the second reading of the bill to revise the Bank Act, to the West Indian Treaty and other matters which Hon. Geo. E. Foster, as minister of trade and commerce, desires to put through parliament before sailing for Australia on Feb. 1.

Around the lobbies the talk is not about the naval bill, but rather about the affairs of La Banque Nationale, the defunct Farmers Bank and bank and currency legislation generally. An epistolary duel between the minister of militia and Mr. B. A. McNab late of The Montreal Star, is also being freely discussed. There is the usual talk about cabinet changes, nearly all of it guess work, but some close friends of Hon. Frank Sohier are still insisting that he may change his mind respecting gubernatorial honors. There is no doubt but that he can occupy the new government house at Toronto, if by chance he desires to do so.

THE PARCEL POST.

The outstanding event of the past week has been the announcement by Postmaster-General Pelletier of a postal post system for Canada. The minister's announcement did not include many details, nor was any date fixed for the inauguration of the system, but parliament was promised in effect that some legislation would be asked from it this session for the purpose of bringing the parcel post into existence. Undoubtedly great pressure has been brought to bear upon the department as a result of the extraordinary scenes attained to date by the parcel post in the United States. Merchants from the outside are shipping goods into Canada, and our postal service is strained to the breaking point, carrying parcels for Uncle Sam. At present we cannot exact a like service in return from the United States postal authorities because our rates for fourth class mail matter are prohibitive. Mr. Pelletier more than intimated his belief that they had been made prohibitive at some time in the past for the express purpose of giving a monopoly to the express companies. He frankly expressed his astonishment at the public having for so long submitted to the absurd and extortionate rates charged by the postoffice department for carrying parcels.

MINISTRY OF FRANCE RESIGN OF PRESIDING NEW PREMIER

Paris, Jan. 19.—The French cabinet met yesterday at the palace of the Elysee, under the chairmanship of President Fallieres, when all the ministers formally offered their resignations as a sequel of Friday's election of Premier Raymond Poincare, as chief executive. President Fallieres, however, requested all the members of the government to retain their portfolios until their successors had been chosen. He did not indicate the statesman who would be asked to form a new cabinet.

The newspapers, even those professing monarchist and clerical sentiment, comment on Raymond Poincare's election with favor and with a unanimity unprecedented in French politics. It is in fact difficult to find anywhere a dissenting word.

Friends of Jules Pams, the strongest opponent of M. Poincare, in the balloting aver that it was the conservatives who decided the presidential vote but to this statement the reply is made that the conservatives possessed 91 votes in the National Assembly and that therefore with every one of them supporting the candidature of M. Poincare, he would still have 96 republican radical votes more than Jules Pams, as he won the election by a majority of 167.

BRIAND PREMIER.

Paris, Jan. 19.—President Fallieres yesterday invited Aristide Briand, the Minister of Justice, to form a cabinet in succession to the retiring Poincare ministry.

The president, following the usual custom consulted with Antonin Dubost and Paul Deschanel, president of the senate and president of the chamber of deputies, respectively, before offering the task to M. Briand, who, after a half hour's talk with M. Fallieres, replied that he would consult his political friends and give the president a definite answer to-day.

TURKEY MAKES CURT REFUSAL TO SURRENDER THE FORT

Ottoman Government Refuses to Give Up Adrianople and Adjoining Territory to Balkan Allies—Resumption of War

London, Jan. 19.—The Ottoman government's reply to the European powers, which was presented to the Porte by the ambassadors at Constantinople Friday, will, according to a private despatch received in London Saturday afternoon from the Turkish capital, be a refusal to yield the fortress of Adrianople and the adjoining territory to the Balkan allies.

The reply, it is understood from the same source of information, will be consequential on the other points in dispute, and will intimate Turkey's readiness to resume the peace negotiations in London on this basis. It is expected on Monday, at which time it will, together with the note of the powers, be simultaneously issued broadcast to Constantinople for the information of the public.

The peace delegates in London of the Balkan allied nations say that if this forecast of the Turkish reply is confirmed by events it means a resumption of the war.

1913 TO BE A BIG YEAR FOR THE SUFFRAGETTES

Dr. Anne Howard Says This Will Be the Greatest Year Yet for the Cause of Votes for Women.

New York, Jan. 19.—A general survey of the woman suffrage situation throughout the country with fresh reports from all of the states is planned by suffrage organizations of New York at a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall, Feb. 17. Dr. Anne Howard, president of the national organization, declares that this is going to be one of the most important years in the history of the movement.

"We expect the legislatures of several states to pass on the suffrage amendment in the next few weeks," she said. "It is sure to pass in Michigan, for the men are very indignant over the treatment the women there received last year when the amendment was said to have been defeated by a close vote. We might have demanded a recount, but we decided to let the matter come up at the April election, when the country vote is also strong. The country vote has carried suffrage against the city vote in every state except Kansas, and there they have had municipal suffrage for many years, which proves that women do use the suffrage when they have it."

Dr. Shaw said South Dakota, Tennessee, Maine, Missouri and Montana were among the most hopeful states this year, and that Kentucky and Virginia were both enthusiastic.

The Greek war vessels attacked the Turkish squadron and forced the Ottoman warships to return to the Dardanelles Straits in disorder. The Turkish flagship is said to have suffered considerably.

Twenty-five Dollars Does It

This Helps You Buy a Beautiful High, Dry,
Level Lot in the Fast Selling Subdivision

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

It is selling rapidly to good people of the class who will build homes and improve the property. There are a number of fine houses in course of erection, and many others to follow immediately. The lots are grassy lots without rock. They are level and easy to build upon, and there is abundance of clear, cold, pure water. The view takes in the whole City of Ottawa. Streets are 60 feet wide, and are being well laid out with trees and boulevards, and fine gravelled sidewalks just like every Metropolitan City.

Early connection with the City by no less than three electric railways is expected. The Morrisburg and Ottawa Railway have decided to start building on May 1st, 1913. The C. N. Railway have announced their early start upon their gas electric service, which will run right through RUSKIN PLACE. The Kingston and Rideau Lakes Electric Railway have surveyed right through the property and expect to commence work in the near immediate future.

When any one of these lines commences operations look out for an immense increase in price of RUSKIN PLACE Lots.

Lots at Ruskin Place Now Sell for $275, $300 and $375,

Dr. Grenfell Tells How to Reduce the Cost of Living

There is still a chance that the high cost of living will be reduced. Dr.
Grenfell told the members of the Canadian Club, Toronto, in speaking of the latent resources of Labrador, about how the reduction can be brought about by merely changing the dinner course from beefsteak to reindeer.

At present too little attention is paid to the conservation of animal life in the northern country and reindeer are left to be exploited and diminished. The reindeer development is in its infancy, but despite this fact, the herds number 30,000, and with regular breeding it is likely that 20,000 fawns will be added this season.
"Here is an opportunity for large investment of private capital, which would be a profitable money making proposition," said Dr. Grenfell. "The meat of the reindeer could be made to add much to the world's supply at a low cost. The animal's milk could be exported and the skins could be made an important factor in the fur market. The skin could also be tanned, creating another industry and used for the making of gloves. Three or four millions of deer could be maintained within the bounds of Labrador."
He said the possibilities of fur trapping had only begun. He pointed to the fox farming in Prince Edward Island as a good example to follow, which would mean much profit to Labrador. He believed that in the future more attention would be paid to the commercial breeding of reindeer.

MACHINERY IN THE WEST

Canadian Makers are Waking up to the "Tractor" Trade

Fully five thousand tractors are used on farms in Western Canada whereas seven years ago there were only eight of this class of implement in the West.

"Where do you buy your engines?"
a farmer in Saskatchewan was asked.
"Nearly all of them come from the States. The most popular tractor from Indiana," he replied. "Very few are made in Canada just now, but I believe the three firms who do make them are preparing to get a larger share of this big market out here," he continued. "This season the Canadian factories supplied some 250 engines out of the 2,000 that were absorbed by the Western market."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The election of electing the president anything but attractive to Americans.

If Mrs. Nicholas Longworth joins the petitionary it will settle the question of votes for women.

Would any Peterborough jury hang the fellow who shot a man, whilst the latter practising on the trombone at 3 a.m.?

A by-law was recently passed by the council of the city of Toronto, limiting the height of buildings in the city to 125 feet. This is a step in the right direction.

Gov. Sulzer is right in claiming control of Niagara franchises for the State. The United States has no legal or moral right to the function of control that it asserts over the use of the waters of that river.

It's a mighty unloving wife, who when told by her husband that he is ruined and has lost everything, will beg him to try and save enough to pay the costs of her divorce suit.

John D. Rockefeller has been telling a party of school teachers that the way to become wealthy as he is, was to "have your pennies." J. D. forgot to mention how many of other people's pennies were included in his savings, which after all is the great secret of the millionaire-making process.

Cromwell's advice to his soldiers was "Trust in Providence, but keep your powder dry." Professor Oliver says, "When we look forward to our national progress we keep our eyes upon the German naval estimates instead of upon the kingdom of God." Perhaps this is our way of modernizing Cromwell's advice.

A REAL EMERGENCY.

The Admiralty quotes from the German Naval Law in 1900, the following, referring directly to Great Britain: "In order to protect German trade under existing conditions, only one thing will suffice: Germany must possess a battle fleet of such a strength that even for the most powerful naval adversary a war would involve such risks as to make that power's own supremacy doubtful. For this purpose it is not absolutely necessary that the German fleet should be as strong as that of the greatest naval power, for as a rule a great naval power will not be in a position to concentrate all its forces against us."

For twelve years Germany has been working to that end, and yet Liberal politicians can say, there is no emergency—if there were an emergency, we how quickly we would act.

The memorandum points out that in Home Waters in 1915 Great Britain will have 25 Dreadnoughts and 2 Lord Nelsons and 6 battle Cruisers; Germany 17 Dreadnoughts and 6 battle Cruisers. If there only were an emergency, what wouldn't Laurier do?

To quote the memorandum again: "This power both specific and general will be diminished with the growth not only of the German navy, but by the simultaneous building by many nations of great modern ships."

KISSING BABIES NOT A RULE WITH TAFT

Brides to 22 Anxious Mothers That Their Tots Must Not Expect Smacks.

Washington, Jan. 19.—Since President Taft kept an engagement the other day with a four-year-old girl who came all the way from Wyoming to kiss him, he has been flooded with requests for similar appointments. These come mostly from mothers of babies or from little girls.

Some mothers have brought their little daughters to the White House, hoping to attract the president's attention. The president has received several of these this week, but the little girls had to depart merely with a presidential handshake and smile. It is naïvely explained in behalf of the president that, although he has established a precedent in the case of the little Wyoming miss, he does not intend to make receptions of that character a part of the White House routine.

Letters making this situation clear were addressed to 22 anxious mothers.

TWO HEARTS IN EACH MEMBER OF EACH FAMILY

Astounding Discovery Made by Eastern Physician Called to Treat Smalls.

Easton, Pa., Jan. 19.—A case said by physicians to be the first in medical science was discovered here by Dr. James A. Morgenstern, when he was called to the residence of Herbert Perkins, to attend one of the children who was suffering from smallpox. The case was an unusually severe one and the physicians made a minute examination. When he placed his hand on the right side of the child's chest, he was amazed to find a heart beating there and a moment later was astonished to find another heart on the left side.

It led him to request Mr. Perkins to allow an examination of herself and the other children and the physician found that not only the child, but the mother and two other children in the family each had two hearts.

Today, accompanied by several of leading physicians of the city, another visit was paid to the house when Dr. Morgenstern's discovery was confirmed. Mrs. Perkins and her children, Anna, Allen and David, aged 13, 11 and 14, respectively, are apparently normal in all other respects.

WOMAN'S FALSE TEETH STOLEN BY BANDITS

Says She'll Forgive Robbers If They Return Wallet So She Can Eat.

Cincinnati, Jan. 19.—Held up, chloroformed, a set of false teeth extracted from her mouth and then left lying on the floor of a dark hallway by two masked highwaymen, was the experience of Mrs. Horace Kamp, early in the morning.

Mrs. Kamp had been visiting a neighbor and when she entered the hallway of her home she was set upon by the highwaymen. Why they took her teeth she cannot explain, saying that perhaps it was because they were valued at $35 and the highwaymen noticed her beauty.

She says she will forgive the robbers if they will only bring back the teeth, to enable her to eat.

An End To The Curse Of Wearing Worthless Trusses

No More Rupture Troubles

60 Days Trial To Prove It

You Don't Have to Risk a Penny Here is something absolutely guaranteed. You don't have to take our word for it. You can try it sixty days, make a thorough test—without having to risk a penny—and see for yourself.

If it doesn't hold itself it doesn't keep you from rupturing you. If it does, then it won't cost you a single cent.

The Only Thing Good Enough To Stand Such a Test.

You know as well as we that you can't get anything about a truss or anything else for rupture merely by trying it on. That's the worst of going to a druggist or local truss fitter.

A truss or an "appliance" may seem alright when you first put it on, and afterwards prove utterly worthless.

The only way you can get a truss that is exactly what you are getting is by a truss actual trial.

Our guaranteed rupture holder—the famous Clute Automatic Massaging Truss—is the only good thing of any kind what ever for rupture that you can get on sixty days trial—the only thing good enough to stand such a long and thorough test.

Something Nothing Else Does.

The Clute Automatic Massaging Truss is so utterly different from everything else for rupture that it has received eighteen separate patents.

It provides the only way ever discovered for overcoming the weakness which is the real cause of rupture.

Just how it does that—entirely automatically—is all explained in the free book.

Will Save You from Operation.

The Clute Truss has so thoroughly proved its merits that physicians in all parts of the world and surgeons in the U.S. Army and Navy now recommend it instead of advising operation. It has brought complete recovery in hundreds of cases after operation had proved a failure.

GIFT TO CANADA

Mr. Monk Announces Presentation of Portrait of the Duke of Kent

Her Royal Highness the Princess Louise has presented to Canada, through the Governor-General, for the National Gallery a valuable portrait in oil of the Duke of Kent, great-grandfather of His Majesty the King. This painting, executed by Sir William Beechey, will form a very acceptable addition to the National Gallery of Art at the Victoria Museum, where it is on view. The Government, in accepting and acknowledging this gift, conveyed to the donor, the Princess Louise, the thanks of the Canadian people for her generous remembrance.

A SHINING EXAMPLE

"He must forever shed lustre on our young nation," says Hon. James Young, biographer, in giving his impression of the late Hon. Edward Blake. He adds:

"I have known a considerable number of distinguished statesmen and other eminent and other men, and so far as my judgment goes Mr. Blake possessed at once the most powerful, most acute, and most cultivated intellect of any person I ever had the pleasure to meet. He was the soul of honor. He never even oversteered the argument against an opponent, but this rather strengthened his supremacy as the most powerful and effective parliamentary debater heard within the ornate walls of our Canadian House of Commons. He was popular both in the House and in the country, won many supporters wherever he addressed the people. He was a constructive statesman of a very high order. That he did not accomplish all that he had intended in his heart to do for Canada, gives a touch of pathos to Mr. Blake's life and career. But he did enough to prove himself the greatest of all as five Canadians and his remarkable gifts as a jurist, a statesman, and a patriot, coupled with all the graces of a Christian gentleman, must forever shed lustre on our young nation and furnish a shining example for the youth of Canada to admire and to follow."

AGED COUPLE IN CAVE

Strange Story of Miserable Life Led Close to Pembroke.

Francis Henry Switzburg and Mary Summerfeldt, both about seventy years of age, have been living together in a cave or dugout, for years, within ten miles of Pembroke. They have lived the life of animals, sleeping and eating, the woman begging food from the neighbors, the man never showing himself. The cave in which they spent years is built up with stones, covered with slabs, brushwood and earth. The door is about two feet wide and four feet high. Inside there is nothing but the old man's bunk and in another man cave dug back from the main small one, was the woman's "bedroom." They were taken from their hole to Pembroke. The old woman went willingly enough, but the old man showed fight, and had to be handcuffed. Their garments were rags, and they looked as if they had not seen water for years. The man occupied the cave for seven years, and the woman for ten. Both are Germans and unable to converse in English.

GOOD PROFIT IN ELK FARM

These Animals Could be Raised for Meat Just as Cattle Are—Elk Won't Jump Fences.

Mr. George W. Russ, who has a herd of about a hundred elk in the Ozark Mountains, declares that in many parts of the United States elk meat can be produced at less cost per pound than beef, mutton or pork. These animals afford a much greater proportion of dressed meat than cattle do.

When it comes to clearing out underbrush they are more useful than goats. They browse a low as the goats and also twice as high. He advises using both varieties of animals, however, and says that one elk and two goats to five acres will eliminate the brush and weeds. What is more, brush thus cleared stays cleared.

It is asserted that for other reasons no better arrangement can be made than to graze a few elk with sheep and goats. The elk is the natural enemy of dogs and wolves. Mr. Russ says he suffered great depreciation on his stock until he put a few elk in with them. Since then there has been no loss from that cause. A few elk in a ten acre pasture will absolutely protect the flock therein. Even the dogs belonging to the place could not be induced to enter a pasture containing elk.

The cost of stocking an elk preserve is not great, says "Far News." Young elk in perfect condition may be bought for $100 per head or less. A few years ago Mr. Wilson, of Lewisburg, Ohio, paid $150 for three head. A Michigan breeder recently offered a dozen head, all fine specimens, but age and sex not given, for $500.

This is of course a low price, not more than cattle would bring and less than the venison would be worth if they could be sold in that form. The price of such stock is determined by the law of supply and demand, and as long as the present restrictions on the sale of deer and elk are maintained low prices are likely to prevail.

Live elk sold at forced sale have been known to net the owners less than $35 a head, but conditions would soon change if the laws concerning the sale and shipment of venison were generally made favorable for producing it in preserves. The demand for breeding stock would grow and increase the cost of starting, as well as the returns from the business.

The natural food supply is an important consideration in choosing a range for the elk. While elk have done well in blue grass pasture and on the prairie grasses alone they do far better on preserves which have a variety of food—grasses, bushes and trees. Rough lands well watered by streams and having a considerable proportion of forested area are best adapted to their wants.

TEN YEARS IN THE NORTH

Remarkable Development of the New Ontario District

Temiskaming of to-day is as far in advance of the Temiskaming of ten years ago as the Toronto of to-day is in advance of the "Muddy York" of eighty years ago.

Ten years ago there were only three polling places in Temiskaming. At the last elections there were about sixty polling places. Ten years ago there was not a tree chopped on land where is now situated four incorporated towns.

Ten years ago there were only one or two municipalities in Temiskaming. To-day there are fourteen municipalities.

Ten years ago there was not a newspaper in Temiskaming. To-day there is one daily and six weeklies. The district has increased in regard to all matters which go to make for comfort and prosperity as much as population. The towns have open schools, churches, public buildings.

are resources, while the farmers, many of them, for distances ranging over thirty miles, have telephones, and those living along one leading road have the "rural mail" delivery.

TWIN FRYING PAN

Can be Used as Two Pans Joined Together as One

A cooking utensil which is a sort of twin frying pan has been designed by an Illinois woman. Each of the pans forms half of the circle one regular pan would make and they slide into each other, as it were, at their straight sides. The receptacles have a longitudinally slotted member which holds a tubular member on the other. A hinge is thus formed, upon which the pans rotate so when they are joined the cook must use both handles to lift them or one will turn over and spill the content. Of course, this utensil can readily be converted into two by sliding the sections apart and using them separately. Each is provided with its own handle, as has been said, and each has its own spoon.

HINGE JOINS THE TWO

Think of it, friends!

Another year nearly gone.

Have you lost—a mother or a relative?

It was possibly so before another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likenesses, and you will never regret it. In this case you get a real likeness, and the work of art that will not lose its clear-cut lines and beauty.

HEADACHE POWDERS

Powerful Drugs Disguised Under Technical Names

A bulletin issued by the Chief Analyst of the Grand Revenue Department contains important warnings and recommendations in regard to the sale of headache powders. The report is the result of three hundred analyses of two sorts, each of 150 samples of patent or proprietary medicine purchased throughout the Dominion by the analyst. It is a most interesting document, and in some of the most important parts it is found to be a warning to the public. In the patent medicine act, it is found that the name of the drug used is known to the medical profession by other names, and it is in which they are known to the public. "To emit," a synonym of technical report on the part of Mr. McMillan, is effectively to disguise the presence of the drug as the outside of the name altogether for most people. I would suggest that a departmental ruling be made so as to make compulsory the use of the name of the drug, and not the commonly accepted name of the drug.

He also suggests that the name of the patent drug be prominently indicated, instead of being placed in a list of ingredients, as is often done. In fifteen samples the schedule drug was found in excess without having any declaration on the label and without being stamped, thus coming under the penal sections of the act. Claims to curative powers, coupled with the words "sure," "certain," or "instantaneous," are declared by the analyst to be warranted and in a leading, constituting misrepresentation or misbranding. This, he says, should be made punishable under the act. A final recommendation is made against the putting up of the preparations in the form of lozenges and chocolates. It is declared to be a dangerous innovation. "A drug so potent as a heart depressant as acetanilide or phenacetin should not be disguised in lozenge form. It is sufficiently dangerous to warrant every precaution against excessive use."

ENDED LIFE IN ASYLUM

Business Reverses Preyed on Mind of "Big Griffe," Causing Insanity

Stilas Griffe died of self injury in the asylum at Mimico, to which institution he had been committed from Kenora. He had for some time been afflicted by morbid fear that he was going to die, and his mind became unbalanced. "Big Griffe," Jr., was a character some years ago. He had seen much of life, had been a sheriff in Texas and had traveled in all parts of the continent. The northwest attracted him, and out there he became quite a figure in business and politics. He and a Winnipeg friend took a big contract for ties for the Grand Trunk Pacific and had them already out for delivery, but the coming of spring early precluded getting them out of the woods and they lost heavily. It is probable this misfortune preyed upon his mind and led to insanity and suicide.

A CHEF'S RECORD

He Cooked Chops for Fifty Years for Hungry Londoners

Of very few men can it truthfully be said, "He has cooked a million chops." Yet "William" of Edwards Street, Fishmonger Alley, Whitechapel, London, who will presently celebrate the jubilee of his professional career, is believed to have cooked a million and a half. About ten thousand of these he has eaten himself. The calculation was made on the table cloth by a distinguished statistician, who was so shocked by the figures that he dared not go on to estimate the tons of straws, the mountains of kidneys and the miles of sausages. "I wonder, William," he said, "that you are not ashamed to look a flock of sheep in the face."

But there are other ways in which a wife can materially help her husband. She must make him feel that she is the comrade as well as the wife.

There are two kinds of women—the one who takes the heart out of a man and the one who puts it back—and the wife must be the one who restores the heart and energy when the fight against obstacles has been fierce and exhausting.

She must therefore learn as I learned, to wear a smiling face when disaster threatens to engulf her husband's schemes. It may seem a trifling thing to refuse to appear disheartened when a man pouring out tales of loss and disappointment but I am not naturally a heroine, and I confess that many a time I would gladly have burst out weeping at the recital of cruel disappointments had I not proved by experience that my husband would have been trebly distressed by the sight of any tears or expression of grief.

I was resolved, too, that there should be no open display of tastes and sympathies, and I learned to interest myself in my husband's hobbies as well as in his own profession. "All the applause you get is second hand and comes by way of your husband," was the remark of an older friend to me when someone was speaking of my husband's distinguished career.

But I am more than contented. My husband and I are true partners. I can only give the small services and ministrations of daily life, and my reward is to see that his career has been built upon this foundation and that I have had a hand in his success. —Exchange.

PROMOTING CHILD EMIGRATION

The Rev. Mr. Whalley, secretary of the Child Emigration Society, in addressing a representative meeting at Strirling, Scotland, emphasized the two great needs of the present day—the need of the Dominions for trained agricultural populations to cultivate the vast tracts of unoccupied land, and the need for the removal of thousands of children in Great Britain from their sordid environment in order that they might live healthy and useful lives.

LIFEGUARD FOR TRAMCARS

The Edinburgh and District Tramways Company have been conducting experiments with a view to devising an improved form of life-guard for the cable cars, and an automatic life-guard has now been constructed which promises to fulfil the requirements. The apparatus consists of a wooden gate hinged to the front of the car and the guard, which is fixed some distance behind the gate. Whenever any object strikes the gate the guard is immediately released and falls flat with the ground. Experiments with a "dummy" figure proved entirely satisfactory.

Italian Convict Gets His Liberty And a Bride in One Happy Day

About eight years ago a young Italian, Michael Pizzulli by name, belonging to a well-to-do family at Girona, near Taranto, fell madly in love with Maria Montrone, a little girl only ten years of age, and unable to obtain her there and then in marriage, Pizzulli abducted the child, for which offence he was condemned to 16 years' imprisonment. Prosecution for offence of this nature in Italy is reserved to private action, but through revenge and an old enmity between the families concerned, the girl's parents persistently turned a deaf ear to Pizzulli's abiding desire to wed Maria, and had not her own constant attachment for her imprisoned lover at length softened the hearts of her kinsfolk and acquaintances, Pizzulli would have had to remain in prison till October, 1920.

Recently, however, convict No. 1239 was taken in prison garb to an improvised chapel, where he found Maria, now 18 years old. Amidst a scene of intense emotion the marriage contract was signed and sealed in the presence of a large gathering of relatives on either side, all of whom seemed glad to forget old scores. In accordance with a provision of the Italian penal code, the convict bridegroom, having repaid his fault with the full consent of the offended families, was straightway provided for civilian dress, escorted to the prison gates, and set at liberty, his old warden congratulating him on the way, and observing his departure.

ST. PATRICK IS CLAIMED

Anglican in Doctrine, Presbyterian in Position, and Baptist in Practice

Dr. Sullivan delivered a notable sermon on the "Life and Teachings of St. Patrick." Dr. Sullivan argued that he was Anglican in doctrine, Presbyterian in position, and Baptist in practice.

Speaking on the gospel by St. Patrick, the speaker said that in the light of his confessions and his "Armour" there was no sacrifice of the Mass, no confession to priests, no praying to anyone but God and Christ, and no doctrine of purgatory. "I do not blame the Catholics for claiming St. Patrick," said the preacher, "but as Protestants of Ireland have, in my opinion, more right to claim him and honor his memory than have our Roman Catholic friends."

AN AMUSING ILLUSION

Objects Lengthen or Flatten as They Are Being Drawn

An amusing optical illusion is created by the device patented by a Pennsylvania man and shown here. Moreover, the apparatus is not difficult to make. Take six pieces of cardboard and fasten them hinged together as depicted. They can then be moved either horizontally or vertically at will. Cut an opening in the upper horizontal flap and paste a writing pad in the lower horizontal flap.

Place a mirror to the inside vertical flap so that objects drawn on the pad will be reflected up through the opening at the top. Then set the apparatus up and proceed to draw, a face, for example, on the pad. By pressing the frame down and lengthening the angle of reflection, the face will be shown on the mirror hinged flap and will appear to be drawn out and lugubrious-looking. By raising the frame the face will take on the opposite expression, as in convex and concave mirrors in public parks.

FRAME MOVES UP AND DOWN

NOTED BOER GENERAL

We Learn Something About Military Aviation—Now a British Officer

General the Hon. Christian Beyers, the first Commandant-General of the newly-formed South African Defence Force, is to study the latest military methods in England. He will also visit Germany on a similar errand. The first European army officers will not be able to teach General Beyers much about tactics, but he will have a lot to learn about aeroplanes. The capabilities of which are not yet thoroughly known in South Africa. One of the principal objects of the General's visit is to view some army flying, and he will engage instructors for aviation, as it is intended to establish a aerial corps as an adjunct of the Union Defence Force.

General Beyers played an important part in the South African war, and his role from a private to an assistant commandant-general, his principal exploit being when he captured a British camp at Noodledach. He was chairman of the Peace Congress at Vereeniging, and when responsible government was granted to the Transvaal he was selected Speaker of the Legislative Assembly. General Beyers is a great believer in the value of discipline for he is in common with General Botha and other noted Boer leaders, believes that if the burghers had been under as strict control as the British troops the war might have ended differently. The General has publicly stated that he regards his appointment as "a great opportunity of bringing the two races together."

Their tenure of office is, however, so precarious that they can never venture to let their private residences, as they save nothing and are the head of rent.

Odd Debts of Honor

The epidemic of actions brought to obtain money won at gaming results in an English contemporary how "debts of honor" are regarded in some circles. There is the story, for instance, of William Butler in his card party in a room on the hotel in London. He was killed in the room. The story is told in the book "The History of Gaming." A remarkable instance of the enormous payment of a debt of honor which occurred in 1812 is related in John Ashton's "History of Gaming." A constable passing along the Hampstead road saw a man about six feet high hanging by his neck from a lamp post, while a short man was engaged in "turning" him off. The constable cut him down and asked for an explanation. The two men had spent the previous day tossing for money, then for their jackets and shoes, which the short man won, and finally for one another's bodies, the winner to hang the other one. And the tall man who had been perched on the shoulders of the short man, instead of hanging from his life he gave him a violent punch on the nose.

Admires Canadians
In the comparison of the numbers of millions of population our country is so far ahead of what we call Canada that the figures are never used in relation to respective advancement. We think not so much about the increase of population up there as upon the magic development of vast stretches of plains, the rapid opening of a new country. And those who have had opportunity to observe with their own eyes must admit that our neighbors in the north-west, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia, have been doing things in a few years past to satisfy our pride in them as neighbors and relatives. They show vigor, enterprise, daring, and the nerve for great expenditures. —Cincinnati Enquirer.

ANCIENT MSS. FOUND

Papyrus Relating to Historical Events in Ptolemies' Days

A number of large rolls of historical papyrus were discovered by Mr. Robert de Rusta Jaell, the manuscripts being unearthed by a fellow whilst sinking the foundations of his mud hut, near a temple of the Ptolemies, in Upper Egypt.

They are about twelve inches wide, all closely rolled, some of the rolls reaching to four inches in diameter. A fair estimate of the size of the largest would be about fifty feet which it is considered would constitute a record for a roll of papyrus. They are well preserved so far as the writing is concerned, but discolored, and owing to their dry and fragile condition, are handled with the utmost delicacy. It is anticipated that the contents will prove to be of real archaeological value in adding to our present knowledge of Egypt, and possibly of Syria, as recorded in the days of the Ptolemies. A study already made reveals the fact that they relate to interesting historical events.

ROBBED THE MAIL

A Party of Masked Men Held Up an Irish Car

An extraordinary affair is reported from the West of Ireland. The Irish Mail car from Kildare, County Dublin, to Ballyvaughan, was held up by a party of masked men, all of whom it is declared, were armed. A revolver was pointed at the driver, who quickly dismounted and fled for his life. The car was then driven several miles in another direction by the masked men, and when it was afterwards discovered by the roadside it was found that several mailbags had been torn open and letters were strewn about the roadway.

SAWS INDUSTRY IS HAMPERED

If Iron and Steel Plants are to Extend Present Schedules Must be Overhauled

It is generally recognized that iron and steel are the basic industries of Canada. Think for a moment of the great variety of articles into whose manufacture iron or steel enters. The following dispatch, therefore, to the Globe from Sault Ste. Marie giving a statement of T. J. Drummond of the Lake Superior Corporation is of interest.

"In regard to further extensions, I may say that we have had under consideration certain extensions of our iron and steel plant, but we have decided to postpone definite action in the meantime, pending possible reconsideration and action of the Dominion Government in regard to the iron and steel tariff.

"The existing tariff in iron and steel is so torn up by special dispensations, exemptions and rebates, that the progress of the industry is retarded, and in many cases made absolutely impossible. Under the existing tariff we are encouraged to manufacture in small lines, giving small tonnages, and then discouraged in progression into the manufacture of heavier sections, which give larger tonnages. In other cases industries are practically bonused to purchase their pig iron, merchant steel, etc., abroad, and so in one way and another the industry is hampered, and the tariff is in many cases by these exemptions made absolutely illogical and inconsistent.

"If the iron and steel industry is to go forward this tariff must be overhauled, and such matters as I have referred to must be dealt with in a common sense manner, and especially in connection with pig iron, merchant mill products and structural steel. At present practically one million tons of iron and steel are annually being brought into the country, and the bulk of this tonnage could and should be made in Canada. We placed our case before the Government during the last session of Parliament, and we are hoping that something may be done this session, but pending the outcome of what consideration the Government is giving to our case, we are only mark time, and hope that such action will be taken as will warrant us in going ahead with the extensions we have in view."

MODEST INVENTOR OF THE SPIT-BALL

Stricklett Gives the Credit to Frank Corridon From Whom He Got the Idea

The spit-ball is the chief stock-in-trade of many a baseball pitcher nowadays, although it is barely ten years since it was discovered by Elmer Stricklett, who late this season joined the pitching staff of the Toronto Gull Club.

Stricklett modestly disclaims any credit for the discovery, but hands the honor over to another pitcher, Frank Corridon, who will be remembered as a member of the "Providence" team several years ago. It was Stricklett, however, who first used the "spit ball" with any good effect, and pitched it for two years without any one knowing anything about it.

How it Was Discovered
It was in the spring of 1902 that Stricklett was with the Newark Club in the Eastern League, when Providence happened along to play the Salers according to schedule. "The pitchers were warming up before a game," said Stricklett in telling of his discovery, "when I noticed Frank Corridon, one of the Providence pitchers, musing over the ball and seeing a peculiar break on it. I tried it with success, and shortly afterwards went to the Pacific Coast League, then an outlaw organization, and used it to good advantage, though nobody knew the secret of my success except the pitchers who were aware that I used a lot of slippery elm and wet the ball thoroughly. The idea of the spit ball is to prevent the ball from revolving on its way to the plate, where it breaks either up or down, usually down."

Taught it to Jack Chesbro
"In the spring of 1904 I went South on the training trip with the Chicago White Sox, and was left in New Orleans for a week to help the local club out in a series with the New York Americans. Jack Chesbro was with the Highlanders, and it happened I taught him the spit-ball, which he developed wonderfully that year and became the pitching sensation of the big leagues. Chesbro was the first man to pitch the spit-ball, who was a company, as I only pitched one game for the White Sox, and was then turned over to Kansas City, going the following year to the Brooklyn club.

"Strange, but Frank Corridon, who had the idea first, didn't learn to pitch the spit-ball until 1908—four years after he had discovered it."

Stricklett pitches his spit ball differently from most other pitchers, as he uses the second and third fingers to hold the ball. Usually the ball is held with the first and second fingers.

GLUBS VERSUS GLAWS

Woodmen Had Unequal Combat in Northern Alberta

While hunting near the mouth of the McLeod and Athabasca rivers, in northern Alberta, a short time ago, W. L. White and A. A. Gibbs, residents of Whitecourt, Alta., saved the lives of two woodmen, who were attacked by a grizzly bear, which had been wounded previously by Mr. Gibbs. The men followed the bear and were fighting the animal with clubs when the hunters came along with their rifles. One shot by Mr. White tore through the animal's fore-paw. The bear plunged into the water of the Athabasca, where Mr. Gibbs dispatched it with a head shot. The party also bagged a black bear.

Convinced by the experience with the grizzly that the woodmen needed to be impressed with the importance of bear hunting, Messrs. Gibbs and White solemnly told them that it was a peculiar and distressing failing for bear to follow the trail of its dead or wounded companion, and at times the animals had no compunction whatever in wreaking a terrible vengeance on their human slayers. The result of this piece of advice was to cause the two men to do a pretty dry night while the hunters slumbered peacefully.

LIQUOR AT A BAZAAR

A Magistrate Said an Application for This Was not Creditable

Upon an application for a special license for the sale of intoxicants at a bazaar in connection with the Holy Trinity Church, Aberdeen, made to the local Bench, Alderman E. Foster, one of the magistrates, said it was not creditable to any town or church to make such an application, and he certainly would not give a special license for the sale of liquor at a bazaar. He thought the sale of intoxicants and the cure of souls were strange bedfellows, and he opposed the application in the hope of saving the Holy Trinity Church from such an ignominious alliance.

The Mayor of Aberdeen, who presided over the Bench, granting the application, said although he was not a teetotaler he was a strong advocate of temperance, but he thought that provision should be made for those who desired to do a pretty dry night while the hunters slumbered peacefully.

ROBBED SOLOMON'S TEMPLE

Shelkhs Who Are Accused Have Been Sent For Trial

The Shelkhs of the Mosque of Omar and other officials, including an Armenian, who are accused of aiding and abetting a party of explorers in the alleged removal of the treasures of Solomon's Temple from the hill on which the mosque stands, have been sent, under an armed escort, to Beyrout to undergo trial by a special court. The arrests are in connection with excavation work by an English syndicate, at the head of which was Captain Parker, brother of the Earl of Morley, to find the treasure of King Solomon, which were supposed to have been indicated by a cryptogram in the Talmud. Rumors that sacrilege had been committed led to a riot and the excavations were abandoned. Captain Parker's work was carried on with the approval of the Turkish Government. The Englishmen emphatically deny that anything has been taken away.

A WOMAN'S INVENTION

Now Training Board to Save Backache, Easily Made for Small Expenditure

The trials and tribulations of ironing day suggested the idea of a double board to ingenious Mrs. Mary R. Calkins of Vancouver. She also in need of it. The bottom board received the leg attachments and adjustments and the top board rests on spacing blocks, to be free from end to end, thus allowing a skirt to be drawn full length on the board without making any adjustments.
Backaches too often result from bending all day at a board of unsuitable height. Mrs. Calkins' board is adjustable in height. Mrs. Calkins fitted her board with a lift of hinge, and fashioned another board to substitute when pressing trousers. The trousers may be drawn over it, thus obviating wrinkles.
This removable board has another advantage, as it permits one to iron

small pieces, handkerchiefs, napkins, collars and cuffs without setting up the whole board.
The latest improvement on her board is a floor bag, which slides in and out on a wire frame in little grooves at the bottom of the under-board and carries for extra large pieces, like table cloths.

MONEY FOR A BRIDE

Emperor of Austria's Recognition of Military Aviator's Feats.

Lieut. von Blazhke, the military aviator, has been presented by the Austrian Emperor with $5,000 to enable him to marry the lady of his choice. The Lieutenant, who made a world's record by ascending over 13,000 feet with a passenger in his aeroplane, was engaged to a Fraulein von Tsekay for some time, but she did not possess the $13,000 dowry necessary under the regulations for an Austrian Lieutenant's bride.
Recently, however, the Lieutenant had made $7,500 himself towards this sum from prizes in flying competitions, and in recognition of his brilliant flights, the Emperor gave him the balance out of his privy purse.

Baby Sea Elephant
London has a sea elephant which is an object of interest to zoologists throughout the world, because this is one of the few members of this branch of the elephant family in captivity. The sea elephant is not really a member of the elephant family, being a seal and called after the big land pachyderm because of its tremendous size. The London acquisition is only a babe, but it appears to be in the best of health and will doubtless grow to the average size of its kind, some of which have been known to reach a total length of 30 feet, with proportionate girth. King George was donor of the animal to the Zoological Gardens, his Majesty having received it from the director of the South African Museum at Capetown. The sea elephant is an inhabitant of the south of the southern hemisphere, and the particular specimen came from the Crozet Islands in the Antarctic.

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined?

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

FOUGHT IN A GRAVEYARD

Slovaks and Rumanians Mocked at Each Other's Crosses

A sanguinary free-fight between Slovaks and Rumanians occurred in a cemetery in Hungary the other day on the occasion of the consecration of two crucifixes there. The cause of this extraordinary collision is thus stated: Both the Slovak and Rumanian inhabitants of the village decided to erect a crucifix in the cemetery, but as they could not agree regarding some trifling details, the parties resolved to raise two crucifixes, which were consecrated simultaneously. The Slovaks mocked at the cross of the Rumanians and vice versa, and after the sermon of the Rumanian Pope a free fight followed, knives, and later, bayonets, being freely used. When the gendarmes succeeded in separating the hostile parties and restoring order thirteen persons were lying in the cemetery seriously wounded. One of the injured died before he could be removed to a hospital.

DO PLAYS TEACH RELIGION

He Attributes People's Ignorance of the Bible to Stamping Out of Simple Plays

Is the Anglican Church for the revival of the miracle play? Father Adley discusses the question in the parish magazine, just issued. "Modern drama," he says, "owes its origin to the service of the Church," and he pleads for their revival. He attributes the people's ignorance of the Bible to the stamping out of the simple plays, which taught people the Catholic faith in the best possible way. While he hopes for a revival of the miracle plays, he confesses that it will be a difficult thing to do. "They cannot be acted with their old fervor," he says sadly, "except by devout Christian people. The cinemaograph might be a great power in these days if we would get Christian actors. Meantime we must wait till a new generation of Church people arise who are not afraid to combine an intelligent use of the drama with religion."

ASH CAN ON WHEELS

Can be Rolled Out to Curb Without Fuss or Soiled Clothes

It was a flash of genius that inspired a Connecticut man to put wheels on an ash can. And when in addition to this he affixed a handle, which acts as a brake, he put the chore man's latest out of business. For the head of the house can now roll his ash can out to the curb, if he is too proud to do so, without any trouble at all and without soiling his clothes. The can is mounted on a pair of small wheels and the handle is hinged to the side. A bolt at the bottom engages the cross-bar of the handle and locks the latter in a vertical position when it is not in use as a pusher. Thus the ends of the handle die act as a brake and prevent the can from rolling away by itself or from upsetting, as it would otherwise do with only two centered wheels to rest upon.

HANDLE IS ALSO A BRAKE

RUNAWAY SCHOOL BOYS

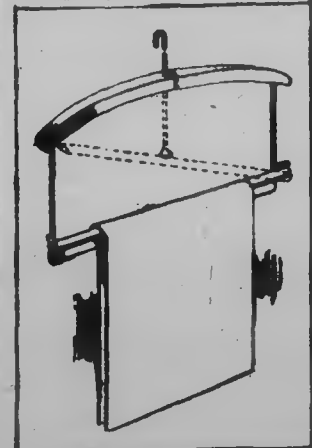

Two industrial schoolboys belonging to Dundee ran away from school and broke into a public-house in North High Street, Fisharrow, where they stole a quantity of bread and cheese, cigarettes and a still bottle of whisky. The contents of which they did not drink. The lads next proceeded to a clothier's shop in High Street, Musselburgh, and attempted to break into it, but were disturbed. Later they walked along the railway line to Edinburgh. In the evening, unobserved, they slipped into an hotel in Princess Street, and passed the night on a sofa, stealing out undetected next morning.

OBJECTION TO TEETOTAL LUNCHEON

for seven years the Edeynrion Agricultural Society has forbidden the use of intoxicating drinks at the luncheon and on the ground of its agricultural show at Corwen, Wales, Captain Vaughan Wynn, eldest son of the late Hon. C. H. Wynn, founder of the society has now refused the presidency unless the members and the public were allowed what liquid refreshment they liked.

ANCIENT BRACELETS

The other day in the course of a lecture by one of the most eminent of archaeologists in Canada—in the world, I believe—there were shown some pictures of one of the oldest known bracelets, one made by a Neolithic man.
This bracelet had been made by chipping down a flint remnant until a flat disc was obtained. Then the center of the disc was very carefully and gradually chipped out with the aid of a little stone hammer until the very thin and being made of flint, a most brittle stone, was so fragile as to arouse great admiration for the skill that had shaped it so perfectly, and wonder that it could ever have been worn. Yet the women and men of the stone age wore these constantly at work and at play. The secret of their preservation was the fact that they were worn very tight against the wrist, as are indeed the bracelets in the East to-day.

CLOTHES CAN'T SLIP OFF

ment under it, or lay it over. Then drop the bar into place again and lock it. In this way the garment is kept from slipping off the hanger, as sometimes happens, and does not wrinkle in the least. After the skirt or trousers have been adjusted, and more than one can be placed on the same hanger, the coat can be slipped over it.

A BISHOP'S CRITICISM

Wishes a More Vital Application of Christianity to Problems

In his address at Carlisle Diocesan Conference at Windermere, the Bishop of Carlisle, Mr. Diggle, claimed a more active and vital application of Christianity to modern problems. "Our duty," he said, "is an age of enormous material prosperity. Money is growing into a god and worshiped with an unrelenting and materialistic worship. On the other hand we are losing the sense of the dignity of labor. The brightening of the habits of living has everywhere increased its cost. These, with other causes, are producing an unrest amounting almost to perilous despair among the lower laboring classes, who often work eighty hours a week for twenty shillings. These things ought not to be. They turn the brotherhood of man into a sham."

USES OF ELECTRICITY

In the Homes and on the Farms of Germany and Switzerland

Rev. W. B. Findlay spoke to the Canadian Household Economic Association about the uses to which electricity is put in Germany, Switzerland and part of France. The people of the new world are apt to think their lives very advanced along these lines, but Germany and Switzerland have got far ahead in putting electricity to practical uses. In Germany electricity is generated chiefly from steam. A group of townships will engage an engineer who decides upon the geographical point best suited for the placing of an electrical power house. From this station twelve miles where formerly only two were done, but they cost a good deal. In Switzerland the electric oven with its perfectly even heat, was brought into use in 1902, and is now used very extensively.
Mr. Findlay drew attention to the fact that Ontario gets all her coal at a profit to outsiders, while a million horsepower that might be used for the same purpose goes to waste in the rivers of North Bay.

Electric ploughs are adjustable to different depths and will plough twelve acres where formerly only two were done, but they cost a good deal. In Switzerland the electric oven with its perfectly even heat, was brought into use in 1902, and is now used very extensively.

IDEALS IN SPORT

Development of Christian Character Should be One of Objects

That there is a higher ideal than that of sport for sport's sake, namely, that of sport for the development of character, was the contention of Lou C. Schroeder, in a speech at Winnipeg on "Christian Ideals in Sport." Mr. Schroeder first traced the development of sport very briefly. The Greeks were the first people who developed sport systematically. They had a double object, that of increasing bodily strength and of gaining beauty of form, but they lacked Christian ideals, and the result was that professionalism came to dominate their sport. In the middle ages, a reaction set in, and sport was abandoned. The era in physical training began about 100 years ago in Germany and in Sweden almost simultaneously, but was not launched in North America until the early sixties. When clubs began to be formed to promote sport for the profit which were to be made in a short time other clubs were organized whose motto was "Sport for sport's sake." Within the last 15 years a great change had come, and it was now becoming recognized that the proper ideal in sport was for the development of character. Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick had been the pioneer in bringing out this new conception by means of a triangle with which he portrayed the connection between the three sides of man's nature, thus for the first time bringing out the connection between the physical and the spiritual.

SCIENCE IN BUNTING

An Essential Part of a Player's Knowledge, Says Larry Doyle

Larry Doyle has been interviewed on "how to bat." This is what the captain of the Giants said to say: "Willie Keeler said in one sentence all there is to batting. His advice was 'Hit them where they ain't.' One of the first things that a batter should learn is bunting—how to lay the ball down, as ball players say. The value of the bunt can't be overestimated. I think that some teams play a bunting game too much. Manager McGraw has always been opposed to the sacrifice game, but when a bunt is wanted it is wanted badly and while the Giants very seldom use it—only the fast men as a rule—every man on the batting order is supposed to be able to lay down a bunt when it is called for.

"When you want to bunt you hold your bat in the natural manner, but instead of swinging you slip the bat under a foot or so out along the bat and poke your stick in the path of the ball. The bat is not gripped so tightly as when you swing, and the result is that almost all of the force of the ball is absorbed. It rebounds only a few feet and rolls in whatever direction you have guided it.
"In real hitting the sober fact is that much of it is a guessing match between batter and pitcher. You don't have much time to change your mind after the ball leaves the pitcher's hand."

WATCH IN A PEARL

France can boast of some of the most artistic watchmakers in the world, and one of them has accomplished a wonderful feat by making a watch whose case is a single pearl. This timepiece has just been finished by a Paris jeweller, after fifteen months of the most exacting labor. Cutting the pearl was not the least difficult thing about the novel watch. The pearl was three-fifths of an inch in diameter. The works of the watch are considerably less than half an inch in diameter, and this in proportion to the size of the case is a much more precision as a full-grown watch, and have all the up-to-date improvements.
There is no danger of these pearl watches becoming common. The cost, which included the price of the pearl, was $6,000.

BULL-FIGHTER'S ROMANCE

"The Little Bombshell" as a Lady-Killer And All Round Sport

The sensation of the day throughout Spain is the news that the most celebrated bull-fighter in the country, known as El Bombita, or "The Little Bombshell," who received $2,500 for every fight in which he appeared, and now possesses a fortune exceeding $100,000, has carried off a beautiful girl, who has fled with him from Malaga. Bombita does not resemble the old-fashioned type of bull-fighter. He speaks French fluently, knows a little English, wears a frock coat, and dresses elegantly, always stays at the leading hotels and frequents the best society, possesses motorcars and is generally speaking, more a dandy than a bull-fighter.

The parents of the lady have begun judicial proceedings, and the judge in charge of the case has sent telegrams all over Spain ordering the detention of the bull-fighter and the young lady, but the people in general believe that the romance will end to the sound of wedding bells.

Fashions in Dogs

So carefully does the woman of fashion select the dog which is to occupy a seat in her motor or add to her appearance on other occasions that he has become almost a dress accessory, like her handbag and shoes, and as such he is subject to favor or disfavor, according to fashion's dictates.

At the thirty-sixth annual bench show of the Westminster Kennel Club recently held in the New Grand Central Palace in New York, dogs from every Province in Canada and many famous English dogs were shown with the American ones. In reading the entries one notices a distinct falling off in some breeds that have been popular for years. Bulldogs and Bull Terriers are less in evidence while the great St. Bernard is restored to favor. The Wirehair terrier is prominent and many society women exhibited West Highland terriers. Pomeranians continue in high popularity.

The ultra fashionable, who speedily echo the demerit of Paris, are going quite wild over dogs of every sort. Toy spaniels and dachshunds were shown at the New York show, also Maltese terriers, toy black and tan and graceful Italian greyhounds.

DEMOCRACY IN QUEBEC

A Proposal to Abolish Government Houses Was Voted Down

The Opposition in Quebec endeavored to have the official residence of the Lieutenant-Governor abolished but were voted down. The amendment proposed by Mr. Bernard Shefford, was to the effect that the House requests the Government to adopt the necessary measures for the abolition of the Lieutenant-Governor's residence, so as to utilize the premises for humanitarian or educational purposes and to give to the Lieutenant-Governor a fixed salary, permitting him to lodge where he liked, so as to make his post in Lieutenant-Governor more conformable to democratic ideas, and thus save considerable expenses to the province. Mr. Cousineau, speaking in support of the amendment, said that he had respect for the person of the Lieutenant-Governor, he was of the opinion that Quebec should spend much less money for the official residence of the official head of the province. Ontario, he affirmed, spent but $6,000, while Quebec spent about $18,000.

WHAT IS A LADY?

Sometimes the Definition Is Made Apparent in a Strange Way

Some one has defined a "lady" as one who talked in a low tone, not thought in a high tone. There are other definitions, many of them but most people travel through the world wondering just what is the difference between a "woman" and a "lady." Some think that perhaps money makes the difference, others consider that it is an accident of birth.
It was in a crowded Vancouver street at the rush hour. Working men were piling in, crowding and struggling for a place. Women were in the minority, and most of them were forced to stand. Near the back of the car, where the crowd was thickest, two women stood together. One was a tiny Japanese, no longer young, her arms encircling a huge bundle, her tired eyes full of tears. Beside her was "a lady." Young and charming, dressed at once so smart and so simple, and carrying herself with the unconscious assurance which private against unusual and unpleasant surroundings, she appeared oblivious of the heaving crowd of roughly-clad men. At her side she rose to leave the car, leaving the tempting seat for whoever could snatch it from the others. About to sit down, the girl caught sight of the pathetic little figure. She hesitated, and a man attempted to slide past her into the seat. With one hand she held him back; the other was placed gently about the shoulders of the little Japanese, who was drawn protesting to the vacant seat—Vancouver Sun set.

ARE MEN THE WEAKER SEX?

An English college professor expresses the conviction that women are gaining the muscular supremacy over the men. He attributes this to their taking a more active interest in outdoor sports, while the men are becoming indolent in that respect, and preferring being spectators to participants in athletic exercises. With their admitted superiority in all the arts and graces, including fluency of expression, and to add to this physical dominance, there seems to be little left for mere man but to plod unenthusiastically along in the ranks of the producers, and continue to pass up his gross earnings to his mental and physical superior every Saturday.

A Soap Lake.

There is a soap lake in Nicaragua. This sheet of water, the Lake of Nejapa, contains a strong solution of bicarbonate of potash, bicarbonate of soda, and sulphate of magnesia. The water, when rubbed against any greasy object, acts as a powerful cleanser. It is used as a hair-wash, and enjoys a local reputation as a cure for external and internal complaints.

It's simply wonderful to think how quickly a bad throat or catarrh can be cured by Catarrhose. Its rich balsamic vapor is carried along with the breath into the innermost recesses of the lungs, bronchial tubes, and chest, making it impossible for the germs of any disease to live. Thus soreness in the chest is at once alleviated—phlegm is loosened and expect-noises in my ears. It was chronic catarrh. Nothing gave permanent relief till I used Catarrhose. In one hour it relieved, and in a few weeks drove all trace of catarrh from my system."

be open to all members and contributors. The annual reports of the secretaries will be read.

Keep Your Garbage Separate

Our readers are once more reminded that when they put pails or boxes of garbage out for the collectors, they should be careful that nothing but garbage is in these particular receptacles. The collector, we understand, sells the garbage to a pig owner. Now pigs may not be pretty, but they cannot digest tomato cans, ashes, broken glass and "sich" bric-a-brac.

Lecture in Red Mill

Under auspices of the International Bible Students' Association, Mr.
Perrin, Bible scholar and lecturer, gave two lectures, illustrated by a large chart yesterday. The object of the lectures is to stimulate Christians and others to a study of the Bible. The Association has arranged for similar lectures throughout the country, and at all of them seats are free and no collection taken.

Assizes Re-open To-day

The non-jury sittings of the High Court of Assizes will resume this morning at 11.30 a.m., after the adjournment of three weeks. Mr. Justice Hodgins will preside and has signified his intention of remaining one week. Two cases remain to be dealt with. They are the Cardwell vs. Breckenridge case, and the Fairweather vs. Canadian General Electric Company. The latter involves a suit for $10,000, and concerns the death of the late Henry Fairweather.

Local Men at Guelph

A number of young men from Peterborough County last week, attending the O.A.C. at Guelph. The following are the names of those who are taking the two week's short course: Mr. Little, Douro; Mr. Car-veth, Dumfries; Mr. Wilbert Clarke, Emory; Mr. Norman Bowles, North Monaghan; Mr. Ernest Scott, Smith-ton; those taking the four year course are Mr. Chas. Brown, Douro; Mr.
Scott, Norwood; Mr. Waterman, South Monaghan; Mr. Wilbert Bonnett, Peterborough. Over 1,000 students are enrolled at the college.

Alice in Wonderland

The Saturday matinee and evening performances of "Alice in Wonderland" was crowded to the doors.
At the matinee, even standing room, at the rear of the Grand, was at a premium. Miss Ruby Quartermaine, with her well trained voice and excellent acting of her part, made a decided hit. A pleasing feature of the matinee performance was the presentation of a handsome bouquet to dainty little Miss Connors, who ably filled the part of Alice. The play was characterized by snap and vigor that could well be imitated by many professionals.

WEDDING BELLS

STEADMAN-MONTGOMERY.
A pretty but quietly celebrated wedding was solemnized by Rev. Canon Davidson in St. John's Church, Saturday afternoon, when Mr. James Edgar Steadman led to the altar, as his charming bride, Miss Eilian Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs.
John N. Montgomery.

Pleaded Guilty to One Charge

At Saturday's police court, William Killoran had to face two charges, one of forging his name to a cheque, payable to A. Weir of the firm of Weir & O'Brien for $10.40, and the other of stealing $1.10 from the same firm. He admitted the latter charge but although it was understood he would plead guilty to the first, he entered a plea of not guilty. Both cases were remanded until Tuesday, Jan. 21st. The prosecution will be conducted by Crown Attorney Wood. The cheque to which Killoran affixed his name was one made out by G. A. Goheen, payable to Mr. Archibald Weir at the Bank of Toronto. After electing summary trial Killoran made the statement that he signed his name to the cheque but he didn't do it with any intention of taking the money.
He is a teamster for Weir & O'Brien.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

The regular monthly meeting of the Y.M.C.A. will be held to-day at 3.30 p.m.

Rev. Canon Davidson's confirmation class met Saturday night at eight o'clock.

Two men were charged with too swift speeding of their respective horses, in Saturday's police court—$2.00.

A meeting of the members of the Peterborough Curling Club was held Saturday evening at the Charlotte Street rink.

Lumbering operations in the vicinity of Aspley have been discontinued in account of the recent thaw.

Don't fail to see "Little Women"
at the Grand Opera House to-night.
This production is guaranteed by the management to be first-class.

Mr. Elijah Windover of Cavendish Township, sustained a fractured arm and was in the city yesterday securing medical attention.

Lakefield News: The largest egg of the season has been laid by a hen belonging to Mr. A. D. Payne.
The egg measured eight inches.

The City Council attended Park Street Baptist Church yesterday in a body. Rev. W. C. Riddford gave the city fathers an eloquent and appropriate sermon.

The full score and a complete set of orchestral parts for Handel's "Messiah" have been purchased by the St. George's Choral Society, and Mr. B. Read, the secretary reports their safe arrival in the city.

The dance given by the young men of Lakefield, in the town hall on Wednesday evening last, was a most trafficking success. About one hundred and twenty-five guests were present and all thorough enjoyed themselves.

BETHANY TABERNACLE OPENS MEETINGS ON JANUARY 10

The annual convention of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, will be held in Bethany Tabernacle, from Monday, Jan. 20th, to Friday, Jan. 24th.

The opening meeting will be held on Monday, at 7.45 p.m., and on each of the following days the meetings will be held at 2.45 and 7.45 p.m.

The Rev. W. H. Chambliss, of Wheaton, Ill., whose Bible teaching was so much enjoyed when he was here last year, will have charge of the congregation.

Rev. R. H. Glover, M.D. (brother of Mr. J. E. Fie, of this city), for 15 years a missionary in China and now Deputational Secretary for the Alliance, and Rev. Iver Wickware, for many years a missionary on the Congo, Africa, will speak on missionary themes.

The Rev. E. J. Richards, Home
Secretary for the Alliance, was expected to be present, but as Mr.
Richards recently met with an accident, it is uncertain whether he will be able to fill his convention engagements or not. There will be meetings for children on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, at 4.15 p.m.

Knowing the reputation of these speakers, we are assured of something good at every meeting.

All who can attend will be welcome.

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

Is Destined to Revolutionize Ottawa's Manufacturing Facilities

SITUATED on a high plateau overlooking the Rideau River, at its most picturesque point, Ruskin Place occupies one of the finest situations to be secured in Eastern Canada. Not one hundred yards away is the "Diamond" that marks the crossing of two of Canada's Greatest National Railways. Exactly opposite, the new $10,000 solid brick plant of the Bickelprick Wallboard Co. is completed and a high-grade of Wall Board is being turned out. Two other large companies also have secured land accommodation right alongside of Ruskin Place, one promising to employ at its inception from 800 to 1000 hands.

To-day Lots in RUSKIN PLACE may be bought at comparatively low prices. Within the very near future announcement may come of definite arrangements for immediate building by one or more additional large industries. This announcement should be sufficient to double the value. It may come any day now.

Learn all about RUSKIN PLACE. Investigate it thoroughly. Already one half of the Lots have been sold. There are only 111 lots in all. Get in early, secure the best choice.

LOTS AT RUSKIN PLACE ARE NOW SELLING AT

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE AS- SURANCE COMPANY

Is practically a mutual one, with the protection afforded by a guarantee fund upon which interest is paid. While such fund is only $60,000.00, the guaranties are liable for five times this amount; so that the position admirably reflects the best points of stock and mutual companies. The Directorate is composed of both policy holders and guaranties.

ON A MOOSE'S HORNS

A New Brunswick Man Had an Unexpected Ride

A decidedly exciting and quite unexpected journey was that taken by Mr. William O'Keefe, of Chatham, N.B. Mr. O'Keefe was on his way along the road to his brother's home when he saw a moose in the woods close at hand. This seemed an opportunity too good to be missed and Mr. O'Keefe at once hastened to the house, procured his brother's gun, and returning shot the moose, as he supposed, wounding it fatally. He then walked up to inspect his trophy, when to his great surprise, the animal, which was very much alive, jumped up, and in a second had caught the unfortunate man between its horns. Off they started through the woods and it was not until after travelling some distance that the moose fell and Mr. O'Keefe was able to free himself from his uncomfortable position. On a again, however, the moose made an attack, and it was only after much difficulty that Mr. O'Keefe was able to get into a tree, where he had to remain until the moose, who, although o' lively, was badly wounded, died. Apart from being somewhat bruised and badly shaken up, Mr. O'Keefe suffered no serious injury from his novel experience.—Red and Gun.

ABNORMAL BABY DEAD

After spending about ten days on earth under conditions which probably never before in the world's history have been the lot of any mortal, the little child at the Sick Children's Hospital with the exposed heart, is dead. For several days it seemed to grow stronger and could take nourishment, but the inevitable change came and it began to sink and grow weaker. Slower and slower did the little heart beat until the pulsations that had aroused such interest among the physicians of Toronto, ceased forever.

Losing a Bit of the Empire

The British Empire is so big that a few chips may drop off without attracting any particular notice. Somewhere between Australia and Antares there is according to the maps and Admiralty charts, a British group called the "Royal Company Islands." But a captain recently sailed over the spot where these islands ought to be without seeing any of them. However, their position is somewhat uncertain. There is a difference of a degree between English and French charts as to their situation. A steamer left Sydney to try to rediscover these missing islands. They were 12 years 50 years ago.

Sweden Decides to Allow Them to sit in Parliament

Women have been offered in Sweden what they are fighting and fighting for in England. In the speech from the throne which was delivered by the King of Sweden on the 14th inst. it was stated that "The Government regards it as right and in the interest of the State to demand the right to vote and eligibility for election for both men and women under like conditions as of a 1913 law." For this will be introduced in the Riksdag.

CARE OF THE HANDS

During the cold weather the skin on the hands is liable to chafe and the finger nails are liable to become brittle and break off. Both give the hands a very neglected appearance, which with just a little care and time can be avoided.

Before retiring for the night rub cold cream or a preparation of rose-water and glycerine on the hands till it has been entirely absorbed, also after washing the hands rub on a bit of cold cream, not enough to make them oily but enough to soften the skin. This will prevent chapping.

For Dog Catchers

New Jersey dog catcher proposes to get rid of all his dogs. Then to the other triumphs of crumettes will be added that of a bare sailing through the air.

An eastern savant tells us fat men rarely are criminals. Julius Caesar had the same idea—at least according to Shakespeare, or Bacon, or whoever it was.

A Skeleton's Age

A skeleton found in England is said to be 100,000 years old. This may be remarkable, but is there any limit to the age that a skeleton may eventually attain?

Natural Cure for Catarrh Obviates Taking Drugs

It Has Superseded the Old-fashioned Stomach-dosing Remedies, and Invariably Cures Quickly.

It was their inability to reach the real source of catarrh and bronchitis that caused the medical profession to drop liquid cough medicines and adopt "Catharhose" instead. Catharhose provides a method of breathing right into the lungs certain medicinal vapors which are so healing and comforting as to entirely banish coughs, catarrh and throat trouble in a very short time.

The most wonderful thing about Catharhose is that no matter where the germs of bronchitis or catarrh are hidden, Catharhose will reach and destroy them.

"About five years ago I took a cold in the head and catarrh set in. It kept increasing by leaps and bounds, I kept putting off getting anything until at last I found I would have to. After trying several things I heard of your remedy, Catharhose, and procured a bottle and began using it. It was not long in finding out I had struck the right thing. I am recommending Catharhose to all who have Catarrh, etc."

Robert Mackle Not Found.

The police have not yet located Robert Mackle, the aged man who wandered away from 227 Thomas street. It is believed he has left the city. Strenuous efforts have been made by the police to locate him without avail.

High Court Reopens.

The adjourned sittings of the High Court were opened yesterday morning at the Court House, Mr. Justice Hodgins presiding. The hearing of the case of Cardwell vs. Breckenridge action was resumed. In this action plaintiff seeks to obtain damages for the flooding of his lands.

Result of Port Hope Inquest.

The Port Hope inquest held on the body of Joseph Gorman, who died last Saturday night, whilst being taken from the jail in that town, when sick, to White's Boarding House, resulted in finding that the deceased was dead and that he died from ulceration of the stomach, induced by excessive use of alcohol taken without food.

Mr. C. D. Thornton Leaves.

Alice Got Change for Y.W.C.A.

The splendid performance by local talent at Alice in Wonderland, at the Grand, resulted in netting the Y.W.C.A. $911. As it is understood, this grand local institution for their share in the matter got 20 per cent of the receipts, a pencil and a piece of paper will enable our readers to figure what Alice made.

Isolation Hospital Under Fire.

This afternoon at three o'clock an investigation into the management of the Isolation Hospital will commence. It will be remembered that the matter came before the council one week ago, and on the motion of Ald. Gordon and Ald. Anderson a resolution was adopted, instructing the Board to proceed with the inquiry, with a view to reducing the expenditures at the Hospital.

A Change of Lecture.

At the meeting of the St. George's church Literary Society, to be held on Wednesday night, Mr. Brock of the Brighton Carpet Works was to have spoken on "How We Get Traffic". This lecture has been indefinitely postponed. Rev. Mr. J. Price, the rector, however, will give an address on "Means of Greatness". Mr. Beck, M.P.P., will occupy the chair. No charge for admission, the public are cordially invited.

A Local Man Returns.

Mr. Isaac Dozier, formerly of East City, but who has, for some years past, been lumbering in Saskatchewan, is back for a brief visit. His children have done well in this world's goods. His son Robert is now a successful physician in Des Moines, Ia. Louise is teaching in Alberta. His daughter Maud, now Mrs. F. Wheat, is the wife of a successful Rochester, N. Y., business man, whilst Lillian is married to Mr. S. E. Mitchell, a skilled mechanic of Oshawa.

An Overwhelming Success.

The committee of the Y.W.C.A. who were responsible for the securing for Peterborough Miss Leonard's operetta, "Alice in Wonderland," wish to heartily thank each and all of those who so kindly and willingly assisted in the putting on of the play. From the first to last, all worked earnestly and faithfully, as was shown in the very excellent results. They very much regretted that Miss Dorothy Allan, who rendered the role of the Indian Princess so beautifully on Thursday and Friday evenings, found it necessary to substitute Miss Young for the Saturday performance.

Police Court News.

At yesterday's police court, a young man named Cooper, who recently became suddenly insane on Sunday, was in the focus of the Magistrate's eye. He was temporarily committed to Castle Rock. Percy Holland, for being drunk and out of control, was fined $5.00 with the alternative of a month in jail. The defendant was not alone in his climb of the Brook street hill, because Bill Harrison also got an order for free labor for ten days, because William dallied too frequently with red eye.

Wants Trap Insured.

A lady living on Brook street, recently discovered that her house was over-run with mice. She also has a cat called Thomas, which tells its age. Thomas is one of those cats as large as a Boston terrier, but not so pretty. Thomas generally is kept in the shed. However, on account of the mice he has, of late, perched upon the kitchen stove. Whether Thomas was born tired, or suffered from a plethora of mice, the mice did not seem to make him eat busy. On Saturday the lady purchased a nice mouse trap, the best you have, please. Saturday night, as Thomas went under the kitchen table, clung to the end of the mouse-wugling outside of the trap, and with one pounce grabbed the little rodent, or that portion of the mouse in view. The door happened to be open and Thomas, with mouse in mouth and trap attached, fled over the yard fence. Now the lady says she will either chain her next trap or demand an

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area.

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

Is Destined to Revolutionize Ottawa's Manufacturing Facilities

SITUATED on a high plateau overlooking the Rideau River, at its most picturesque point, Ruskin Place occupies one of the finest situations to be secured in Eastern Canada. Not one hundred yards away is the "Diamond" that marks the crossing of two of Canada's Greatest National Railways. Exactly opposite, the new $40,000 solid brick plant of the Bishopric Wallboard Co. is completed and a high-grade of Wall Board is being turned out. Two other large companies also have have secured land accommodation right alongside of Ruskin Place, one promising to employ at its inception from 800 to 1000 hands.

To-day Lots in RUSKIN PLACE may be bought at comparatively low prices. Within the very near future announcement may come of definite arrangements for immediate building by one or more additional large industries. This announcement should be sufficient to double the value. It may come any day now.

Learn all about RUSKIN PLACE. Investigate it thoroughly. Already one half of the Lots have been sold. There are only 111 lots in all. Get in early, secure the best choice.

MEAT IN THE WEST

Attention is Drawn to the Demand for Mixed Farming Products

The seriousness of the food supply problem of the prairie provinces is being rapidly realized by wide awake citizens. Recently a conference composed of leading railway men, meat packers, representative farmers, and officials of the Provincial Government was held at Winnipeg to devise means to save the West from an impending meat famine. The hope is that western farmers must devote more attention to mixed farming if there is to be any permanent improvement in the situation. Referring to this the Toronto Globe says:

"The meat for the Canadian farmer is that he must consider the practicality of increasing his production of beef and thus take advantage of what is becoming increasing profits. There is no danger of getting that much if the farmers will only by wise breeding and careful feeding keep up the quality of the animals they rear for food consumption. In Ontario there are many farmers who would find this sort of industry a good way to lessen their perplexity over the scarcity of labor, and to improve at the same time the quality of their farms. There are great undeveloped areas in this Province not adapted for general farming, but admirably adapted for ranching young cattle. Many Western grain-growers who foresee the necessity of mixed farming to preserve their farms from sterility, could usefully resort to beef products as a means of accomplishing the desired result. And the Canadian consumer is quite as much interested in the problem as the Canadian farmer."

Without a plentiful supply of meat at reasonable prices it will be difficult to develop factories in Western Canada.

Tragedy of Toys
A man named Isles, taking toys home to his children, lost his life in the canal at Stroud, Gloucestershire, at exactly the same spot where his little boy was drowned six weeks before.

Near the body a little doll was found floating. The dead man's pockets were full of candies and nuts that he was taking home.

The Great Phosphate and Mica Mines of The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.

Non-Personal Liabilities

Capitalized at $500,000. Divided into 500,000 shares of $1 each.
400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

These Mines will be in operation by April next.

The Company possess 607 acres of Phosphate, Mica, Gold and Asbestos lands, all free of encumbrances.

POSSIBLE PRODUCTION AND PROFITS

The Company has already orders for over 50,000 tons of Phosphate, on which it expects to realize a profit of $5.00 net per ton, or $250,000, which will be equal to 50 p.c. on the capitalization.

Supposing the Company would only realize one-half of its estimated profits, it still would have to its credit 25 p.c., without taking into this estimate the profits from its Mica Mine, which very likely will be as much again. The output of this Mica Mine is almost all sold in advance to large English firms.

THIS PHOSPHATE AND MICA MINES

are prime enterprises right from the start of its operation, and are located in the Province of Quebec, near Ottawa, and only a mile from railway station.

THE PLANT, MACHINERIES

required for the exploitation are inexpensive, the operation expenses, such as labor, provisions, supplies, transportation, etc., are all much cheaper than in Bessing and Co's salt mining districts.

The Shareholders participate in the profits of the Company.

FISCAL AGENTS—

J. I. ARMAND & CO.,
(RESPONSIBLE AGENTS WANTED.)

If you wish to make your money work

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE.

There are few such opportunities offered where the Public can acquire shares at promoters' prices in a paying mining enterprise right from the start like this one.

A limited number of shares are now offered.

AT 15 CENTS EACH

This price may be increased at any time without notice.

Next April, when the Company's mines will be in operation and shipping, these Shares will not then sell at 15 cents, or 25 cents, but very likely at 50 cents, if not more.

You have a chance you never had before of doubling and tripling your investment by next Spring, as the Company will be shipping as soon as navigation opens.

It should be remembered that this is not a Cobalt or Porcupine over-capitalized mining scheme, where Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars must be expended before getting one cent back.

PHOSPHATE AND MICA ARE MINERALS.

Are used all over the world, in various industries, and Canada is one of the principal producers, the market is established. The output of Phosphate and Mica is generally sold in advance, so that the shareholders run very little risk, but have an exceptional opportunity of doubling and tripling the money invested.

PROSPECTUS SENT FREE ON DEMAND.

Application may be made by letter, by sending 50 p.c. of the amount subscribed. The balance will be payable after the allotment of shares.

WORLD FAMED TRAP SHOT WILL BE PRESENT

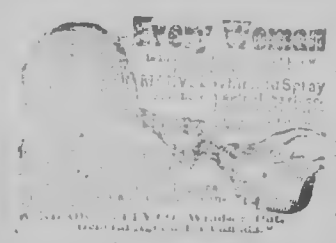

New York, Jan. 21. The annual Sportsmen's Show at New York will be held from Feb. 27th to March 5th inclusive, according to the plans being laid down. There will be numerous new attractions, according to the present plans. Besides the regular contest there will be various special and team shoots and another inter-city competition. The individual winners will include world famous star and record makers, among them the brilliant of Sport. Last year the rules of the trap shooting team shoot will differ a little from those of 1912, with the object of concentrating the competition on the final round. The trapshooters making the ten highest scores in the final round will be the competitors in the final round at low targets. The lighting of the Garden to indoor shooting last year approached outdoor, daylight conditions was indicated by the high scores made in the 1912 tournament. In an effort to improve, Chief Electrician Stewart, of Madison Square Garden, will this year use tungsten lights and make some changes in location and arrangement of lights and shading them.

You May Have Catarrh And Not Know It

ALL WHO LACK VIGOR, THOSE WHO ARE DISPIRITED AND WORN OUT SHOULD READ THIS CAREFULLY

HEAD AND THROAT BECOMES DISEASED WITH CATARRH FROM NEGLECTING COLDS AND COUGHS.

Catarrh is Treacherous—When Fully Developed is a Horror—Note Its Symptoms.

"Is your breath bad?"
"Is your throat sore?"
"Do you cough at night?"
"Is your voice raspy?"
"Does your nose stop up?"
"Have you nasal discharge?"
"Do you spit up phlegm?"
"Has your nose an itchy feeling?"
"Have you pain across the eyes?"
"Is your throat irritated, weak?"
"Do you sleep with mouth open?"
"Are you subject to sneezing fits?"
"Do your ears roar and buzz?"
"Are you hard of hearing?"

If you have any of these indications of Catarrh, cure the trouble now—stop it before it gets into the lungs, or bronchial tubes—then it is too late. The remedy is a safe, reliable, direct, breathable, and that places antiseptic balsams and healing medication on the inflamed parts.

There can be no failure with Catarrh—because for years it has successfully cured cases that resisted other remedies. "No one can know better than I the enormous benefit one gets from the very first day's use of Catarrh," writes T. T. Hopkins, of Westvale, P.Q. "I had for years a stubborn case of bronchial Catarrh, ear noises, headache, sore eyes, stop up nose and throat. It affected my appetite and made my breath rank. Catarrh cured quickly."

Get Catarrh, use it, and you are sure of cure—because of imitations and substitutes. Take Catarrh, with hard rubber in haler, lasts two months, and is guaranteed. Price $1.00, at all dealers, or the Catarrh Co., Ltd., 101 N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

the Regiment to 47 men per company, the local men will have a full week at training camp next summer. The present strength of the local regiment is 30 men to the company.

An Early Morning Fire.
The fire brigade had an early call yesterday morning. They made quick time to the scene, next the Charlotte street Methodist church, where they found a two-story building which has been used for a store house, blazing merrily. The fire was soon under control, but the damage to the furniture stored there will amount to several hundred dollars. The building was stored with furniture belonging to Mr. J. B. McWilliams and J. W. Sherwood, both of this city. Both parties had their effects insured.

Milloran on Suspended Sentence.
At yesterday's police court, William Milloran, East City, pleaded guilty to forgery and was let go on suspended sentence on account of his past record and otherwise good character. Magistrate Dumble in suspending sentence said that he preferred to err, if he did err at all, on the side of mercy, and rather than deprive the young man of his self-respect he would agree to allow him his freedom. A long petition recommending leniency was presented to the Magistrate in court. Milloran's friends paid the costs of the case $10.50 in all.

No Winter Races.
As the local press has had some comments, or news regarding the possibility of winter races at the driving park this winter, and said that the difference between $50 alleged to have been asked for use of the grounds by the Agricultural Society, lessees, and $35 as explained was asked. The Times yesterday asked the president of the Turf Club, "What about the winter meet?" He explained that the Turf Club had not considered the matter of a winter meet and had no intention of holding one. Had they thought of holding such a meet the $15 difference in rental would have "frit no ice."

Peterborough Fair Directors Meet.
The annual meeting of the Peterborough Exhibition directors was held yesterday afternoon in the Council Chamber. There were present: J. H. Garbutt, P. J. A. Hall, W. E. Conway, R. Deane, J. J. Turner, Sr., C. E. Moore, John Brown and J. Storey. G. A. Gillespie, Robert Cox and R. M. Glover. The most successful year in regard to finances was the manner in which President Garbutt referred to the exhibition of 1912. He warmly thanked the directors for their efficient efforts and assistance. The fair, he said, had become one of the best in Ontario. It was necessary, however, that some action be taken in regard to new buildings.

The Vision Was Well Founded.
A gentleman who formerly lived in this city, but now residing in the United States, is a student of theosophy. Yesterday, in conversation with a Times representative, he noted how, as he was passing from one room to another in his far distant home, he saw a momentary but clearly defined vision of the death of a Peterborough friend, who passed away here some months ago. He was so impressed with this apparition that he returned to another room, where a companion of his was seated and acquainted him with what he had just seen. He made a note of the time this vision had appeared in the diary of his pocket book. Three days later, a letter from a mutual friend of his and deceased reached him giving the day and date of the death, which absolutely coincided with the time of his vision.

NICHOLS' HOSPITAL ANNUAL MEETING.

The annual meeting of the Nichols Hospital Trust was held in the Dominion Bank Chambers, Monday afternoon, Jan. 20th, 1913.

There were present: Richard Hall, Esq., in the chair, and J. J. McBain, Wm. Aldridge, Wm. Madill, John McClelland, John Green, W. H. Hill, Wm. Kemp, Rev. Jas. Rolins, and John Crane, secretary.

SOCIAL EVENTS

Readers of The Times are requested to phone, or send to the office any items of personal news or any social events that may come to their knowledge.

Mrs. S. H. Best, 469 Stewart street, will not receive to-day.

Lindsay Warder, Mr. Wm. Natall, of Peterborough, was a business visitor in town to-day.

Miss Nina Maskill, of Chicago, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Miles Waller street.

Messrs. Fred Milburn, formerly with Akey's, and Bruce Robertson left yesterday for the West.

Mr. R. S. Hamlin, the well known real estate agent of Oshawa, returned for his home town here last night.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Dover, of Buffalo, N.Y., are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Cadigan, Carlisle avenue, East City.

Mr. and Mrs. John McBain, formerly of this city, have returned to their home, after spending two weeks with their son, Mr. John McBain, Rutledge street.

OBITUARY

Mrs. McKinnon.

The many friends of Mrs. (Dr.) McKinnon, of Toronto, and formerly of this city will regret to learn of her death. The late Mrs. McKinnon, two years ago, lived at 153 Water street. She was highly respected by all who knew her. She leaves to mourn her loss a husband and three children. The funeral will take place at Toronto.

Joseph B. Comstock.

Mr. Joseph B. Comstock, of Asphodel, passed away on Sunday morning, Jan. 12. The late Mr. Comstock was highly respected throughout the entire township. He was a Liberal in politics and a devoted member of the Methodist church. He was Sunday School Superintendent, class and choir leader for many years, and a member of the official board from the formation of the church.

Mr. Comstock leaves to mourn his loss his wife and nine children. The funeral was conducted by Rev. H. A. Frost, a former pastor, in the absence of the pastor, Rev. R. J. Richardson, assisted by Rev. J. Thompson, the Presbyterian minister of Hastings. He was buried in the Westwood cemetery.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

No stallion show will be held here this spring.

St. George's Church Society met last night in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute.

It has been decided to hold the annual dance of No. 6 Company, 5th Regiment on the evening of Monday, February 3rd.

The 5th annual dance of the Belmont Club is to be held to-night in the Conservatory of Music Hall.

Does the average Peterborough woman who calls "I'll be down in a minute, John!" know she is eligible for life membership in the Mantas Club?

Sheriff Hall has resumed his duties at the court house. It will be remembered that he recently underwent an operation on his eyes, from which he has partially recovered.

Chief Howard received a letter yesterday morning from the Mayor of Hallowell regarding specifications for a new fire station for that town. The Mayor is a cousin of Chief Howard.

FIND "RIP VAN WINKLE" DEAD IN HIS COFFIN.

Well Known Catskill Character Probably Ended His Own Life by Taking Poison.

Hunter, Jan. 21. Gilbert Green, a trapper, known throughout this section of the Catskills as the Modern Rip Van Winkle, was buried to-day at Haines falls, after meeting death under unusual circumstances. Old "Gib's" body was found, Friday, in a cave deep in the woods on the Gordon farm in a coffin which he built himself out of rough timber. Beside him were his faithful dog, his gun and a bottle, which had contained poison. The "tombs" was barred by a heavy door that "Gib" had put up to keep out prowling animals. "Gib" had frequently threatened to commit suicide recently because of the loss of an eye, but nobody took him seriously. He was a member of an old Green family which dates back to revolutionary days.

RAD EGG DISPENSER PAYS $2000 IN FINES.

"Black Rots" and "Spots" Lead to the Arrest of Many Dealers. In Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Jan. 21. Fines of more than $2000 for selling eggs unfit for food purposes were imposed in quarter sessions court. Thomas Lundy, manager of the local branch of Saint & Co., was fined $1000 and costs.

Lundy was accused by the state duty and food commission of selling a crate of eggs that were decomposed. A chemical analysis showed that that of the 30 dozen in the crate, eggs were "black rots" 60 were "spots" and the remainder were of low grade.

It is the defendant and such concerns as he represents, said Judge Ormerod, "that lead to the arrest and punishment of the smaller dealer."

Several other defendants were fined $200 each and the costs.

BOYS USE BABY IN BOX AS A FOOTBALL.

New York, Jan. 21.—A dozen boys playing football with a pasteboard box in a vacant lot in Brooklyn to-day 32 down to rest after half an hour's play.
"That's a funny looking box," said one of them. "Let's see what's in side."
They untied the strings. A four-days old baby boy, naked and to all appearances dead, rolled to the ground. A policeman took it to the hospital. Half an hour later it was crying lustily. It will probably live.

"I Sleep Soundly, Feel Like New"

Proof That Health and Renewal Vitality Quickly Return When Right Remedy is Used.

"I am only thirty years old yet for almost two years I have felt more like seventy-five. I have found it difficult to sleep at night, and in the morning felt so depressed and heavy that effort was difficult. My hands were always clammy and perspiration on slight effort would break out all over me. It was not unnatural that I should begin to brood over the chance that I should be unfit to do my work, and this dread made my sleepless nights perfect misery. After repeated trials of medicines and mixtures, Dr. Hamilton's Pills gave me the first glimmer of hope. From the very first I could see they were different in action from other pills. They didn't gripe and acted as naturally as if nature and not the pills were cleansing my clogged-up system. My spirits rose. I felt much better. The sluggish action of the system way to normal activity. Dizziness and headache ceased, appetite, good color and ambition to work returned, and have remained. I am like a new man, and I thank Dr. Hamilton's Pills for it all."

This was the experience of J. E. Parkhurst, a well known grocery dealer in Jefferson. Follow his advice, use Dr. Hamilton's Pills for your stomach, kidneys and liver, and you'll enjoy long life and robust good health. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, 5 boxes for $1.00, or postpaid from the Cattarhose Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The weather bureau is in doubt whether we are now contending with a late fall or an early spring.

The more some people deny that there is any such thing as a hydrophobia the more people there are who die of dog bites.

A woman who sells dogs in New York calls her establishment a "canine parlour," which indicates that she acquired her verbiage in Boston before going into business.

A man in Toronto is exhibiting a two-headed snake. There are many men elsewhere likely that anybody would be able to see the terrible reptile except themselves.

A set of false teeth lost by the owner while at Sturgeon Point last summer, was thrown on the beach by the waves in the fall, and was returned in good order. It is obvious that there are some things that even the stomach of old ocean will respect.

"Success is not what you do; it is what the public does to you," remarked the Hon. Mackenzie King, in a speech the other day. Doubtless the Hon. J. R. is prepared to subscribe to the truth of this, for the people did to him a short time ago was a plenty.

In married life the happiest couples are those who believe in the rule that "turn about is fair play." When a wife prepares tempting things for the inner man (the c.f.), thinks that the grateful husband should come across with something nice for the outer woman.

You may send a deck of cards or pistol by parcel post in the United States but not a Bible. This does not mean, however, that the American people, as a whole, are more addicted to the use of cards and pistols than to reading the Bible. The law books from the parcel post, however, have apparent reflection on our national character.

BANK ACT WELL RECEIVED

The Bank Act revision introduced by Hon. W. T. White, Minister of Finance, before the Christmas recess is being well received by the people of the country at large. It is seen that there will be no disturbing effect upon money and the delivery of the financial machine will be in no way impaired.

One feature which has been praised is the establishment of a "Central Gold Reserve." The result of this will be that there will be no apprehension of a scarcity of currency at a time when the emergency provisions are not operative for, with the deposit of gold or Dominion notes in the custody of trustees the banks will have the privilege of issuing their own to the full amount thus deposited. This will undoubtedly be a very important step towards ensuring that the general business of the country should not be hindered through lack of currency.

FOUR MIRACLES OF SCIENCE

January 1, 1913, will be a notable date in history if for no other reason at least for the fact that on, or reasonable near that day, four epoch making events occurred as the result of the labors of master-hands of the world.

As the clock struck the hours of midnight on December 31, 1912, and the infant year was ushered in the operator at the government wireless station at Norfolk, Va., flashed out into an "A Happy New Year" and within a few seconds the solid waves were recorded on the instrument in the Eiffel Tower in Paris, approximately 1000 miles away. This was the first time that wireless waves have been successfully transmitted for any such distance.

Within but a few weeks of the new year's birth Dr. Frederick Franz Friedman, of Berlin, announced that he had discovered a bacillus which would cure tuberculosis and he opened an institute in the German capital where he is now successfully treating persons afflicted with the "White Plague."

During the first week of 1913 Dr. Alexis Carrel, of the Rockefeller Institute, winner of the Nobel Prize in medicine for 1912, announced that he had discovered a means of healing flesh wounds in 24 hours and knitting broken bones in four days instead of the three or four weeks it now requires. His method has yet to be perfected, but he is confident that in a short time he will be able to give to the world the benefits of his labors.

Thomas A. Edison, shortly before Christmas, perfected a talking, moving picture machine, and gave a demonstration of his invention of representative of the press who declared it to be so perfect that it was almost meaningless.

These achievements which are truly marvelous and when we are gray-haired and they have passed from the new into the daily life of the world, we will tell our grandchildren, who will then be witnessing greater marvels than we now dream of. "I remember when a talking movie, the consumption cure, rapid healing of wounds and the trans-oceanic wireless first became established facts."

That Terrible Fatigue Can Be Overcome

A Simple Home Remedy Now Cures Lack of Energy, Loss of Appetite, and a Feeling of "Don't Care."

Successful in Nearly Every Case.

That miserable nervousness and half-sleep, tired-all-the-time condition is due nine cases in ten to a clogged-up system. You grow irritable and despondent, you lack ambition, energy seems all gone. Surest road to health is by the frequent use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they will make you feel like new all over in a short time.

Writing from his home in Barre, Mr. Frederick G. Mayer states: "I think no one ever suffered as severely as I did for nearly six months. So many serious symptoms were developing as a consequence of this clogged-up system that I realized I must find a remedy. The strong pills of various kinds I tried seemed after their first effects were over to make me far worse and I began to know which way to turn for relief. I saw Dr. Hamilton's Pills advertised, and the first box used satisfied me. I found a true remedy. Instead of getting with undue activity, Dr. Hamilton's Pills acted as naturally as if I never had not been taken. I never had to increase the dose, and, indeed, within a month I reduced it, and when the system is finally cured of its own record as a result of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, I took a dose twice a week only, just to make sure the old condition would not come back."

No other remedy cures constipation and biliousness so easily or safely as Dr. Hamilton's Pills; they are an ideal family remedy for all diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold in 25c boxes, five for $1.00, all druggists and storekeepers or The Catarthazone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Canada.

PUBLIC OPINION.

The Times does not hold itself responsible for the opinions of its correspondents.

WHY LOCAL OPTION WAS BEATEN

Editor Morning Times.

I read in your paper on Saturday a letter signed "C. Hamilton" giving the writer's opinion that local option was defeated in this city because the Liberals voted against it, for partisan motives, to assist Mr. Lowell's impending "abolish the bar" legislation. As a Liberal, I must protest against that charge. I voted for the by-law myself. In fact, with out prejudice to my party, I believe there is some foundation to rumors

I have heard that, one of the most prominent Liberals of Peterborough subscribed heavily to the local option fund to punish the local hotelmen for personal and political reasons.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH CHOIR SEATS

Editor Morning Times.

Some months ago, I saw in your paper that a representative of the firm supplying the new seats for St. John's Church, had told a Times representative that the seats would be installed in the first week before Christmas or the first week in January. When is this much needed change to be made?

Reply: In response to a question we put to one of the congregation of that sacred edifice, who might be easily assumed to know, we were told: "I am neither a prophet nor a son of a prophet. Allah is great and holds all wisdom in his hands!"

HOW SHE DISCOURAGED INSIGNIFICANT COMPLEXION

(Mona Morrow in Town Tattler)

How often I exclaimed as I beheld my ugly complexion in the mirror, "If I only could turn off this old skin!" And, do you know, I've found how to do that very thing? Not to actually remove the old skin all of a sudden, that would be too heroic a method and painful, too. The worn-out outside comes off in such tiny particles, and so gradually, requiring about ten days to complete the transformation, it doesn't hurt a bit. Day by day the beautiful complexion underneath comes forth. Marvelous. No matter how muddy, rough, blotchy, and your complexion, you can surely discard it by this simple process. Just get an ounce of ordinary rice polished away at your druggist's, apply nightly like cold cream, washing it off mornings.

My wrinkles I got rid of by an equally simple method. By dissolving an ounce of powdered salicylic acid in a half pint of water and bathing my face in the solution, every line completely disappeared. First the finer lines, finally even the deep creases of the feet, vanished entirely.

CALGARY GIRLS NOT SO BAD AS DEPICTED

Citizens Recent Awful Charges of Immorality Made by Ald. Frost.

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 21. Calgary citizens acquainted with the facts, do not at all agree with the statement made by Ald. T. A. P. Frost, to the effect that there are two hundred girls in the city under eighteen years approaching illegitimate motherhood. Ald. Frost's statement has created a good deal of comment, and the general opinion is that he exaggerated conditions to a large extent.

Y.M.C.A. OFFICERS ELECTED

At the annual Membership meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association the following men were elected to the Board of Directors: H. B. Cowan, F. J. Mighit, J. T. C. Lang, C. N. Baker, J. J. Howden, P. H. H. Connell, F. J. Mighit, Ivo F. Brock, J. T. C. Lang, P. H. H. Connell, A. McFarlane, G. N. Baker, C. N. Lang. The financial statement showed a balance of $113.02.

KUBELIK TOOK NEW NAME

Had to Claim Hungarian Citizenship in Order to Marry.

The widely published report that the violinist Kubelik had become a Hungarian and had taken the name of Polgar moved his wife to write that the story "caused considerable feeling in Bohemia."

"The Pearl Biting," she says, "which printed the report is waging a relentless campaign against us. My husband and myself are too proud of the name of Kubelik to be so easily cleared."

"The milk was due to the fact that the Austrian law compelled my husband to claim Hungarian citizenship in order to obtain a license to marry me, hence the name Polgar, which signifies citizen in the Magyar language as assigned to him."

Perfume Injections

A new cure has been provided in Paris. The idea is that instead of using morphia, cocaine, or other hypodermic injections of other rose, violet, and lily perfume perfumes. These fragrances remain. An actress, who was the first to try it, declared that forty-eight hours after an injection of one of these perfume skin was saturated with the aroma. The experiment is proving attractive.

HE FOUND THEM—NO FAITH CURE

He was in agony when a friend gave him a box. Now he recommends them to everybody.

Newcastle, N.B., Jan. 21.—(Special.)—In these cold fall days, when the chills would visit the urea and in the blood and cause the pangs of Rheumatism and Sciatica to bring sleepless nights to many a home, a man's best friend is he who can tell his neighbor of a sure cure for his tortures. Such a friend is Wm. F. Black, of this place. He suffered from Sciatica and lame back. He was so bad that he could not lace his boots or turn in bed. Dadd's Kidney Pills cured him and he wants all his neighbors to know of the cure.

"Yes," Mr. Black says, in an interview, "I was so bad with Sciatica and Lame Back that I couldn't lace my shoes or turn in bed, when a friend gave me about a third of a box of Dadd's Kidney Pills. I started taking them without much faith in their curative powers, and found them all they were recommended."

"Now, I am recommending Dadd's Kidney Pills to all sufferers from Kidney Disease."

Dadd's Kidney Pills are no faith cure. They're a simple but sure cure for diseased kidneys.

Old Oxford Tradition

A striking innovation marked the admission of Dr. Heberden as Vice-Chancellor of Oxford University, for he departed from the tradition of many centuries by reading his address in English instead of in Latin.
He also announced that a letter had been received from the Board of Agriculture, stating that the Treasury would be prepared to authorize an annual grant not exceeding $1,250 in aid of the instruction of forestry in the University.

Where Work is Plentiful

In a statement issued by the Greenock Council it was said that work in the town has been so plentiful during the past year or so that every man had been wished it could have had two jobs. There is, it was said, more electricity sold in Greenock per head of the population than in any other town in the kingdom.

A SHORT REVIEW OF BRITISH NEWS

Little Odds and Ends of Interest Gleaned From All Quarters of the Old Land

Mr. Wm. Bruce, who died in 1911, was one of the oldest members of the Old Order, with which he had been connected for seventy-one years. He was a wheelwright and cart builder till he retired about thirty years ago.

For fifteen years Mr. John Potter, who was elected Mayor of West Stone, Kent, was a journeyman paper-maker at Hayle Hill, near Maidstone. Mr. Potter, who is seventy-three years of age, was the first working man in England to be made a J.P.

Unable to Speak English
At Menai, Wales, a fifteen-year-old boy, well up in school, was charged in the police court with a minor offence, stating that he was unable to understand English and the Welsh language had to be used.

115 Years Old
Mrs. Bridget Hickey, of Malpas, County Galway, Ireland, whose date of birth is recorded as 1800, is now aged 115 years. She married a man who died in 1840, and has since lived almost to the last. Her husband, Father Joyce, died in 1840.

Enormous Price for Bull Calf
Mr. J. J. O'Brien, of London, a well-known exporter of cattle to the Argentine, gave $10,000 for a six-month-old bull calf at the annual sale of short-horns held at the same place. The calf was the property of Mr. W. D. O'Brien, of Aberdeen.

Man Who Weighed 308 Pounds
David Gibb, an iron turner of Belfast, who was found dead in bed, was stated by his wife to have weighed 308 pounds. He was a man of great strength and was a member of the local fire brigade.

Children for Sale
Mr. D. J. Pugh, relieving officer for the Bullh. Wales, Board of Guardians, stated at a Board meeting that George Gough, whose wife and children were receiving charity, had told him that he intended making an application for permission to sell his children. She was selling them for $100 each and he believed that his children would sell well if put up by public auction.

Skeleton of a Viking
What is considered to be the skeleton of a Viking was discovered at Reay, on the north coast of the county of Caithness, Scotland. In close proximity was found the buckle of the bridle of a horse. The skeleton was first observed by James Forbes, a policeman, while on his rounds. On seeing a man skull protruding from a large sandbank, he acquainted the district inspector of police, and together they cleared away the sand. The bones were collected and buried in Reay Cemetery.

Taught Mr. Lloyd George to Speak
By the death of Mr. Robert Roberts (Llew Glas) at Aberystwyth, Ceredigion, Wales, a man who was a close personal friend of Mr. Lloyd George, it is said that he taught Mr. Lloyd George to speak.

Decline of Salmon Fisheries
The report of the Department of Agriculture on the salmon fisheries of the United Kingdom, states that the decline in the number of salmon has been more pronounced in the last few years than in any previous period. The decline is attributed to the over-fishing of the rivers and to the pollution of the water.

Famous Old Church
The famous Old Greyfriars Church, Edinburgh, which was built in the last day of February, 1538, was signed the epoch-making document, the National Covenant, and in whose pulpit have ministered some of the most notable men, has prompted the congregation to erect within the church a memorial commemorative of the 400th anniversary of the church's foundation on its present site.

Teeth for Scholars
On its being stated at Cambridge, Scotland, School Board that $300 had been granted for the medical treatment of poor children, the five-year-old Stork raised the question of supplying children with artificial teeth. The Chairman said that there are very few school children so bereft of teeth that they are unable to masticate. Dr. H. H. Mortyn retorted that the expenditure of the entire grant made by the Education Department would only touch the fringe of the problem.

Distilled Insurance
George William Whitaker, an undertaker, was summoned at Liverpool to two informations for obstructing and assaulting an inspector under the Insurance Act.

The inspector, named Varnall, went to Whitaker's premises to see the contribution cards of the workmen. Mr. Whitaker refused information and eventually pushed the inspector into a yard.

The assault was denied, although it was not contended that Whitaker did not commit an offence under the Act. What he complained of was the manner in which the demand for the cards was made. He was annoyed, being called from his work for such a purpose. He admitted that he lost his temper. A fine of $250 and $50 costs in each case was imposed.

King's New Farm
For the sum of $50,000 King George purchased Sherborne Hall Farm, lying to the north of Sandringham, which is now practically ringed round by the King's property. The hall farm is occupied by Mr. C. R. Bullard, and it consists of some 700 acres, and a castellated house, surrounded by a moat.

Many years ago the farm was bequeathed to Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and an interesting clause in the agreement between the college and the tenant, which has existed for a long period, is that the tenant should supply six fat turkeys yearly to the college.

Think of it, friends!
Another year nearly gone.
Have you lost a mother or a relative?

If not possibly so before another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likeness, and you will never regret it. In this case you will have a work of art that will not lose its clear-cut lines and beauty.

HIDDEN REPUBLIC AND ITS PEOPLE

Andorra a Self-Governing State Tucked Away in Obscure Valley

Hidden in a valley of the Pyrenees between France and Spain is the tiny Republic of Andorra, concerning which Mr. Lewis G. O'Leary has written a book recording what he saw and found out in the course of a visit there. In size Andorra is about one quarter that of Greater London—about 175 square miles to be exact—and here, for eleven centuries, a population of never over 6,000 hardy mountaineers have struggled to wrest a livelihood from the sterile soil, sheltered from the winter storms by the lofty Pyrenees, which rise so close above their valley, protected from outside interference by their very poverty, and every day thanking God that they were Andorrans and were free. But, whence came the Andorrans?

Whence Came They?
When the Moors were extending their conquests into Europe a band of Catalanian peasants (Catalonia is a northern province of Spain), fled up the Segre River and followed its tributary, the Nallra, right into the heart of the mountains. Even there they were not safe from the Moslem invaders, and they appealed for help to Charlemagne. He drove the Moors away southward, but they soon returned, and Charlemagne, who was the Andorrans' savior, gave them the Andorrans' name as "Louis, the Pious," came to their assistance, forced the Moors to seek refuge among the mountains, and overwhelmingly defeated the natural barrier of gorges and mountains as boundaries which have remained so to this day. He settled some of his own soldiers there, made the inhabitants of the valley free of every tax or impost, and placed the little state under the protection of one of his knights whom he created Count of Urgel, the district from which the Andorrans had originally emigrated.

Joint Suzerainty
The history of Andorra for seven centuries is a struggle up in a medieval feudal intrigue in which church and state are at conflict. In 1178 an agreement was arrived at by the Bishop of Urgel and the Count of Foix (his rival claimant) to administer justice in the valley in alternate years. Through various changes in succession the claims of the Bishops of Foix (a French province) became vested in the head of the French Government, so that the so-called "suzerainty" of Andorra now are the president of the French Republic and the bishops of Urgel.

The term "republic" as applied to Andorra, can therefore, hardly be considered strictly correct. Mr. O'Leary defines it as "a lonely survival of medieval feudalism." It is a self-governing state, though not a sovereign one. France receives a biennial tribute of $500, the Bishop of Urgel, $150. In addition to this at Christmas time the bishop receives from each of the six parishes, two fine hams, two choice cheeses and two fat capons.

The direct influence of the joint protectorate is exercised through two trustees, the French trustee is appointed for life, the other is always a native Andorran and is named for a term of three years. Their duties deal with the administration of justice, the collection of taxes, and the decisions in all cases must be in harmony with the customs and usages of the valley. Neither France nor Spain has ever attempted to make laws for Andorra.

The Andorrans are described as a silent people. In appearance they are partly of Spanish descent, having slipshod and stolid features, and muscular arms. They are hard and untiring workers, and although no one in the valley is very rich, there is no excessive poverty. The Andorrans are not known for their religion; they are all Roman Catholics.

A CRUEL LODGER
Flesh Burnt off Woman's Arms Because Dinner was Not Ready
A revolting story of the revenge of a hungry lodger was told at the London police court when Lewis Chapman, of Willesden, was charged with assaulting Mrs. Field, a woman with whom he lodged, by burning her with a red-hot poker.

Mrs. Field, said that her lodger came home in a bad temper, and because his dinner was not ready he locked her in a room, made the poker red-hot, and burnt the flesh off both her arms. Ever since she had been in intense agony.

The lodger, who stated that he was "a bit of a brute," was sentenced to six months' hard labor without the option of a fine.

King's New Farm
For the sum of $50,000 King George purchased Sherborne Hall Farm, lying to the north of Sandringham, which is now practically ringed round by the King's property. The hall farm is occupied by Mr. C. R. Bullard, and it consists of some 700 acres, and a castellated house, surrounded by a moat.

Many years ago the farm was bequeathed to Emmanuel College, Cambridge, and an interesting clause in the agreement between the college and the tenant, which has existed for a long period, is that the tenant should supply six fat turkeys yearly to the college.

Think of it, friends!
Another year nearly gone.
Have you lost a mother or a relative?

If not possibly so before another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likeness, and you will never regret it. In this case you will have a work of art that will not lose its clear-cut lines and beauty.

The Great Phosphate and Mica Mines of The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.

Non-Personal Liabilities

Capitalized at $500,000. Divided into 500,000 shares of $1 each.
400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

These Mines will be in operation by April next.

The Company possesses 607 acres of Phosphate, Mica, Gold and Asbestos lands, all free of encumbrances.

POSSIBLE PRODUCTION AND PROFITS

The Company has already orders for over 50,000 tons of Phosphate, on which it expects to realize a profit of $5.00 net per ton, or $250,000, which will be equal to 50 p.c. on the capitalization.

Supposing the Company would only realize one-half of its estimated profits, it still would have to its credit 25 p.c., without taking into this estimate the profits from its Mica Mine, which very likely will be as much again. The output of this Mica Mine is almost all sold in advance to large English firms.

THIS PHOSPHATE AND MICA MINES

are paying enterprises right from the start of its operation, and are located in the Province of Quebec, near Ottawa, and only a mile from railway station.

THE PLANT, MACHINERIES

required for the exploitation are inexpensive, the operation expenses, such as labor, provisions, supplies, transportation, etc., are all much cheaper than in Porcupine and Cobalt mining districts.

The Shareholders participate in the profits of all the Companies' mines.

FISCAL AGENTS—

J. T. ARMAND & CO.,
(RESPONSIBLE AGENTS WANTED.)

If you wish to make your money work

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE.

There are few such opportunities offered where the Public can acquire shares at promoters' prices in a paying mining enterprise right from the start like this one.

A limited number of shares are now offered.

AT 15 CENTS EACH

This price may be increased at any time without notice.

Next April, when the Company's mines will be in operation and shipping, these Shares will not then sell at 15 cents, or 25 cents, but very likely at 50 cents, if not more.

You have a chance you never had before of doubling and tripling your investment by next Spring, as the Company will be shipping as soon as navigation opens.

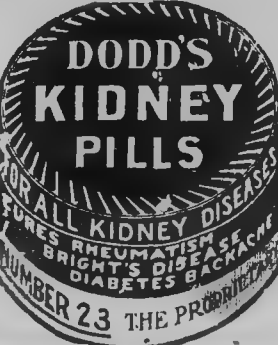

It should be remembered that this is not a Cobalt or Porcupine over-capitalized mining scheme, where Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars must be expended before getting one cent back.

PHOSPHATE AND MICA ARE MINERALS.

Are used all over the world, in various industries, and Canada is one of the principal producers; the market is established. The output of Phosphate and Mica is generally sold in advance, so that the shareholders run very little risk, but have an exceptional opportunity of doubling and tripling the money invested.

PROSPECTUS SENT FREE ON DEMAND.

Application may be made by letter, by sending 50 p.c. of the amount subscribed. The balance will be payable after the allotment of shares.

PRECIOUS ASHES

Radium Burned in Grate by Accident and Mixed With Cinders

A firm of Birmingham chemists undertook a delicate task—that of recovering from some ashes about $500 worth of radium. This substance is frequently used for the treatment of skin diseases by private practitioners, who hide the precious mineral. It is contained in what is known as an applicator.

A doctor having removed from a patient's body the applicator and surgical dressings, inadvertently threw them both on to the bedroom fire. The doctor, much distressed, hastened to direct that possession should be taken of all the ashes from the fireplace, and this was done at once. The cinders, contained in a cardboard box, weighed about two pounds and it was found by scientific investigation that they were radioactive. The method of recovering the radium is very slow, as all the ashes have to be reduced to powder by slow ignition in oxygen, but eventually it is hoped to regain about half of the precious stuff.

LICENSED HAWKERS

Street Vendors in London City Now Wear Badges

London hawkers are now wearing the new soft arm metal oval-shaped badge and a number, issued by the Commissioner of Police. Street vendors have increased so greatly in number of late in the most frequented thoroughfares in the City that it has become a serious problem of traffic.

Altogether about 8,000 men and women sent in their names to be registered, but a very large number of the applicants did not succeed in making good their claims as they have to show a plausible title to three years' street trading before being allowed to do business at their favorite haunt Ludgate Hill—the year round.

Most of the licensed hawkers are old people, with the exception of the flower women. The men seem to regard the badge as a cherished distinction, and, whether they wear it on the right arm or the left, make it sufficiently conspicuous. One of them tersely remarked: "Power of us and our trade. We feel like a bit of the Corporation now."

Indian Prince in Ireland

After spending a week in Killybeg and the South of Ireland, his Highness the Maharajah Rana of Jhansi, Rajputana, referred to the Irish people as the most kindly and charming he ever met.

Parish Without a Juror

In the parish of Littleton-on-Thames, it was explained to the Feltham magistrates, there is not a single juror. All those living in houses which have the rating qualification are over sixty, and, therefore, exempt, except the rector who is ineligible.

Stranger adventures than that which befell an Englishman, Hugh Gilchrist of Newcastle, on the east coast of Africa, is seldom met with outside the realms of fiction. Gilchrist was an still is, second engineer with the Royal Prince, which makes periodic calls at Mombasa. At this port Gilchrist's adventures began. He was set out for the jungle to hunt for game, and he was to come back with a lion's skin and a tiger's skin.

Alone, Gilchrist followed the trail until he was lost. As he was about to give up, he saw a large animal, which he followed. He was surprised to find that the animal was a lion, and he was to come back with a lion's skin and a tiger's skin.

SLEEP DISTURBING BLADDER WEAKNESS BACKACHE-RHEUMATISM, QUICKLY VANISH

Even Most Chronic Sufferers Find Relief After A Few Doses Are Taken.

Backache, urinary disorders, and rheumatism, are caused from weak, inactive kidneys, which fail to filter out the impurities and keep the blood pure, and the only way on earth to permanently and positively cure such troubles, is to remove the cause.

The new discovery, Croxon's, cures such conditions because it reaches the very roots of the disease. It soaks right into the stopped up, inactive kidneys, through the walls and cleans out the little filtering cells and glands, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles to scratch and irritate the cause rheumatism; it neutralizes the urine so it no longer irritates the tender membranes of the bladder and cleans out and strengthens the stopped up, lifeless kidneys so they filter and sift all the poisons from the blood, and drive it out of the system.

So sure, so positive, so quick and lasting, are the results obtained from the use of Croxon, that three doses a day for a few days are often all that is required to cure the worst case of backache, regulate the most annoying bladder disorders, and overcome the numerous other similar conditions.

It is the most wonderful preparation ever made for the purpose. It is entirely different from all other remedies. There is nothing else on earth to compare with it. It is so simple to take it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results.

You can obtain an original package of Croxon at trifling cost from any first-class drug store. All drug stores are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxon fails to give desired results, regard less of how old you are, how long you have suffered, or what else has failed to cure you.

SUFFRAGETTES USING THREATS BEFORE ENGLISH GOVERNMENT

One of Them Told Lloyd George That the Past Performances Will Be Far Exceeded If Votes Are Not Granted to Them

London, Jan. 23. The suffragettes had their message today, preliminary to the final fight for votes for women, which will come up in the House of Commons in connection with the Franchise Bill.

Mrs. Mary Wood, a middle-aged woman, employed in one of the East-end sweatshops, told Lloyd George that she received only 75 cents a week and on that she was attempting to support a consumptive husband.

Can't Make Matters Worse.
Mrs. Anna Elwood, a factory worker, made a novel plea for the ballot. "No matter how the women use or misuse the vote, conditions can not be any worse than they are now," she said.

Mrs. Norton, a Yorkshire weaver, suggested the ominous note in the proceedings when she said: "If votes for women are not granted at this session of Parliament, I am sure to warn you that the past performance of the militants will look like pinpricks compared to what we will do in future."

Smashing of windows, pouring of paint, ink and oil into letter boxes, cutting public telephone wires, and breaking up meetings addressed by cabinet members, so far has been the limit of the militants.

Grey Will Not Resign.
Lloyd George, replying to a question, said that it was untrue that Sir Edward Grey would resign if the equal suffrage amendment lost. "Personally I favor the proposed amendment," said the Chancellor of the Exchequer. "But I have pledged the Government's support of an amendment that is acceptable to the House of Commons."

David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, this afternoon received a deputation of twenty suffragettes by the Treasury Office.

The women were selected from among 1,500 suffrage leaders gathered from all England. Lloyd George heard their arguments for the ballot and answered some of them. He denied emphatically that Sir Edward Grey, Foreign Minister, or any other member of the Cabinet would resign should votes for women be lost.

College Girls Had A Ride in Patrols
Montreal, Jan. 23. Some in their bare feet, all of them in nightgowns, a few covered by kimonos and dressing gowns, hastily donned, twenty daughters of prominent families, pupils in the select boarding school of the Misses Edgar and Cramp, made up this morning as strange a load as any Montreal police patrol was ever carried.

A fire which broke out in the school building on Guy street, drove teachers and pupils out in a hurry, shortly before five o'clock. All got away without personal harm, but very few saved anything except the flimsiest clothing. The fire was on the top floor, and the drowsy girls following to the last detail their usual fire drill, assembled on the ground floor where the police and firemen found them very little excited.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT NEAR PETERBORO SHOVEL CO.

Yesterday afternoon a serious accident occurred on the railroad track immediately west of the Peterboro Shovel Works. It seems that Mr. Duncey, a local carpenter, was at the point where the shovel works are being built, in a wagon he had been using for carrying sand. Mr. Duncey tried to drive across the tracks and did not seem to be aware of an approaching engine. The engine had just been to the water tank and was not known at what speed it was going at the point where the accident happened. The heavy weight of the engine struck Mr. Duncey's wagon, and he was thrown heavily from the overturned wagon to the ground. He was picked up in a semi-conscious condition. An ambulance was quickly requisitioned and the unfortunate man taken to St. Peter's Hospital. Dr. Sutton was in attendance. In response to questions put by the Times, last night, the doctor said that the injury is serious. The sufferer, whilst not showing outwardly a fractured skull, may have a portion of the brain injured. He was only unconscious last night.

TURKISH CABINET IS FORCED TO RESIGN

Constantinople, Jan. 23. The Turkish Cabinet resigned to-day in consequence of public demonstrations and protests against its action in according to the wishes of the European powers. Mahomed Shekret Pasha, formerly War Minister, has been appointed Grand Vizier in place of Kiamil Pasha.

BISHOP O'CONNOR PASSED AWAY YESTERDAY EVENING

Last night, at nine o'clock, a revered bishop and respected citizen passed away at St. Joseph's Hospital, in the person of His Lordship Bishop O'Connor, at the age of 75 years. His Lordship was beloved not only by all the members of his own congregation and diocese, but by all who were honored with his acquaintance. Bishop O'Connor was translated to Peterborough nearly a quarter of a century ago, since which he has done much both morally and materially for the church he served so well. Previous to coming to Peterborough, the deceased prelate was Dean of Barrie. He here succeeded His Lordship Bishop Dowling, who was made Bishop of Hamilton.

The deceased bishop, who was afflicted with general paralysis, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital for treatment. He was to remain his last night, Miss O'Connor, of Toronto, who was in Peterborough during the last days of His Lordship's illness. The funeral will be held at 9.30 a.m. Tuesday, at St. Peter's Cathedral and thence to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

ALL EAGER TO TAKE PART IN DISCUSSING BANK ACT

Ottawa, Jan. 23. Major Sam Sharp, of North Ontario, after the showing made in the House Tuesday night, regards Government inspection of banks as inevitable. "The Bank Act is a business measure," said Major Sharp, "and the members won't feel called upon to line up to the support of the bill simply because it is a Government one. I think that the discussion Tuesday night will give courage to members on both sides of the House to resist the momentary interests, and make a fight to have some efficient measure of Government control established. Mr. White himself made the strongest recommendation for Government inspection when he said the reason for bank failures had always been found in the hands of officers. Why can't bank inspectors inspect the head offices of our banks? The people of Canada have millions in these banks without any real control. The shareholders are to appoint an auditor, not an inspector. That means that the directors will appoint him for it is a lamentable fact that shareholders do not always take a very active part in looking after their affairs. If the directors appoint the auditor it will be a cut and dried affair. They could cut his emolument down so that he could not act at all if he proved too rigorous an auditor, and supplant him with another one more amenable."

BILLION DEAD GERMS OF TYPHOID INJECTED

Medical Man Says Fifty Million Is "Innatesimal Dose"—Prevents Disease.
Chicago, Jan. 23. Col. W. B. Bannister, Medical Corps, U.S.A., during a discussion last night before Chicago Medical Society, on serum treatment and preventing of typhoid fever, said that 50,000,000 dead typhoid germs in a serum injection is an "innatesimal dose."
"In the army we would consider 30,000,000, infantile," he said. When we vaccinate a man against typhoid we give him an injection of 500,000,000 dead typhoid germs the very first time. Of course we wait till his body's work is nearly finished. But we expect him to be on duty bright and early next morning and ready for the next dose of at least one billion germs.
In the last San Antonio Tex. campment, when the city was full of typhoid, we had 12,000 men in camp for eight months, and only one mild case of typhoid during the time."

FOULKE E. BRANDT, PARDONED BY NEW YORK GOVERNOR, TO TAKE UP LITERARY WORK

FOULKE E. BRANDT AND SENATOR KNUTE NELSON
ARRIVING AT GRAND CENTRAL STATION

It was with a light spring step that Foulke E. Brandt, pardoned by Governor Hughes, after six years' imprisonment, walked a free man through the Grand Central Terminal in New York city, shortly after his release from Albany. The explosion of the flash light of the photographers attracted a large crowd to his spot and when his identity became known there was cheering and shouting of "Good luck, Brandt!"

Brandt left Albany in company with Senator Knute Nelson, of Minnesota. Charles M. Johnson, editor of a Swedish newspaper which advocated his release, and several newspaper men and members of Swedish organizations who were interested in his case. He wore a black derby hat and a grey overcoat and carried a suit case. The pallor and emaciation when he was returned to prison some months ago had given place to a rosy complexion and it was quite apparent that his release worked wonders in his rejuvenation.

Brandt is on his way to Minnesota, where he will probably take up literary work.

UNITED FARMERS OF ALBERTA AGAINST ALL NAVAL EXPENSES

Policy of Both Political Parties Condemned—Anti-Naval Resolution Carried by 588 to 12—Favor Out-and-Out Free Trade

Calgary, Alta., Jan. 23. The United Farmers of Alberta are for universal peace, opposed to war, and very much against the navy policy of both the political parties of Canada. They would have Canada lead the world in a great disarmament movement. So declared an anti-naval resolution adopted by an overwhelming vote just before adjournment. In six hundred delegates only twelve voted against the resolution.

COMPULSORY ARMY SERVICE

Lord Curzon Treats on Appalling Imminence of Present Danger

London, Jan. 23. Lord Roberts received a presentation yesterday from the National Service League. In making it, Lord Curzon, said: "Speaking with some knowledge, I believe we are on the eve of some great awakening on the matter of military training. I believe the greatest men of the country are thoroughly aware of the appalling imminence of the danger by which we are confronted, are anxious that our resources are inadequate to meet it, and are prepared to make a move in the direction we have in view."

"I should not be surprised if, at no distant date, there are an approximation of views between the two parties, ordinarily estranged. That compulsion in some form or other will form a part of our military system I entertain no doubt."

WILL SHOW THAT ULSTER IS NOT ALL BRAG AND BLUSTER

Fifteen Unionist Clubs in North Tyrone are Going Through Drudgery of Drill and Use of Arms So as to Be Ready to Fight to the Death

The death of a man as a result of the Ulster Volunteer Force, which is now being organized by the Ulster Volunteer Force, is not to be measured by the speeches of Mr. Pakenham and Mr. Hogg when in both cases are notable for the absence of sectarian or personal bitterness. Mr. Pakenham has expressed his opposition to Home Rule in a calm and well reasoned argument. The extreme attitude of Ulster to the measure found expression in the speech of Mr. Hoggman, Deputy Lieutenant, in Tyrone, who said that "if by any mischance Home Rule is forced on us, we in Ulster, have another alternative, which we mean to use; that is, to protect ourselves. We will take the law into our own hands in North Tyrone. We have fifteen Unionist Clubs, all very much alive, all going through the drudgery of drill, being taught the use of arms, so as to be ready to obey their commander when the time comes to defend their country to the death should the necessity arise. The Nationalists, I am sure, that Ulster's resistance is all brag and bluster. We mean to show them it is not so."

THE PEACE OF EUROPE IS NOW WELL ASSURED

London, Jan. 23. Diplomats were in great good humor to-day when Dr. S. Danoff, Bulgarian plenipotentiary, officially announced that an agreement had been reached between his country and Roumania. This, with dispatches from Constantinople that the Porte would yield to all the demands of the allies, assured the peace of all Europe.

Wants No More Demands.
London, Jan. 23. The Constantinople correspondent of the Times believes that the Porte before accepting the powers' note will request guarantees that no further demands shall be made by the allies.

Disbanding the Army.
Budapest, Hungary, Jan. 23. The demobilization of the Austro-Hungarian troops, called to the colors in connection with the crises arising out of the Balkan war began to-day. Certain sections of the reserves of the Austrian and Hungarian militaries were ordered to be disbanded this morning by the War Department.

BORDEN'S NAME CREATES APPLAUSE IN NEW ZEALAND

London, Jan. 23. A New Zealand message to The Times indicates that the high pitch of popularity Canada has reached there because of its bold naval policy.

At a farewell banquet to the Minister of Defence now about to visit England, the mere mention of Borden's name by a speaker who named Mr. Borden to make his point was vociferously cheered. The Times correspondent adds: "Any average public meeting in New Zealand gives Borden's name a hearty reception."

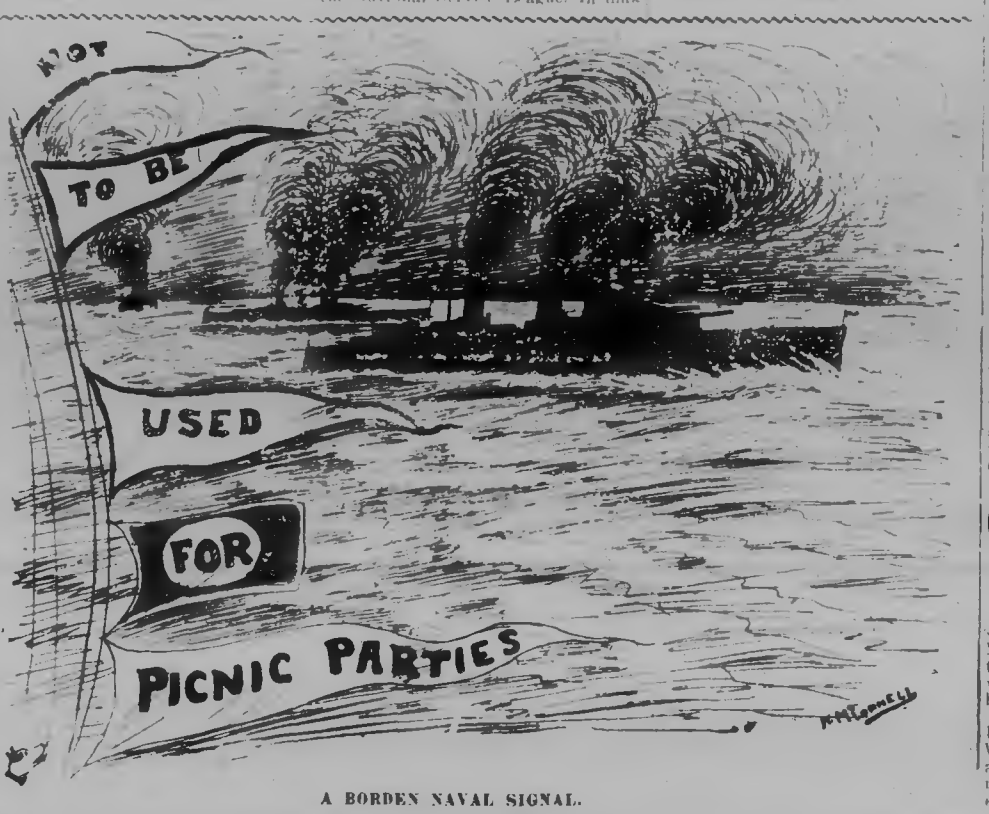

SPENDING THEIR HONEYMOON AT LOVELY LYNDBURST HOME

New York, Jan. 23. Mrs. Helen Miller Gould Shepard and Finley J. Shepard, the newly weds, were reported to-day by their relatives and friends to be spending their honeymoon quietly at Lyndburst on the Hudson. The guards posted at the gates of the fine old estate prevented the privacy of the couple as they strolled arm in arm through the spacious grounds drinking in the morning air and gazing upon the beautiful river panorama that spreads from the look of their castle-towered hill. If any visitors were expected the guards had not been notified.

Among the most enthusiastic of the guests who attended the wedding was the Duke de Talleyrand, formerly Grand Duke of Sagan. Mrs. Shepard, brother-in-law. In an interview the Duke declared the wedding the most delightfully simple and intimate he had ever attended as a guest.

PLEASED WITH SIMPLICITY.
"It was so simple, so free from all the fuss that most of the prominent alliances in the country bring about," he said. "And that is as it should be. It is not the gorgeous pageant that should count when a man is taking a wife. Mr. Shepard appears to be a splendid young man. He looks like the type you Americans seem to hold in such high regard a hard worker, one who accomplishes things. I am sure that this marriage will be a most happy one. My kinswoman is of a great nobility of character and is appreciated in my own country as in yours. I hope the example she set in the arrangement of her wedding will be followed by many other American women of wealth."

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

OWING to the fact that so many new industries are locating around Ruskin Place, an interesting calculation has been made of what an industry employing 1,000 hands means to a community. $90,000 would be spent in housing accommodation.

The population would increase by 5,000. The assessment would be augmented by $600,000. Salaries would amount to $559,800. The construction of buildings of all kinds would be $2,000,000. The annual expenditures for foodstuffs would be $63,000 for meat, $96,000 for potatoes, $5,000 for sugar, $18,250 for milk, $65,700 for butter, $27,600 for eggs. All told the farmers of the district would gain $221,600. The amount spent for clothing would be $167,750. The expenses for taxes added to the cost of building construction will amount to $2,428,350.

The fine new $40,000 plant of the Bishopric Wallboard Co., is now built at Ruskin Place. A second industry to employ 300 hands at its inception has already purchased the required land while a third guaranteeing to employ 1,000 hands is now negotiating for enough land to commence operations.

JUST THINK of the number of stores to be built there.

JUST THINK of the number of carpenters,

bricklayers, stonemasons and other tradesmen altogether separate from the number of employees in the different factories that will be needed to build homes for those who work there.

JUST THINK of the thousand and one different jobs of any and every kind that will spring up at Ruskin Place during the next few years and buy your homestead now so as to be one of the main few who got in on the ground floor.

RUSKIN PLACE offers one of the finest and best opportunities for speculation ever presented to the residents of Peterborough.

A TREE OF KNOWLEDGE

A student of holy writ has composed statistics of the King James authorized version of the Bible in this form:

The Bible contains 8,666,498 letters, 810,897 words, 51,175 verses, 1,189 chapters and 66 books. The longest chapter is the 119th Psalm; the shortest and middle chapter the 117th Psalm. The middle verse is the 9th of the 118th Psalm. The longest name is in the 8th chapter of Isaiah. The word "and" occurs 46,927 times. The word "Lord" occurs 1,355 times. The 34th chapter of Isaiah and the 19th chapter of the second Book of Kings are alike. The longest verse is the 9th of the 8th chapter of Esther; the shortest verse is the 35th of the 11th chapter of John. In the 1st verse of the 7th chapter of Ezra is the alphabet. The finest piece of reading was in the 26th chapter of Acts. The name of God is not mentioned in the Book of Esther. It contains knowledge, wisdom, holiness and love.

A DOGS' BLACKLIST

British Cyclists Taking Action Against Savage Wayside Cures

A dogs' black list has been established by the National Cyclists' Union of Great Britain to deal with ill-mannered animals who interfere with cyclists. In bringing an action against the owner of the dog it is not sufficient to prove that the dog caused an accident, and that the defendant is the owner. To succeed, it must be proved that he was aware of its dangerous tendency. It may come out in evidence that the same dog had caused accidents before, but it must be proved also that the owner knew this. The N.C.U. asks cyclists who know of one of these dangerous dogs to send on the name and address of the owner and description of the dog. As soon as the information comes to hand a registered letter is sent to the dog owner drawing his attention to his dog's dangerous propensities, and notifying him that if an accident occurs a copy of the letter will be produced in evidence should the matter come into court.

RAPID PROGRESS OF SEA SCOUTING

British Boys Taking up the Idea With Enthusiasm—Chief Scout Recommends It for Colonies

One of the things which struck Lieutenant-General Sir R. Baden-Powell during his trip round the Empire was the great possibility of sea scouting for boys. By developing this portion of the Boy Scouts' work the Scout movement was convinced that it would be of inestimable value to the nations who are now crowded with a question of building armies. It is argued, give the boys the sea, and the training they need would be of a character to make them splendid seamen.

In Great Britain sea scouting is being taken up with enthusiasm by the Boy Scouts. Troops have already been formed all round the coast. At Portpool a troop consists of boys of the mercantile marine scattered all over the world. Sea scouting does not necessarily mean that the boys will take to the sea as a profession. The boys are not advised in this sense, though if they wanted to adopt a seafaring career they would be assisted just as they are helped to obtain employment in other walks of life. The idea is to provide additional interest in the development of sea scouting, besides the ordinary scouting. Still, it is the development of sea scouting that is the development of sea scouting, and it is pointed out that if the shipowners encouraged the movement and gave an undertaking to employ these boys as far as they could the time might come when it could no longer be said that the foreign element predominated in the crews of British ships.

Fit the Boys for Sea
What is aimed at is to give the boys a taste for the sea. When that is done those who are in charge of this branch of the Boy Scouts' movement have no doubt that if the boys wish to follow a seafaring life they will be assisted to obtain good openings. For the present the boys are being trained to render useful service in case of necessity. They are taught to swim well and to manage a boat with skill whether on river, lake, or sea. The chief facts of British sea history are instilled into them. They are trained to effect rescues and to understand signals, and when they are qualified in boatwork, swimming, rowing, and signaling it is claimed that they will be able to help other people at sea. Pilotage, rocket work, and lifeboat work also form part of the training of those who desire to qualify as King's Sea Scouts. In these things they are assisted a great deal by the coastguards. The Admiralty, indeed, encouraged the movement from the start. Each patrol of Sea Scouts has a certain stretch of shore to look after, and wherever possible a boat and signal pole are erected in the centre of the beat. Their instructions provide for them keeping watch in the places assigned to them along the coast. They have to keep watch in pairs, so that when anything unusual is discovered one can at once communicate with the coastguard or Board of Trade coast watchman, while the other remains to keep an eye on the vessel in distress. The boys are trained as fully as possible the working of the life-saving apparatus, and to handle their tugs. They are expected to attend drills, more especially when the life-saving inspector is present.

Scouts in War Time
While the possible utility and value of the Sea Scout, even though a boy in war time cannot be heavily pronounced upon, it is no doubt that an intelligent lad, with a good general knowledge in all the subjects of sea scouting, would be invaluable as a look-out and signaller on every liner, small boat, or tramp steamer that ventured to run the chances of the sea in war time. The intention is to have the Sea Scouts all along the coast equipped with wireless telegraphy. This, however, is for the future.

Didn't Love It

PALACE FOR ALFONSO

The People of Santander Have Gone to Enormous Expense

A new palace on the Isle of Magdalena, at Santander, built at an enormous cost, subscriptions having been made by rich and poor alike, will shortly be occupied by King Alfonso and Queen Victoria, to whom the people of Santander have given the palace as a gift. The furnishings, the cost of which has been defrayed by the city, are of a sumptuous character. The new royal residence is approached by a bridge from the mainland, and has only one entrance. The King and Queen are greatly charmed with the palace and have thanked the people of Santander for their generosity. Henceforth the royal family will spend the summer months at the new palace and at the Mirador Palace at San Sebastian. Upon leaving Madrid the Court will first go to Santander.

SWORDS FOR KAISER'S SONS

War Lord's Militant Messages on the Steel

An ancient custom has been revived by the German Emperor, who has presented his sons with swords. On the blades are inscribed the dates when they began their military or naval duties.

On the sword given to the Crown Prince are engraved words which may be translated, "Ready at all times for the glory of the Empire." The sword of Prince Eitel Fritz has the motto "Fearless and true." Prince Oscar's blade is inscribed, "Faithful and at hand."

The naval cutlery presented to Prince Adalbert has a double inscription, on the one side, "Full steam ahead!" and on the other, "The strength belongs to the Fatherland."

THE COMMISSIONERS OF THE TRANSCONTINENTAL RY.

NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS.
Tenders for Machines, Tools, Appliances, Motors, Furnaces, Cranes, etc.

SEALED TENDERS, addressed to the undersigned and marked on the envelope "Tender for Machines, Tools, Appliances, Motors, Furnaces, Cranes, etc.," will be received at the office of the Commissioners of the National Transcontinental Railway, at Ottawa, until twelve o'clock noon of the Thirtieth day of February, 1913, for the furnishing and delivery of the Machines, Tools, Appliances, Motors, Furnaces, Cranes, etc., required for the equipment of the Car Department Shops, Transcona Plant, of the Commissioners of the National Transcontinental Railway, at Transcona, Manitoba.

Tenders will be considered for any portion, or all of the equipment. Specifications and forms of tender may be obtained at the office of Mr. W. J. Press, Mechanical Engineer, Ottawa, Ontario.

Persons tendering are notified that tenders will not be considered unless made on the printed forms supplied by the Commissioners.

Each tender must be signed and sealed by all the parties to the tender, and witnessed and accompanied by an accepted cheque on a Chartered Bank of the Dominion of Canada, payable to the Commissioners of the Transcontinental Railway, for a sum equal to ten per cent (10 p.c.) of the amount of the tender.

Any person whose tender is accepted shall within ten days after the acceptance thereof sign the contract, specifications and other documents required to be signed, and in any case of refusal or failure on the part of the party whose tender is accepted to complete and execute the contract with the Commissioners, the said cheque shall be forfeited to the Commissioners as liquidated damages for such refusal or failure, and all contract rights acquired by the acceptance of the tender shall be forfeited.

The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are accepted will be deposited to the credit of the Receiver General of Canada as security for the due and faithful performance of the contract according to its terms.

The cheques deposited by parties whose tenders are rejected will be returned within ten days after the signing of the contract.

The right is reserved to reject any or all tenders.

By order,
P. E. RYAN, Secretary.

HANDY BLACKING BRUSH

Has Reservoir Attachment Which Supplies Blacking to Brush.

An ingenious blacking brush has been patented by an Illinois man. There are two brushes in the one implement and they are fastened on braces extending from a stock. One of these is to supply the blacking and is quite small. The other is much larger and

EVERYTHING IN ONE TOOL.

Is for polishing. Fastened along the side of the stock is a reservoir containing a large tube like those that contain paints or tooth paste. From this reservoir a small feed tube leads into the small brush and keeps it continually supplied with blacking— which the reservoir contains. If it is liquid blacking it will drip into the brush as needed and if it is paste it can be squeezed out by pressing the fountain tube. The implement, therefore, contains in itself the source of supply, the means to apply and the means to put the polishing touches on either the shoe or the boot, accordingly as it is used.

CHRISTENED UNDER THE FALLS

An Indian Girl Baby Receives a Flowery Name.

A party of Indians went to Niagara Falls for the purpose of christening beneath the great cataract an infant Princess of the Iroquois tribe, thereby repeating the ceremony which was performed in March 1866, upon the same spot. The christening ceremony took place beneath the Horse Shoe Falls on the Canadian side shortly before dusk, and Indians in full regalia participated. The child is a grand child of Chief Thunderwater, who was christened in the same place. The girl is eleven months old, and was christened "Makolosee," meaning "Morning Beauty," and "Aupawchsee" meaning "woman whose name shall never die." The christening was performed by Rev. Geo. Seplins, Gerald Hares, pastor of St. Paul's Methodist Episcopal Church.

TROUBLES OF THE EAR.

Many of Them Are Caused by Accumulation of Some Kind.

The best way to care for the ear is to study the things not to do. It is one of the most independent of organs, knowing very well how to take care of itself. If it is duly respected little trouble or none will result. In cases where something unforeseen goes wrong a physician should be consulted at once.

Almost all troubles of the ear are due to abuses of some kind. There is no need to worry a great many people, and in their concern they usually manage to seriously interfere with its functions. In the healthy ear the wax, or cerumen, is a thin yellowish fluid that thickens into a paste as it dries. Nature provides for its natural exit from the ear passage by uniting it with the tiny flakes of dead skin which fall outward unnoticed either by seeing or feeling. Thus wax does not accumulate in a healthy ear, which has just enough to make sticky the stiff little hairs that grow in the passage.

Instruments should never be poked into the ear by the inexperienced nor wads of material continually stuffed and squeezed into the opening for cleansing. Usually such treatment induces an increase or raking of wax. Hot water is the best solvent for wax, 105 to 115 degrees F. If the need of it is imperative gently syringe the ear with it. Cotton plugs in the ear are useful at times, but should be used no more than absolutely necessary, for they obstruct the canal and interfere with the natural way of casting off wax.—Exchange

THE SUN AS AN ARTIST.

Discovery Upon Which Turn All the Wonders of Photography.

There is a wide variety in the pace at which the sun can give a color or change it. A winter apple may be a month in reaching its ripeness, a peach may take only one week to flush into its mantle of maturity, but the most nimble work of the solar ray in its decoration of fruit and flower is not to be compared with what it accomplishes in other departments. When power was brought to bear upon some familiar chemicals it was found that its action was reduced from days to seconds.

Upon this discovery turn all the wonders of photography. At first silver—ultra-violet or lunar caustic, as it was commonly called—was used in the camera. From time to time other substances of greater and greater sensitiveness to light have been produced, every one of them successively giving the solar beam a wider play and more astonishing power.

Today, with the exposure of a photographic plate, not only are the beatings of an insect's wings caught in the camera, but also the path of a cannonball, the skyward flight of exploded rock, and the sinuous glow of lightning.—Chicago Record Herald

Laugh and Live Long

It has been aptly said that there is not the remotest corner of the human body that does not feel some wavelet from the convulsions occasioned by good hearty laughter. The life of the human body is shaken to its innermost depths, sending new tides of life and strength to the surface, thus materially tending to insure good health to the persons who indulge therein. The blood moves more rapidly and conveys a different impression to all the organs of the body as it visits them on that particular mystic journey when the man is laughing from that conveyed at other times. For this reason every good, hearty laugh in which a person indulges tends to lengthen his life, conveying as it does new and distinct stimulus to the vital force.

What Wellington Was Doing

When Sir John Steel, the sculptor, had the Iron Duke sitting for a statue, he tried to induce him to look warlike. All his efforts were in vain, however, for Wellington seemed, judging by his face, never to have heard of Waterloo or Talavera. At last Sir John lost his patience. "As I am going to make this statue of your grace," he exclaimed, "can you not tell me what you were doing before, say, the battle of Salamanca?" "Were you not an optimist about the field, cheering on your own to needs of valor by words and action?" "Bah!" said the duke in a contemptuous tone. "If you really want to model me as I was on the morning of Salamanca, then do me a crawling along a ditch on my stomach with a rope in my hand!"

The Glowworm Cavern.

The greatest wonder of the antipodes is the celebrated glowworm cavern, discovered in 1901 in the heart of the Tasmanian wilderness. The cavern or caverns (there appears to be a series of such caverns in the vicinity, each rate and distinct) are situated near the town of Southport, Tasmania, in a limestone bluff, about four miles from Ida Bay. The appearance of the main cavern is that of an underground river, the entire floor of the subterranean passage being covered with water about a foot and a half in depth. These wonderful Tasmanian caves are similar to all caverns found in limestone formation, with the exception that their roofs and sides literally shine with the light emitted by the millions of glowworms which inhabit them.

Strange Cure For Lunacy.

Our forefathers were in fond of the whip that they seem to have regarded it as a cure for lunacy and even for smallpox. The accounts of a Huntingdonshire parish under date 1801 have the entry, "I'd in charges taking up a distracted woman, watching her and whipping her next day, 5s. 6d." and a few years later equivalent is put for "whipping two people yd had the smallpox."—London Standard.

How, Indeed?

Small Roy—Slater said to ask if you had any invisible ink. New Drug Clerk (after looking among some bottles)—I guess we haven't, at least I don't see any. Small Roy (contemptuously)—Fluh! How do you expect to see it if it's invisible?—Chicago News

Do Your Looks Quite Satisfy You?

IF YOUR COLOR IS BAD, IF YOU SUFFER FROM PIMPLES, HERE IS GOOD ADVICE.

Fine Results in Two Weeks

Miss Nettie E. Callaghan, a well-known young lady in Middleton, writes as follows: "I was affected for two years with a rash and ugly looking pimples that spread over my face. My color was poor, and my blood evidently completely out of order. Certainly it was a most despairing sort of a case, because various treatments did but little to help me. A friend of mine in Toronto, Ont., advised me to get Dr. Hamilton's Pills, so I sent at once for five boxes. In two weeks I felt like new—looks improved, spirits rose, and I felt I was getting well. I have used this remedy for a long time, and now wouldn't be without it."

If you are in ailing health, have blood disorders, stomach trouble, or headaches, Dr. Hamilton's Pills will help you quickly. All druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butterum, 25¢ per box, five for $1.00. Sent postpaid by the Cataract Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Meetings in Bethany Tabernacle.—Tomorrow at 7:45 and 7:55 p.m. Dr. Glover will address the meetings in Bethany Tabernacle. All who are interested in missions should hear Dr. Glover, as his messages have been an inspiration and blessing to many all over the continent.

TWO LICENSES CUT OFF.—The village of Fenelon Falls has decided to cut off two of their liquor licenses. This was the result of a deputation representing the Citizens' Committee. The by-law wiping out these two was read a third time. It is now up to the Commissioners to decide where the ax will fall.

A Lakefield Concert.—The annual St. John's Lakefield Sunday School entertainment and Christmas tree, which was held in the town hall, was a very great success. A varied program was rendered in which every member of the school participated. A principal feature of the evening was the celebrated Mrs. Pifer's picture album.

PREDICTS AN EARLY SPRING.—A Lindsay weather sharp predicts an early spring. His explanation is that the reason roses had been blooming all winter in Great Britain, and unusual floral activity throughout Ontario is owing to the unusual proximity of the planet Mars to the earth.

Will Be Heard in Toronto.—The remainder of the Fairweather versus Canadian General Electric Company action will be heard at Osgoode Hall, Toronto. All the evidence for the plaintiff is in, and only two or three witnesses for the defence have now to be examined. Their evidence, and the argument will be heard in Toronto on February 1st.

Mr. Geo. Graham Must Vacate.—A Toronto despatch says, Mr. Justice Hughes directs that George Graham must vacate the Ontario Hotel, Peterborough, pay rent on the basis of $3.024 per annum, from May 1st last, and transfer the lease, but he is to be allowed the unexpired part of the lease fee. The Dickson Co. of Peterborough gets possession.

Trades and Labor Council.—A meeting of the Trades and Labor Council was held in the Labor Hall with President D. Moore in the chair. There was a good attendance, and several interesting discussions were held. The secretary read the platform of the Hamilton Trades and Labor Council, and a committee was appointed to formulate a plan of campaign for the local Council.

Knox Church Prosperous.—At the annual meeting of Knox church, Rev. Mr. Keith occupied the chair. The meeting was opened with the usual devotional exercises, after which the minutes of the last year's meeting were read and approved. The various reports were read, and all showed very satisfactory results, especially the members' report. The chairman stated that the church property was now valued at $10,000.

No Footwalk Over Bridge.—The proposed new C.P.R. bridge to replace the present structure over the Otonabee River will not be provided with a footwalk. This is the ultimatum of the Railway Company to the city. Negotiations have been under way for several months past between the city and the Railway Company, in which the former endeavored to have the Company provide for a foot bridge on the new structure.

Salvation Army Notes.—At the annual meeting of the Salvation Army Band Bandmaster Perver was presented with a gold watch. Deputy Bandmaster Ford received a set of binoculars, and secretary F. H. Shaw a fountain pen. Bandmaster Perver was chairman, and read the address, while Mr. J. Richardson made the presentation. It was announced that the proceeds from the annual Christmas and New Year's serenading were $507.

Lecture on Dairying.—At last night's session of the local Canadian Club, held in the Y.M.C.A., Mr. J. A. Riddick, Dairy and Cattle Storage Commissioner for the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, gave an interesting and instructive address on the dairy industry and its outlook, origin, development, present status, and outlook. The speaker handled his subject in a masterly manner and gave many practical suggestions of great value to those affected. The Canadian Club of Peterborough is to be congratulated in their selection of speakers.

County Council Next Week.

The County Council will hold its inaugural meeting for 1913 on Tuesday of next week. The names of Reeve Bregitt, of Norwood and Reeve Garbutt, of Smith, are mentioned as aspirants for the Warden's chair. There are only three changes in the personnel of the council this year. Mr. Tanner of Lakefield, who resigned, is succeeded by Reeve Fitzgerald; Mr. W. J. Porter, of Otonabee, who resigned, is succeeded by Reeve Anderson; and Mr. S. S. Joyce, of Havelock, by Reeve Kindred.

HAD SHOES STOLEN.

Mr. Kyles, the well-known local shoe dealer, whose place of business is located in the Times building, on Hunter Street, seems to keep abreast of the flood of business success, recently placed a large order in Cincinnati, O., the centre of the shoe trade on the continent. These shoes, ordered by him, are ladies' finest patent leathers, and sell at $5 a pair. On opening the boxes which arrived yesterday, Mr. Kyles discovered that two cases had been tampered with, and seven pairs extracted through a small hole in the lid. There seems to be an organized gang of thieves on both railroads, who enter sealed and paid-upon goods.

Passed an N.T. Cheque.

At yesterday's police court, Chas. P. Fisher, an apple-lavender, boarding at 358 Harvey street, was charged with passing a worthless cheque for $10 on the Dominion Bank. The information was laid by Mr. E. P. Jackson, who conducts a grocery business at the corner of Aylmer and McShannon streets. It appears that Fisher made out the cheque in favor of Mr. Jackson with full knowledge that he had no funds in the bank. Fisher paid the cost of the action amounting to $2 and also agreed to make full compensation to Mr. Jackson.

PORT HOPE WOMAN WAS FOUND DROWNED

Port Hope Guide. Grave anxiety has been felt for Mrs. Walter Curtis, who disappeared from her home, Brown street, during Tuesday afternoon. So far as we can learn, the last time she was seen was on Mill street during the afternoon.

Search parties were out all night and today and the only trace or tidings, was her hat found on the Lake Shore near the Rev. Alex. McNaughton's residence, near the town.

No reason can be assigned for her disappearance as she appeared to be in her usual good health at noon, when Mr. Curtis left home.

Deep sympathy is felt by the whole town for Mr. Curtis, and his friends in this great anxiety.

Later, as we go to press we learn that the body of the late Mrs. Curtis was found on the beach about a mile east of where her hat was picked up.

LIBERALS OFF AT A TANGENT IN AN HYSTERICAL OUTBREAK

West Indies Agreement Drew Forth Angry Talk Over Reciprocity and an Amazing Outpouring of Abuse
---Always Close Season for the Unionists

We had one more proof today of the temper to which defeat has reduced the Liberal party, as represented in Parliament. That after all is interesting mainly to the Liberal members of Parliament; the general public probably is indifferent to their state of mind. What is of more importance to the public is that the Liberal party today once more showed its inter-party preference as insignificant beside its talked blue ruin for its sacred sake, cursed the British Unionists for it, in short, nailed it to the mast once more.

Slight Duty on Three Articles.

It all was over the West Indies trade agreement. That is a neat little arrangement between this country and a complementary region, which produces what we import and buys what we produce. It gives us a very comfortable preference on about four million dollars of trade for which we are peculiarly fitted to compete, and the only noticeable concession which we make in return is that three articles which now are on the free list are to pay low duties when imported from foreign countries. These cocoanuts, lime juice and fresh limes; when imported from the West Indies and probably the rest of the Empire these will remain free. The increased expense to the people will not be serious. At present about 3,000,000 pounds of cocoanuts enter annually, mainly from the United States; if the whole of this continued to come from foreign countries the proposed duty would be $22,500. Lime juice, while refreshing in hot weather, probably ranks as a drug store luxury; and

WHAT "JACK CANUCK" SAYS OF J. H. BURNHAM, M. P.

We hope that the last has not been heard of J. H. Burnham, M.P.'s bill to check the craze in Canada for titles. A bill like that is as important to the life of Canada as is the naval measure. Before long, rank and file citizens will begin to suspect that the men who talk so loudly about Imperial unity, and kindred sentiments, are talking, not for the welfare of the country or the glory of the Empire, but for their own welfare, their own glory in the shape

HOW THE COUP D'ETAT WAS BROUGHT ABOUT BY TURKS

Constantinople, Jan. 24.—The events leading to the coup d'etat are described as follows: Talaat Bey visited Kiamil Pasha in the morning and urged him to resign. Kiamil refused to reply and the Cabinet Council continued to discuss the drift of the reply to the powers' note. About three o'clock in the afternoon Djelal Bey, a Young Turk leader accompanied by five mounted officers, arrived at the Sublime Porte. At the same moment several hundred people suddenly gathered and unfurled a flag, evidently by preconcerted arrangement. Then Enver Bey, mounted on a white horse, appeared, accompanied by Kiazim Bey, who was formerly Ambassador at Washington, Halil Bey, and another staff officer. This mounting at the doors of the Porte,

FITZHUGH TELLS RE RAILROADS
New England Governors Will Probably Deal With the Consolidation of Roads
Boston, Jan. 24.—In a statement appearing today, E. H. Fitzhugh explains his resignation from the Presidency of the Central Vermont road on the ground that he was not in accord with the Grand Trunk Railway Company, concerning the Central Vermont and Southern New England companies.
The Grand Trunk is a majority stockholder of the Central Vermont road.
It is expected that the policy to which Mr. Fitzhugh refers will be the principal topic of discussion when the New England governors meet in conference on the problem of transportation tomorrow.

MR. BURNHAM'S BILL SUPPORTED BY GRANGE

At a meeting of the Dominion Grange, held in Toronto this week, the following reference was made to the proposal of Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., proposing to abolish titles: "We desire to commend the principle involved in the bill introduced recently in the Dominion Parliament by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., advocating the abolition in Canada of the practice of the bestowing of titles, believing that it tends to create man made distinctions between man and man."

IS LABOR DOWN ON NAVY PLAN?

The First Issue of a New Labor Paper at Ottawa Refers to the Matter

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—Is Canadian labor against the naval policy? The question is asked, and to some degree answered, in the first issue of the Labor World, the new weekly which is being published in Ottawa by the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees, who are conducting the strike of freight handlers, clerks, and baggage men on the C.P.R. which has been in progress since the summer. A news item in the publication states: "Mr. B. C. Watters, President of the Dominion Congress of Labor, has written a letter to the Daily Worker (labor) of London, England, in which he seeks to dispel the illusion that an attempt will be made in the near future to force the issue of the Canadian labor movement in the matter of the naval program. He says: "Organized labor in the Dominion is solidly against the spread of gun power and the armament race. Canada's present offer is simply a party move. Unfortunately Canadian labor have not a direct vote in the Dominion Parliament. If they had, the answer would be made in no uncertain tones. "In concluding his letter he adds: "With the ripe experience acquired by the labor group in the British House not alone in domestic affairs, but in the world's politics, would it not be well to give us in Canada the benefit of your experience by advising how we can best co-operate with you in maintaining the world's peace? No more practical way suggests itself to us than to co-operate closely with our working comrades in the mother country."

U. S. OFFICIALS CLASH IN WHISKEY FRAUD

Washington, Jan. 24.—Further complications are threatened in the fight between United States District Judge Boyd, of Greensboro, N.C., and Royal E. Cabell, commissioner of internal revenue, in an alleged whiskey fraud case in North Carolina, by the commissioner's refusal Saturday to submit a direct or cross-examination before United States Commissioner Hitt of this city, who was ordered by Judge Boyd to take Mr. Cabell's deposition. The commissioner's attitude was based upon the written directions of Secretary MacVeigh that he offer the court, without question as to its authority, a certified copy of the Treasury Department's record in the case, and decline to answer questions in connection with it.

BESSIE MCCOY IS TO 'ACT AGAIN' DENIES ANY DOMESTIC TROUBLES

The call of the footlights has proved too strong for Bessie McCoy, the Yama Yama Girl, who last summer became the wife of Richard Harding Davis, the writer, she declaring at the time that she was through with the stage as a vocation forever. She now admits that she is about to accept an engagement under the direction of her old manager, Charles B. Dillingham. She is at her husband's home at Mount Kisco, N.Y. "I have never been able to believe," she said, "that a woman was fit only to milk cows and feed chickens." Mr. Davis is quoted as saying that his wife's return to the stage and was quite definite in his remarks on the subject. Mrs. Davis laughed as she gave every assurance that she loved her husband and was very happy with him. Mr. and Mrs. Davis were married by a Justice of the peace in Greenwich, Conn., on July 9, 1912.

MOVE TO CHECK SMUGGLING OF CHINESE INTO CANADA

Dominion Government Decides to Take Photos of the Fifty Thousand Celestials Now Resident Here For Purposes of Identification

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—The Immigration Department is completing plans to provide an effective check upon the movements of the Chinese population of Canada and the influx and exodus of the Oriental peoples. For some time the matter has been under consideration and officials are still reticent to discuss what will be done, but your correspondent understands that an attempt will be made to secure as complete identification records as possible by the Bertillon system, including two photographs of each Chinaman, full face and profile, records of age, occupation, financial standing, family connections, marital relationship, etc. Records will also be kept of body marks which may assist in identification.

AMOROUS MANUEL RUN AWAY WITH JEWESS?

Vienna, Jan. 24.—A special dispatch from St. Petersburg to-day said that the former King Manuel of Portugal has run away with a noted Moscow beauty, the daughter of the richest Jew in that city. The latest love affair of the amorous Manuel, who forfeited his crown for the night life of Paris, is said to have begun in the French capital. It was a case of fascination at first, according to the story, and Manuel followed the girl to Moscow. He is said to have been seen with her there, and their simultaneous disappearance led to the story of an elopement. The dispatch was not confirmed.

MR. WHITE WAS CALLED TO ORDER

Unusual Incident In House of Commons Discussion on the West Indies Trade Treaty

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—An unusual incident took place in the House of Commons yesterday, when Hon. H. E. Foster, Minister of Trade, called upon to call Hon. W. T. White to order. The controversy took place during the discussion on the West Indies trade treaty, and Mr. White had spoken when Mr. Foster broke in. Mr. White: "I would submit, for the consideration of the House, gentlemen opposite, that when we have got that judgment, as we did get it, on the 21st of September, 1911, we ought to know to it and except it. That is the position today as far as reciprocity is concerned." Mr. Foster: "I am not your attention, Mr. Speaker, to the fact that there is a bill before the House, and we have had, by gentlemen on both sides, a pretty wide discussion, which has been a long way off from the bill. From this time forward I shall have to press the point of order against everybody that we should consider the bill before us."

EDITORIAL NOTES

With no likelihood of a change by a recent result of the Local Option election is all over but the sweating.

It is obvious that the man who first put the "Prohibition" was a enthusiastic champion of the cause.

If it may judge by the cases of children, running away to get married before they are out of school it must be inferred that love is very much alive.

Society has to match its wits against the original and daring criminals of the day. When society is in excess it invariably cleans up the towns that infect it.

The French election has made a figure head out of the ablest statesman in that republic. That is the fault of the French system, which is a cross between the British and the American.

The West and the East were swept recently by some severe storms of rain and snow, but beyond washing a number of persons overboard from the water wagon, no great trouble was done.

After the tariff gratters get through showing Mr. Borden why the duties should not be lowered, a delegation of disaffected consumers ought to be permitted to give a few reasons why a reasonable reduction would be a good thing for the public.

Canadian women, equally with Canadian men, will refuse to get excited about Miss Wylie's threats of suffragette militancy. If the lady had a sense of humor she could have some fun with herself in connection with her Canadian tour.

Kate George has announced the appointment of Clement M. Ballaeb, K.C., as judge of the High Court of Justice. Pardon the Times if the mention of the gentleman's name produces visions of paragon and the essence of Jamaica ginger.

With the claims based upon the loss of the Titanic now aggregating $10,000,000 and with the steamship company contending for a liability of $100,000, the question of legal responsibility for property and life up on the high seas presses harder than ever for an equitable answer.

Hon. Col. Sam Hughes has spent as much money on the militia during the past year as did Hon. Mr. Borden, his predecessor, and a little more. There are strong odds, however, that Col. Sam got more real action for the money than even Dr. Borden could.

The proposal to thoroughly investigate the number of employees and their respective duties, employed on the Trent Canal is a discourtesy to the beneficiaries of privilege that they are preparing to see that their lines of communication with the full treasury are kept open.

THE HOME RULE BILL

At the months after the presentation of the Home Rule Bill in the British House of Commons, the measure sure to give local government to Ireland reaches its final stage. Premier Asquith moving the third reading on Wednesday. The first Home Rule Bill was presented in 1886 by Mr. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, the second in 1893 and now again the old question that has troubled England for some twenty years while governments have come and gone is again up for final settlement.

There is no stage in a measure such as the Home Rule Bill which is not the subject of a long and arduous struggle. In the words of the Irish constitution, he is universal to the civil and religious liberty of the Protestant part of Ireland, and perhaps to the unity of the Empire, is the great difficulty that faces the Liberal Government and their Nationalist allies. Asquith's plea for the Opposition to state what they wanted in the way of safeguards to prevent Protestants being oppressed by the majority, which he, however, declared had been provided for in the bill, is significant of how the Liberal government fears the strength and determination of the resistance to Home Rule in Ulster, and how at this late date, the Liberal leaders would perhaps seek a basis for a compromise. But as Mr. Ballou pointed out, the government has all along failed to comprehend Ulster's feeling, a dangerous lack, and he forcibly stated Ulster's position in these words: "No one would say that the Roman Catholics will persecute in the old style, or deliberately persecute the minority at all. But will that recognize the minority in the North of Ireland to live under the control of the majority, where for generations religion and politics have been mixed up and under the control of the majority, who have complete control of education and patronage? Ulstermen will be in the Irish parliament to be taxed, not to tax."

PLEASE.

It is quite the usual thing to see on public grounds a sign "Keep off the grass." It is in the form of a command, when it might be expressed as a courtesy.

A prison official in New York state whose building stood back of a fine lawn, used to put up a sign on which was printed only the simple word "Please." Everybody understood what it meant and everyone felt so kindly to the head of the prison on account of the form in which he put his plea, that the lawn was more respected even than it usual in such cases.

Most of the passengers in the street cars are annoyed greatly, some of them almost beside themselves over the whistling of employees in charge of a car and the permission of whistling on the part of the passengers. The whistles that the simple word "Please" might be put in the car with the explanation that it referred as much to whistling as it does to move up the aisle and make room around the entrance.

Here is an instance where politeness would gratify a great many people and if that did not prove effective, to silence the whistling crew, there might be an application of stronger methods.

To have well ventilated cars always to have round wheels and never flat ones and to have the whistler silenced, would make street car traveling something like a journey toward paradise.

LIFE LOST BY GAS AND HOUSE BURNED

Charred Remains of Fuller Found in Ashes—Residence Valued at $6,000.

Holland, Jan. 21.—Following an explosion of natural gas that wrecked the home of Florus Fuller, and shook every building in the village at a stroke this morning, the body of Fuller was found in the ruins of his house. Disabled by the shock of the explosion, physicians believe, Fuller was unable to save himself from the rush of fire that followed. He was burned to death.

Somewhere in Buffalo, at one of the hospitals, Mrs. Fuller, wife of the dead man, is at the bedside of her sister, who was operated upon last night. Only Fuller knew of what hospital his wife had come, and this morning the village authorities were making every effort to get in communication with the woman. Up to this time they had not succeeded in finding her.

Just what led to the explosion that wrecked Fuller's house and resulted in his death is not known. Fuller was evidently in bed and asleep at the time the explosion occurred.

Fuller's house was a new one. It was at the northern end of the village and was valued at $6,000. Natural gas was gushed into it when it was erected.

THE GIRL HELD AS VERY DARING FORGER

Special Officers Descend on Home of Able L. Moulton and Lock Her Up.

Boston, Jan. 21.—In the arrest Saturday night of Able L. Moulton, an attractive young woman of about 23, the police of station 16 believe they have solved the mystery of several daring forgeries that have been perpetrated throughout the Back Bay and the business district.

Special officers visited 96 Falmouth street, of which a Mrs. Schmidt is the landlady, and arrested Miss Moulton. She was taken to station 16 and locked up, charged with attempting to pass a forged check on Samuel Barton, proprietor of the Falmouth drug store at Falmouth and Norway streets.

A quantity of various colored inks, pens, tubes and pen stocks were discovered, the police declare, in Miss Moulton's room. The check which Mr. Barton says was offered to him was for $5 and was made out in the name of William C. Terry of South Boston and was drawn on the Beacon Trust Company. He refused to cash the check and telephoned to the bank. "They told him, it is said, that a very deceptive forgery of Terry's name was going the rounds, and he notified the police."

The unsuccessful attempt to pass the forged check at the drug store followed close on a more successful one at a downtown department store. At this place a young woman presented a check for $20, also alleged to have been drawn by Terry. She said she was running a rooming house in the Back Bay and that one of her lodgers had given it to her in payment of his rent.

The day before that it is alleged she presented a check for $15 to the Lynn & Brockton Shoe Company. On the same day she went to a Washington street installment clothing firm and bought a suit and a cloak, giving a check for $20 in payment. The firm refused to give her the difference but allowed her to take the clothes away. Who they found the check to be fraudulent they never knew, but the return of the goods allowed her to take back the check. The police were at loss to know where to turn until their suspicions were aroused by Miss Moulton's advent at station 16 Saturday afternoon, with a claim that she had been robbed of $20. Investigation by them narrowed the list down to $15. They accordingly set out to watch her.

SLIPPERY PAVEMENTS.

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—As everybody knows, the pavements of this city, for several days have been very slippery and an actual menace to life and limb. The streets, in many parts of the town are equally dangerous for pedestrians. Is there not some provision for having sand or ashes sprinkled on the sidewalks? One law suit over a broken leg arm would cost the city more than all the sand for a winter. Besides the fellow who breaks his leg don't enjoy laying up for several weeks.

WOMEN STILL ARE PRAISING THEM

MRS. GEO. BUTLER TELLS WHAT DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS DID FOR HER.

She was tired, nervous and ran down, and suffered from pains in the back.—Dodd's Kidney Pills cured her.

Paquetville, Gloucester Co., N. B. Jan. 21.—(Special)—That Dodd's Kidney Pills are suffering woman's best friend was never better demonstrated than in the case of Mrs. Geo. Butler, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place.

"My trouble was brought on by hard work," Mrs. Butler tells her friends. "For four years I suffered from pain in the back. I was all ways tired and nervous. My head ached and I had dark circles under my eyes, which were also puffed and swollen."

"I was in a generally run-down condition and feeling very much discouraged when I started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills, and I can only say I found relief at once."

"The main reason of woman's health is the kidneys. If the kidneys are right the blood will be pure. Pure blood is absolutely essential to good health. Dodd's Kidney Pills make the kidneys right."

PRESIDENT TAFT HAS GONE 113,659 MILES

Washington, Jan. 21.—When President Taft stepped down from his private car on his recent return from New Haven the total railroad mileage of his travels during his four years in the White House reached 113,659—enough to have taken him four and one-half times around the world, or an average of about 75 miles for every day he has been President.

Including the three short journeys to be taken before March 4, Mr. Taft will have traveled during his term about 125,000 miles, or five times the distance around the earth at the equator.

Mr. Taft has visited every state in the Union, except Oklahoma and North Dakota. The President has been on the road more than 200 days and nights. Congress gave the President $25,000 a year for travelling expenses and Mr. Taft has used that appropriation every year he has been in office.

VOLCANO IN ERUPTION; MANY FLEE VILLAGES

Guadalajara, Mexico, Jan. 24.—The volcano of Colima broke into violent eruption yesterday afternoon. Thousands of people fled from the villages and ranches in the vicinity. It is not improbable that there has been some loss of life in villages at a distance from the railroad.

Fishing for Pearls

Pearl fishing in Highland rivers seems to attract many rovers to the North who now and again come across pearls of value. The heavily river apparently has been a happy hunting ground for these pearl fishers, judging from the fact that Sheriff-Substitute Grant, in the Inverness Sheriff Court, has just granted to Lord Lovat interdict to four Aberdonians who, it is alleged, have been in search of pearls. The interdict prevents them fishing for pearls in certain rivers. Peary's Vessel Sold

KING HONORED WORKHOUSE ARTIST

His Majesty Not Only Accepted a Painting But Paid the Man for It

The glamor of romance and the sun shine of Royal favor sometimes penetrate to strange places. The dormitory of a workhouse hospital, the walls of which are hung with pen and ink drawings, has been brightened by the gracious regard of his Majesty. The dormitory is the Fishpool Workhouse at Great Laver, between Boston and Manchester, and upon an upstate of artistic gifts, the rays of public attention have been turned by an act of royal benevolence. The inmate is a sufferer from tuberculosis.

John Morgan, who is fifty-one years of age, has a turn for watercolor painting, and he has had the rare fortune of one of his pictures being accepted by King George who forwarded him $5.00 as an acknowledgment.

"I make pictures in my leisure time as I feel inclined," said Morgan in an interview. "The work pleases me and passes the time. I am a house painter and decorator by trade, but I had to cease work owing to an attack of consumption. I believe I caught it in London five years ago, when I went there looking for work. I have been in the workhouse here for about two years."

Asked what put into his head the idea of writing to the King, he replied, "It was my birthday on Coronation Day, and the idea occurred to me then. I thought I would send his Majesty one of my pictures. So I made a small water-color painting of an ideal landscape. The size is 14 in. by 8 in., and I forwarded it through Lord Knollys to the King. The walls of the room occupied by Morgan are decked with his works and the apartments of the officials also contain his sketches, both in black and white and in color.

USED HIS HAT-BAND AS SAFE DEPOSIT

A prolonged litigation was cut short at Aberdeen, Scotland, by a discovery in an old silk hat which a pawnbroker's wife was endeavoring to sell. In order to make it fit the purchaser she slipped her fingers under the band to remove what seemed to be padding. Taking the wad out she discovered that it was a bunch of bank deposit receipts for the amount of $5,000. Fortunately the pawnbroker knew that the hat had belonged to a gentleman who had died three years previously. He restored the receipts to his executor and was informed that the money represented had given rise to a bitterly contested lawsuit.

The dead man's lawyers were specially overjoyed at the discovery, as they had been under serious suspicion of carelessness in losing the receipts. Nobody had been aware of their client's habit of using his hat as a safe deposit box.

THE ENGAGED GIRL

Thinks she has accomplished her life-work. Starts a collection of handkerchiefs and doyleys. Spends seven eighths of her time in the shops. Looks down with pity upon heart free companions. Begins to tell her mother how a house should be run. Is the sweetest personification of ecstacy imaginable. Thinks all her old admirers are dying of broken hearts. Becomes absent-minded and leaves her left hand ungloved. Promises every girl that she'll be one of the bridesmaids.

BRIGAND AND DANDY

Triple Murderer Dressed Stylishly and Wore Scented Beard

Salomone, the most spectacular brigand of recent years, who has been sentenced at Aquila, Italy, to thirty years in prison, looks like an elegant nobleman. He is tall, thirty-seven years old, always well dressed; his nails are well manicured, and his heavy beard is carefully trimmed, brushed, and perfumed. He has written clever stories for newspapers, and has published some clever poetry. He was tried and sentenced for one murder and for one attempted murder, but he confessed to having murdered three men, tried to kill another, and to having been guilty of many extortions.

KILLED BY CANNIBALS

Victim of an Attack on a British Mining Expedition in Nigeria

Details have been received in England of the recent attack by pagan cannibals in Nigeria on a British mining expedition and the murder of Mr. Campbell, the Scottish prospector in charge.

It seems that Mr. Campbell, with his only white companion, Mr. Poole, had been working in the locality of the attack for two weeks, during which time the natives were most friendly, and treated the expedition well. All went satisfactorily until in the course of their work it became necessary for the party to erect flags and beacons to mark the limits of the ground.

Unfortunately these, and especially small white flags, which were placed among the native crops around the superstitious fear of the pagans, who regarded them as a "julu" against their fates. Warnings were given as to the threatened danger, but apparently these were not regarded as serious.

Suddenly one morning two old pagan chiefs arrived on the scene, throwing earth over their heads, a proceeding which, it was thought, was intended to indicate that the visitors should go, as the people were getting out of hand. The chiefs' words on the point is wanting, but it is probable that this action was wrongly explained by the interpreter as merely being a native form of salute. In any case, the chiefs retired, and in a few minutes the expedition was attacked. By good luck Mr. Poole, who was wounded, reached his horse, but Mr. Campbell's horse rode off on his own, and the lucky prospector was shot down by innumerable arrows. A few days after his naked but unharmed body was recovered and buried. A peign boring village proved loyal, and prevented the murderers from looting the British camp, losing some men in resisting the attackers.

VERDI'S COOL CRITIC.

A Chap Who Liked to Eat His Cake and Still Have It.

When Giuseppe Verdi's opera "Aida" was first being presented to Italian audiences the composer received the following letter, dated May, 1872, from a man residing in Reggio, a town near Parma, and about 100 miles from Milan:

"Much Honored Signor Verdi—The ad of this month I went to Parma, drawn there by the sensation made by your opera 'Aida.' So great was my curiosity that one-half hour before the commencement of the piece I was already in my place, No. 120. I admired the mise en scene, I heard with pleasure the excellent singers, and I did all in my power to let nothing escape me. At the end of the opera I asked myself if I was satisfied, and the answer was 'No.' I started back to Reggio, and listened in the railway carriages to the opinions given upon 'Aida.' Nearly all agreed in considering it a work of the first order.

"I was then seized with the idea of hearing it again, and on the 4th I returned to Parma. I made unbroken efforts to get a reserved seat. As the crowd was enormous I was obliged to throw away five lire in order to witness the performance with any comfort.

"I arrived at this conclusion about it: It is an opera in which there is absolutely nothing which causes any enthusiasm or excitement, and without the pomp of the spectacle the public would not stand it to the end. When it has filled the house two or three times it will be banished to the dust of the archives.

"You can now, dear Signor Verdi, picture to yourself my regret at having spent on two occasions—$2 lire. Add to this the aggravating circumstance that I did not see my family, and this money troubles my rest like a frightful specter! I therefore frankly address myself to you in order that you may send me the amount. The account is as follows:

Lira
Railroad-going	1.50
Railroad-returning	1.50
Opera tickets	1.00
Delectable supper at the station	1.00
Twice	1.00
Total	6.00

"Hoping that you will deliver me from this embarrassing, I salute you from my heart, Bertani.

"P. S.—My address: Prospero Bertani, via San Domenico, No. 5." Verdi happened to be more amused than offended at the cool impudence of this amateur critic, and he instructed his publisher to forward Signor Bertani the sum demanded minus 4 lire. By way of justifying this deduction he wrote, "The sum is not quite so much as the gentleman demands, but I think he might have taken his supper at home!"—Exchange.

How It Affected Him.

A young lawyer asked a veteran at the bar if a lawyer ever got used to losing cases.

"I can't say, sir," responded the veteran. "I really can't say; but, as for myself, I am very much in the same fix as the man from Oxford who had been defeated for office. He was talking me about it and, in order to distract himself of the charge of being a bad loser, kept interjecting the remark that he was not complaining. 'It doesn't pay to complain,' I said, agreeing with him.

"No, sir, it doesn't," he exclaimed, "and I won't complain, but at the same time I want you to understand, sir, that it makes me dunned sick!"—Kansas City Journal.

A Cupful of Wind.

The origin of the phrase "a cupful of wind" can be traced to a Norse king, Erik VI., who died in 1442. A. D. He was credited with the useful power of directing the wind to blow where he wished by the simple method of turning his cap to that point of the compass. His powers were much appreciated and trusted and resulted in his being known as "windy cap." There is no evidence as to whether he could regulate the force of the wind, as well as the direction. Presumably he could, or his faithful followers would not have been so many. A "bagful of wind" is another common expression and indicates something like a gale. This has been traced down to the classical legend of Aeolus and his captive winds confined in bags.

Roman Masons' Tools.

The excavations at Pompeii and Herculaneum have unearthed masons' tools much resembling those in use today and demonstrated the true use of large files, the employment of iron to the together brick and stone work and the use of a kind of compass of which there was the holding rod and hammer used on brick a favorite material. The stone of the Roman world in the last century of its existence, it is interesting to find the nature of the mason's tools, and the exact kind of tools used with regard to the work.

Artistic Ability.

"By the way, a very pretty title for your picture," said the interested outsider. "But the sea is too green, and the waves are too fluffy."

"That's so," replied the artist. "I'll paint some branches and twigs into it and call it 'The Woodland Way.'"—Washington Star.

Entirely Too Emphatic.

"Then you won't marry me?" "No, a thousand times no!" "You don't need to say so in a thousand times," retorted the rejected author respectfully. "I only asked you once."—Pittsburgh Post.

Happiness.

If you could be happy in one way, be in another, and this facility of disposition wants but little aid from philosophy, for health and good humor are almost the whole affair. Many run about after felicity like an absent-minded man hunting for his hat while it is in his hand or on his head.

A Safe Wager.

Townley—Some one has said that he is a benefactor of his race who makes two blades of grass grow where only one grew before. Subbubs—I'll bet anything that fellow never had to rub a new mower. Boston Transcript.

Tells How to Act Quickly

"Even when I was young I was not robust and healthy like other girls. I suffered from headaches, and had sort of blue feelings that deprived me of the joyful spirits and pleasures other girls seemed to get. After I married I found I could not throw worries off like other women, and those full feelings of despondency and weariness made me very unhappy. There was no cause to feel so, and my doctor said my liver was sluggish, and this accounted for my poor color, my tiredness, languor and despair. The pills the doctor gave me were too purgative, made me weaker because they were too active for my constitution. Doses of my friend recommended Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and they were so mild and gentle. Well, I never used a pill that acted so quietly as Dr. Hamilton's. They were so comfortable to use, I was afraid they might not help. But in a week I knew they had been actively engaged in clearing up my system. They did the work of a tonic and blood medicine combined. I improved to a marvelous degree with Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and I now maintain the most perfect kind of health by using them just once or twice a week."

It is Mrs. E. V. Erlanger, well known at Gloucester, who relates the above experience. She proved what you and all other men and women can prove—that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are best for restoring health and best for keeping the system in perfect running order. Don't be misled into using anything but Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. a box, five for $1.00, at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid by the Catarhizom Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

At yesterday's police court, Albert Edwards pleaded guilty to stealing a suit of clothes worth $7.50. He was remanded for sentence until the 25th January. The clothes were the property of William Albright who had deposited them in a trunk in the stables of the Grand Hotel. Suspicion pointed to Edwards and he was arrested Thursday night.

Mr. Daney Is Progressing.
Rumors were current yesterday morning that Mr. Samuel Daney, who as noted in yesterday's issue was seriously injured in an accident near the Shovel Works, was dead. The Times telephoned Nicholls Hospital and we were pleased to learn that not only was this rumor a canard, but that Mr. Daney is progressing favorably.

A PUBLIC WARNING.

Having been informed that a certain woman has been soliciting, and to buy Bibles for the Mark street Sunday School, I would like to state that this matter is of the woman's own initiative, and neither the pastor of the church, nor the superintendent of the Sunday School have any knowledge of the affair whatever. The public are warned accordingly.

BIBBER ON THE WAR PATH.

A young lady of 19 years, who resides on Gilmour street has a beau and also a younger sister. At a moving picture show, last Thursday the younger sister, aged 8, saw some Indians painting their faces. In reply to a question put, the child's mother explained that Indians going on the war path to kill and scalp, always paint their faces. Last night mother was entertaining the beau and waiting for elder sister to complete her toilet. The younger child, rushing into the room, with frightened face, exclaimed, "Mother, sister is upstairs getting ready to go on the war path!"

BLOOM OF YOUTH

Now Easily Attained

(From Popular Science)

You no longer need to "doctor" that sallow, freckled, blackheaded, rough, blotchy, pimply or over-red skin. You can remove it, instead, easily, painlessly, inexpensively. By a new scientific process, which anyone can use without assistance, the dead and near-dead surface skin, with all its imperfections, is gently, gradually absorbed—and a radiantly youthful and beautiful complexion comes forth! Go to your druggist, get an ounce of powdered salicylic acid, mix with warm water. The result after a few days is astonishing. You wonder why this secret wasn't discovered long ago.

Let the wrinkled, pouchy-checked, double-chinned folk also take hope. Put an ounce of powdered salicylic acid into a half pint witch hazel, bathe the face in the solution and—say!—there's nothing that will so effectively, to promptly smooth out the hateful lines and draw in the sags and bags. You'll find this lotion, as well as mercurized wax, works equally well on neck and hands.

WEDDING BELLS.

Murphy-O'Shea.
A quiet wedding was solemnized Thursday morning at St. Basil's church, Toronto, by Rev. Father Kelly, when Miss Mona O'Shea, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. O'Shea, formerly of Peterborough, was married to Mr. Sterndale Joseph Murphy.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, wore a very becoming travelling costume of navy, broadcloth, with Oriental trimmings, with French hat and muffs of swansdown. She wore the groom's gift a diamond pin. The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Olive O'Shea. Mr. Floyd Trimmer supported the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy left immediately afterwards for a trip to the Mediterranean and will reside in Toronto after their return in May.

Those Slippery Walks.

It is a good thing that Street Commissioner cannot be held accountable for profanity used throughout the city, especially in the East Ward, on account of the slippery condition of the walks. One gentleman, residing in the East Ward is in a quandary. He says his wife fell on the walk and sprained her arm painfully, and so reacting on the nervous system, that even the most polite remark he can make to her results in "snapping his head off." Get busy Harry with the sand! A local Scotchman, whilst crossing Central Park yesterday evening, stood watching a lady pedestrian, who had hard work to navigate on account of the ice, when BIFF! down went the Scotchman, and the north end of his mother's garments were ruined. Again, whilst two ladies were vending their way down one of the streets in East City, with a baby carriage, one of the ladies slipped on the ice, and the other immediately tried to assist her to her feet, when bang, both were scrambling on the slippery walk, the carriage with its young occupant sped on down the street. It was some time before the ladies gained their feet and then only by the assistance of some small boys and a hobbleigh. Oh, the language that one could hear on the streets yesterday, all about sand and where it was most useful.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT AT QUAKER OATS CO.

Bundles of Sheet Iron Saved Mr. Wilt Metheal From Having a Leg Broken.

Yesterday morning a painful, and what might have been a serious accident, occurred at the Quaker Oats mill. It seems that Mr. Wilt Metheal, assisted by another man, was carrying a 500 pound case of machinery into a car loading for the Company's new mill at Saskatoon. On the car floor lay some bundles of sheet iron. Mr. Metheal, carrying the box, as he walked backward, tripped over the sheet iron. The quarter of a ton of boxed machinery fell on his leg, between knee and thigh.

At first it was thought his leg was smashed. However, fortunately, the resiliency of the bundles of sheet iron saved the bone. Mr. Metheal, as well as suffering a painful bruising of the flesh and muscles, cut his hand in the fall. He was taken to the office where "first aid" was used. He suffered great pain and was compelled to leave his work.

WHAT LONDON THINKS OF PRESENT FINANCIAL AFFAIRS

Revolution in Turkey Is Regarded by European Bankers As Merely a Tiresome Incident

New York, Jan. 25.—The London correspondent of the Evening Post makes the following comment on financial conditions:

In the best informed financial circles the latest turn of events in Turkey is regarded merely as a tiresome incident. No doubt it may possibly prolong the delays and postponements in concluding peace, but the Young Turks who have neither supplies nor credit nor any effective army, must inevitably give way.

The city's comment is that the harmony of the powers is unbroken, but that, unfortunately, it is harmony of inaction rather than concerted action. That is why fears of outside complications remain, and will continue to disturb the financial mind until peace is finally and definitely settled.

From the market's point of view the revolt at Constantinople against the terms of peace was a very grave

TURKISH ENVOYS NEVER FOR PEACE

London Press Says Delegates Had Orders to Prolong Conference to Permit Empire to Recover Its Vitality.

London, Jan. 26.—A startling confession was made to the Daily Express by one of the Turkish diplomats at present in London. It is that the Turkish peace delegates from the first moment to make peace.

Those who were sent to make the peace conference last as long as possible, he said. The Turks never expected that the peace conference would be so long. They were only intended to delay things, hoping that a possible disagreement in the conference of ambassadors would supervene, creating an opportunity for the Turkish Empire to recover some of the losses of the war.

From the beginning, Tevfik Pasha, the Turkish Ambassador in London, and a diplomat of great experience and outstanding ability, has been among the opponents of peace, and the Young Turk party is strongly represented in the personnel of the embassy here.

The business of Reza Pasha and his colleagues at the peace conference has been merely to make the delay as long as possible and that at least they contrived to do so successfully.

Turkey is now placing all its hope in Austria, and it is the belief that a bargain can still be made with Austria. This sentiment has caused the rising in Constantinople and the overthrow of the ministry who were prepared to accept the peace terms demanded by the Balkan Alliance.

15,000 WOMEN WILL MARCH IN SUFFRAGIST PARADE.

MRS. GLENA SMITH TINDIN

Applications to participate in the pre-inaugural pageant of the Woman's Suffrage Association on March 3 are pouring into the headquarters of the association in Washington in such numbers that the leaders are overwhelmed. They are confident there will be between ten and fifteen thousand in line. The marchers will represent not only every section of the United States but many foreign countries. Mrs. Glena Smith Tindin, an author, will be director of the parade.

LIVE BABY WAS CARRIED BY THE U. S. PARCEL POST Package Was Just Under Eleven-Pound Limit and Postage Was Fifteen Cents—Was Insured For Fifty Dollars

Batavia, Ohio, Jan. 25.—(Special O. T.) "Maiden" when the carrier got a little mail carrier on a rural route today. Its measurements reached out of this place, is the first man to accept and deliver under parcel post conditions, a live baby. The baby, a boy, weighing five pounds, just with the address of the parcel attached in the 11 pound weight limit, is the child of Mr. and Mrs. Jessie Beagle of near Eden Este. The package was well wrapped and ready for mail and the parcel was insured for $50.

WILSONS FIRST ACT WILL BE REPEAL OF PANAMA BILL

Washington, Jan. 25.—Chairman Adamson of the house commerce committee, in a formal statement today, predicted that one of President Wilson's first requests upon the incoming congress would be for a repeal of the free passage provision in the Panama Canal Act applying to American ships.

"If Secretary Knox succeeds in avoiding or postponing the demands of England," said Mr. Adamson, "he will undoubtedly remove also all foundations for the illogical claims of our people, who say they are opposed to subsidies, but still favor discrimination in favor of coastwise ships from tolls, which is a subsidy. England may justly complain that if the canal is to be used as an instrument to distribute subsidies under the treaty, those subsidies must be equal to all nations."

The true issue for us to determine, he said, is whether our own people by an unjust discrimination to enrich the coastwise shipping trust, I would not at all object to a brush with England if we had a just cause, but it looks very foolish and unprofitable to maintain any sort of row with her, commercial, diplomatic, or warlike, to defend the infliction of an incidental discrimination caused by the immortal and unjust robbery of our treasury and the masses of the people could better benefit upon a special interest.

BAD PANIC FROM FIRE ON HUGE BROOKLYN BRIDGE

New York, Jan. 25.—Brooklyn Bridge was the scene last evening of one of the largest runs of humanity in the history of the city. The bridge, which the structure has probably held since the opening 30 years ago, at which time a dozen persons were crushed to death. For 50 minutes during the rush hour all traffic by rail was at a standstill because of a small fire in a shed under the bridge which cut off the electric feed wires, which cut off the electric feed wires, which cut off the electric feed wires.

LIBERALS ARE KEEN TO DISCUSS BANK ACT, SESSION'S BIG ISSUE

Deliberately Obstructed to Defer Further Discussion of Naval Question—Foster, Frosty, Yet Kindly, Lets Opposition Do All the Talking on Trade Treaty

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—Just now it looked as though the government and opposition alike were marking time. The government has made no headway with the naval debate and Hon. Mr. White when questioned yesterday in the house was unable to say when he would proceed with his bill to revise the Bank Act.

The opposition deliberately obstructed on Thursday and Friday of this week, evidently preferring to postpone any further discussion of the naval question. They are more keen just now to discuss the Bank Act, which promises to be the big issue of the session. There is some talk of a gain about an election this year. Many Liberals take the view that the government will be stronger a year or two from now when well in the saddle and more accustomed to rule. Then too, they deem it important to have another campaign with Sir Wilfrid Laurier as strong and well and eager for the fray.

Opposition benches are simply as yet been asked and the government is unable to find itself short of money after March 31. However, this has happened to many governments before now without any serious consequences.

West Indies Trade Treaty.

Hon. Geo. E. Foster was frosty but kindly, in dealing with the well organized effort to obstruct his bill continuing the reciprocity treaty between Canada and the British West Indies. The treaty itself was the outgrowth of the royal commission.

Special to The Times.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—Last night the big arena was crowded to full capacity to see the local O.I.A.A. team go up against Ottawa. The visitors won by a score of 9-5.

CANADIANS WON.

In Montreal Saturday night, the Canadians defeated the Tecumsehs.

CONSTANTINOPLE IN A STATE OF SEIGE, TERROR REIGNS

London, Jan. 25.—Constantinople is practically in a state of siege and terror reigns supreme, according to reports received by the Balkan Allies. From the same source it is reported that the young Turks, fearing that the reins of power may again escape from their hands, are arresting their adversaries in the Turkish capital right and left, and are searching houses and clubs, and confiscating documents, hoping in this way to break up the organization of the opposition.

The allies express the opinion that under these circumstances any excess may be expected.

With this prospect in view the European powers have decided to send war vessels to reinforce the ordinary guardships stationed at Constantinople.

Italy is especially alarmed over the return to power of the Young Turks who were ignominious during the Libyan war. The United States ambassador at Constantinople, Wm. Rock hill, during the negotiations at peace between Italy and Turkey, decried David Bey, who was then Turkish Minister of Finance, and is now the head of the committee of union and progress, as an irreconcilable. David Bey declared that Turkey would fight in Tripoli while she still possessed a single soldier.

The position of the 5000 Italian residents of Turkey is now regarded as so precarious that Italy has dispatched to Constantinople the cruisers San Marco and Pisa and the gun boat Archimede, which are capable of landing 500 blue jackets. At the same time the Italian Admiralty has ordered the Italian squadron now stationed at the Islands of St. Paul and Rhodes in the Grecian archipelago, to hold itself in readiness, while the remainder of the Italian fleet is at Tarento within easy call in case of necessity.

A SURVEYOR WON AN INDIAN PRINCESS

Masset, Queen Charlotte Island, B. C., Jan. 25.—After a romantic courtship, rivaling those of Western fiction, Frederick Nash, a well known surveyor, has been married to Josephine, an Indian Princess, eldest daughter of the proud chief Eiden-shah, one of the tribes of Haida Indians.

Princess Josephine was educated at a school for white girls at Metlakatlah, where for sometime after her graduation she remained as a teacher. After her return home she was courted by many Indian Chiefs, but not a few white men, but she spurned them all, until Mr. Nash came along and won the haughty beauty. The wedding took place at the little English court on the reserve, where Father Hogan read an impressive service. They have started south on their honeymoon, after which they will probably reside here, where Mr. Nash has extensive interests.

SOUTH POLE EXPLORER IN TORONTO IN SUMMER SUIT

Toronto, Jan. 25.—Freddie at two o'clock, the appointed hour, the intrepid explorer, accompanied by Carl J. Printz, vice-consul of Norway, arrived at the City Hall.

Secretary George Wilson and one of the constables were on the job to greet the party, who had sauntered half way down the main corridor before being discovered. Some few minutes after the explorer had been conducted to the Mayor's private office to await his worship's arrival, the latter appeared upon the scene to be followed by Mr. Hubbard, and then a few of the members began to straggle in.

Just 28 people availed themselves of a seat in council chamber, including Controller O'Neill, Ald. Burgess, Mrs. Burgess, Ald. Maybee, Wanless, Ald. and Mrs. Wickett and Ald. Ryd- ing.

Major Collins of the Army and Navy Veterans attended, embellished with a medal, and engaged himself in an earnest conversation with the Captain.

"It is a very great pleasure for me as chief magistrate of the City of Toronto to be able to extend to you a hearty welcome," said the Mayor, "especially because we as a people have a great regard for intrepidity, qualities which are inseparable from the workings and efforts of an explorer."

"We have read much of your doings and your success gave us profound satisfaction."

Wore Summer Suit.

Capt. Amundsen, who speaks perfect English, was attired in a light summer suit and low shoes, as a protection from the vagaries of this vigorous climate of ours. He possesses a remarkable physique and carries himself erect.

SHIPS TO CARRY LIFE-BOAT FOR EACH SOUL

New York, Jan. 25.—A cable to the Tribune from London, says: Board of Trade regulations issued, to become operative on March 1, provide that the British sailing ships shall carry lifeboats and life-saving appliances for all on board.

Steamships carrying passengers on short excursions between April 1 and October 31 during daylight, and in fine weather, must be supplied with 70 per cent. of the total number of passengers they are certified to carry.

Passenger steamers on rivers, canals, estuaries, or lakes must have boats with life rafts, etc. sufficient for 30 per cent. of the number of passengers for which the ship is certified.

RAN THROUGH FORTUNE

Man Who Took Part in a Revolution in Honduras

A career of strange adventures was recalled when Mr. Donald Francis Charles Stewart appeared at the London Bankruptcy Court for examination.

On coming of age in 1892, he came in for a sum of $125,000, and for ten years he travelled and engaged in prospecting, pearl dredging, and treasure hunting. He also took part in an expedition, having for its object a revolution in Honduras.

Returning to England in 1904 with between $10,000 and $15,000, he engaged in magazine writing, and backed horses on a system of his own, losing the residue of his money. He then started with a partner as a dealer in pictures and works of art. That business ended in a loss of $5,000.

He also carried on business under the firm name of the New Ventures Syndicate, with a capital of $15,000, all borrowed. Finding himself unable to raise more money, and being pressed, he left the office, and afterwards moved about from place to place eluding writs. Finally he was arrested. He owes $24,195, and has assets amounting to about $300.

HOTELS FOR WOMEN

Splendid Scheme of Cheap Housing for London's Working Women

Women's hotels, as they are called, are becoming more numerous in London, where they are helping somewhat to solve the problem of housing the underpaid woman. The rent of a cubicle in the hotel is 84 cents a week, which rent must always be paid in advance. A reference is required with each intending resident from some responsible person, and the matron writes for the reference before the would-be resident takes up her abode at the hotel.

All meals supplied are good, plentiful and cheap. The restaurant is open to outsiders, and the girls from neighboring factories and workshops are frequent visitors. For breakfast it is possible to get either a rather of bacon, a kipper or bloater, some jam or marmalade, bread and butter, and a cup of tea for 7 or 8 cents. Dinner offers a wide variety of choice. Roast mutton or beef, Irish stew, potatoes, and often three vegetables, and a good dinner need not cost more than 12 cents. Then tea will cost about 6 cents and supper about the same, so that for 32 cents a day a girl can live not too luxuriously, but cheaply and wholesomely. Baths are provided at the hotel at 2 cents each, and residents can either do their own laundry or pay to have it done.

PRINCE AND HEIRESS

Russian Grand Duke to Wed a German Jewess

An engagement which is destined to cause the tongues of aristocratic European society to wag, is reported. The contracting parties are Prince Alexander Georgievich Romanovsky of Russia, who holds the rank of Grand Duke, with the title of Imperial Highness, and Frautien Marie Anna Von Friedlanderfeld, only child of the German royal king, Fritz Von Friedlanderfeld, and Berlin's greatest heiress. It is the first case on record, it is said, of Jewish birth becoming betrothed to a Prince of the Royal blood.

Prehistoric Cemetery

The discovery of a prehistoric cemetery and crematorium at Goch, Wales, led to an examination which showed that the inhabitants of the uplands of Cardiganshire in the earlier part of the Bronze Age cremated their dead. Medical men pronounced all bones found to be human bones. A number of small bronze ornaments were found, and a bronze sword, which contained charcoal, but no vestige of bone, was a mystery. It is possible that these hollows were receptacles for food for the departed.

King's Gift for Tropical Medicine

The King sent a donation of $500 to Mr. Austin Chamberlain for the fund opened by the Lord Mayor for the London School of Tropical Medicine, which, his Majesty notes, owes its inception to Mr. Joseph Chamberlain. Mr. Austin Chamberlain wrote: "His Majesty's interest and approval encourage us to make a renewed effort to secure the $500,000 for which we originally asked. We have already secured nearly half that sum."

Fred Palfreyman, a Hemsworth miner, was fined $4.25 at Pontefract for taking down a mine shaft, which he was found using as a toilet. For a similar breach of the regulations James King, a Purton miner, was fined a similar amount. He had a match in his pocket.

Think of it, friends!

Another year nearly gone.

Have you lost—a mother or a relative?

If not possibly so before another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likenesses, and you will never regret it. In this case you get a real likeness—a work of art that will not lose its clear-cut lines and beauty.

WILD AND BARREN IS MONTENEGRO

The People are Most Hospitable and Very Honest—All Carry Arms

According to Mr. Harry de Windt, the noted English traveller and lecturer, Montenegro is a chaos of mountains that half of it is as yet unexplored. "I have seldom," he says, "save in the Arctic, crossed a more wild and desolate country, although in the lowlands around Lake Scutari and in the passes of Rieka and Podgoritz, which are delightful places in summer time, maize, barley, and even vines and orange trees flourish in profusion. But so sterile is inland Montenegro that many of the natives have never tasted anything but brackish rain water from crevices of rock."

Podgoritz, where the first of the fighting of the Turko-Balkan war took place, is the most thriving little town in the country, which it divides with wool, hides, and tobacco.

Ruined walls and towers show that it was once strongly fortified, for in olden times this was the scene of many a desperate battle between Turk and Christian, and mosque and altar still give the place an Oriental aspect.

Travel is not easy, and even short journeys on horseback are tiresome and fatiguing, for there are few black roads. But, oddly enough, there are no thieves, even in the most primitive and almost unknown, and even the poorest peasant will entertain you on the best he can produce without thought of pecuniary reward, an offer of which would grossly insult him.

You enter the meanest dwelling, to be told that all it contains is yours—no matter how meanly it is furnished. You are told that all it contains is yours—no matter how meanly it is furnished. You are told that all it contains is yours—no matter how meanly it is furnished.

The Afghans of Europe

Montenegrians are justly called the "Afghans of Europe" for they closely resemble those of the East. They are a race of giants, who would probably regard an Englishman of moderate height as a dwarf. All wear the national dress, a tunic of coarse white serge, embroidered with black braid and back breeches with a kind of sandal secured with a network of string. Shagreened boots are worn at all seasons, at any rate, by the peasantry, who also assume many layers of underclothing in winter, to gradually discard them with the aid of fleecy and downy garments. And all, irrespective of rank, wear a black silk forage cap with velvet crown, which bears the initials of the ruler, and around it five centuries worked in gold thread, denoting the five centuries of Montenegro's self-asserted independence.

The women are mostly plain, and their costume, a shapeless white skirt and bodice, bound by a leather belt and worn under a long dark coat of machine-made cloth, does not enhance their appearance. Although Christians, the Montenegrians regard their wives from an Oriental standpoint, and treat their wives more as beasts of burden.

The Smallest Capital

Cetinje, the smallest capital in Europe, is a town on the banks of the Zeta, with the exception, perhaps, of St. Petersburg, it is not only pleasantly cold, but very damp and windy. There are two broad, straggling, cobbled streets, with shabby-looking dwellings. The shops are very poor, although there are a few, and the houses are occupied by gold and silver smiths, where genuine bargains can still be picked up in antique rings, filigree work and women's heavy leather belts studded with gems for glass, which are peculiar to this country. The principal square is in the centre of the town. King Nicholas is a tall, broad-shouldered man with stern, handsome features and piercing grey eyes, a stately figure, upright as a gun barrel, notwithstanding his years. Although a great smoker, he generally consumes about 100 cigarettes a day, the King is very moderate in drink and diet, and can still flick a cigarette from a friend's lips with a duelling pistol at twelve paces.

TRANS-BALTIC MAILS BY AIR

Germany Makes Such a Proposal to Denmark

Germany has asked Denmark whether it is disposed to employ German airships in carrying the trans-Baltic mails, Denmark paying a small subsidy which will be devoted to building and maintaining an airship station at Amager, near Copenhagen. Germany contends that air mail service would be particularly advantageous in winter, when the ice often delays steamships. Denmark acknowledged the receipt of the proposal, and expressed the greatest interest in the scheme, but as yet has made no decision.

Overland School Children

In his report on the medical inspection of school children in the Renfrewshire district of Scotland, Dr. Henry D. Robb stated that the number of children who were really undernourished formed a very small percentage. Cases of children being undernourished were more frequently met with among boys than among the girls. A considerable number of the children were found to be overnourished.

A CONVICT SUICIDE AT CENTRAL PRISON

Toronto, Jan. 25.—On the eve of completing a nine months' term for selling cocaine, Dow Lavery committed suicide in the Central Prison by throwing himself over the balustrade to a stone pavement, forty feet below. Death was instantaneous.

Lavery, who had been sentenced eight months ago in Police Court following a prosecution by the Morality Department, was a confirmed drug fiend. He eluded the vigilance of the guards and breaking from his cell on the third floor rushed to the iron railings and hurled himself over. The prison officials notified the Chief Coroner who directed an inquest to be opened. The jury found that the deceased had committed suicide while of unsound mind.

WOMAN'S BODY LIES ACROSS OPEN GRAVE

Ghouls Perpetrate Gruesome Outrage in Chattanooga Burial Ground

Chattanooga, Tenn., Jan. 25.—In tense excitement prevailed in the city Sunday as a result of a gruesome discovery in Forest Hills Cemetery, the most popular burial ground of the city. Early visitors discovered near one of the driveway, the body of a woman lying on top of a grave which had been opened during the night. The corpse was that of Mrs. Carl Scheerer, who died in St. Elmo on Christmas day. Ghouls had opened the grave some time during Saturday night, removed the body, re-filled the grave, and placed the body on the mound, the head resting on a fresh wreath, which had been taken from a nearby grave. The cemetery was closed and a guard placed at the gates while an investigation was made. If there is any connection between the discovery and the cemetery refuse to make it public. No one is willing to advance a theory as to the motive for the crime.

THROWS BABY FROM A SPEEDING AUTO

Well-Dressed Woman Hurled Child in to Crowd of Street Laborers; Escapes

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 25.—Police are searching for the identity of two women, who threw the body of a baby from a limousine into a crowd of workmen at one of the principal corners late Sunday. According to the report of the police, a well-dressed, middle-aged woman was at the wheel of the car, the occupant being a handsome young woman, who held the big pasteboard box.

After getting rid of the body, the car came lost in the maze of traffic before the men had time to get the number or any mark of identification. There was nothing on the child to give a clue to its parents.

RIME LAID AT DOOR OF JERSEY MOUNTAINEERS

Someville, N. J., Jan. 25.—In investigation has been made in the case of Dr. John Morrison, a New York physician, who is charged with the death in a fire which destroyed his summer home at the foot of Mount Morristown near here yesterday. Recently Dr. Morrison's house was visited and two mountaineers were summoned in the summer of 1911 for a time on suspicion. Neighbor of Dr. Morrison have declared their belief that some of the mountaineers deliberately turned the house on fire.

THE OLDEST NEWSPAPER

Suppressed After Fifteen Centuries of Publication in China

The "King-Hao," a Chinese journal recently "suppressed forever" by President Yuan-Shi-Kai, is without doubt the oldest newspaper in the world. In Chinese history and literature it has played an enviable and supreme part. For 1,500 years this publication has informed China of the important events in the known world and exercised a profound influence upon the growth of the Chinese community.

At a time in which Europe was plunged in darkness, without the faintest glimmering of the future developments of book and newspaper printing, a Chinese discovered that type could be made out of an alloy of lead and silver, and accordingly founded about the year 90 A.D. the King-Hao, which appeared without interruption until a short time ago. Originally the paper was printed upon yellow silk pages which were bound together like a book and sent to the highest dignitaries in the kingdom. In time this news-sheet became famous throughout China. Probably the most fascinating and significant of all the incidents in the history of the paper was the action and fate of a twelfth century editor, who wrote an article demanding that the Government should turn its back on tradition and ceremony and should "send clever men to Europe to learn there, to see and to hear." For this advice the editor was beheaded, and his head, with ears torn off and the tongue plucked out, was exhibited as a warning to modernists in every town of North China.

MANY PRINCES IN FIELD

Balkan Royal Personages Take More Chances Than Others

The number of princes of Royal blood who took to the field at the outbreak of the Turko-Balkan war constitutes a record in modern history. It is quite in keeping with the medievalism which still lingers in the Balkans that this should be the case. Modern practice is against the presence of kings with their troops in war; too much depends on the chance bullet. In the Russo-Japanese conflict the Russian grand dukes and princesses engaged took a very minor part in the war.

England gave a prince of the blood to the South African War and a soldier's grave. The Duke of Connaught was in the Egyptian War and the late Duke of Cambridge did doughty deeds at Inkermann. But the tragedy of the prince Imperial proved a deterrent to royal adventures of this kind. Governments shun such risks.

The Queen as Welsh Singer

The Mayor of Wrexham, in presiding at a luncheon to the Institution of Municipal and County Engineers, said he should never forget his debt to Cardiff on the occasion of the laying of the foundation stone of the National Museum of Wales. What touched him most deeply was that the Queen sang most heartily in Welsh. She had a Welsh programme before her.

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

These Mines will be in operation by April next.

The Company possess 607 acres of Phosphate, Mica, Gold and Asbestos lands, all free of encumbrances.

POSSIBLE PRODUCTION AND PROFITS

The Company has already orders for over 30,000 tons of Phosphate, on which it expects to realize a profit of $5.00 net per ton, or $250,000, which will be equal to 50 p.c. on the capitalization.

Supposing the Company would only realize one-half of its estimated profits, it still would have to its credit 25 p.c., without taking into this estimate the profits from its Mica Mine, which very likely will be as much again. The output of this Mica Mine is almost all sold in advance to large English firms.

THIS PHOSPHATE AND MICA MINES

are paying enterprises right from the start of its operation, and are located in the Province of Quebec, near Ottawa, and only a mile from railway station.

THE PLANT, MACHINERIES

required for the exploitation are inexpensive, the operation expenses, such as labor, provisions, supplies, transportation, etc., are all much cheaper than in Porcupine and Cobalt mining districts.

The Shareholders participate in the profits of all the Companies' mines.

DISTINGUISHED COAL-HEAVERS

The learned, British judge who recently set himself to break down in order to test a case submitted for his judgment was, after all, only copying the excellent example set by Judge Moss, who on one occasion found specially to hold a case of coal-heaving done to help him decide a lawsuit. He seized the trucks and pushed them himself with both hands. Mr. Justice Warrington of England has also told as hard as any coal-heaver. A few years ago some eighteen tons of coal near his residence set up combustion, and all his servants there were called upon to remove it urgently to the open. His lordship thereupon took his wheelbarrow and worked vigorously with the rest.

WOMEN DOCTORS

According to an investigation recently made by the university authorities at Berlin, there are at present upward of 125 certified women doctors in Germany. Between 1899 and 1910 forty-five German women took medical courses in America, and in the decade ending 1912 up and of sixty took the course of dentistry in Germany. In both dentistry and medicine women are doing well in Germany. On the other hand, the demand for women lawyers in the Empire is almost nil, according to this investigation, and only twenty-eight appear to be making any definite use of their diplomas.

Comic Films

"Friday is such an unlucky day," she sighed.

"It isn't half as unlucky as Tuesday," retorted her companion. "Last Tuesday, for instance, I fell out of a second floor window, and was run over by a garbage wagon."

"How terrible!" she exclaimed shuddering.

"Yes, and on the Tuesday before that," he continued, "I tumbled into a pond, and was brought out at the end of a boardwalk. And the Tuesday before that I was chased by an infuriated bull. On the Tuesday before that—" But why continue? "You don't stay home on Tuesday," queried his companion. "You would be safer at home."

"Because I'd lose my job if I did," he replied. "I'm a bioscope actor, you see, and on Tuesday we make our comic films."

Merely Suggested

"Keep your seats, please, ladies and gentlemen," said a theatrical manager. "There is no danger, but for some inexplicable reason the gas has gone out."

Then a boy shouted from the gallery: "Perhaps it didn't like the play?"

Helping the Children

Miss Clara Grant is at the head of an unusual settlement which was opened in Bromley by Row, London, England. Miss Grant and her fellow workers, most of whom are trained nurses, concern themselves only with the families of children attending the school of that district. Daily treatment is given any number of these families by the nurses in the school, their homes, or the settlement house. That even the youngest have a chance at health and strength is a nurse visits every new baby born in the school group of families. During the first year these babies are visited at least once a month. An other trained nurse runs a sick club and pays special friendly visits in cases of troubles of a serious nature. There are four weekly sales of clothing to parents and a working bureau for those who are unable to pay for money.

TINY ELECTRIC IONS.

Science Says They Are the Smallest Units in the World.

We used to think that about the smallest thing in the world was an atom of hydrogen. In fact, it was taken as the unit by which the atomic weight of all metals was expressed. For instance, the smallest possible division of the metal lead was found to be 300 times that of hydrogen, gold 196 times, etc.

Hand in hand, however, with the modern conception of the nature of the electric current, has come a new conception of infinitude in small things. Now, they say, the smallest thing in the world divisible by the hand of man is the electric ion. This is the individual unit of electricity, the moving part of a current when it passes through a wire. It is so small that it can run through a copper bar at a speed of 186,000 miles a second without turning corners. Electric ions trickle through a copper wire in much the same way as grains of sand through a sieve.

Scientists, armed with instruments considerably finer than grocery store scales, have isolated and measured them and found that their relation to that lightest of all gases, hydrogen, is as one to the seventeenth power of ten, or, in other words, the fraction representing their relation to an atom of hydrogen is expressed by a million-million-millionth. — Chicago Record-Herald.

A Warm Tribute.

It was in a little country town in the west of England, says the Bristol Mirror, and Mr. Goodman, excellent citizen and kind hearted man, allowed himself to be chosen mayor for the fourth time. After the event he met Mr. Jones, one of his warmest admirers, who shook him heartily by the hand.

"I'm right sorry, Mr. Mayor," said the worthy man, "they're putting on you the trouble of collecting for another term, and all your many calls and worries of business. A far more man would have suited us—but that was just the trouble. We couldn't find him, and it's my opinion as he said to be found."—Fourth's companion.

FANTASTIC WALL PAPER.

World Story of the Creation of One Parisian Design.

The post impressionist wall paper has made its appearance. A member of one of the largest manufacturing concerns in England has just returned from Paris, where he has been to buy designs. He was unable to make more than a very limited selection, fearing that the British taste would never respond to the weird French patterns.

But the craze for these post impressionist wall papers is spreading rapidly, and it is only a question of time before these astounding productions are seen in London.

The true story related by a celebrated French designer of how he hit upon a post impressionist design goes far to explain the kind of wall paper now in vogue. This artist in locomotion found he could not draw badly enough to produce that effect of rude naïveté and childish ignorance which distinguishes the new art. In despair he turned to his domestic servant and insisted that she should abandon dustpan and broom and go into the studio and design a wall paper. Proceeding to tears that she did not even know how to begin, she was nevertheless provided with colors and brushes and compelled to make a pattern. That design is one of the best from a selling point of view to be seen in Parisian shops.—London Cor. New York Sun.

DOOM OF CONSTANTINOPLE.

The City is Sinking into the Depths of the Earth.

According to Herr Hedebyer, the Austrian seismologist, Constantinople is a city doomed to destruction. There is a seething crater under the city and its environs, and the land is subsiding. This unusual sinking of the land has caused the defects recently discovered in the mosque of Santa Sophia and in other famous buildings in the region roundabout.

Mathematicians are shaking it, land-slides are undermining it, and some day, when the last northern invaders descend the coast of the Bosphorus and see for the first time the city and the man the Magnificent, they will find it no longer. Its cloud capped towers and its minarets, its domes, its arches and its endless shadowed rooms will have pushed and left not a wreck behind. —The products.

It is only a question of time. If an earthquake comes it will destroy the city. It may take a long time, but it may take a day. It may take a year, but it may take a day. It may take a century, but it may take a day. It may take a millennium, but it may take a day. It may take a billion years, but it may take a day. It may take a trillion years, but it may take a day. Any Headache Cured, Tired Systems Retoned

When You're Tired, Tired, Restless Day and Night Something is Wrong With the Stomach.

Headaches never come to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Assistant Manager of the Poultry Success Magazine, of Springfield, O. Mr. J. H. Callender, who writes: "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly and know of marvelous cures that resisted everything else. They cleanse the whole system, act as a tonic on the blood, enliven digestion, help the stomach, and make you feel strong and well. For headaches, indigestion and stomach disorders, I am confident that the one prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Being composed of natural vegetable remedies, Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They aid all organs, connected with the stomach, liver, and bowels. In consequence, food is properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and resists disease, all druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, 5 for $1.00, or by mail from the Cataract Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

Had Fire at Trenton.

Fire which started in Sutcliffe's dry goods store at Trenton soon after midnight Saturday, did about eighty thousand dollars damage to that firm's stock and building and adjacent buildings.

Local Medical Society.

While driving down Smith street at noon Saturday, Dr. Neal had the misfortune to be thrown out of his car when his horse ran away. The car and harness were badly damaged, but fortunately the doctor escaped unscathed.

Last Night's Fire.

Last night's fire broke out at seven o'clock, the fire brigade had a run to the corner of Hunter and Bethune streets. A transformer had caught fire. The trouble was quickly put out. It is not known, as yet, whether the transformer was turned out.

Knights of Columbus Meet.

The fine new home of the Knights of Columbus, on Simcoe street, the former James Stevenson homestead, was handsomely and appropriately draped with purple and black, to do honor to the late eminent and popular prelate. His Lordship Bishop O'Connor.

Ripe Herrings Sliced.

At Saturday's market, Sanitary Inspector Spence seized 50 pounds of what the vendor called "fresh herrings." Mr. Spence, who seems to have a dislike for the germs of ptomaine, decided not to prosecute, letting the would-be vendor go in consideration of the mild weather preceding Saturday.

Eats But No Skating.

On Friday a party of young people drove to Lakefield to skate on the rink, but on arrival found that ice was most as a 200 pound barge after a two-step. They repaired to the restaurant and held a banquet. The sleigh drive was under the auspices of the intermediate class of the Local Y.M.C.A.

Physical Instruction Class To-day.

The course of physical instruction for Peterborough teachers commenced this afternoon at the armories at 4.15 o'clock, under the supervision of Sergeant T. H. H. of Fredericton, N.B., and they will continue for a period of about three weeks, with an hour's instruction on every school day.

A South Side Lady Kicks.

On Saturday, Mrs. O'Brien, of 101 Patterson street, whilst waiting for a car at Townsend street, remarked to a Times reporter, "The City officials don't seem to care whether we break our necks on the slippery pavements at this part of the city. No one can walk on the pavements there as so slippery!"

Mr. G. W. Hatton Sells Land.

A Hamilton syndicate represented by three prominent business men of that city, have purchased eleven or twelve acres of the Hatton property, immediately south of the new West Ward school. The deal involves a sum of between $25,000 and $30,000, the price of the land, which will be used for building lots and residential purposes.

Meetings at St. Paul's S.S.

An interesting evening was spent on Friday night, when the teachers and pupils assembled for their annual tea. After an enjoyable repast had been partaken of, lantern slides were thrown on the screen and short illustrated stories told by Mrs. Keys, the superintendent, after which the prizes were distributed.

His Lordship Lies in State.

The last mortal remains of His Lordship, Bishop O'Connor, lay in state at St. Peter's Cathedral from 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Many of his sorrowing flock availed themselves of the opportunity of paying reverence to the familiar features of their beloved prelate. The body will be in state until the time of the funeral, to-morrow, which will be attended by many priests and church dignitaries.

Telephone Club Dinner.

The annual banquet of the Peterborough Telephone Club was held in Coleman's Palm Parlour, and was a most successful affair. Mr. F. W. Dean, district superintendent, occupied the chair and read a seven-page report on the progress of the club. The guests present were: Mayor Bradburn, Alds. Gillespie, Johnston, Wallace, Moore, Bailey and Gordon, Water Commissioners W. H. Moore, and T. F. Matthews and Chief Howard were also present.

Horse in a Runaway.

The team attached to Tuckell & Sons' house, Belleville, returning from a funeral, having left the dead at the cemetery, took fright and an overdose of life themselves. The horses ran away and the driver jumped. On the street stood a telegraph pole. One of the horses seemed to be crossed-eyed, as it ran one side of the pole and its companion on the other. The heavy horse crashed in to the pole and was badly smashed.

Chief Howard at S.A.

Col. MacInnes, Chief Secretary from Toronto, assisted by coadjutor, Mr. J. H. Cameron, conducted a lecture meeting in the S.A. Temple on Simcoe street, at 8 o'clock Saturday night. Yesterday morning the Colonel conducted a special business deduction service. At 5 p.m. he gave a lecture on the "West Indies and the West Indians." Fire Chief Howard presided at this meeting. At 7 p.m. the Colonel assisted by the gadger Kawling, conducted a great Salvation meeting.

A Poorly Attended Meeting.

Lindsay Post: Only five business men attended the meeting called for last evening in the Public Library in connection with the visit of Mr. E. M. Trowen, Provincial and Dominion Secretary of the Retail Merchants Association. Mr. Joseph Brown occupied the chair, and Mr. Trowen spoke for an hour on matters of great import to business men. Mr. N. T. Cameron of Peterborough presided, and the Provincial Board was also present and remained over to-day, in order to enlist the co-operation of the merchants in the movement.

George St. S.S. Annual Meeting.

At the annual meeting of George street Sunday School, the officers for the year 1913 were elected as follows: Superintendent, Mr. G. A. Ferguson, Asst. Supt., Mr. S. H. Armstrong, Mr. Geo. Robertson and Mr. T. E. Pratt, Secretary, Mr. Ray Best, Treasurer, Mr. Ernie Oke, Asst. Treas., Mr. C. Miller, Supt. Primary Dept., Mr. Edna Armstrong, Beginners' Dept., Mrs. Lewis, Cradle Roll, Mrs. Shortly, Musical Director, Mr. J. H. Renwick, Orchestra leader, Mr. W. H. Summicham, Pianist, Miss Pearl McKee, Asst. Pianist, Mrs. Holt.

Col. Young Receives.

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Young were host and hostess at their charming residence, when a reception was tendered to the officers of the local troops. There were present Lieut. Col. Miller, Lt.-Col. Stevenson, Col. Cleeg, Majors Hayes and Davidson, of the 5th Regiment with company officers and subalterns; Mayor Bradburn, late Capt. of the Third Prince of Wales Dragoons, Major Meuld and W. T. Hall, of the Third Dragoons, and the Battery Officers, Captain R. Hall, E. P. Fee and Lieut. E. G. Cameron, Capt. Clarke, D.A.A.G., and O.M.G. of the headquarters staff, Kings' Lieut. W. H. Gibb, Lt. D.O. and Master Gunner W. H. Bird, of the Armament Office Kingston, were also present in connection with the transfer of the Battery stores and equipment. A very enjoyable evening was spent by the guests, who numbered about forty.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Mrs. Lenore Power, of Cobourg, is applying for a divorce from her husband, R. J. M. Power, of Toronto. It would seem that birds in their little nests cannot agree even in placid little Cobourg.

Talking of the possibilities of an early spring, it is significant that two squirrels have frequently been seen despoiling themselves in Victoria Park during the last few days of the past week.

APSLEY.

After a lingering illness of several years, the late Mrs. Cyrus McEldon passed away Monday evening, the 20th, at the residence of her son, Cyrus McEldon, lot 11, con. H. Burleigh. The funeral, which was largely attended, took place Wednesday, 22nd, to the cemetery, Apsley, Rev. Jas. Prosser officiating. The deceased was 77 years of age and had resided in the municipality for over 10 years and was highly respected by a large circle of friends who mourn her death and sympathize with the relatives who lose a loving and kind mother.

NORTH MONAGHAN BOARD OF HEALTH

The Board of Health of the township of North Monaghan met Saturday afternoon in the County Council Chambers. Those present were Messrs. Dr. Greer, township M.H.O., Reeve W. G. Howden and the members of the old board, viz., Messrs. John Harper, G. H. McClelland and Herman Wilson. It might here be explained that under the new Act passed last March, the Board now consists of the members of the township Reeve, the township Secretary and Mr. John Harper elected at the meeting just held. The Board, moved by Messrs. Greer and Harper, appointed Reeve Howden chairman. Dr. Greer presented his report for 1912, which showed that the general health of the township was very good. It was unanimously decided of the Board that a strict supervision of Sanitary conditions shall be enforced, as covered by the general law now existing, where the suburbs of a village, town or city abut on the confines of the municipality. In short the township Board of Health demonstrated that they are fully alive to the necessities of sanitary conditions, and have made up their minds to see that the same are strictly enforced.

MRS. SPEER, EAST CITY, FALLS, KNOCKED SENSELESS

A third sample of the inevitable result of pyramine economy in saving the price of a few tons of sand, is carried in one night, Saturday, when Mrs. Speer, on trying to cross the pavement in front of her grocery store, on Hunter street, East City, slipped on the ice covered walk and fell so heavily as to be temporarily stunned. She was carried into her store and medical aid was called in. Another lady, living in East City, also fell Saturday night on the pavement. Fortunately, whilst striking her head on the back of her head, she sustained no further damage than a slight swelling and subsequent

NEW BRANCH OF THE Y.W.C.A. IS DISCIBED

A Cosy and Safe Home for Girls that is Admirably Conducted. On Saturday morning, a Times representative visited the new Y.W.C.A. branch at the corner of Townsend and Park streets. By request of Miss Gray, the efficient assistant secretary, our reporter herein records his impressions of that cosy and comfortable home for girls.

KING ALFONSO OF SPAIN MAY VISIT THE STATES

London, Jan. 25.—King Alfonso of Spain is likely to pay a visit to the United States some time this summer. The Spanish Government is, now considering a proposal that emanated from the king himself, who has long desired to visit America. He has several times made similar proposals, which have been rejected by the Government, under the mistaken notion that the animosities created by the war between Spain and the United States are still warm.

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

Is Destined to Revolutionize Ottawa's Manufacturing Facilities

SITUATED on a high plateau overlooking the Rideau River, at its most picturesque point, Ruskin Place occupies one of the finest situations to be secured in Eastern Canada. Not one hundred yards away is the "Diamond" that marks the crossing of two of Canada's Greatest National Railways. Exactly opposite, the new $40,000 solid brick plant of the Bishopric Wallboard Co. is completed and a high-grade of Wall Board is being turned out. Two other large companies also have secured land accommodation right alongside of Ruskin Place, one promising to employ at its inception from 800 to 1000 hands.

To-day Lots in RUSKIN PLACE may be bought at comparatively low prices. Within the very near future announcement may come of definite arrangements for immediate building by one or more additional large industries. This announcement should be sufficient to double the value. It may come any day now.

Learn all about RUSKIN PLACE. Investigate it thoroughly. Already one half of the Lots have been sold. There are only 271 lots in all. Get in early, secure the best choice.

LOTS AT RUSKIN PLACE ARE NOW SELLING AT

FOR THE BRIDES

During one year 144 brides received the $50 dowry from the will of Oliver Smith, the fairy godfather of the Bridal. Oliver Smith was the brother of Sophia Smith, founder of Smith College, and on his death in 1848 left his property, amounting to $370,000, to be used for charities, one of which was the giving of $50 to every bride who was a resident of Northampton, Amherst, Hadley, Hadfield, Deerfield or Whately. Since 1848 $282,000 has been distributed to brides. In many instances the bride groom received $500 because of a provision in Mr. Smith's will giving that amount to a young man when he completed learning a trade. Another provision of the will helps poor widows. provided they are residents of the town named. Already upward of $2,000,000 has been paid to widows and young men who have learned a trade.

Alabaster Sphinx Found

Another sphinx, weighing 80 tons and carved from a single block of alabaster, was unearthed at a point between the world-famed Colossi on the water-lapped plains of Memphis in Egypt. For hundreds of years it has lain in a recumbent position, perched beneath the sand on the foot of Sakkarah. This newly found sphinx was betrayed in its hiding place by its tail, which Mr. Mackay, one of the students of the British school in Egypt, discovered about a year ago. The figure bears no inscription, but it is considered by Prof. Flinders Petrie, the director of the British school in Egypt, to have been carved about 1300 B.C.

Much Be-Titled Family

Lord Mountgarret, whose death took place at Nidd Hall, in Yorkshire, was the fourteenth holder of an Irish viscounty. He was created first Baron Nidd in 1911. He was a member of the famous Irish family of Butlers who hold five separate peerages
—the Marquissate of Ormonde, the Marquissate of Eborac, the Viscounty of Mountgarret, the Viscounty of Dun-borne.

Enormous Death Duties

The amount of the death duties which the Rothschild family had to pay at Vienna after the death of Baron Albert de Rothschild was over five million dollars.

Another "Ancient Relic"

Another interesting "find" was made by a Swansea gentleman in the neighborhood of Baron Hole, Gower, Wales.
It consists of a bone containing a tooth, and is supposed to be a portion of the skull of a rhinoceros. The relic is supposed to be of considerable age.

EUREKA CAUSTIC BALSAM

"Is one of the most wonderful discoveries in the Veterinary World."

Its action exceeds any known remedy in its curative effects, and can be used in all cases where stimulating applications are prescribed. Its powerful action is simply amasing, and can scarcely be accounted for. It possesses that penetrating quality seldom found in an embrocation. IT NEVER BLEMMISHES. EUREKA CAUSTIC BALSAM removes curbs, splints, all blemishes common to livestock. Very little is required to have the desired effect. PRICE 1/2 PER BOTTLE.

Sold by all druggists. Prepared by Dr. O'Neill, a well-known veterinary surgeon and bureaucrat of 40 years' experience.

land, Ohio, for example, is an approval because a public official testified that he was paid $3,000 for doing nothing. Here in Ontario, on the Trent Canal, for instance, we have men who are paid large salaries for doing the same thing and the situation is as quiet as a grave.

A STANDARD SPEECH.

There is a quite delightful candor about an admission which was made by a member of the Belgian Parliament the other day. M. Andriant has always been noted for his speech on the consular question. For thirty years he has bravely demanded certain reforms which have not yet been made. He has especially demanded them on the annual vote for the service, seizing that opportunity to drive his argument home. This year again he was making his appeal, when the Foreign Minister interrupted him to say, "That is the same speech you made last year."

PEACE.

The Balkan war is ended by the decision of the Grand Council of the Ottoman Empire. There are many questions yet to settle, but there will be no more fighting between the allies and the Turks. The peace will be needed with delight by all the civilized world, especially as the conditions are such as to widen the area of civilization and liberty. The Turkish government was over-awed by the solemn warning addressed to it by the European powers, and it appears to have frankly advised the National Council or Assembly to decide in favor of acceptance of the terms set forth in the joint note. By the action of the Council the members of the government find the relief they sought from responsibility for the session of a great territory, and may hope that the bulk of the people, if not the military party, will be convinced that the sacrifice was unavoidable.

What had to be considered was the abandonment of Adrianople and the Aegean Island, and it was useless to think of refusal in view of the military and naval inability to effect a rescue. Though the Turkish army behind the Troad and the lines has been greatly strengthened with Asiatic troops during the armistice, it could not have gone out and driven back the Bulgarian and Serbian forces so as to reach and save Adrianople, and every day's delay in the conclusion of peace was bound to bring the capitulation of the city a day nearer through exhaustion of its food supplies. Better to agree to its immediate surrender, and trust the promise of the powers to see to the protection of the mosques which are dear to the Moslem as being their first places of worship in Europe. If the powers persuade Bulgaria to let Shukri Pasha and his men march out with the honors of war, so much the better.

As all the non-Muslim Turkish islands in the Aegean are actually occupied by Greek troops and guarded by a navy superior to that of Turkey, it would have been sheer folly to hold out longer against their occupation, especially when the powers had undertaken to make such an arrangement for the islands should not become a menace to Turkish security. This will not be easy, if Greece as well as Turkey is to be satisfied. The islands, with their Greek populations, ought to be under the Greek flag, and yet it seems to be necessary that they should be strictly neutralized under the guarantee of the powers.

It is not requisite much to great Russia some communities. Cleveland, Ohio, for example, is an approval because a public official testified that he was paid $3,000 for doing nothing. Here in Ontario, on the Trent Canal, for instance, we have men who are paid large salaries for doing the same thing and the situation is as quiet as a grave.

This thorny question, with that of the frontier line in Thrace which the simple cession of Adrianople does not settle—will test the skill of Europe's diplomats, and may take a considerable time. For the present it is enough to rejoice that the curse of war has been lifted from the Balkan peninsula, and that national freedom and good government will be the abiding fruits of the victory that has been won.

Greatest Invention of Age For Hoarseness, Weak Throat

Nothing So Far Discovered is so Beneficial to Public Speakers, Ministers, Singers and Teachers as CATARRHOZE. Because of its strengthening influence upon the vocal cords, Catarrhoze cannot be too highly recommended as a wonderful voice improver. It almost instantly removes hoarseness or hoarseness, thus insuring clearness and brilliancy of tone. Catarrhoze keeps the mucous surfaces in perfect condition, and its regular use absolutely prevents colds and throat irritation, thereby removing the singer's greatest source of anxiety—weakness of voice. The most eminent speakers and prima donnas are seldom without Catarrhoze, and credit is no small degree their uniform strength and brilliancy of tone to its influence.

Singer Recommends Catarrhoze. "For many years I have been a sufferer from that terrible disease known as CATARRH. 'Being a professional singer, you can readily understand that Catarrh would be a serious hindrance to my professional skill. 'One year ago I read in the 'Progress' a convincing testimonial from one who had been cured of this disease through using your 'Food-Salt' Catarrhoze. 'Believing in the merit of Catarrhoze, I tried it. 'Catarrhoze cured me and has been the means of my success. 'You are at liberty to use my name if it will help relieve some from suffering, and I will always remain, 'Bob Bixley, New Glasgow, N.B.' Mr. Bixley is one of the best known singers and entertainers in the Maritime Provinces, and his testimonial for Catarrhoze is the best sort of evidence of what great benefit Catarrhoze is to those suffering with throat weakness or catarrh. Complete outfit, consisting of a beautifully polished hard rubber inhaler, and sufficient liquid for recharging in two months, costs one dollar. Sold by all druggists or sent safely to your address by mail if price is forwarded to the Catarrhoze Co., Buffalo, N.Y., or Kingston, Ont.

Toronto Savings and Loan Company

ANNUAL GENERAL MEETING

The Annual General Meeting of the Shareholders of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company was held at the Head Office of the Company, No. 437 George Street, Peterborough, on Friday, the 24th day of January, 1913, at 2 o'clock p.m.

Directors' Report

The Directors submit herewith their Twenty-eighth Annual Report showing the result of the business for the past year, accompanied by the Balance Sheet to the 31st December, 1912. The Gross Earnings for the year amounted to $267,501.23, and after the payment of Interest on Deposits and Debentures, and all expenses of management there remained at Net Profit of $116,511.39. To this amount has been added $46,221.15, the balance carried forward from last year, which makes a total sum for distribution of $193,232.54. This amount has been disposed of in the following manner:

ASSETS
(1) By payment of Four Quarterly Dividends at the rate of 10 per cent for the year, amounting to	$100,000.00
(2) By Addition to the Reserve Fund	10,000.00
(3) By amount carried forward to Profit and Loss Account	53,232.54
The above addition to the Reserve Fund increases that account to $400,000.00, making it now 80 per cent. of the present Paid-up Capital of $1,000,000.00.
All payments maturing during the year on the Company's investments have been satisfactorily met, and the rentals from the property owned by the Company have also been promptly paid. The books, accounts and securities of the Company have been carefully examined by the Auditors, and their Report is attached to the Financial Statement.
It is with deep regret that we have to recall the death during the year of one of our Directors in the person of Mr. Peter Hamilton, who for fifteen years took a keen interest in the affairs of the Company. Your Directors elected Mr. E. W. Cox, General Manager of the Canada Life Assurance Company, to fill the vacancy on the Board caused by the death of Mr. Hamilton.
General Statement
31st December, 1912.
ASSETS
Net Value of Investments	$3,615,736.95
Cash on Hand	2,487.66
Cash in Banks and balances of Depositors' Loans	55,939.39
Sundry Accounts due to Company	6,849.87
	$3,679,644.81
LIABILITIES
Current Debentures and Deposits, with Accrued Interest	$3,497,727.27
Sundry Debentures, with Accrued Interest	95
Sundry Accounts due by Company	3,192.94
Capital Stock	$1,000,000.00
Reserve Fund, 31st Dec., 1911	$700,000.00
Transfer from Profits of year	40,000.00
Profit and Loss Account	$46,221.15
Dividend payable 2nd January, 1913	25,000.00
	$3,679,644.81

We hereby certify that we have carefully audited the Books and Accounts of the Toronto Savings and Loan Company for the year ending 31st December, 1912. All disbursements have been properly vouched for, and the positions and balances of the Company's Liabilities have been checked and found correct. The above Statement of Assets and Liabilities shows the position of the Company on the 31st December, 1912, and the Profit and Loss Account is a correct showing of the operations of the Company for the year ending on that date. We have also examined the Securities and find everything in order.

Peterborough, January 14th 1913.
JAS. A. HALL,
F. J. A. Hall, Auditor.

Profit and Loss Account

Balance at the Credit of Profit and Loss Account, 31st December, 1911	$16,421.15

The Great Phosphate and Mica Mines of The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.

Capitalized at $500,000. Divided into 500,000 shares of $1 each.
400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

These Mines will be in operation by April next.

The Company possesses 607 acres of phosphate, mica, and asbestos lands, all free of encumbrances.

POSSIBLE PRODUCTION AND PROFITS
The Company has already orders for over 50,000 tons of phosphate, on which it expects to realize a profit of $3.00 net per ton, or $250,000, which will be equal to 20 p.c. on the capitalization.

Supporting the Company would only realize one-half of its estimated profits, it still would have to its credit 25 p.c. without taking into this estimate the profits from the mica mine, which very likely will be as much again. The output of this mica mine is almost all sold in advance to large English firms.

THIS PHOSPHATE AND MICA MINES
are paying royalties right from the start of the operation, and are located in the Province of Quebec, near Ottawa, and only a mile from railway station.

THE PLANT, MACHINERIES
required for the exploitation are inexpensive, the operation expenses, such as labor, provisions, supplies, transportation, etc., are all much cheaper than in Porcepene and Cobalt mining districts.

The Shareholders participate in the profits of all the Company's mines.

STRANGE AFRICAN FOLK

Britain at War in Country Where People Take Wood Ash Baths

With the object of making peace between two strange African tribes about which little or nothing was previously known, Great Britain embarked upon a "little war" which may drag on for months perhaps years. The two tribes are the Anuaks and the Nuers, who live near the border line between Abyssinia and the Sudan, and who have been quarrelling for years. The Nuers, it was explained by an official at the Colonial Office, are entitled to British protection, but up to now they have not needed it. In fact, so long as they fought the Anuaks with shield and spear against their enemies, the Nuers easily beat them. But some time ago the Anuaks began to get hold of rifles and ammunition which had been discarded by the Abyssinian army, and learned how to use them.

Thus armed the Anuaks made a series of murderous raids on the Nuers, driving their old conquerors northward and carrying off their cattle and women. The British as rulers of the Sudan, and the two tribes fight for a while, but as it began to look as if the Nuers would be wiped out altogether, an expedition, numbering 350 men with seven officers, was sent against the Anuaks. In a pitched battle the native force was killed off practically to a man, but the British losses numbered 43, including three native and two white officers. The advance on the Anuaks was made through the country of the Nuers, who are a strong, wiry race and wear very few clothes. At first sight of the strange thing about the Nuers is the fact that though they are naturally a very dark brown color, they appear to be white. This illusion is the result of about the "strangest" bath on record in front of which a Nuers is a white man. On great occasions, the ash, by the addition of an evil-smelling sticky substance is made into a paste, with which the Nuers smear themselves having then the appearance of being painted all over with white enamel. They also dye their hair red and wearing it sticking out straight behind, where it is kept in place with mud.

BODY IN MOUNTAIN GLACIER

A Fall of Ice Reveals the Body of a Man

A guide to a cully came into Kandersteg, from the Loetschenthal, Switzerland, and brought the news that a fall of ice from the Loetschen Glacier had revealed the body of a mountaineer and a hat supposed to belong to another man. The guide believed he had solved the mystery of the two Englishmen, Messrs. Cohen and Hencke, who were lost on the glacier in 1858, when they were surprised by a snowstorm and fell into a crevasse. A later report, however, states that the body is that of a Swiss who disappeared in 1859. The discovery was due to the abnormal melting of the ice owing to the great heat. The discovery of the body came about as follows: A guide went with a lady over the Loetschen Pass towards Kandersteg. Instead of the usual way over the Loetschen Glacier the lady expressed a strong inclination to take another path, and they came across a very little used track on which they found the body.

Sergeant-Major Under General French

Veteran of Boer War Who Lost Health on the Veldt Tells Experience.

Good Advice for All Who Have Indigestion or Stomach Disorders.

In his home at Waldegrave, N. S., no one is better known than Sergeant-Major Cross, late of the 4th Queen's Own Hussars. Speaking of the ill-effects of a campaign upon a man's constitution, the Sergeant-Major writes: "I served under General French during the late Boer war, in the capacity of Sergeant-Major. It was perhaps owing to a continued diet of bully beef, hard tack, and bad water, but at any rate my stomach entirely gave out. I was in such a state that I could eat nothing without the greatest suffering. The army doctors did not help me much, and since leaving the service I have been very miserable. Some few months ago a friend told me he had been a great sufferer from indigestion until he tried Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cured him. I confess it was without much faith I bought a box, but the first dose made me feel better than I had been for a long time. Dr. Hamilton's Pills completely cured, and now I can eat everything and anything. I have recommended them to others and in every case the result has been similar to mine."

Quick, sure results attend the use of Dr. Hamilton's Pills. They cure disorders of the stomach, correct indigestion, make you feel uplifted and strengthened. To renew or maintain health, Dr. Hamilton's Pills always prove a good prescription. 25c per box, five boxes for $1.00, all dealers, or the Catarthozone Co., Buffalo, N. Y., and Kingston, Ont.

In a water street family is a daughter aged about 19 and a son of 14. With the superiority of mature years, the daughter, up to last Saturday, was constantly snubbing the boy, who even found out he had entered into "love's" youngest dream. This secret gave her power and the ability to constantly "roast" the lad. But, to quote the words of a recent morning song: "And now, she's sorry that she did it." Brother, on Saturday found her diary, to which were confided her most sacred thoughts, particularly regarding two local bank clerks.

A Colt and a Bike.
As John E. Parks of Belleville, went out to inspect the demolition of the Boat and Launch Institution of that city, he rode a bike. Mr. Parks tried to pass a wagon, drawn by two horses, one of which was a colt. The colt, evidently not deterred up to modern progress, does not like bicycles. It hauled out, a snort, dashed into the high hind leg at Mr. Parks on his bike. The colt may be short on modern progress, but was long on arm. It head caught Mr. Parks just one half inch earthward of his saddle. Mr. Parks and the bike went into the ditch. Mr. Parks will have to use a cane whilst walking, for some days, and look askance at a dining room chair.

Point from Water Works.
At a meeting of the Water Commissioners yesterday morning, Mr. S. R. Armstrong, secretary-treasurer, presented the financial statement of the waterworks system for 1912. During the year $9,231.01 was expended in laying mains and setting hydrants and $2,954.44 in laying services, a total of $12,185.45 in ordinary construction work. The net water rates, including special frontage rates, amounted to $17,162.79, and to this was added $2,000 charged for the use of the dam, etc., for power purposes, making a total of $19,162.79. The expense account including interest and sinking funds and amount written off tools and plant for depreciation, amounted to $13,916.51, showing a profit on the year's business of $5,246.28.

NO AGREEMENT REACHED RE THE DOWNE STREET CREEK

May Force The Creek Through Certain Properties Under The Drainage Act—Ald. Johnston Says Scheme Shall Not be Blocked by Obstinacy of One Man

The City's Board of Works met last night to receive a deputation of North Ward citizens interested in Downie Street creek being so treated as to abate the nuisance that has resulted therefrom for years.

The deputation consisted of some fifteen property owners from the vicinity of the creek in question.

Ald. Butler presided over the meeting. His worship Mayor Bradburn was also present, as also was the Council in strength.

Mr. D. W. Dumble spoke at length on the history of the creek and held that the city is duly bound to remedy the grievance caused by this waterway in the protection of citizens' property. This creek causes a depreciation in adjacent properties, thus keeping down assessment, in consequence of which the city loses considerable in taxes. A past town council diverted the creek around three sides of a square, and Mr. Dumble could not see how water could be expected to run freely under such circumstances, especially during spring freshets. Such diversion made by the town is responsible to a large extent for the flooding of properties each year.

Mr. Mark Spencey advanced that he cannot rent his house owing to the nuisance caused by flooding from the creek in question. He thought the city should at least rebate him his taxes on this house.

His worship pointed out that Mr. Spencey built his house after the creek had been diverted to its present course; hence the city is not responsible.

Mr. Blodgett offered a right of way from this creek through his property, providing a channel through his lot 6 feet wide and 10 feet deep is cut, the walls of said channel covered and the ditch covered and properly maintained by the city.

Mr. Chapman said he had lived 364 Smith Street 21 years; there has always been water in his cellar, and there is to-day. He thought were the creek straightened and Mr. Blodgett's suggestion followed his grievance would be abated.

Mr. John Lane, of Downie Street, in accord with Mr. Blodgett's plan, in his opinion, nothing less than a channel 6 feet deep and 8 feet wide would answer the purpose in view.

Mr. Tammlyn, who lives on the north side of Victoria Street, said the overflowing of this creek bothers him terribly, the trouble lies in the fact that the water cannot get away fast enough and consequently backs up on to adjacent property.

The consensus of opinion seemed to be that the creek should be diverted back through its old natural course, the channel to be widened and deepened of course. Under such circumstances the creek would run through private property, to which the owners thereof (Messrs. Dumble, Grant and Blodgett) would have to agree. Said ratepayers would also have to agree under signature of the character of the new water course cut. The cost of such work would be borne by the city.

Mr. Blodgett held out for a 6 foot by 6 foot drain through his property.

A WESTENER ON TITLES BILL

Mr. Macqueen of Winnipeg
Writes Strongly Advocating Mr. J. H. Burnham's Bill

As an illustration of the widespread interest being taken in Mr. J. H. Burnham's bill to abolish titles for Canadians, we quote below a letter written that gentleman by Mr. M. A. Macqueen, of the law firm of Munro, Mackenzie & McQueen, Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Jan. 22, 1912.

J. H. Burnham, Esq., M.P., House of Commons,
Ottawa, Ont.

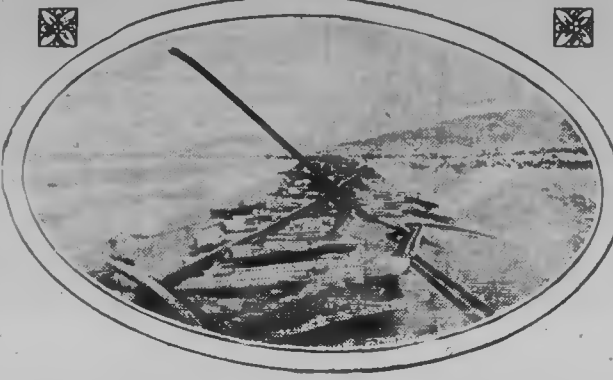

Dear Sir: From the enclosed newspaper clippings, one of which is from a New York paper, I gather that you have already introduced or are about to introduce a bill into the House, the object of which is to abolish the practice of conferring titles, and other marks of distinction upon Canadians.

As far as I am aware this is the first time that any one in public life in this country has had the courage to pronounce himself squarely against a practice which is degrading to Canadian manhood.

For several years I have felt that a measure such as you now advocate was necessary, and in this I find myself in accord with the vast majority of the citizens of Western Canada. If Canada wants to maintain her connection with England, let her do so without titles. With you the enlightened majority will feel that loyalty is not inconsistent with democracy.

SECTIONS OF MEXICAN CENTRAL RAILROAD DESTROYED BY REBELS

The situation in Mexico is again desperate. The rebels seem to have the upper hand and are destroying sections of railroads and bridges. Above is a view of a section of the Mexican Central Railroad between Juarez and Chihuahua, which the rebels destroyed.

WARNS GRAND TRUNK PACIFIC TO SHIP BY CANADIAN PORTS

Mr. Borden Declares Government Will Take Steps to Prevent Violation or Disregard of Contract That May be Endangered by American Ports

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—The Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company holds the capital stock of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway Company, and controls the undertaking of the last named company.

"The Government recognizes its duty to take all appropriate and available steps for the purpose of preventing any violation or disregard of the provisions of the above-mentioned contracts and statutes, whether by diversion of traffic from Canadian ports and routes, or by any undue or improper diversion of the companies' resources as would delay or interfere with the completion and operation of the National Transcontinental Railway in accordance with the companies' obligations to the people of Canada."

the Canadian west, gathered up by the Grand Trunk Pacific, are to be shipped through Boston and Providence, not Halifax and St. John. It is a matter of common knowledge that the Grand Trunk is involved in legal proceedings in the United States over the matter.

Today the Grand Trunk got the plain notice which stands at the head of this letter. It came from the Prime Minister. The Conservative party, which in 1903 and 1904 fought to secure the Western trade beyond all peradventure to Canadian ports now proposes to do its part in the same direction. This is another corner of the Grand Trunk Pacific mess which the Borden Government inherited from the Laurier Government.

The matter was brought up by Mr. E. N. Rhodes, who asked a series of questions about the Grand Trunk's American difficulties and their bearing upon Canadian interests. Mr. Borden delivered a carefully prepared reply.

HIS LORDSHIP BISHOP O'CONNOR IS LAID TO FINAL REST

London, Jan. 28.—Not one cent for tribute, the slogan of the militant suffragettes when arrested, was reiterated to-day in Bow street Police Court by Mrs. Despard, when she chose to go to jail for fourteen days rather than pay a $10 fine.

Mrs. Despard was arrested last evening following demonstrations caused by the Government's withdrawal of the Franchise Reform bill, in the House of Commons, by which the suffragette hoped to obtain votes for women. She was haranguing a crowd from the steps of St. Martin-in-the-Fields Church in Trafalgar square.

Mrs. Despard is a sister of the famous cavalry leader, Sir John Bull. She is a well-known figure in the London scene.

ANGLICAN BISHOP ATTACKS LIBERAL POLICY IN OUR NAVY

Bishop Mills Made an Unusual Charge to Synod at Kingston This Afternoon—Calls Scheme a Political Dodge

Kingston, Jan. 28.—His Lordship Bishop Mills delivered a strong charge to the Synod of Ontario, at its meeting this afternoon, and stood forth in favor of war when waged for the preservation of truth and righteousness. His Lordship, under the conditions prevailing, declared that England was doing right in increasing her armament, and that Canada was doing right in offering Dreadnoughts for the defence of the Motherland. In part, his Lordship said:

"The object of war generally is not for preservation of truth and righteousness, but for the avenging of some supposed insult to a flag or respecting the matter of a few acres of territory. Admitting all this, and acknowledging the sinfulness of war, I have no hesitation in saying that so long as the other nations are building Dreadnoughts, and increasing their navies, it is absolutely necessary for England to do the same. Her very existence as a nation depends on her being mistress of the seas."

MR. JAMES ANDREWS HAD A HEAVY LOSS BY FIRE

Yesterday morning a Joad fire occurred at Orde's Cannery, township of Otonabee. The handsome brick residence of Mr. James Andrews was entirely destroyed, with heavy loss. It seems that the fire broke out from some unknown cause, whilst the family was absent. Mr. Andrews, owner of the house, was away on business with a neighbor and before his return to the scene of the conflagration, his home was destroyed. It is not yet ascertained whether Mr. Andrews was protected by insurance.

POLICE LEARNED SECRETS OF WOMEN AND HAVE UPPER HAND

Said That Scotland Yard Officials Won Confidence of Mrs. Pankhurst, Miss Kenny, and Others, and So are Prepared to Cope With Suffragettes

London, Jan. 28.—Not one cent for tribute, the slogan of the militant suffragettes when arrested, was reiterated to-day in Bow street Police Court by Mrs. Despard, when she chose to go to jail for fourteen days rather than pay a $10 fine.

Mrs. Despard was arrested last evening following demonstrations caused by the Government's withdrawal of the Franchise Reform bill, in the House of Commons, by which the suffragette hoped to obtain votes for women. KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS CONFER THIRD DEGREE

Last night an interesting ceremony was conducted at the local lodge of the Knights of Pythias. The ceremony was the conferring of the third degree upon a new member. The lodge was well attended, and the ceremony was conducted with the usual formality of the order. The new member was initiated into the mysteries of the order, and was sworn to uphold the principles of the Knights of Pythias.

LOWERED DUTY IS PREARRANGED BY THE INCOMING DEMOCRATS

Washington, Jan. 28.—Against the apparently pre-arranged Democratic decision to lower duties materially, the Ways and Means Committee admitted to-day it had been started out of its accustomed calm when one man came boldly forward with a demand for increased, rather than reduced protection.

Determinedly the Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee continue their assault on the "citadel of protection," the wool schedule of the Payne-Aldrich tariff.

They made it plain that whatever the evidence submitted, apparently heavy reductions will be made in the rate.

Judgment is Pre-Arranged.

"There is some obligation on our part," said Mr. Palmer, the Democratic member, "to reduce the tariff on wool. It is a question of a wool farmer's making some very considerable reductions in the rate. The wool has been so high for so long that it is a question of a wool farmer's making some very considerable reductions in the rate."

Demand Increased Duties.

In several instances in fact the war was carried into Africa, and during individuals came out boldly for increased duties. Mr. Patrick McGraw, Pittsburg, president of the McGraw-Hill Corporation, called for an increase in the tariff on wool.

a close it becomes more and more evident that while the hundreds of pages of testimony may secure some modification they will effect no vital change in the judgment. Both parties represented on the committee are already pledged to a decision. They are much in the position of a judge who, hears evidence that he may justify the verdict he has already made up his mind to return.

"In spite of what anybody may say," angrily declared a witness who had been closely pursued by Democratic cross-questioning for over an hour—"In spite of what anybody may say this is a political meeting."

The woolen manufacturer showed no disposition to yield meekly to the loss of his protection. Information rates to those in the tariff were indeed suggested, but they merely provided in the main for a reclassification.

Change The Vibration It Makes For Health

A man, at odds with his stomach, tried leaving his usual diet and adopted a breakfast of GRAPE-NUTS and Cream.

His health began to improve for the reason that once in a while one will reach a place where the system becomes clogged and the machinery doesn't work smoothly.

A change of this kind puts aside bulky food of low nutritive value and takes up food of the highest value—partly pre-digested and quickly changed into good, rich blood and healthy tissue.

A few weeks' use of Grape-Nuts food will give you more strength and vitality than you have ever experienced.

Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

Is Destined to Revolutionize Ottawa's Manufacturing Facilities

SITUATED on a high plateau overlooking the Rideau River, at its most picturesque point, Ruskin Place occupies one of the finest situations to be secured in Eastern Canada. Not one hundred yards away is the "Diamond" that marks the crossing of two of Canada's Greatest National Railways. Exactly opposite, the new $40,000 solid brick plant of the Bishopric Wallboard Co. is completed and a high-grade of Wall Board is being turned out. Two other large companies also have been secured land accommodation right alongside of Ruskin Place, one promising to employ at its inception from 800 to 1000 hands.

To-day Lots in RUSKIN PLACE may be bought at comparatively low prices. Within the very near future announcement may come of definite arrangements for immediate building by one or more additional large industries. This announcement should be sufficient to double the value. It may come any day now.

ABSINTHE DRINKING

A Veritable Curse in France, the Government Will Make It Milder.

Absinthe is fast becoming the popular drink in France, and is displacing the light wines. Last year the sale of this liquid poison increased by a million gallons, and it is to be presumed that disease, crime and degeneracy will show a corresponding increase, for a Government commission recently reported that "absinthe is the source of madness and crime; it causes epilepsy and consumption, it makes the husband a brute, the wife a martyr and the child a degenerate". The absinthe drinkers in France are sufficiently numerous to make it a dangerous political move for any Government to legislate on the matter of absinthe without considering their wishes. The manufacturers of the drink are a powerful corporation, and the Government itself profits by the sale of the liquor to the extent of $10,000,000 annually, while the municipalities receive about $5,000,000. The Government hopes, however, to lessen the evil effects of the absinthe habit by substituting from the substance, its chief poison. This has been discovered to be a vegetable substance named thuyon, and in future it is proposed that all absinthe shall be purified of this element.

"A Progressive Peterborough."

EDITORIAL NOTES

After the flight Hon. R. L. Borden took the oath of office as Premier of the great Dominion, the event was celebrated by the firing of a number of big guns, then mounted on swivel chairs in the several government departments.

When a little Peterborough tot of eight confessed to her mother, that she could not be a suffragist because the other children made fun of her, her mother said: "I wouldn't be a coward. They've been making fun of Aunt Anna for hundreds of years."

In France they won't stand for eunuchs when things political get dull. The Minister of War voluntarily pulled the Dreyfus skeleton out of the closet and rattled it. He is our idea of a man who loves trouble just for the sake of trouble.

Senator Law announces that when a Liberal government is in office it will grant a tariff preference to the manufactured products of the overseas Dominions. That would be a valuable concession if it were made to embrace such manufactured products as dressed lumber, wood pulp, etc.

The Dominion Grangers, formally protest against anything which "tends to create man-made distinctions between man and man." And now the important question is presented whether the Grangers should cut off their whiskers or whether city men should let their whiskers grow.

"Eat what you like" is the slogan laid down by a local physician, according to the Examiner. We would like to do it, old top, but owing to the high cost of living and other circumstances over which we have no control, most of us will be compelled to adhere to the rule of eating what we can get.

PUBLIC SCHOOL TRIUMPH.

The world has been surprised at the success of the Bulgars in their contest with the Turks. The Servians have done well and the Montenegrins and the Greeks, but the surprise of the war in the Balkans is the thorough organization of the Balkan army, its superb handling by its leading generals, but, above all, in the quality of the enlisted men. Wherever there has been a meeting on anything like equal terms in numbers and weight of metal, the Turk has been defeated, and often routed and the pursuit has been of that vigorous kind which is most telling in war.

The explanation of victory given by some of the leading officers in Bulgaria is the public school. It is declared that 95 per cent. of the adult Bulgarians can read and write. We may have an idea of what that means in this country because that it has a lower per cent. of literacy than only 5 per cent. are unable to read and write than is the case in the Province of Ontario.

Bulgaria has been long in training for the contest. She has appreciated the dangers of her own situation in Europe and has endured the treatment of the Turk only because of determination to prepare thoroughly for the final struggle and fight it out to a finish. That a people should display so much bravery, such patience, such discipline and such headlong courage and dash is the evidence of a superiority that bodes the most excellent things for the future. The Turk, like all under the sway of the Koran, is kept in ignorance and devoid of all ambition except of the narrowest and usually the most cruel kind. The contrast between him and the Bulgars with his common school education is presented to the world in the most vivid way.

Canada is now being called upon to defend her public school system by the fierce onslaught that is being made by the Church of Rome. Let us see that it will triumph, and that the public school will remain.

Thirty Millions of Money in Ten Years
THE TRENT CANAL WORK

May Also Come In For Scrutiny—Public Accounts Committee taking Evidence as to Alleged Collusion Among Tenderers.

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—The public accounts committee are likely not only to make a thorough investigation into the dredging contracts on the Great Lakes, but will also look into the work done on the lesser rivers and lakes as well, including the Trent waterway. The contracts of the Laurier government amounted in all to the fat sum of thirty million dollars in ten years. When the committee opened, a few days ago, the members of the notorious Liberal "blocking brigade" were on hand to choke off the inquiry. In the old regime they had for years sat on the lid and had persisted in chloroforming all investigation. They objected to every forward move of the committee, but despite their protests the inquiry got well under way.

Georgian Bay Work.

The investigation opened with a probe into the operations of companies doing work in the Georgian Bay harbors. Evidence was offered in support of the allegation that there was collusion between firms in fixing prices, and that while they were supposed to be in competition, as a matter of fact the prices were "fixed" between the firms.

T. S. Pratt, manager of the Canadian Dredging Company, the first witness called, testified that the secretary of the company, F. S. Grant, was also secretary of the local Midland Liberal executive, while another shareholder, Mr. White, was president of the Liberal association of the same town.

Same Handwriting. Tenders were produced which showed, according to expert evidence, that these from different firms were all written in the same hand-writing, that of Mr. Grant. A. N. Payne, a hand-writing expert, testified that the tenders signed by Mr. Grant, Grant and other Liberals were also interested in the Continental Dredging Company, and a tender for work done at Chicoutimi, Quebec, was also produced. The tender was signed by C. J. Smith, president. The envelope which the same was delivered to the department Mr. Payne testified was in the handwriting of Grant. The figures in the tender Mr. Payne also swore without hesitation were Grant's.

A Bad Heart, Its Cause And Cure.

Many, Firmly Convinced They Are Dying of Heart Trouble, Have Often the Strongest Hearts.

Sometimes you wake up at night, heart throbbing like a steam engine. Your breathing is short and irregular; pains shoot through the chest and abdomen, and cause horrible anxiety. Your trouble isn't with the heart at all. These sensations are the outcome of indigestion, which has caused gas to form on the stomach and press against the heart.

Just read what happened to Isaac Mailoux, of Belle River, Ont.: "Three months ago I was a weak, sickly man. My appetite was poor, food fermented in my stomach, I had sour eructations and indigestion. At night I would often awaken with gas in the stomach and heart palpitation. I consulted my doctor and used remedies that my friends advised. NOTHING HELPED.

"One day I received a sample of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and my cure commenced. To-day I have a vigorous appetite, strong heart action and no sign of indigestion. I feel younger and healthier than ever before."

Your druggist or storekeeper sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box or five boxes for $1.00. By mail from The Catarhoxone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

PARCEL POST FOR CANADA

Postmaster General is Making Thorough Study of The Whole Question

(Special to The Times.)

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—The announcement by Hon. L. P. Pelletier, Postmaster-General, in the House of Commons, that Canada is to have a system of parcel post, is one of the most important declarations of policy made in many years. Parcel post benefits have already been conferred upon the people of many other countries, and an experiment is being made in the United States.

Studying Results. Mr. Pelletier's statement shows that he is taking up the question from a sane business-like standpoint and will acquaint himself with the results of systems already established before finally determining upon the system to be adopted in this country. His object is to work out a system by which not only those districts now served by the express companies, but other districts as well, will be served by the parcel post.

Comprehensive Scheme. It will mean that wherever there is a post office some of the advantages of the parcel post will be felt, although it is not thought feasible to have each post office the centre of a parcel post zone as in the United States. Nor is it likely that the scheme can be worked out on a flat rate basis.

Business Basis. The intention of the Postmaster-General is to work out a plan by which a fair share of the parcel postage business of the country will be done through the Post Office. This will probably be brought about by some arrangement with the railways so that all the paying business will not be left to the express companies. Mr. Pelletier will have his plans completed before he makes his final announcement.

USE SALT ON PAVEMENTS.

Editor Morning Times:—In your excellent paper how you found fault with the dangerous condition of the city sidewalk last week, and whilst agreeing with you that something should be done to lessen the danger to pedestrians, I would suggest salt instead of sand. I saw where the authorities have piles of coarse salt in front of houses and stores, at intervals. When a policeman, or pedestrian or householder sees a dangerously icy spot on the sidewalk, he takes a handful of the city salt and sprinkles it on the ice. This melts the ice and does not hurt the pavement. The salt may injure rubbers, but I venture to say that shoemakers will not kick about that. Will not the doctors' bills and lost time, created by last Saturday's falls, cost more than the salt for a whole year?

"VOTES FOR WOMEN" POSTED ON 12,000 EGGS; FOR SALE

New York, Jan. 28.—A new plan whereby they hope to "hatch votes for women" will be inaugurated here to-day by ardent leaders of the cause. Headed by Mrs. Perry Hastings, president of the Interborough Suffrage Club and Women's Exchange, and Mrs. Sophia Kremer, Vice-President of the organization, enthusiastic members spent last night posting "Votes for women" slips on 12,000 eggs. These eggs which the women claim are fresh from the farm were to be placed on sale to-day. The women behind the project believe that good missionary service will be performed through placing the fresh eggs with their novel inscription in the hands of consumers. "We can get all the fresh eggs we want," Mrs. Kremer explained. "They come from farmers in New York and New Jersey and we intend to sell them at prices that will do away with the middleman."

NO AGREEMENT REACHED

No agreement between council and the property owners in question could be reached. Council could neither see its way clear to assume the liability for damages asked by Mr. Dumble, nor to accede to Mr. Blodgett's conditions. Mayor moved, seconded by Ald. Gordon, that the question be adjourned for a week or two, the City Solicitor in the meantime to see if the council cannot force diversion of the creek through the properties in question under the Drainage Act. Carried. Ald. Johnston remarked that as many citizens are suffering for want of action in this matter, he did not propose that the improvement shall be experienced from him.

In this connection, some six years ago, an agreement by which this creek should be diverted in a straight line, and so constructed as to remedy its annually recurring overflow was reached, but fell through, owing to Mr. Blodgett's refusing to sign unless the channel was concreted and covered. This year's council, however, seem determined to remedy a nuisance of over a quarter of a century's standing, even should they have to resort to arbitrary proceedings. They recognize that the interests of the people affected as a whole must be respected.

police will be able to checkmate them. In spite of the assurances of the police, though, London today feared a reign of terror. Utterances of Mrs. Pankhurst, Mrs. Despard and other wera to the effect that the women intend to break every law in the calendar except that against murder. By a stamping of smashing violence, they plan to annoy the public so that there will be a clamor from all quarters for the Government to give women the ballot. The suffragettes held heated meetings last night. Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst and other leaders denounced both the enemies and the supporters of the suffragettes in the Cabinet for their treachery. They declared an end of the truce which the women observed while awaiting Parliament's action on the bill.

There are few such opportunities offered where the Public can acquire shares at promoters' prices in a paying mining enterprise right from the start like this one.

A limited number of shares are now offered.

AT 15 CENTS EACH

This price may be increased at any time without notice.

Next April, when the Company's mines will be in operation and shipping, these Shares will not then sell at 15 cents, or 25 cents, but very likely at 50 cents, if not more.

You have a chance you never had before of doubling and tripling your investment by next Spring, as the Company will be shipping as soon as navigation opens.

It should be remembered that this is not a Cobalt or Porcupine over-capitalized mining scheme, where Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars must be expended before getting one cent back.

PHOSPHATE AND MICA ARE MINERALS.

Are used all over the world, in various industries, and Canada is one of the principal producers; the market is established. The output of Phosphate and Mica is generally sold in advance, so that the shareholders run very little risk, but have an exceptional opportunity of doubling and tripling the money invested.

PROSPECTUS SENT FREE ON DEMAND.

Application may be made by letter, by sending 50 p.c. of the amount subscribed. The balance will be payable after the allotment of shares.

mony, and in the church was conducted with all the grandeur and solemnity of the Roman Catholic ritual. The City was represented by the council and other officials. After a long and pathetic eulogy on the departed, by His Lordship Bishop Scollard of North Bay, the solemn funeral cortege wended its way to St. Peter's Cemetery, where interment took place. The pall bearers were Father T. O'Connell, Father T. McGuire, Father McCall, Rev. Dr. O'Brien, Father Fergus O'Brien and Father Ferguson. Archbishop Spratt, of Kingston, was celebrant at High Mass. Father Seanlon, deacon, and Father Fitzpatrick, sub-deacon. The deacons of honor were Father Roche and Father Kelly, and the assistant priest, Archdeacon Casey. The following Bishops were present and assisted in the absolution: Archbishop Gauthier, of Montreal, Que., Archbishop McNeill, of Toronto, Archbishop Spratt, of Kingston, Archbishop Fallon, of London, and Archbishop Ryan.

Immediately after Mass large representations from the following lodges lined up and marched to St. Peter's Cemetery: Knights of Columbus, Total Abstinence Society, Catholic Order of Foresters, C.M.B.A., and the Ancient Order of Hibernians.

Manufactured From Pure Blades of Arctic Moss

Mining engineers and prospectors along the Peel and Mackenzie Rivers, on the Arctic Ocean Slope, discovered a new breakfast food in the Arctic moss abundant there. Thousands of square miles of moss await either consumption by settlers and their pack animals or conservation for future generations by Canadian Pinchots. James East, a mining expert, noticed that dogs were fond of the moss which grows prolifically in that region. His tests showed it contains sustenance for man and beast.

For dogs he made cakes of moss mixed with lard and caribou tallow. Dogs ate the cakes eagerly and thrived. The miners then tried it and subsisted chiefly on the moss. Other prospectors learned of the new food with joy and began using it. Mr. East named the new food Mossolyte. If conservationists do not prevent it, it is intended to produce resins along the Arctic slope to help conserve the great moss supply.

BRITAIN'S NEW SEALS

A most important work undertaken at the London Mint was the preparation of the new great seal and counter seal of England. In character the great seal resembles the famous Breigny seal of Edward the Third (1340-49).

King George is represented seated on an elaborately carved and canopied throne, wearing his crown and robes and holding in his right hand the sceptre and in his left the orb. Over the throne there is a canopy and on either side a niche, within each of which is a shield bearing the coat of arms of the United Kingdom. Standing beside the throne are two figures, one representing Justice and the other Fortitude.

In contrast with this elaborate design is that of the counter seal. On this the designer has depicted the King in the uniform of an Admiral of the Fleet standing on the deck of a Dreadnought battleship. Immediately below the Royal figure are three lanterns, the emblems of an Admiral of the Fleet.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of California does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

A HUGE SKYSCRAPER

The Woolworth Building, New York.
Will be 55 Stories High

Although Canada has many skyscrapers of no mean proportions, they have not yet reached the height of the Singer Building, New York, but the latter is to be made look small and insignificant by the overlooming Woolworth Building of 55 stories, by far the tallest office building in the world. It will cost $7,500,000, of which about $3,000,000 has been spent in the foundation. If the foundation is right the building will be right. If it is defective no amount of care or honest workmanship on the superstructure will make good what was lost underground. The whole problem of building skyscrapers, according to Flagg, the architect of the Singer building, is to secure an adequate base. The base should be one-tenth of the height; that is to say, for a building 1,000 feet high the base should be 100 ft. by 100 ft. Mr. Flagg says that he is prepared to put up a building 2,000 feet high if anyone is prepared to pay for it. He does not recognize a limit as far as height is concerned. If progress is continued at the rate of the past fifteen or twenty years, there will be buildings twice as high as the Woolworth building in another twenty years, and passengers will be asking the elevator man to stop at the 125th story. Twenty years ago the tallest commercial building was the Tower building of eleven stories, and fifteen years ago the Gilman building of twenty stories was the wonder of New York. The Singer building has forty-nine stories, and about 10,000 square feet of floor space. The Woolworth building will have twice as much room, for it will not be a mere tower for several stories, as is the Singer building. The Singer building has 126 miles of electrical apparatus, 622 vacuum tubes, and enough motors and electric pumps to run a good sized town. There will be 17,000,000 common bricks in the walls of the new building, and the tower will be surrounded by a cluster of electric lights that will be seen for fifty miles away at night. The Singer building has scarcely its direct rival among the towers at night, making it visible for twenty miles away. The Metropolitan building devised a cluster of electric lights, and the Woolworth will follow suit, for it ought to be understood that the chief function of a skyscraper is to be seen.

The Sultan's Forebears

The Sultan of Turkey is the thirty-fifth sovereign of the family of Osman and the twenty-ninth since the capture of Constantinople in 1453. It was Mohammed II who took the great city by assault, and he was the first to assume the title of Padishah. Selim I. acquired the title of Caliph in 1518, and also the sacred banner and other relics of the founder of Islam, which have since been preserved in the Seraglio at Constantinople. Under his son, Suleiman the Magnificent, Turkey reached the summit of her glory. He was the first to take the title of Sultan ex-Selatin, or Sultan of Sultans, the proudest of the distinctions of his descendants, the present Sultan.

Kiss Led to Suicide

Miss Alice Eyles, a girl of twenty, employed as a dental nurse at a surgery at Sutton, Surrey, died in the presence of the wife of her employer from the effect of strychnine, which she had taken because of a scene in the surgery a day or two before. The dentist had attempted to kiss her and his wife had entered the room and found him with his arm about the girl.

HEAT OF THE SUN

Old Sol Has a Strong Pull at the Capitol in Washington.

SWAYS THE MAMMOTH DOME.

On a Hot Day His Torrid Rays Will Drag the Massive Iron Structure Way Out of Plumb—Turns the Same Trick With Washington Monument.

Not many people have any idea as to the enormous amount of heat that the sun sends off into space. The earth gets only a very small portion of it. The heat of a pin placed twenty feet away from an electric light gets in proportion to the light on the surrounding walls of a room about what the earth gets of the sun's light and heat radiated into space. Yet that portion the earth does get is great enough to cause great structures to move.

In fact all stone or metal buildings are constantly changing their positions under the hot rays of the sun. The great dome of the capitol building at Washington is the largest surface of cast iron in the world, and the effect of the continuous heat of a hot summer day can best be appreciated, says Harper's Weekly, when it is known that this mammoth mass really sways back and forth under the scorching rays until the top feather in the cap of the statue of Freedom describes an ellipse the diameter of which on a hot day varies from four to eight inches.

The giant plumb base of the dome, resting on the roof of the old sandstone building, measures 136 feet on a side. The greatest diameter of the round dome is 125 feet, while the whole iron structure is 218 feet high from the old capitol's roof to the base of Freedom on the apex. The cast iron covering this surface is made in thin sheets, offering a good conductor for the heat, which swells even the bolts and beams of the inside before the sun has made its circuit. The southern side of the dome suffers most from the heat, being exposed longer to the sun, which passes south of the zenith while on its journey from the east to the west. If the metal were exposed to a constant heating the result of the continuation of such exposure as that revealed on very hot days might prove disastrous, but as it is little if any permanent injury is done, since the iron returns regularly to its normal position as the cool night comes on.

But what seems more remarkable is the fact that marble is also changed in volume so perceptibly by the sunlight that the mammoth shaft of the Washington monument sways back and forth in the sun on a hot day. The outer surface being of hard marble the expansion is much greater than it would be had granite instead of marble been used. On a hot summer day the sharp aluminum apex that crowns the obelisk points to a position at least four inches north of its normal position, and returns to its proper position the cool of the night. From the extreme top of the monument inside a long, fine line runs particularly to the bottom, leading to a small closet behind the entrance. This contains a long pendulum, which hangs in a vessel of mercury which prevents its oscillation. To measure transits with highly accurate timing losses are furnished directly upon the suspended wire, and these are each mirror of the monument's deviation, being multiplied on a scale graduated to thousandths of an inch.

Every morning at 10 o'clock a statement of this plummet line is taken and reported to the war department and it was by this means that the fact that the sun's rays have on the huge white shaft was discovered. This plummet, of course, was placed in the monument for the purpose of detecting any settling it might undergo, and although the great weight of its mass has pressed the ground for many decades, it has settled only a slight fraction of an inch in one corner.

This seems extraordinary when it is realized that its weight of 81,720 tons rests on a foundation only 120 feet square and 28 feet deep from a height almost fifteen times that of the depth. The whole rests on the sandy bank of the Potomac river, with the enormous pressure of five tons to the square foot. Not only does the sun's heat sway the big obelisk, but at times, when a stiff winter gale was blowing, it has been reported as much as two inches out of plumb.

A Popular Map.
Belgium has issued a military map, which is on sale. Her general staff were amazed when 38,000 copies were bought for the German army. Belgium's neutrality is "guaranteed" by the powers, but as a good route to Paris lies that way the maps might come handy.

LEGENDS OF ST. SOPHIA.

Quaint Tales of the Beautiful Mosque in Constantinople.

"Famed throughout the world for its beautiful architecture, the mosque of St. Sophia has a legend that acquires sudden interest now," writes a European correspondent of the Chicago News.

"Originally the mosque was a Christian church. The first was in the act of celebrating mass on that memorable 29th day of May, 1453, when Sultan Mohammed rode his horse into the sacred edifice, followed by his victorious Turks, and began slaughtering the Christians. The priest fled from the altar, passing through a small door behind it, but when the pursuing Turks reached the spot, intending to follow the priest, they found but a blank wall. The door had disappeared, and all traces of the fugitive were gone.

"But the story goes that when once again the mosque of St. Sophia becomes a Christian place of worship the wall will open of its own accord and reveal the secret door, out of which the aged priest will step forth to conclude the celebration of the mass at the altar.

"Another legend, recounted even by the Turks themselves, tells of two monumental candles built into the apex of the mosque. On every high Christian festival these candles are super-naturally set alight. When these candles are quite burned down into their sockets the Turkish domination will be over and the mosque of holy wisdom will be a Christian church once more."

He Wears One Suit Three Times.
The czar of Russia is generally supposed to spend more on his clothes than any other reigning monarch. His imperial majesty rarely wears a suit of clothes more than three times, and he pays from $35 to $50 for his oratory walking and morning suits. The two firms of tailors who have the czar's custom do little other business. The czar's custom is supposed to be worth $100,000 per annum net profit to the tailor who makes his ordinary clothes and $15,000 per annum to the tailor who has the making of his uniforms and court dresses.

Old Time Delicacies.
Swans are coming back into favor as a dish for the table. This reversion to the tastes of our forefathers may lead to a demand for other delicacies once held in high esteem. In the thirteenth century the heron, the crane, the crow, the cormorant and the bittern were considered excellent food. But for some undiscovered reason the hare and the partridge were despised, and in the houses of the nobles neither was ever seen. Another dish favored by our ancestors was dilettante. This must have been a special delicacy, for the lord of the manor of Aidington held his tenure on the condition of his presenting the king every year with a dish "called dilettante, and if fat be added then it is called malpigerum."—London Chronicle.

Catarrhose proves especially good in those chronic cases where mucus drops down the throat, sickens the stomach, and pollutes the breath. When the nostrils are plugged, only a few breaths through the inhaler are needed to clear the passages, and where there is coughing and sore bronchial tubes the soothing, healing properties of Catarrhose act almost as magic.

Once you stop taking medicine into the stomach and get the healing oils and pure balsams of Catarrhose at work you can be sure of quick and lasting cure for nose colds, catarrh, weak lungs, bronchitis, and speaker's sore throat.

13 YEARS OF CATARRH CURED.
"As Catarrhose has cured me of a Catarrhal Cough and Asthma that lasted thirteen years I feel I can honestly recommend it. I really need all kinds of medicine, but Catarrhose was the only one that did any real good. I am entirely cured—have no cough, no bad breathing spells, not a sign of a cold or catarrh about me. But I will always use Catarrhose." I prize it so highly.

An extremely exciting contemporary said last night, "that a horse belonging to the Jones family, ran away yesterday and threw its two occupants out at Wolfe street." We always had an idea that the whole of Biblical history had a monopoly in throwing off incontinent passengers.

J. G. Burke, late with J. W. Wasky, of Lindsay, who is returning to the road, has arrived in Peterborough, where he will be for a week in the warehouse of Hopwood, Limited. We understand his territory will be the same as formerly covered by him for the late firm of Wyld, Gassett & Dayling.

Archbishop Fallon Returns Home.
His Lordship Archbishop Fallon, who has been in the city for a few days, is expected to leave for his home in St. John's, Nfld., on Friday.

C.P.R. Men in Trouble.
The C.P.R. men who were arrested on the charge of obstructing traffic on the main line, are expected to be released on bail.

A Social Event.
The annual social event of the C.P.R. men, which was held at the Hotel Windsor on Tuesday night, was a great success. The proceeds of the event will be used for the benefit of the C.P.R. men's fund.

Re Hon. Robt. Hamilton's Will.
Mr. R. H. Hall, ex-M.P., left by the 4:26 train yesterday afternoon for Toronto. Mr. Hall's will, which was made in connection with the lawsuit whereby Mrs. C. H. Hall, of Calgary, Alta., is trying to get control of her share of the late Hon. Peter Hamilton's estate, will be remembered that, about two weeks ago, the price of Osgood Hall, in giving decision in this case, decided that Mrs. Hall's portion should be left in the hands of trustees.

The Big Mass Meeting.
Our readers are reminded of the big mass meeting to be held at 8 p.m., on Friday, February 7th in the Grand Opera House, under auspices of the Protestant Non-violent Association of Peterborough. The principal speaker of the evening will be Rev. Dr. Hinks, of Toronto. Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., and other members of the House of Commons, will also deliver short addresses.

Campbellford Man Dead.
A despatch from Rochester, N.Y., says Eugene Brabney, fighting to save himself from tuberculosis, was found dead in his stateroom this afternoon on the Ferry Ontario when the latter returned to its docks in the Genesee River after encountering such rough weather that it was impossible to make the trip across the lake. Brabney, whose home was in Campbellford, Ont., has been living in Syracuse for the last eight or nine months. He was a brakenman.

Polacks in Port Hope.
Port Hope has had an exciting time with some Polacks located there. One of the Polacks, named "Wass", was sent to the hospital for a broken leg, beat up his visiting compatriots, hailing from Poland. One of the guests struck his head against the business end of a beer bottle. The Polack hit by the blue-green receptacle of the hop-extract, had his head cut open and told the police he had been "knocked" for 300. Wass will appear in court Saturday.

Broke Jail and Recaptured.
Oscar Spafford was arrested at Brighton for burglary. Oscar broke into the home of Stanley Peake and stole Oscar seemed to want the comforts of home and full provision for a trip when he tired of the comforts. Oscar stole bedclothes, a trunk, and a grip. Unfortunately for him, Oscar was located near Port Hope, after escaping from the Brighton Jail. Oscar had the trunk and grip along and had just quit saying "Home Sweet Home" to start the horns of "A Life on the Ocean Wave." Oscar was taken back to jail, where a benevolent municipality will provide him with bedclothes, but not for further travel.

GRANDFATHER ARRESTED ON CHARGE OF BEING KIDNAPPER

Grandparent of Society's Ward Arrested in Lindsay--Peterborough's Progressive Little Suburb

Lindsay, Ont., Jan. 29. (Continued from page 1.) Mr. Peterborough's Progressive Little Suburb. The grandfather, who was interviewed by Constable Sharpe, Secretary of the Child Welfare Society, put in a busy time this morning in search of a young five-year-old lad called "Pat" who was a ward of the society, whom it was surmised was kidnapped from a home in West Ops. The lad, whose home is in Lindsay, was removed from the care of his mother some time ago. He has been taken well care of during the past few months, but it was an understood fact that relatives of the youngster were desirous of being responsible for his future "bringing up."

Suspected the Grandfather. When word was received that the boy had disappeared it was concluded he had been kidnapped by Mr. Peters, Sr., whom it was found at the time he was interviewed.

PATIENT IN TORONTO HOSPITAL RAISED A PANIC, AND BOUND

William Gough Bound Hand and Foot Until Police Came--Abusive to Nurse

Toronto, Jan. 29. Forty-one patients were thrown into a panic in Ward Three of the Western Hospital yesterday afternoon, when William Gough, head of the family recently burned out in Earlscourt, attempted to take his daughter, Nellie, away from the institution, in protest against the method of treatment with which he was not satisfied. The lady superintendent, summoning attendants and he was overpowered bound hand and foot and held until the police came. Miss Bell stated that she could not allow the child to be taken away without an order and that Gough abused her in regard to some baby clothing which had been left by a kind lady at the hospital for Mrs. Gough, and which he wanted to take away with him.

Frequently Visits the Hospital. The trouble has apparently been brewing for some time, as a result of Gough's frequent visits to the hospital to see his wife and three of his children, who were victims of the fire. Walter, the eldest boy, is still in a very serious condition, as the result of the burns he received, and his recovery is by no means certain. The others are rapidly getting better, but in two of the cases skin will have to be grafted to the wounds before they will heal.

Nellie, the little girl over whom the trouble arose yesterday, has been able to run around the ward for some time. Dr. Clutterbuck who is attending her, is giving an air treatment, which necessitates leaving the wounds exposed. The child's arms are not a new sight and have had a distressing effect on other patients. It was proposed to keep the child in a room adjoining the ward in which the mother lies, and Gough's objection to this, added to other incidents of an unpleasant nature, culminated in the unfortunate clash yesterday.

As far as is known the affair did not have a serious effect on any of the patients who were disturbed.

TO MAKE A STUDY OF LIFE IN WATERS OF GREAT LAKES

Ottawa, Jan. 29. One of the most distinguished sons of Canada will do the Dominion a service this summer. Sir John Murray has offered to make a study of life in the Great Lakes, and the bottom characteristics generally of these great bodies of water. He proposes to bring on his deep-sea exploring vessel and to co-operate with the Dominion Biological Board.

Sir John Murray was born at Cobourg, Ontario, and obtained his earlier education in London and Cobourg. To-day he is recognized as the world's greatest oceanographer, and has been decorated by almost every country in Europe. He was one of the naturalists on the famous Challenger expedition, where a warship was sent out by the British Government, and spent many years exploring the depths of the ocean.

MR. BURNHAM IS BUSY RE BUCKHORN BRIDGE

At yesterday morning's session of the County Council, the following letter from Mr. J. H. Burnham, M. P., was read:

The Warden and Council of the County of Peterborough.

Gentlemen, Re: Buckhorn Bridge.

I beg leave to report to you that in order to extract all the information possible from the information paper a list of questions approved by your worthy clerk. This I was advised by the Department would not prove satisfactory to me. I immediately put a notice of motion on the order paper, calling for all papers, etc., because in moving the motion I will have an opportunity of speaking to the question fully. The answers to the questions I have forwarded to you in Lindsay, and while the answers show that there is nothing on record respecting the construction of the $3,000 contract, they do not show WHY nothing is on record, and this fact I hope to bring out in the discussion. I will forward you the report in due time. We hope to get it next week at the latest.

Yours truly,
J. H. BURNHAM.

On motion the letter was referred to the Road and Bridges Committee.

UNIFORM COMMERCIAL PLAN IS NOT THE BEST

London, Jan. 29. (Hull.) W. E. Fielding takes over four columns in the Morning Post today to reply to the criticism of his assertions on the "Imperial Federation" as a "magnificent dream," he says in conclusion, "and we are all better for dreaming it. I am one of those who believe it we have patience, and are not too anxious to run before we have learned to walk, we shall eventually evolve some system which, though it may not accomplish all some imperialists desire, will bring several portions of the Empire closer union. But I am persuaded that in this movement whatever may be may be about, will only be attained by being content to have unity in things necessarily imperfect, and by leaving to some portion of the Empire the largest possible measure of local liberty. The trade interests and the revenue needs of the different portions of the Empire differ so widely that an attempt to create a uniform commercial policy on all would not help the good cause at all."

BISHOP'S CHARGE NOT DISCUSSED BY SYNOD

Kinston, Jan. 29. Discussion of Bishop Mills' charge to the Anglican Synod yesterday afternoon in which he severely criticized the Liberal naval policy, calling it a political dodge, was waived off by Mr. Francis King, who moved that the charge be printed in the minutes of the Synod and this was agreed to.

It was feared the strong political stand taken by the Bishop might result in some warm talk on the part of Liberal clergymen and lay delegates, but one of the laymen made the remark afterwards that the members of the Synod did not see eye to eye with the Bishop on many things, and therefore, did not worry over his stand on the naval question. At the same time they thought that no good could result from the introduction of political arguments into the Synod proceedings, and therefore preferred to reserve political position of the charge of silence.

NATIONALISTS MAY WIN DERRY FORTY-FIVE BEHIND ON PAPER

Ulster Riding Where Roman Catholics Lead by Four Thousand--Will Home Rule Win

Vacancy--Derry. Candidates--Colonel H. C. Pakenham (Nationalist), Mr. D. H. Hogg (Nationalist). Nationalist majority at last election 165.

In January, 1910, Nationalist, by 57.

Montreal, Jan. 29. A correspondent of the London Times sends the following despatch from Londonderry on the bye-elections:

The Nationalists are quite elated, so confident are they of victory. That is the first impression one receives from an opening survey of the general situation in this election, which is of such exceptional interest on account both of the approximate numerical equality of the parties and the issues at stake.

Parliamentary contests have always been extremely close here since the establishment of the household franchise in Ireland in 1885. On four occasions since then the representation of the city has passed from one side to the other, and in each instance the majority was very small. It is, therefore, more true to say of Derry than any other constituency in the Kingdom, perhaps, that its representation is won or lost in the Revision Courts. The beliefs, political and religious, of every man in Derry are well known, and as opinion is fixed and rigid, such a thing as a turning over of votes being unknown, it is also well known what every elector will do, even in the secrecy of the polling booth.

Nationalists Polled 97 Per Cent. Though Lord Hamilton held the city for Unionism during the last twelve years, beating off each born Nationalist attack, there has recently been a modification in the strength of the parties. Had the election taken place in 1912 the Nationalists would admittedly have won. This conviction is not based on the knowledge that the Nationalists had a majority on the register last year--as a matter of fact they were slightly behind the Unionists, but they say they had never had a majority on the register in spite of the lowering of the franchise in 1885, which was so greatly in their favor. How, then, did they succeed in returning their candidate at four elections? The explanation given is that the Nationalists always poll better than the Unionists.

They bring to the booths 96 or 97 per cent of their supporters on the register.

WELLAND IS AFTER MORE HYDRO POWER

Would Have an Additional Seven Thousand Horse Power.

Toronto, Jan. 29. The town of Welland wants more Hydro energy. A deputation of manufacturers from that center called upon Hon. Adam Beck yesterday to seek another extension of the Hydro-Electric system to the extent of 7,000 horse power. St. Catharines and Thorold each are prospective customers for 2,000 horse power. If the negotiations now under way are completed the Commission will construct a branch line into the Garden City district with a capacity of 12,000 horse power.

ALLEGES MIDNIGHT BANK DEAL AGAINST LAURIER GOVERNMENT

Sir Rodolphe Forget Declares That Hon. S. Parent Promised Him Charter for International Bank if He Left Montmorency--Sir Wilfrid Denies it

Ottawa, Jan. 29. Turning over the quarrel over the Banque Internationale, Sir Rodolphe Forget, it is to be observed that this was a rather irregular sequel to Mr. Lemieux's attack on Monday. Sir Rodolphe Forget had not been in the House on Monday, and Mr. Lemieux did not take the trouble to press his three motions for papers, or to make the statements he made, those assertions, it may be recalled, were most damaging to Sir Rodolphe Forget's personal honor. The member for Charlevoix and Montmorency, he still holds both seats, hurried up to Ottawa, arrived at midnight, and to-day was in his place. His only way of replying was to speak on a question of privilege, and this greatly embarrassed him, the Liberals, led by Mr. Frank Oliver, tried persistently to close his mouth by appeals to the chair.

Directness of Attack Seldom Seen. Circumstanced as he was, Sir Rodolphe Forget managed to do pretty well. Mr. Lemieux, who is a very smooth person, and sedulously avoided mentioning the name of the principal object of his attack. Sir Rodolphe Forget, who is not a practical speaker in English, had no such hesitations, and mentioned names and persons with a directness of attack seldom seen in the House of Commons. He said as its members are in their seats, "I am not a Republican. It was a hard struggle to report for me, as I am obliged to follow Mr. Lemieux's speech clause by clause, picking out statements after statements, contrasting time and passing on to another."

Charges Conspiracy. It was thus disjoined and fragmentary. The most important point in the quarrel over the Banque Internationale, was a direct and circumstantial charge of conspiracy against the group of men in charge of the bank's affairs in Paris, and declared that these men had tried to close the bank, assisted by Quebec Liberal politicians, who were angered because the toll gate had been abolished in Quebec. In maintaining this, he went at some length into the quarrel with the Paris group, their procuring proxies, and the refusal to recognize these proxies. The bank would have succeeded but for this conspiracy, it had done excellently, and it had lost no money in Canada. The Home Bank, or whoever took it over, have a good bargain. The only money lost had been about $150,000, which had been lost in Paris.

Petes Won Once More

Last night about 400 people gathered in Brock street rink to see the local intermediates go on against the Port Hope bunch. The game was tame and looked one of "shin" to the "Petes" did some clever team work, but were handicapped by the open play of the Lakeside visitors. When the last bell rang the score stood 7-4 in favor of the "Petes."

HON. MR. BORDEN POINTS WEAK SPOTS OF OPPOSITION

Ready to Accept any Suggestions--Prime Minister Asks That Bank Act be Sent to Committee

Ottawa, Jan. 29. The banks seem to hold the stage in the House today. First in point of time, and second in importance, came a banking quarrel. Sir Rodolphe Forget defended his course with regard to the Banque Internationale, and did so by the approved method of the counter attack, his language about some of his assailants was exceedingly striking. Second in point of time, and superior in importance, was the renewal of the discussion on the revision of the Bank Act, and a weighty speech by Mr. Borden on the subject.

Let us put Mr. Borden's speech first. Apart from his responsible position as First Minister, he has the qualification of being technically qualified to speak on the subject, as everybody knows, he was a director of the Bank of Nova Scotia until he became Prime Minister. In one passage he used the special knowledge thus acquired. The most important passages in his speech were, first, his declaration that careful attention will be paid to suggestions made in the Committee on Banking and Commerce, and secondly, his exposition of the problem of audit or inspection of the banks.

Shareholders' Profits Not Large. Banking, the First Minister said, is carried on primarily to obtain a reasonable return on the money invested by the shareholders. A good deal had been said about the enormous profits made by banks. He had been in a position to know something of the affairs of one bank. That institution had a reserve of about eight millions. Eighty per cent of that sum had been paid in by the shareholders themselves in cash in the last twelve years. Yet many people declared that $100,000,000 reserve represented profit. That was not the case, and he would suggest that Mr. White have prepared for the committee a statement showing how much of this reserve came from the pockets of the shareholders. As a matter of fact, the bank to which he referred had made a profit of more than $1,000,000.

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

OWING to the fact that so many new industries are locating around Ruskin Place, an interesting calculation has been made of what an industry employing 1,000 hands means to a community. $90,000 would be spent in housing accommodation. The population would increase by 5,000. The assessment would be augmented by $600,000. Salaries would amount to $559,800. The construction of buildings of all kinds would be $2,000,000. The annual expenditures for foodstuffs would be $63,000 for meat, $96,000 for potatoes, $5,000 for sugar, $18,250 for milk, $65,700 for butter, $27,600 for eggs. All told the farmers of the district would gain $221,600. The amount spent for clothing would be $167,750. The expenses for taxes added to the cost of building construction will amount to $2,428,350.

The fine new $10,000 plant of the Bishopric Wallboard Co., is now built at Ruskin Place. A second industry to employ 300 hands at its inception has already purchased the required land while a third guaranteeing to employ 1,000 hands is now negotiating for enough land to commence operations.

JUST THINK what the above means—practically a small city in itself right on the edge of the Capital.

JUST THINK of the number of stores to be built there.

JUST THINK of the number of carpenters.

Lots at Ruskin Place are Now Selling at

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE AS- SURANCE COMPANY

Is practically a mutual one, with the protection afforded by a guarantee fund upon which interest is paid. While such fund is only $60,000.00, the guaranties are liable for five times this amount; so that the position admirably reflects the best solvency of stock and mutual companies. The Directorate is composed of both policy holders and guaranties.

DETECTED BY CIGARETTE SMOKE

A Case Which Smatters of Sherlock Holmes Fiction

Something in real life that might have been taken from Sherlock Holmes' fiction has amused the King's (England) magistrates, who, however, grew stern enough to sentence Tom Taylor, their prisoner, to three months' hard labor. He had stolen from Burlington a set of Maundy money, a quantity of cigarettes, and other articles belonging to Mr. John Long, a well-known publisher. Detective Cooke, who arrested Taylor on the Queen's river-side promenade in the dead of night, said that while he was walking along by the river with the detective Paul he detected the aroma of a cigarette. He recognized the scent as that of samples given him to try from a box which formed part of the stolen property. So he just followed the scent, and came upon the smoker. In reply to the charge, Taylor, on whom nearly all the stolen articles were found, said, "It's quite right; I broke it about half past two this morning."

BIBLICAL IGNORANCE

Members of Parliament Who Have Made Amusing Errors

Some interesting stories are told of members of the British House of Commons who were lacking in Biblical knowledge. For instance, in a debate a few years ago Mr. George Wyndham referred to David and the fifty fighting men he had in a cave. "Not David—Daniel," interjected Sir Edward Grey. "I am much obliged to my right honorable friend," continued Mr. Wyndham, "of course I meant Daniel," as the House resounded with laughter and shouts of "Obadiah!" A little later the same evening Sir Edward again aired his Biblical knowledge by speaking of the feeding of the prophets on bread and water. When Sir William Evans Gordon contrived everybody by suggesting that the prophetic menu consisted of locusts and wild honey.

Certainly a few lessons on the Bible would have been useful to a good many statesmen past and present. Mr. Gladstone once committed the atrocity of putting Daniel in the fiery furnace, and made the Psalmist responsible for the words, "God tempests the wind to the shorn lamb." John Bright saddled St. Paul with the well-known aphorism, "Cleanliness is next to Godliness," and Lord John Russell made a touching reference to Pharaoh and his boat struggling in the engulfing waters of the Jordan.

OUR HIDDEN WEALTH

The Hudson Bay Project Will Open up Northern Areas

The London Chronicle says: "A project that will certainly have far-reaching influence upon the market and the food supply of the United Kingdom will be launched in Canada. With it may arise a new era in the development of that vast Dominion. The great Wharfedale provinces of Alberta, Alberta, Saskatchewan, and Manitoba are to be brought 2000 miles nearer to England by waterway, and a saving of approximately $5 per ton is promised upon the freightage between these provinces and the United Kingdom. Mackenzie and Keewatin, vast territories possessing untold mineral wealth, will reveal to prospectors the secrets hitherto concealed to Indians and will become the paradise of fortune hunters. This project is as daring as it is extensive. It has its foundation in the establishment of a clean harbor at Port Churchill, on the western side of Hudson Bay. This port is to be the terminal point of a new railway intended to penetrate the Western Canadian Provinces. By the use of the port about 8000 miles of rail transit will be saved in respect of produce travelling eastwards towards Europe. The only subsidy given so far to this momentous scheme is the $100,000,000 recently of the award to Messrs. Patrick Brothers, of Plymouth and London, of a contract amounting to one and a half millions sterling for the construction of docks, granaries, and station buildings. The award is made by the Hudson Bay and Pacific Railway Development Company, which holds a concession from the Dominion Government. A partner in the above-mentioned firm when interviewed, stated that the announcement of the award had been followed by innumerable applications for posts upon the constructional work. "We have been inundated by appeals from all classes of people, including insurance officials, office boys, and divers. The telephone bell has been ringing continuously, and there has been a procession to our doorstep. Our contract is for specific docks, granaries, and warehouses. The complete scheme includes, we understand, a large harbor approximately 200 ft. by 200 ft. but this is not of immediate importance. The Hudson Bay and Pacific Railway Development Company are about to build a line between Port Churchill and Prince Albert, thereby penetrating the heart of Saskatchewan. It is understood that other developments will follow."

IS SHE FAKING?

Doctors Become Suspicious of Blanche David's Performance

The hospitals in Montreal are growing a little suspicious of Blanche David, the imitator of the fat boy in Pickwick. Rip Van Winkle, the sleeping beauty, and other long distance slumbers. They are thinking that Blanche does her soporific act as a means of securing board and lodging for a time. Blanche has been picked up, apparently asleep, no fewer than twelve times, the cause of her slumber on each occasion being the hilling languor of the Montreal street cars. At one time she used to visit the land of Nod in the neighborhood of the general hospital, but after several of her visits the authorities there took to plunging her in cold water as a means of reviving her.

Now she does her Rip Van Winkle stunt near the Western hospital where she was taken recently after being discovered in a street car. The doctors there noticed that she has added a new phase to her sleeping performance. Now she is able to sleep while walking and that all those aspiring to play the part of Lady MacBeth would do well to observe.

Blanche generally wanders out of her little cot around meal times and the regularity of her trips was the thing that made the doctors suspicious that her sleep was not all it seemed. They also noticed that on one occasion she even put her coat and hat on with her eyes shut. One doctor said that as she had done this with out the aid of a glass, even if she lost her fame as the premier snorer of Canada, she would still be a very remarkable woman.

Anyway, as Blanche did not make up her mind to come to the Western hospital doctors threatened to try the general hospital method of reviving her. They only had to talk about it in loud tones close to her cot, and with a yawn she awoke and soon afterwards left the institution.

MEN OF NERVE

Most Structural Steel Workers Are of Irish Blood

It is a curious fact that most of the structural steel workers engaged on various huge structures in Canadian cities are of Irish blood. In fact, the Irish and Swedes, or "square heads," as they are called, have almost a monopoly of this dangerous trade. The Irish will take more chances than the men of any other nationality, but the Swedes are not far behind, and how they divide the honors was illustrated recently. Two steel columns for the top storeys of a skyscraper had just been set in place at the corner, and stood warily up fifty feet above the nearest cross girder. Each column was about eight inches square. When the news spread that a photographer was about to take a picture of them, two workmen "shinned" up the columns and stood on the top. The man at one corner was an Irishman, the other was a Swede. Sometimes these structural ironworkers lose their nerve. Why it happens, or how they do not know; but sometimes a sudden panic will overwhelm a man. Then, if he knows his business, he will shout for help for he cannot help himself. Now and then a man gets a mad desire to hurl himself from the roof, and if he is not restrained he will go as surely as though a great magnet were drawing him down to the earth. Oddly enough, one terrible fright rarely causes a man to give up the business. He gets back his nerve in a few days and becomes as bold as ever. It is said that an ironworker who goes to a new job when a building is already high in the air has not the nerve of a man who has been on the building from the ground up. Accidents are more likely to occur while the first few storeys are under construction than later on, for the men take more chances, forgetting that a 40-foot fall is about as deadly as one twice as long.

BRAVERY REWARDED

Two Mitchell Boy Scouts to Receive Medals for Life-saving

Medals of honor of the Canadian Boy Scouts, signed by the Duke of Connaught as chief scout, were forwarded for presentation to Harry Coppin and his brother, Hugh, of Mitchell. The former was one of a group of boys who went swimming in a pond. Lorne Hutchison got beyond his depth, and had gone under four times before Coppin reached him. His brother rescued a little girl from drowning.

IGNORANCE OF THE BIBLE

Professor H. F. Hamilton publishes some figures regarding the 150 Fresh men who entered Amherst College, Massachusetts, last year. They were set a paper of six Bible questions, of which two were "the easiest" that could be thought of. The results were exceedingly difficult, so as to test the intimate as well as the average knowledge of the men. More than 75 of these undergraduates could remember nothing about the fall of Jericho, 27 knew nothing of Cain, 40 knew nothing of Daniel, and 65, 102, and 105 failed to answer questions about Saul, Gideon, and Timothy respectively. Professor Hamilton reports that in visiting certain schools in New York he found, among pupils preparing for college and nearly of an age for entrance, whole classes that could not tell the story of Daniel in the lion's den.

Locating Easter Day
Easter Day is always the Sunday following the fourteenth day of the calendar moon which happens upon or next after March 21st.

Importance of Oxygen
Oxygen constitutes one-third of the solid earth, nine-tenths of the water, and one-fifth of the atmosphere, and is the most abundant of all substances.

Think of it, friends!

Another year nearly gone.

Have you lost a mother or a relative?

If not possibly so before another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likenesses, and you will never regret it. In this case you get a real likeness—a work of art that will not lose its clear-cut lines and beauty.

FOR NINETY YEARS

Registration at Barrie in the Lount Family That Long

Samuel Lount, Registrar of Deeds for Simcoe County, who died recently, came from a family that figured largely in the history of that part of Ontario since the year 1811, when the late Gabriel Lount, grandfather of the late Samuel Lount, settled just south of Holland Landing. Samuel Lount, the eldest son and uncle of the late Mr. Lount, did not become a regular land surveyor like his father and younger brother, George, but was an expert woodman, ranger and explorer of the great northern forests, and as such, assisted his brother with the surveys of much of the southern portion of the County of Simcoe. In the course of time the elder Samuel Lount became one of the best known men of the country, ultimately, in 1834, being elected one of the members of the "Upper Canada" Legislature for Simcoe County. The part he bore in the rebellion of '37 and his subsequent execution is familiar to all readers of the history of that period. George Lount, father of the late registrar, was born in 1799, and he qualified as a land surveyor. When Simcoe County was erected into a separate district in 1826 George Lount became its first registrar. He was the first postmaster at Holland Landing and conducted a general trading store. In 1864 he removed to Barrie, which had been made the county town, and held the position of Registrar of Deeds until the year 1873, a period of almost half a century, when he resigned, and was immediately succeeded by his son, Mr. Samuel Lount. Thus it will be seen that the position has been held by the Lount family (father and son) for upwards of 90 years.

OFF FOR CANADA

Some Typical Families Who Have Come to This Country

A London exchange gives the following typical cases of families who have gone to Canada:
Married couple with two children. The man, strong and healthy, thirty-five years old, has been a farmer in Derbyshire.
Doctor and son. Both are going out to farm and practice as well. The son is a surgeon. Explanation: "Can't stand the insurance act."
Married couple with ten children (Oxfordshire). The husband was a dairyman and farmer, and has a capital of $2,000. He is leaving England because he "can't make both ends meet."

Man and wife and four children (Homesdale). He is a saddler. His employer is now out of the business. There is no work for him here, so he has saved up his passage money. "It's the children, I am thinking of," he says, "there is no future for the next generation here."
The best people seem to be leaving, said a representative of the Victorian Emigration Department. Among those for whom we have booked passages are:—
Farmer settlers (capital of $600 to $5,000).
Farm workers.
Artisans.
Workers in the building and iron trades.
Domestic servants.
Cabinet makers.

"A striking feature is the number of business men who are emigrating; they say that they find competition too keen. Two middlemen in the coal business booked their passages."

THE LAKES OF KILLARNEY

Embedded in the Midst of Miles of Majestic Mountains

The beautiful Lakes of Killarney are equal, if not superior to all other noted beauty-spots in Western Europe. The scenery around them possesses a peculiarity, richness, and variety, and the vegetation which luxuriates which cannot be thoroughly appreciated until seen. Among the great writers who have given the lakes unequalled praise are Sir Walter Scott, Wordsworth, Thackeray, Macaulay, Sir Walter Scott said it was "the grandest sight he had ever seen." Wordsworth, that "in point of scenery the finest portion of the British Islands," and Sir David Wilkie, the great painter, that "for beauty and grandeur, he had never seen them unsurpassed."

The lakes lie embedded in the midst of wildly majestic and lofty mountains, whose sides and steep slopes are covered with the most luxuriant verdure and shrubbery, and in many places with splendid forest trees. The highest mountains are Carrigrohilly and Mangerton. The bosom of the lakes is dotted with romantic islands, some of which are connected by bridges with each other and with the shore, and all around are craggy and rocky waterfalls of every size and form, many being prominent points of interest in the scenery. Besides their beauty, the lakes of Killarney are of great interest on account of the many prehistoric remains found around them, and the ruins of the celebrated monastery of Innishkeen, Macrae's and Aghaun. The lakes cannot be satisfactorily seen and explored by the tourist in less than three days. Those, however, who have leisure, and wish to be more minute in their explorations, may spend weeks in roaming among the mountains and gleams with profit and gratification, each day exhibiting new and increasing beauties, the closer and longer they are examined.

RECORD OF FINGER PRINTS

First for Criminal Purposes Received at Ottawa From Dawson

The first finger prints of any criminal from Dawson were received at the office of the Criminal Identification Bureau, Ottawa. There were nine of these finger prints, photographs and records of criminals in all, and these were, as stated, the first from Dawson, although others have been received from different of the Mounted Police Stations in the West. There are now over 5,000 finger prints at the bureau, the increase for some time having been at an average rate of 150 a week.

WHAT THEY DESERVE

ANNOUNCEMENT

OUR CHRISTMAS DIVIDEND PAID

We are now open for bids for our second allotment of Treasury Stock.

Object:

We desire to improve our milling facilities at once so as to increase our dividend rate to five per cent per month or better. Company reserves the right to reject all bids under $2.00 per share. Reports furnished to those seeking information with a view to making a first-class investment.

The Great Phosphate and Mica Mines of The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.

Non-Personal Liabilities

Capitalized at $500,000. Divided into 500,000 shares of $1 each.
400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

These Mines will be in operation by April next.

If you wish to make your money work

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE.

There are few such opportunities offered where the Public can acquire shares at promoters' prices in a paying mining enterprise right from the start like this one.

A limited number of shares are now offered.

AT 15 CENTS EACH

This price may be increased at any time without notice.

Next April, when the Company's mines will be in operation and shipping, these Shares will not then sell at 15 cents, or 25 cents, but very likely at 50 cents, if not more.

You have a chance you never had before of doubling and tripling your investment by next Spring, as the Company will be shipping as soon as navigation opens.

It should be remembered that this is not a Cobalt or Porcupine over-capitalized mining scheme, where Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars must be expended before getting one cent back.

PHOSPHATE AND MICA ARE MINERALS.

Are used all over the world, in various industries, and Canada is one of the principal producers; the market is established. The output of Phosphate and Mica is generally sold in advance, so that the shareholders run very little risk, but have an exceptional opportunity of doubling and tripling the money invested.

PROSPECTUS SENT FREE ON DEMAND.

Application may be made by letter, by sending 50 p.c. of the amount subscribed. The balance will be payable after the allotment of shares.

The Company possesses 607 acres of Phosphate, Mica, Gold and Asbestos Lands, all free of encumbrances.

POSSIBLE PRODUCTION AND PROFITS

The Company has already orders for over 30,000 tons of Phosphate, on which it expects to realize a profit of $5.00 net per ton, or $250,000, which will be equal to 50 p.c. on the capitalization.

Supposing the Company would only realize one-half of its estimated profits, it still would have to its credit 25 p.c. without taking into this estimate the profits from its Mica Mine, which very likely will be as much again. The output of this Mica Mine is almost all sold in advance to large English firms.

THIS PHOSPHATE AND MICA MINES

are paying enterprises right from the start of its operation, and are located in the Province of Quebec, near Ottawa, and only a mile from railway station.

THE PLANT, MACHINERIES

required for the exploitation are inexpensive, the operation expenses, such as labor, provisions, supplies, transportation, etc., are all much cheaper than in Porcupine and Cobalt mining districts.

The Shareholders participate in the profits of all the Companies' mines.

SHOOTING WHALES

An Industry Which Has Grown to Large Proportions

Whale hunting has always been a picturesque industry, even in the halcyon days. Today, when the ocean whalers are pursued in steel steamships specially built for the purpose and are shot with machine guns, the performance is even more interesting, if it is not quite so romantic. The whale industry is one of which British Columbia is proud, and it has been developed to large proportions, though still in its infancy. As yet only one company has a fleet of whalers at work, its headquarters being at Victoria, B.C.

Two thousand whales were captured along the coast last year, of which 80 were taken by the Canadian company. The method of operation on sighting a whale is to steam as close to it as possible, despatch it with a well-directed shot from a machine gun, and then tow it to the nearest whaling station, where it is hauled on to a suitable stage by machinery and cut up so that every portion of the huge animal is utilized. From the blubber sperm oil is extracted. The body bones are crushed ground and sold as fertilizer. The whale bone is cut from the jaws, trimmed and shipped to Dundee, Scotland, to be manufactured into various commodities. From the residue of the blubber and lean meat, kummo and glue are made. Japan buys a good deal of whale meat, which is used for food. As whales are worth from $5,000 to $10,000 each, the value of the industry is obvious.

This fanatical custom is quite a common one, and is usually practised by aged pilgrims. The white-hot pious are supplied near the tanks by the enterprise that every where prevails on the Moslem pilgrim. A westerner can hardly imagine the reverence which the Mohammedan pays to the tomb of Mecca. His greatest ambition is to visit it once during his lifetime, and he will travel for months in the greatest discomfort and poverty that he may attain his desire. Ever since Mahomet's death in the year 622 Mecca has been venerated, and even today all devout Moslems turn towards it when saying their prayers. Moslem pilgrims are noted for their fanatic deeds, but the one described is doubtless the strangest of them all.

Patrick Once More

A traveller who dropped into a North Ontario town vouches for the following: As the "Hudsonian" train was on its way west, the other day a certain judge came aboard and finding all the seats occupied, finally sat down beside an Irishman who was near of just in front of the judge. Who got into conversation with the Irishman, and soon discovered that he had just been in Canada for about two years. His honor was full of praise for "us" and especially of Northern Ontario. The Irishman listened to the glowing description for some time, and finally became restive and remarked that Canada might be a pretty good place, but could in no wise compare with Ireland. To this His Honor objected, and to strengthen his argument said: "Now Pat, you know very well that you would be in Ireland now and many a long year before you would ever have the privilege of sitting with a judge." Pat was fairly bowled out for a minute, but with an Irish ready wit replied: "True for God, yer Honor, but sure now, yer Honor would be in Ireland many and many a long year before y'd be a judge."

CHARACTER IN THE EYES

It is held by many that just as the bumps on the head afford to the physiologist some indication of character and abilities, so the color, shape and position of the eyes furnish useful guides to those able to read them. Eyes that are always very wide open, for instance, are supposed to show impulsiveness and rashness. Side-glancing eyes are said to be a mark of cunning and be distrustful.

Eyes with long, sharply-pointed corners are a sign of keen powers of observation. Shifting, unsteady eyes are not necessarily a mark of dishonesty, but may mean a lack of an unsteady, restless condition of mind.

For the whites of the eyes to show beneath the iris means the possessor of the eyes has a hot temper which should be carefully kept well under control.

Eyes set very closely together usually show ignorance, but eyes far apart in the head indicate, as a rule, keen intelligence and a sound memory.

DIAMOND STUDDED HEELS

The picture shows the novelty introduced in New York by Mrs. Charles H. Anthony, of Muncie, Ind. She was frank enough to give as her reason for having the heels of her shoes set with sparkling gems that she "wanted to lead, anyone can follow, but one who is first is a winner."

SACRIFICE THEIR EYESIGHT

After Seeing Mahomet's Grave Fanatics Destroy Their Eyesight.

"See Mecca and die" is the Mohammedan pilgrim's motto as he journeys towards the tomb of Mahomet, thus signifying that life holds no further interest for him. When he reaches the goal of his ambition and gazes upon the last resting place of his prophet, he often changes his motto to "See Mecca and see no more," and this precept he literally fulfils. Strange scenes may be observed at Mecca, where devout Moslems after beholding their prophet's tomb, destroy their sight by gazing at white-hot bricks, so that they shall never see any further earthly sight. The hot bricks scorch up the eyes and render the men quite sightless.

NEW YORK POPULATION

The recent census of New York has established that out of a total population of 3,500,000 there are not more than 737,447 real Americans—that is to say, persons born in America of American parents. The rest are divided into 529,000 Germans, 396,219 Irish, 162,864 Austro-Hungarians and 100,000 in the light of such figures, New York is in point of German population third in rank, as a German city, she is the greatest in the world, fourth Austro-Hungarian city. As a German city New York is only surpassed by Berlin and Hamburg. New York is also a great Jewish centre, as its Hebrew population numbers 672,775. Warsaw, generally reckoned as the most Jewish town in Europe, has not more than 262,364 Jews.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

TO ESCAPE APPENDICITIS

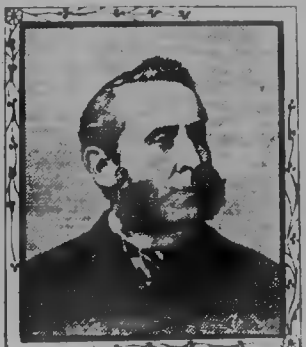

An Exercise Recommended by a Well-Known Physician

A simple way to prevent appendicitis was recently described by a well-known physician. Every night and morning, he advised, go on your knees, bend backward until you sit on your heels, and, at the same time, bend the upper part of your body forward as far as possible. Do this six to ten times.
 You may vary the exercise by standing with heels together and toes pointing straight forward, and then stooping into a sitting posture until the knees touch the chest. Do this also six or eight times slowly.
 The effect is to stir up the intestine in the neighborhood of the vermiform appendix, and to keep it free from the obstruction which is the primary cause of appendicitis.

GREAT YEAR FOR BRUNETTES

Blondes do Not Show to Advantage in Season's Modes.

At a recent style show held in Washington under the patronage of a committee of society women the living models chosen were girls with brown hair and brown eyes. No matter how beautiful a girl of the blonde type might be, she did not have a chance of being chosen for the show. The blonde girl is not admired this season, for she does not bring out the good points of the new "creations" and "dreams" launched by the Paris dress-makers for the winter season.
 Poiret, the most daring of the Paris dress artists, still clings to the oriental in his latest models. He has finally acknowledged his "tulle pants" or Turkish trouser skirt to be a failure, but the wonderful vivid coloring of the orient still holds his attention, and in some of his startling new afternoon and evening frocks he has combined vivid reds, blues and greens—color schemes which would be lurid and terrible except when combined with the master hand of a Poiret and worn by a woman of the right type.
 The fair beauty of a blonde model is eclipsed when she dons one of these frocks with its vivid color notes. She is not the woman to set off to best advantage, so an olive-skinned, almond-eyed beauty is chosen in her place. It is said there will be no fawn haired models on the catwalks of the big style shows held in this country or Paris.

THE EARTH CRUST

Its Density, Its Thickness and the Pressure It Exerts.

A BAR TO WORLD EXPLOSION.

The Reasons Why This Old Planet of Ours, With All Its Pentup Fiery, Volcanic or Gaseous Forces at Work, Could Never Be Blown to Fragments.

Some writers have accounted for the asteroids on the theory that they are the fragments of a world that from some unknown cause has been exploded in its orbit. Similarly, many have thought that perhaps at some distant time, when the seas shall have been drunk up into the cracked and thickened crust of the age-shrunken earth and the volcanoes—those vents of the fiery interior—shall have become choked and extinct, the pentup gases generated from the descending moisture by the still great internal heat may actually explode the old earth like a veritable bombshell.

But that can never happen. In 1883 Krakatoa, a sleepy old volcano on a small island in the strait of Sunda, between Java and Sumatra, began to show marked signs of unrest. Round the volcano the quaking earth opened enormous fissures in the bottom of the sea, down which rushed Niagara of water. Then the fissures closed and confined the engulfed flood in the hot subterranean depths. The water was quickly converted into steam, the steam into dissociated gases, without room for expansion. It exerted a pressure equal to that of the strongest dynamite.

The great chimney of Krakatoa, sealed since the memory of man, barred the normal path of escape. Higher and higher mounted the pressure under the huge mass of the volcano; then, of a sudden, came a blast that actually shook the earth. Never before in historic time had there been such a shock. The whole top of the old mountain was blown into the sky. The recoil was distinctly felt clear through the terrestrial ball.

This great cataclysm has been cited as an indication of the power of the pentup forces that may some day disrupt the earth itself. Let us examine the underlying principles that must guide us in passing judgment on the correctness of this theory.

An explosive compound is a combustible combined mechanically or chemically either with oxygen or with an oxidizing substance that will burn without the help of atmospheric oxygen.

Among the most powerful high explosives are nitrocellulose and nitroglycerine, each of which has a density more than one and a half times that of water. The products of their combustion are nearly all gaseous, whereas the products of the combustion of ordinary black gunpowder are less than half gaseous. The larger part is the same matter that makes the smoke.

The energy that a high explosive can exert depends on the volume of the gases liberated and the temperature to which the heat of the explosion raises them.

The exact temperature of the gases liberated by a high explosive at the instant of detonation is not absolutely known, but may be approximately ascertained through chemical experiment. Nor is the amount of pressure known with absolute certainty. It is probable, however, that nitroglycerin, nitrocellulose and picric acid, when detonated in a confined space, exert a pressure somewhere between 300,000 and 500,000 pounds to the square inch.

If we assume that the earth crust has a density five times that of water and that its average thickness is fifty miles, then it follows that it exerts a pressure of more than 500,000 pounds to the square inch; if the crust is a hundred miles thick, then the pressure is more than a million pounds to the square inch—a pressure certainly greater than the expansive force exerted by the most powerful high explosive.

Mainly, no quantity of high explosive detonated under the crust of the earth would be able to lift it, and consequently we know that no world of the size of the earth can ever explode from its own pentup internal forces.

If, then, no high explosive force is sufficient to blow up a world the size of the earth, how can worlds explode? There is only one way in which the heavenly bodies can become possessed of sufficient energy actually to blow up, and that is by collision.

The stars are dying about in space with velocities that range all the way from five miles a second to 500 miles a second.

If two celestial orbs, traveling each at a velocity of 200 miles a second, met in a head-on collision they would be fused and galled by the impact, and the heat generated would be sufficient to break up the matter of both into its ultimate elements and to expand it into nebulous haze. This is the way in which science says that new suns, new nebulae and new stars are born.—Hudson Maxim in Youth's Companion.

1,000,000 TOO MANY.

Britain's Surplus Women Constitute a Serious Problem.

If you had 1,000,000 women to support and talk to—or be talked to—that would be about 999,999 more than you want, wouldn't it? If you can conceive of such a state of affairs, you can gain some idea of the situation that confronts England.

Now what would you do with them? That's what England wants to know. It is really a serious problem that John Bull has to solve and it is worrying him almost as much as the German situation is. The British registrar-general is the man who discovered the startling fact that the female members of England's population outnumber the males by about a million and a quarter.

But the extra 2,500,000 are not of vital importance. It may be that they were simply thrown in for good measure by the census takers, who have just recently finished their work. It is the "million too many" that are causing both statesmen and marriageable men to become grey.

If any one, or any nation, or any number of nations, will consent to accept a deal to those 1,000,000 women Mr. Bull will be only too glad to give the $41,250,000 as a bonus. The problem is to find some one who wants one million women.

Thus far the situation too many women don't know that they are a drag on the national market and the men of England are trying to keep the fact a secret. We know what might happen if they should form a league of army and take a determined stand. If they did, no unmarried man would be safe, and wives would probably have to surround their husbands with guards lest even that would be impossible, for if the guards were men they too would have to be guarded, and there aren't enough men in the country to do that.

Of course, it would be a terrible calamity for us personally if a million of the daughters of Great Britain were to leave us suddenly, declared the registrar-general. "There would be a few of us who would not feel the wrench, but for a time life would seem very blank indeed."

But, looking at the matter economically, coldbloodedly—if about a million women look it into the heads to emigrate it would be about the best thing that could possibly happen to the country.

The fact that we have these more than a million marriageable women in the country means that they must look about for some means of keeping themselves.

This will naturally lead to an emigration of women upon the heels of labor which have always belonged to men, for it is well known that less money is paid for women clerks than for men.

The market for clerical labor in England is already well overstocked, and what is more natural than that an employer should prefer to engage a cheap worker to a more expensive one, provided, of course, she is just as competent and able to do her work?

Hard to Swallow.

"If you make any noise," threatened the holdup man, "I'll stuff this handkerchief in your mouth."

The victim regarded it with a ghastly smile.

"Oh, that's such an old gag!" he protested.—Chicago Tribune.

Why Not?

Lord Fawcett—ladies, I confess I came to your blawasted country, don't know, to marry a rich American girl, but I haven't found one yet. Miss Harlem—Why don't you advertise. "Wanted—a cash girl?"—Woman's Home Companion.

Re-enforced.

After all the efforts of the scientists it still remains generally conceded that the only way to keep a middle aged man's hair from falling out is to cover his head with concrete.—Valentine News.

PRINCESS THEATRE
SOLD YESTERDAY

A business deal was consummated yesterday whereby Mr. Fred Sanderson, for sometime manager, now becomes owner of the Princess Theatre. Sanderson, as a former employee of the Dominion Express Co., is well known and has a host of friends in the city. The Princess, which has recently introduced vaudeville as an extra attraction, has been doing a roaring business. Mr. Clayton, proprietor of the Red Mill, who formerly owned the Princess, will now confine his intelligent activities to his original stand and present the highest grade of pictures available.

LOCAL OCTOGENARIAN CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

Yesterday a well known and highly respected citizen celebrated his birth day. The citizen referred to is Mr. Edward Green, 326 Water street, who celebrated his 80th birthday. Mr. Green was born in West-Meath, Ireland. He is the last of a family of thirteen, all of whom died in Canada, with the exception of Erasmus, who was a Sergeant-Major in the 5th Dragoons (Heavy Brigade) and was in action at the battle of Balaklava, and a witness of the gallant charge of the Light Brigade, which he gives a splendid description of in a letter written shortly after, and which is still in the possession of Mr. Green.

Dr. J. A. McAlpine has been appointed M. H. O. for Lindsay.

It cost Lindsay $160 to clothe her police force last year.

County School Inspector Lees made his annual reports to the County Council yesterday.

Lindsay is going to bodily remove seven maple trees from the sight of the new armories there.

Belleville intends to make delinquent tax payers settle even if those "shy" have to go out and "borrow the money."

Lindsay seems determined not to endanger human life by allowing boys to drive hacks. A minor was fined $2 yesterday for committing this breach of the by-law.

Yesterday's police court at Fort Hope, Rutland Madison was given three months for having been drunk. When Rutland found the joy juice was from the front of a store, he threw getting the better of him, instead of it getting on the water wagon," he got into a stranger's milk wagon and went for a joy ride. RUSKIN PLACE

Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

OWING to the fact that so many new industries are locating around Ruskin Place, an interesting calculation has been made of what an industry employing 1,000 hands means to a community. $90,000 would be spent in housing accommodation.

The population would increase by 5,000. The assessment would be augmented by $600,000. Salaries would amount to $559,800. The construction of buildings of all kinds would be $2,000,000. The annual expenditures for foodstuffs would be $63,000 for meat, $96,000 for potatoes, $5,000 for sugar, $18,250 for milk, $65,700 for butter, $27,600 for eggs. All told the farmers of the district would gain $221,600. The amount spent for clothing would be $167,750. The expenses for taxes added to the cost of building construction will amount to $2,428,350.

The fine new $40,000 plant of the Bishopric Wallboard Co., is now built at Ruskin Place. A second industry to employ 300 hands at its inception has already purchased the required land while a third guaranteeing to employ 1,000 hands is now negotiating for enough land to commence operations.

JUST THINK what the above means—practically a small city in itself right on the edge of the Capital.

JUST THINK of the number of stores to be built there.

JUST THINK of the number of carpenters,

bricklayers, stonemasons and other tradesmen altogether separate from the number of employees in the different factories that will be needed to build homes for those who work there.

JUST THINK of the thousand and one different jobs of any and every kind that will spring up at Ruskin Place during the next few years and buy your homestead now so as to be one of the main few who got in on the ground floor.

RUSKIN PLACE offers one of the finest and best opportunities for speculation ever presented to the residents of Peterborough.

KILLING OFF THE WOLVES

Algonquin Park Rangers Have Bagged
Sixteen Animals in December

Sixteen wolves were bagged in December by the rangers in Algonquin Park, according to T. W. Gibson, deputy minister of mines. The animals are being poisoned and at the present rate of progress their extermination will virtually be accomplished this winter. Numbers of deer were killed last year by the wolves, and more extensive protection of this game has been decided on. The poison is being supplied by the government, and the rangers are being allowed the usual provincial bounty on the head of every wolf.

that the balloon belonged to the Me-spatched it to that office.

EDITORIAL NOTES

English word malaria means "bad air," which reminds us that there are times when we feel that it is more endurable than the "hot air" of some people we know.

The Society editors of the New York newspapers wrote glowing descriptions of the long train worn by Helen Gould at her wedding, but it did not occur to them that the train was a symbol of the family's railroad interests.

Mrs. Despard, the English wealthy suffragette, who chose two weeks in jail in preference to payment of a $10 fine, acted like a martyr of olden days. She should be presented with a rice nickel-plated halo with the inscription "Give me pants or give me prison."

A reward should be offered for the best designed spanking machine available. Competitors should understand that said machine is intended for the cranks who under the suffragette banner foolishly hurt the cause, and postpone its accomplishment by breaking thousands of dollars worth of plate glass windows.

COT HUGHES' PLAN APPROVED.

The recent action of the Minister of Militia and Defence in giving an invitation to representatives of the various women's societies throughout the Dominion to be present to certify sessions of the military conference, has received the endorsement of those interested in the moral welfare of the men, who attend the camps yearly throughout the country.

A striking article in support of the minister appears in the Montreal Daily Witness (Liberal). "Colonel Hughes," says the Witness, "has shown the instincts of a statesman in summoning the women into council in studying the interests of our military camps. He could not have done a greater thing for his government."

FUNERALS

The Ottawa Free Press says that there is need of standardized funerals in Canada. When death comes to a family, those who are left and in whose hands the funeral arrangements remain, are not usually in the spirit of mind to make any shrewd bargain. The funeral is the last mark of respect that can be paid to the dead, and, as a result, even those who have most need of money are not inclined to bargain very closely. The element of time is also a part of the consideration and people have not the time to look about and get prices when they had the inclination. Undertakers are as honest as any other class of people. The only fault of the business is that the patient does not know what they are to expect for money, and so authorize an outlay often far in advance of their means. In Switzerland a standardized system is in vogue, but the nearest approach to it in the United States is the publication by many undertakers of precisely what they will supply for a stipulated price. This is a very common sound, but it is nevertheless common sense.

APPLICATION TO PARLIAMENT

NOTICE is hereby given that the Corporation of the City of Peterborough will apply to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the next session thereof for an Act for the following purposes:

1. To authorize the Council of the said City to issue Debentures, to raise Debentures for which, by the Acts providing for the issue of same, a sufficient sinking fund for the purpose was not authorized to be raised.
 2. To amend section 27 of Chapter 191 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario passed in the year 1908 to render it unnecessary for the Mayor to sign coupons attached to Debentures, and to permit the signature of the Treasurer thereof to be by his lithographed, engraved or stamped signature.
 3. To amend Chapter 71 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario passed in the year 1899 by repealing sub-section (2) of section 2 thereof.
 4. To amend Chapter 117 of the Statutes of the Province of Ontario passed in the year 1912 to make it clear that the Corporation of the said City may expropriate all the rights, works and property of the Peterborough Light and Power Company (Limited) or any part thereof.

Women's Ailments Caused By Neglect

Proper Treatment Will Quickly Bring Back Robust Health and Good Spirits.

Women are on the whole more sickly than men. One reason is that their system is more complicated; another and more important reason is they put off measures of relief too long. At the beginning, constipation is the cause of nine-tenths of women's ailments. The blood becomes weakened and polluted—the nerves suffer and a run-down condition takes root. Because of their mildness of action as a system regulator, no medicine for women can compare with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. The kidneys quickly respond to the remedial action of Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and the result is as you would expect—pains in the back and side, shortness of breath, and bad color disappear—the functions of the body then operate naturally, congestion and pain are prevented and perfect health returns. Thousands of happy women say Dr. Hamilton's Pills are the greatest and best blood-purifier, and most complexion restorer, the most certain regulating medicine known. Sold by all druggists and storekeepers 25c per box, five for $1.00 postpaid. The Catarhizone Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

SELF ADMITTED GIFT ENDORSES MR. BURNHAM

Supplementing our report in yesterday's issue, which published a letter from one of Winnipeg's leading lawyers, endorsing Mr. J. H. Burnham's bill to abolish titles in Canada, we give herewith another letter, in its entirety which explains itself as follows:

Purple Valley, Jan. 25, '13.
Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., House of Commons, Ottawa.
Dear Sir, I want to say that I admire and endorse your stand in introducing your bill to prevent the increase of a titled "nobocracy" in Canada. I am a Grit, but if all the Tories entertained the ideas of a democratic Canada that you do, I would hail them as brother Canadians and citizens of our common empire. Yes, and vote for them too. In saying this I mean no disrespect to those great statesmen, John A. Macdonald and Wilfrid Laurier, who were and are greater than their titles.

Wishing you every success, I am Yours sincerely,
THOS. COVENEY

UP TO MR. PECK TO GET LOCAL HATCHERY

A letter received by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., from the Department of Marine and Fisheries is given below. It is well known that Mr. Burnham has been making a strenuous effort to have a fish hatchery located at Peterborough. This city is admirably located for such purpose, and it would, on perusal of Hon. Mr. Hazen's letter, seem to be up to Mr. E. A. Peck, M.P.P., to use his endeavors with the Ontario Government. Mr. Burnham's letter is as follows: Office of the Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Canada.

Ottawa, January 24th, 1913.
Dear Sir, I have your letter of the 20th instant, in which you ask what action was taken with regard to the application for a fish hatchery, and you further ask that you be kept advised as to the progress of the application. I find that a shipment of bass was planted from the Newcastle Hatchery in Sandy Lake and Gammon's Narrows.

With regard to the establishment of new hatcheries in Ontario, I may explain that after correspondence with the Provincial Government it has been decided to leave to that Government, which receives all the revenue from the fisheries, the building of hatcheries for sporting fish, while my Department will continue to propagate the commercial varieties.

Yours faithfully,
J. D. HAZEN

GREAT AEROPLANE FLEET

Germany is Devoting Much Attention to Air Warfare

"Germany has at last consecrated itself in earnest to the development of an aeroplane fleet," said Major von Tschudi, the distinguished aeronaut, in a letter to his present position. "We have not lost our faith in the superiority of dirigible airships for the carrying of men and explosives, but the aeroplane has now come fully into its own. Heretofore, Germans are learning to fly. At Jöhannthal, Leipzig, Munich, Mayence, Frankfurt, Weimar, Teltow, and Mulhausen, where the most important training camps are maintained, the utmost activity and enthusiasm prevail. In the Army airship has become almost a passion. Many more young officers are volunteering for the new arm than the War Office can possibly accept. Army orders for aeroplanes are rapidly putting the construction industry on a sound commercial basis. If the Reichstag were suddenly to pass a huge aerial grant, it would find that the plant exists capable of carrying it out. There is talk in official circles of a scheme of Government subsidies for privately owned aeroplanes, such as now the state aid, regard to motor cars. If this proposal should materialize, Germany will become possessed of an air fleet which need not fear a brush with the most powerful rival. The German Army Estimates for 1912 provide for 25,000 additional funds for the Vorkorstruppen, which include the flying arm. It is believed that the lion's share of this increase is destined for the expansion of the aeroplane fleet and for the creation of 'flying garri sons' at strategic points on the frontiers.

WOMEN IN A DUEL
A duel with pitchforks took place at Dijon, France, between two women. They both worked in a biscuit factory and were continually quarrelling. The women in their workroom, tired of the perpetual bickering, advised them to settle their differences in a fight. The two women armed themselves with pitchforks and fought in a lonely field. News of the duel soon spread, and the police hurried to the field, where they found one of the women lying unconscious with a wound in her head.

AN OWL INTRUDER
While a Great Trunk train from Guelph to Toronto was running between Brampton and Georgetown the other night, an owl flew through one of the open windows, startling the passengers and the colored porter who happened to be on duty. The owl was confused by the sudden flare of lights from the passing train but the occurrence is nevertheless remarkable as the train was running at the speed of 40 miles an hour at the time.

QUEEN MARY AVOIDS ALL RACE MEETINGS

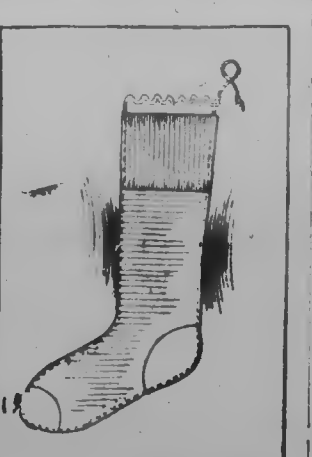

Believes That Gambling is One of the Greatest Causes of Great Britain

Queen Mary loves best of all the quiet life at Buckingham Palace. She does not accompany King George to race meetings, as she takes not the slightest interest in the turf. Moreover, she regards gambling as one of England's greatest curses. The hours Queen Mary enjoys most are those spent supervising the work and amusements of her children. Although they spend practically the whole of their time indoors at Buckingham Palace, she sees to it that they do not suffer from this sedentary mode of life, and insists on regular hours of exercise as well as work and recreation. A brawny Highlander, who is always in native costume, is the children's instructor in Swedish drill. The splendidly carpeted corridors on the upper floor of the palace are the track for many an impromptu race between the young princes. When tired of games they turn their attention to their pets, an aviary of foreign birds and a squirrel house being their favorite haunts.

STOCKING STRETCHER

Wire Frame Can be Adjusted for Stocking of Any Size

An ingenious device is the stocking dryer and stretcher designed by a New York man and displayed here. As will be noted at first glance, it consists of a wire frame of the general shape of a leg and foot. What may not be seen at once, however, is the fact that this frame can be adjusted so that it will fit history of any size. Across the top the wire is bent into a series of corrugations, and the top of

CORRUGATIONS REGULATE SIZE
The wire fits into these corrugations—any one of them, according to the size of the stocking. For small hoary the back wire is drawn up and in, and for larger goods, of course, is allowed to go out and down. Thus any pair of stockings can be dried and stretched on this frame as if the apparatus were made for that pair alone.

SKILLED WORKMEN SCARCE

LATEST FROM LAKEFIELD

Miss Fiva Alford was visiting friends in Warsaw last week.

Mrs. Murray of Norwood, spent the week and in the village, the guest of Misses Ray.

Mrs. L. B. Christie was called to Callender last week on account of the illness of her mother.

Mr. Harry J. Armstrong, of the Royal Bank, here, has been transferred to the Hamilton branch. Mr. Armstrong's many friends in the village were sorry to see him leave, but wish him every success in his new home.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Gillman who have been visiting in Toronto, last week, have returned home and taken up residence on Water street.

Mrs. J. Davis, Mrs. Baker and Miss Gwyneth Baker, of Yellow Grass, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. Blissett.

A number of the members of the Fish Thirty Club were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. P. Young, at Young's Point, on Monday evening last, when a very pleasant evening was spent. The early part of the evening was devoted to progressive euchre, and, after supper, song and games were indulged in. Mr. Beavis entertained the company by his clever imitations of farm yard animals, and a song by Mr. Armstrong was appreciated. The party arrived home in the morning.

Mr. D. Sabatino and bride arrived in the village on Monday and have taken up their residence here.

Mr. A. Sabatino, of Toronto, spent a few days in the village this week, visiting at his home.

Y. P. Society.
The Young People's Society of the Presbyterian Church held their regular meeting in the school room, on Monday night last. The attendance was good and a splendid programme was rendered. The principal item on the programme was an essay by Mr. S. P. Anderson on the life and works of Robert Burns, the Scottish poet. The essay was most interesting and well received. The evening was closed with songs and poems from Burns' work. The chairman was Mr. Gus Thompson.

Agricultural Association.
The annual meeting of the Lakefield Agricultural Society was held in the town hall on Tuesday afternoon last. A large number of the members was present and the session for 1913 was closed as follows:

President—Thompson Braden.
1st Vice-Pres.—J. M. Bygott.
2nd Vice-Pres.—E. J. Galvin.
Secy.—W. Sherin.

VOTES FOR WOMEN

The Progress of the Movement Throughout the World

Much has been said in Canada of "Votes for Women." It is interesting therefore to note the progress of this suffrage movement in other parts of the world. John Stuart Mill was the first champion of women's suffrage in the House of Commons. This was as long ago as 1832, when the Mrs. Pankhurst of today had scarcely learned the art of dressing a doll. Nine years later, in 1841, the billing was crushed under the weight of an adverse majority of eighty-seven; and a good many years were to pass before legislators would listen to such a proposal. In 1897 the tide had turned, a bill conferring the suffrage came triumphantly through the second reading in the House of Commons with a majority of seventy-one; two years later, the majority had grown to 114; and last year, when the Constitution Bill was put to the test of a second reading, 225 M.P.s marched into the "Aye" lobby, while only a paltry eighty-eight said "No" to it.

The first woman registered her vote in New Zealand in 1893, the following year, 1894, South Australia took up the running, and West Australia followed in 1899.

In 1901 the women of New South Wales won the trophy, and in the same year the supreme prize of the Antipodes, the vote for the Federal Parliament, was awarded to women. Tasmania still withheld the boon, but she, too, succumbed to the inevitable in the autumn of 1908, and Queensland has since followed suit.

The United States are following in the wake of Australia. In more than half of them women enjoy a partial suffrage, while in four—Colorado, Utah, Idaho, and Wyoming—she has precisely the same franchise as man.

In the Isle of Man, women have enjoyed the political franchise for more than thirty years; and in other islands as far apart as Jersey and Iceland she is man's political equal.

In Russia, women have outstripped her sister in Britain. As long ago as 1884 the women of Finland began their struggle for the franchise, with the Baroness Griesberg for champion; and so doggedly have they waged their fight that today, not only are they registering their votes for the Diet, but they are eligible themselves for seats in the House.

HUNTING THE SWORD FISH

A Great Sport off the Coast of New London, Conn.

Unless one can afford the time and expense of a whaling ship and a voyage into the Arctic, there is no sea-hunting that excels sword fishing off New London, Conn. Really you do not fish for the sword fish—you hunt him. When you find him, you fight him to a finish—his finish or yours. The season is the two adjoining weeks of June and July. In the dawn of morning you sail, or steam, or motor, into the open sea. By nine o'clock you are anchored in the sword-belt with two men aloft, in the lookout. They sight a fin, signal and the boat speeds ahead. If the fish is at rest on the surface, it is easy to approach him. He treats the boat with contempt. He dislikes meeting a boat head-on and he resents being followed, but if you get him cruising under your bow, the man in the "pulpit" away forward, usually drives a harpoon into him, and then the fight begins. There are 400 feet of cable attached to the iron, and a barrel at the other end. No, you do not make him fast to your boat. Maddened by the sting of the steel, he heads for the open sea. When in deep water, he goes down, taking the barrel with him. While this one is bubbling the barrel, you may spear another. In fact, there have been as many as four barrels aloft from the same boat at one time. When a barrel becomes comparatively quiet, two men put off in a small boat to fetch the fish. Often, at sight of the small boat, the fish revives and makes a last desperate fight for his life. One big fellow in these waters drove his sword through the boat and through the man who was handling it, killing him instantly. Usually the fighting boats are armed, having a thin piece of sheet iron along the water line. The average length of the sword fish killed there is 13 feet; the average time taken to kill one is three hours, and they are worth in the fish markets about fifty dollars each. A 50-foot boat with 10 ft. to 18 ft. beam is the usual thing for sword-fishing, and after a few cruises, following and fighting sword fish, the ordinary sports of the sea become tame.

BRITAIN LEADS IN NAVAL POWER

Line-up of the Six Great European Powers Shows Her Apparently Safe Position

There is much food for reflection and many interesting comparisons to be drawn from figures contained in a return issued by the British Admiralty regarding the naval resources of the six leading European Powers. In carefully prepared tables is set down the exact effective sea fighting strength of Great Britain, Germany, France, Italy, Russia, and Austro-Hungary. Exclusive of dreadnoughts, battle cruisers, armored, protected, or unprotected cruisers on the stocks, and without including 30 torpedo boat destroyers and four torpedo vessels in the yards of the builders, England's mighty fleets, according to the report, totalled 557 ships of all classes, every one of which was ready for sea at once or at least within a few hours' notice.

There were 55 battleships and four battle cruisers of the Indomitable class, "mystery ships," as they are termed, 34 comparatively fast armored cruisers, 18 protected cruisers of the first class, 35 protected cruisers of the second class, 16 unprotected cruisers of the third class, five unprotected cruisers, eight scout vessels, 26 torpedo vessels including special vessels such as depot ships, 179 torpedo boat destroyers, 109 torpedo boats and 55 submarines.

Ranked up alongside the British figures in the report were those of Germany which was shown to have 33 completed battleships, 2 battle cruisers, 9 armored cruisers, 26 second class cruisers, 11 of the third class, 6 unprotected cruisers, 109 torpedo boat destroyers, 80 torpedo boats and 18 submarines, the entire fleet of the Fatherland aggregating 259 vessels not including 59 building to the 75 vessels in the hands of British ship-builders.

France's Big Navy. It will perhaps come as a surprise to the majority of people to learn that the war fleet of France is just over 50 per cent. better than that of Germany, the Republic being credited with 21 battleships, 21 armored cruisers, 3 protected cruisers, 4 second class armored cruisers, 6 third class cruisers, 2 torpedo vessels, 68 torpedo boat destroyers, 161 torpedo boats, nearly as many as Great Britain's and Germany's combined, and 53 submarines.

Comparing the fighting ships of Russia, Austria-Hungary and Italy, the Admiralty showed that of these three Powers, Italy's fleet was second only to that of Russia, which country despite the few years which have elapsed since the Russo-Japanese War, possesses a fleet which totals 181 commissioned vessels comprising 9 battleships, 6 armored cruisers, 7 first class protected cruisers, 1 second class protected cruiser, 3 torpedo vessels, 95 torpedo boat destroyers, 29 torpedo boats and 19 submarines.

The Italian fleet was composed of 3 battleships, 10 armored cruisers, 3 protected cruisers of the second class, 11 third class cruisers, 8 scouts, 5 torpedo vessels, 22 torpedo boat destroyers, 84 torpedo boats, and 107 submarines, a total of 162 vessels.

Smallest of the Six. The fleet of Austria-Hungary the smallest of the six powers though comprising over 100 vessels was made up of 12 battleships, 3 armored cruisers, 3 second class cruisers, 3 third class cruisers, 11 torpedo vessels, 12 torpedo boat destroyers, 60 torpedo boats and 6 submarines, the whole totalling 113 vessels.

According to a statement of Mr. Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, Great Britain experienced little difficulty in finding crews to man her floating fortresses, the Navy offering practically life-long employment with splendid chances of promotion. In each of the last two fiscal years nearly thirteen thousand men and boys were recruited for the service, the numbers being almost identical for the two periods.

General Hertzog Suggests Separation in South Africa

Addressing his constituents at Smithfield, in the Orange River Colony, as Minister for Native Affairs, and not as a representative of the Union Ministry as a whole, General Hertzog pronounced himself strongly in favor of the separation of whites and natives.

Europeans would be forbidden to hold land in native territories, and the only whites allowed there would be those who were required by the natives themselves. Natives, however, would not be excluded from fields of labor.

The Minister promised to place a completed scheme before Parliament.

FACILITIES FOR WHEAT

The New Hudson Bay Route is Selected to Revolutionize Transportation

"Is the Hudson Bay route feasible for general communication with Europe?" This question was addressed to a member of the firm that will build docks at Fort Churchill. He replied "Certainly! I believe it is open nine months in the year to suitable ships. Only three boats have been lost, so far as is known, in navigating the straits. The only risk is that of encountering ice from Baffin Bay, but engineering may overcome that difficulty once it is seriously faced. At present there are millions of bushels of wheat held up in Canada owing to the congestion on the St. Lawrence. Anything of this kind will be obviated by the development of the new scheme."

An experienced projector possessing an intimate knowledge of the northern Canadian Provinces, also interviewed upon the scheme, stated that it promised the development of the whole of Northern Canada. "It will create such a boom," he added, "that the Dominion Government won't know where they are. There are thousands of miles of country practically unexplored yet abounding in natural wealth. My friends who have traversed the Peace River state that sugar gold is in abundance, whilst I myself know that the Indians get their coal upon the surface. If I am not mistaken, Fort Churchill may eventually prove the eastern terminal of a line penetrating right into the heart of Athabasca and the richest grain country in the dominion."

THE SUPERIOR TURK

Marshal von der Goltz, who was responsible for the reorganization of the Turkish army under Abdul Hamid gives this reason for its high fighting quality—that every Turk feels himself to be a member of a ruling race, immeasurably superior to the Christian nationalities about him. This feeling of intense pride sustains him in battle. He comes of a hardy peasant stock, faunted to privation and open air life. He is usually familiar with the use of arms from childhood. All that he needs to assimilate when he joins the ranks is the more mechanical part of discipline.

THE KING'S GUNNER

Old Soldier who Has Hoisted Windsor Castle Flag for 53 Years

Gunner Samuel Parsons, aged eighty-eight, recently celebrated his fifty-third anniversary of his appointment as the King's Gunner at Windsor Castle. He lives in the Round Tower, his chief duty being to hoist the flag over the castle. He is still on the active list of the Army, and is probably the oldest soldier in England. He joined the Royal Regiment of Artillery in 1825, and went through the Crimean war. He remembers going over the battlefield after the charge of Balaklava. After returning from the war he went to Windsor Castle as Royal Gunner.

William O'Brien, a Sandwich Farmer Abused a Wife

For brutally beating George Fisher a nine-year-old wife, whom he had taken from the McPherson Home at Stratford, for adoption, William O'Brien, a farmer living in the town of Sandwich, was fined $2.25 by Police Magistrate Liggatt, Windsor, with the option of 30 days in jail. It was shown that O'Brien, who is a burly-looking fellow, had pounded the little boy over the back and shoulders with a poker until the child's body was black and blue.

INVADDED BY WOLVES

Hordes From Siberia Said to be Entering Saskatchewan

Here is what the London Chronicle says: "The invasion of Canada has at last come to pass, not, however, from the south, but from the north, and the attacking force is an army of wolves. This grim migration is no trappers' tale, and Saskatchewan is threatened with an invasion of a particularly menacing nature. Several years ago a terribly cold winter drove many thousands of the great grey wolves of the Siberian steppes across the frozen sea into the warmer clime of northern Canada. Through the Canadian pine forests of the unhabited north they have steadily come east, until the plain opened out before them which terminates to the south in the rich prize wheat belt of the Saskatchewan valley. According to Mr. Wood, a Saskatchewan delegate who is in London organizing a party of emigrants, hunger is driving these terrible animals steadily toward the settlers. Terrible they are, indeed, for while the lighter Canadian brown timber wolf only attacks a man on provocation, and warns him a saving yelp before he leaps, his Siberian kinsman steals on his victim without a sound, and is an infinitely fiercer and grimmer antagonist. The Saskatchewan Government thinks enough of the danger to have set prices of $100 and over on the heads of these unwelcome visitors, and wolf hunts are being organized in many places to secure the boundaries."

SIX GENERATIONS

The Remarkable Longevity of a French Family

Writing to the "Echo de Paris," a correspondent declares that his wife who is twenty-one, has a little daughter of eighteen months. The baby's grandmother is forty-five, and this lady's mother is seventy-four and her grandmother ninety-five. These five generations are all Paris-born and bred, except the junior sprig, who saw the light in the suburbs. From Limbourg, however, another correspondent hastens to inform the world that a baby girl has just been born to him by his young sixteen-year-old wife. The following is the ascendant family tree in the feminine line of this newcomer into the world: Grandmother 33, great-grandmother 55, great-great-grandmother 71, and great-great-great-grandmother 88, whilst the mother of this last old lady died at the age of 105, just three months too soon to allow of her being one of the greatest of all great-great-grandmothers.

The Great Phosphate and Mica Mines of The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.

Non-Personal Liabilities

Capitalized at $500,000. Divided into 500,000 shares of $1 each.
400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

These Mines will be in operation by April next.

The Company possess 607 acres of Phosphate, Mica, Gold and Asbestos Lands, all free of encumbrances.

POSSIBLE PRODUCTION AND PROFITS

The Company has already orders for over 50,000 tons of Phosphate, on which it expects to realize a profit of $5.00 net per ton, or $250,000, which will be equal to 50 p.c. on the capitalization.

Supposing the Company would only realize one-half of its estimated profits, it still would have to its credit 25 p.c., without taking into this estimate the profits from its Mica Mine, which very likely will be as much again. The output of this Mica Mine is almost all sold in advance to large English firms.

THIS PHOSPHATE AND MICA MINES

are paying enterprises right from the start of its operation, and are located in the Province of Quebec, near Ottawa, and only a mile from railway station.

THE PLANT, MACHINERIES

required for the exploitation are inexpensive, the operation expenses, such as labor, provisions, supplies, transportation, etc., are all much cheaper than in Porcupine and Cobalt mining districts.

The Shareholders participate in the profits of all the Companies' mines.

FISCAL AGENTS—

J. T. ARMAND & CO.,
(RESPONSIBLE AGENTS WANTED.)

If you wish to make your money work

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE.

There are few such opportunities offered where the Public can acquire shares at promoters' prices in a paying mining enterprise right from the start like this one.

A limited number of shares are now offered.

AT 15 CENTS EACH

This price may be increased at any time without notice.

Next April, when the Company's mines will be in operation and shipping, these Shares will not then sell at 15 cents, or 25 cents, but very likely at 50 cents, if not more.

You have a chance you never had before of doubling and tripling your investment by next Spring, as the Company will be shipping as soon as navigation opens.

It should be remembered that this is not a Cobalt or Porcupine over-capitalized mining scheme, where Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars must be expended before getting one cent back.

PHOSPHATE AND MICA ARE MINERALS.

Are used all over the world, in various industries, and Canada is one of the principal producers; the market is established. The output of Phosphate and Mica is generally sold in advance, so that the shareholders run very little risk, but have an exceptional opportunity of doubling and tripling the money invested.

PROSPECTUS SENT FREE ON DEMAND.

Application may be made by letter, by sending 50 p.c. of the amount subscribed. The balance will be payable after the allotment of shares.

CANADA THE PLACE

A Lecturer Advises Young Londoners
To Come to This Country

Mr. Thomas Sedgwick who is responsible for the emigration of young people within the Empire addressed two thousand young Britons in South London recently. They piled him with questions as he held out to them the prospect of an open air life, a thousand times more profitable and more fascinating than an existence spent in the poorer suburbs of London. The lecturer, drawing on his experience in New Zealand, made the vast gulf between life in London and in the Overseas territories more vividly apparent by displaying on a screen typical pictures of the slums, in which many of them spend their lives, and following them with slides showing first the vast untended areas of Canada, and then the preparation for farm life, dairying, fruit, sheep, and cattle farming, ploughing and harvesting. He was frequently loudly applauded, particularly for the statement that it had been proved up to the hilt that town lads make the best farm laborers, settlers, and colonists.

MERCY FOR THE HORSE

The Duke of Connaught Condemns Docking and Reckless Driving

"I think the docking of horses' tails is a relic of barbarism. The dealers do not agree with me—the horses are better when they are docked. I think it is a shame to deprive this dumb animal of the tail which God has given it." This was the declaration of the Duke of Connaught at the annual meeting of the Ottawa Humane Society. His Royal Highness also spoke strongly against reckless driving and overloading, which the Humane Society is fighting in Ottawa. I hope there will grow up a strong sentiment against reckless driving and overloading," he continued.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

THE UBIQUITOUS SEA LION.

He Strayed a Long Way From Home Before He Was Killed.

The following story is taken from the American Magazine:

Sunday is a dull day, and the city editors and a habit of detailing men to the zoological gardens and get animal stories for Monday morning. The reporters got together one Sunday morning and persuaded the head animal keeper to let them publish a fake story. It was rather commonplace, concerning the alleged escape of a non-existent sea lion from the pool to open water.

"Fake," said the managing editor as he read the story. "Let's make it a good one."

Thereupon he sent telegrams to every country correspondent on that water or its tributaries, merely inquiring if anything had been seen of the escaped sea lion. The response was appalling. The correspondents needed only the hint. That day the sea lion was seen by at least twenty correspondents, and Berghand printed all the reports one after another. Thus spurred, the correspondents went to it in earnest. The following day the sea lion was reported at every point within 200 miles. The story spread like ripples on water. In five days the lion was sighted over half the world, and an enthusiast at Southampton cabled that he was heading toward the north sea. Then a cruel correspondent up on the fake Superior killed him and wired that he was sending the skin as proof. I always suspected that the managing editor did it himself.

Carlyle's Bluntness.

Thomas Carlyle once took Lord Houghton (Richard Milnes) to task in regard to the proposed pension for Lord Tennyson. "Richard Milnes," said Carlyle, taking his pipe out of his mouth, "when are ye gann to get that pension for Alfred Tennyson?" Milnes tried to explain that there were difficulties in the way and that possibly his constituents who knew nothing about Tennyson would accuse him of being concerned in a job were he to succeed in getting the desired pension for the poet. "Richard Milnes," replied the sage, "on the day of judgment, when the Lord asks ye why ye didna get that pension for Alfred Tennyson, I'll no be lay the blame on your constituents, it's ye you that'll be damned."

Honors at College.

"What was your son's social standing in college?"
 "Oh, very fair. Why, he almost got into the Glee and Squeak Society!"
 "Indeed! How was that?"
 "Why, you know they always hit them on the back as a sign they have been selected, and George was hit on the back with such force that it knocked him down."

"Yes, indeed. He thought of course he had been chosen, but he found out afterward it was the class bully who hit him because he didn't like the set of his collar. But even that's a great honor!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ALUMINIUM GARMENTS.

Their Wearers Look as Though They Had Been Dipped in Silver.

Aluminium as is well known, is extracted from clay. It was Napoleon who styled it "the silver of clay." Formerly it was the practice to extract it from the clay by means of reverts. More recently the electrical current has been employed for this purpose and with marked success, the cost of production of this valuable and by no means fully utilized metal thus having been very much reduced. In 1850 a pound of aluminium cost about $40, nowadays it costs only about 20 cents.

Above all other metals, aluminium has the greatest specific lightness with the greatest durability and toughness. It can be rolled out and drawn exceedingly fine. This has made aluminium valuable and useful in the textile industries. The fabrics made from aluminium do not require combination with other textile yarns. Of late the most beautiful effects have been obtained by employing aluminium in smooth as well as in twisted threads for the warp and for the weft silk yarn of any desired color. These fabrics are used in the making of evening cloaks and of theatrical costumes. Such a fabric has it is said, the effect of causing its wearer to look as if she had been "dipped in silver."—Harper's Weekly.

The Koto and Samisen.

Japanese girls of the upper and middle classes learn to play the "koto," while those of the lower orders usually learn the "samisen." The "koto" is a narrow horizontal instrument about five feet long with a sounding board upon which are stretched strings supported by ivory bridges. It is played by means of ivory finger tips. The player sits before the instrument on the floor in the ordinary posture, and when she touches the strings she often sings a soft accompaniment. The "samisen" is a kind of banjo and is often played during theatrical performances and recitations. It gives forth dull and monotonous tones.

A Fortunate Chance.

"What I don't catch on to," said Mose Wilberby, "is how ye managed to make that otermobile feller pay ye thirty dollars fer spiltin' a waggon load o' bad eggs. Ye can't spile a bad egg, kin ye?"
 "Waal, ye see," said Uncle Jabez, "it come about this way. When the smashup come th' air got so full o' that pesky gasoline that the condition o' them there eggs warnt hardly perceptible!"—Harper's.

The Dangerous Germans.

One can never resist a good school boy "howler." Here is the latest. The teacher had been giving a lesson on elementary hygiene, explaining about cleanliness and germs, and so on, and the scholars were asked to write an essay on the subject. Said one youth: "Dust is a thing that should always be carefully got rid of, as it nearly always contains germs, which do a lot of harm."

One Thing He Remembered.

He was standing near one of the stamp windows in the general post-office. His face was flushed and his features distorted, while he tugged with his teeth at a knot in his handkerchief. When the knot gave way a friend who had been watching the usual performance stepped up and asked, "What was the knot for—to remember something?" "Yes, to have my wife's umbrella mended." "Did you have it done?" "No; forgot the mended thing in the subway. But I remembered the knot all right!"—New York Tribune.

A Movable Town.

There is a town, Garkick, in Tibet, which moves twice every year. For three months of the year it is situated at the place where it is designated on the map. During the other nine months it is not there at all, but is about forty miles farther south, at a much lower altitude. Climatic conditions are the cause of this migratory habit. When the heat grows too intense for comfort the whole town packs up and, driving the herds of yaks, sheep and goats, moves up to the higher altitude, and the traders from India at once begin to do so. Trade continues for three months; then, before the severe Tibetan winter begins the town moves back.

The Black Bean Club.

One of the fantastic clubs of London is the Black Bean Club, limited to forty members, each of whom pays an entrance fee of $50 and a similar amount as annual subscription. They meet only once a year, and then a bag is passed round, containing thirty-nine white beans and one black bean. The member who picks the black bean is compelled to get married within the ensuing twelve months, and the remainder solemnly vow to remain single until the next meeting. A house is furnished for the prospective bridegroom (out of the funds of the club, which also bears the cost of the wedding, festivities and of a three weeks' honeymoon).

$400,000 on Roads.

The Ontario Government spent over $400,000 this year in building reconstruction roads. W. Bennett, superintendent of construction, has made a report to the Government showing that nearly all of the appropriation of $425,000 had been expended on roads in New Ontario, and a few of the northern sections of the undeveloped territories bordering on that part of the province. The wet weather caused a setback early in the season, but during the past few months great progress was made. In the case of about one-third of the roads, the municipalities contributed one-half the cost of their construction.

Tart Retort.

Restaurant patron (casually)—I am glad to see your baby has shut up, mumkin. Mother—Yes, sir. You are the only thing that's pleased him since he saw the animals eat at the zoo!—Puck.

If your spirits are low do something, and if you have been doing something do something different.—B. E. Hale.

EMIGRATION TO CANADA
 Americans Who Find Their Way to the Canadian North West

Champ Clark who wishes to stop the emigration of Americans to the Canadian North West said: "A man in my district sold his farm for $28,000 and his stock and other valuable assets ran the sum up to about $40,800. He moved to Manitoba, and entered or purchased 10,000 acres of that land up there. He gave to each of his eight children one thousand acres, keeping two thousand acres for himself. That is the kind of American citizens who are leaving this country and going to the British North West. I am in favor of fixing it so that no American citizen will want to depart from the United States to secure a home in a foreign land."

Chronic Throat Trouble Permanently Cured

SEVEN DAYS' USE OF CATARRHOZONE PERFORMED REGULAR MIRACLES

Miss Conner's Case Proves the Wonderful Efficacy of Catarrhazone in All Throat and Nose Diseases

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 21.—Miss Conner's case will prove of great interest to everyone troubled with sore throat, bronchitis or weak lungs. When asked for a statement, Miss Conner said: "About seven years ago I contracted a heavy cold that settled on my lungs and resisted all treatment. After I had tried several doctors here and specialists in Detroit without benefit, I went to my druggist and asked him for the best remedy he had for cold on the lungs. He recommended Catarrhazone, which cured my cold in one week. It brought back my voice, and I have been ever since free from my old trouble. For coughs, colds and lung trouble I am sure that Catarrhazone is the best remedy. It goes right to the sore spot, gives quick relief, and makes a lasting cure."

Catarrhazone cures because its healing vapor is inhaled to the very places that are sore and inflamed. To permanently cure your winter ills, your coughs, sneezing and Catarrh, by all means use a tried and proven remedy like Catarrhazone. But beware of the substitutor and imitator. Look for Catarrhazone only. 50c and $1.00, at all dealers, or by mail from The Catarrhazone Company, Buffalo, N. Y. and Kingston, Canada.

Robbed His Lodging Place?

At yesterday's police court it developed that Frank Seaton, who got a night's lodging at the police station on the night of December 27th, is alleged to have picked up and taken from the hotel des cops, a fur hat, worth $10 which had belonged to Harry Kearney. Frank pleaded not guilty, and was remanded for one week. He pleaded guilty to having been drunk. Sentence on the last charge was withheld for a week.

Girl Guides of Y.W.C.A.

The Girl Guides scheme has for its object, making girls useful and self-reliant, the development of character and the educating of girls to be good citizens and patriots.

The idea is to reach girls from 11 to 18 years of age, eight of whom form a patrol, one girl over 15, being the patrol leader; three patrols would form a company, under captain and lieutenant. Badges may be gained for efficiency in bicycling, needlework, pathfinding in the woods, correct observations of natural phenomena, and other branches of work. All girls between 11 and 18 years who wish to enrol as guides are asked to come to the Y.W.C.A. building Tuesday, February 4th, at 4.15, whence, weather permitting, the Guides will tramp to Nicholls Oval.

New Grand Central Terminal

A wonderful city within a city built for the comfort and convenience of the traveling public.

The main Grand Central Terminal Building in New York is now open to the public. This vast improvement is more than a great railway Terminal—it is a Terminal City, complete in itself, providing every detail essential to comfort and convenience.

It will embrace convention, amusement and exhibition halls, hotels, clubs and restaurants; post office, express offices, modern apartment and office buildings, and numerous stores and specialty shops.

Grand Central Terminal is the Heart of New York at Forty-second Street and Park Avenue (4th Avenue), one block from Fifth Avenue and convenient to Broadway.

Plan your trip East over the New York Central Lines; enjoy restful sleep on the "Water Level Route," three hours of picturesque grandeur along the historic Hudson and enter

It is the only Terminal on all lines of local traffic—subway, surface and elevated. More than 7,000 cars pass its doors every day, affording easy transit facilities to any part of New York. Around it, within a radius of a few blocks are forty-nine hotels, fifty-eight clubs and thirty-five theatres.

Three new lines of underground transportation are now building to Grand Central Terminal, and soon there will be six levels of human traffic in Forty-second Street.

Below the Terminal City under all its buildings and streets are 33 miles of railway tracks on two separate levels, the upper for Through Service and the lower for Suburban Service.

Each level forms a complete terminal in itself, separate entrances and exits, with equal facilities for the comfort of passengers.

Both levels are reached by gently inclined walks, (no need to climb stairs) and no confusion, since incoming and outgoing traffic is separated.

Ticket, Pullman, Baggage and other facilities are progressively arranged from waiting room to train, no step need be retraced.

SUCCESSFUL OPERATION AT PORT HOPE

Port Hope Guide: Yesterday afternoon Mr. Tom Grice, of Onaca, was rushed to the hospital in the ambulance suffering from acute constriction of the bowel due to strangulated hernia. Mr. Grice had been suffering intense pain and vomiting for about 30 hours and by this time inflammation and swelling was so intense that immediate operation was imperative in order to save this life. The hospital was telephoned to have everything in readiness and the operation was begun about 7 p.m. It was very successful and the patient passed a fairly comfortable night. A great deal now depends upon the recuperative powers and vitality of the patient and although still in a precarious condition, hopes for his recovery are entertained. This is the second operation of the same nature that has been successfully performed in the hospital since its opening.

MARKS' BROTHERS DRAMATIC COMPANY

The Ernie Marks Stock Company drew a large and enthusiastic audience at the Grand Opera House last evening. "A Hero of the Hills" was the offering, a beautiful southern drama, full of strong situations and stirring climaxes. Mr. Marks has surrounded himself with an exceptionally strong acting company and the manner in which they have warmed themselves into the hearts of the drama-loving audience at the Grand is a guarantee that they will be greeted with full houses during their stay in Peterborough. The play for to-night will be "I-humal," taken from the book of the same name by E. D. E. N. Southworth.

PRINCIPAL GORDON, QUEEN'S, DELIVERS SPLENDID ADDRESS

Before the Pupils of the Normal School
Last Night

"Some Permanent Principles of Education" the Subject of the Address

Last night a large and intelligent audience gathered in the Normal School Assembly Hall, to hear an address by Rev. Dr. Gordon, Principal of Queen's University, Kingston.
His subject was "Some Permanent Principles of Education." He was introduced to the assembly by the chairman, Principal Walker, of the Normal School.

Dr. Gordon, in a most eloquent and interesting manner, brought out points for the teacher, parents and pupils, which were thoroughly appreciated by those fortunate enough to hear him. Speaking from the standpoint of freedom of education, he remarked that the old order of methods in teaching must give way to new ideas. Freedom has broadened slowly but surely down to our present life. "We are a self-governing country, hence the need of free and broad education." It becomes the duty of the state to have the popular well educated. There is no test that shows us more for the welfare of the nation than the school. Whether in the large cities or the Prairie Provinces, the school is the one element which grinds all the nationalities together, bringing them one and all under the Union Jack and the Maple Leaf.

In regard to the teacher, the reverend gentleman said: "Is not the teacher one of the first principles of the school?" The school needs the personality of the teacher, it needs a live teacher. They must not become the slaves of routine. Many a business man and manufacturer fail because they linger too long with the old methods. Changing conditions call for new methods. He said he advocated the changing of routine in the schools. It is not the method, but the spirit that counts. The spirit is the personality of the teacher.
The personality of the teacher must be considered before the methods. Make the lesson fit the teacher and pupils, not the routine. Let us not forget that the man behind the gun is what gives the gun its value.

Continuing, Dr. Gordon said:
"There should be a simple and suitable variety of subjects. We must have a varied number of subjects in our schools by reason of the fact that nature presents an endless variety of material to work upon. The public school needs a greater variety of subjects to deal with than the High School or University, because a larger majority of the public school pupils branch forth on their battle of life from it. The same thing applies to the High School in contrast with the University."

Some elements of education must be suited for all the scholars. "What varieties of subjects shall they learn before the parting of the ways?"
"Decrease some of the subjects so as to allow the greater and more important subjects to be thoroughly attained, and a better insight to the essentials."

In this regard, he spoke of the "Three R's of education"—reading, writing and arithmetic. "Read a little more than the newspapers and magazines." "How many are there who can read distinctly to their fellow creatures?" Secondly, writing does not mean mere penmanship. It

REV. DR. GORDON,
Queen's University

means composition, grammar and spelling. Thirdly, arithmetic is of great importance to promote accuracy and quick calculation. Dr. Gordon said comparatively poor work was done along this line in the schools.

Again another phase of the situation should be brought under consideration by the teacher, that is knowledge in the different vocations of life which the pupil will take up after their school training is at an end. For an example the Doctor quoted agriculture and mechanics.
Can our school system do anything to help the pupil to further advance their knowledge by manual training?

This opportunity in Dr. Gordon's statement, should be given to every boy and girl. The success of a business man is not wholly through education but to ability. The pupil must have some fundamental principle which will make intelligent people of them.

The production of the right character in the pupil was next dealt upon by the speaker. "That has ever been the true aim of education." A tough may be very clever, but the criminal is dangerous to society. Unless the teacher holds this conviction they have no right to be such.
"Moral and spiritual education should be a part of the education of the state. More adequate provision must be made by co-operation of the church. So far this subject has received too little consideration from the teacher. The use of our English Bible is sadly neglected in our schools."

Dr. Gordon pointed out he was not implying fault, but he must emphasize the fact that we must live up to the demand of the Department of Education in this regard. He said the school has suffered a lot from demon-strational division, thereby crippling to a large extent the education of the children. "We must see our children true to the examples of Jesus Christ."

"What is the moral attitude of the home? What kind of books are the children allowed to read?" The parents can do more towards the moral and spiritual influence of the children than the teacher.

In concluding, Dr. Gordon remarked that the kindergarten teacher should be fully aware of the responsibility of the training of young children.
The same applies to the teacher of the older boys and girls. "There is absolutely no class of community that is not affected by the schools."

REVOLUTION IN TURKEY LIKELY TO SET WAR GUNS BOOMING ANEW

TALAT BEY

The conclusion of a treaty of peace between the Balkan League and Turkey, which was looked for soon as a result of the decision taken by the Grand Council of the Ottoman Empire to surrender Adrianople to the allies, has again been indefinitely delayed by the revolution at Constantinople, which has swept the Cabinet of Kiamil Pacha out of office and installed the military party in power.

Enver Bey, the man of the hour in Turkey now, who is the leader of the Young Turks and is idolized by the army, will, it is believed, persuade the Cabinet to refuse to abide by the decision of the Grand Council, and in this case a resumption of the war can scarcely be avoided.

Enver Bey at one time was Turkish Military Attaché at Berlin.

ENVER BEY

Talaat Bey, the associate of Enver in the wild scenes in Turkey and accused with him as the slayer of Nazim Pacha, is one of the mainstays of the Young Turks. He once was Minister of the Interior and Vice President of the Chamber of Deputies.

GRANT NO MORE LIGHTS UNTIL HYDRO-ELECTRIC IS INSTALLED

F. W. and L. Committee Will Recommend That Council Will Erect a Fire Substation For South City This Spring—Ald. Anderson Contends That Substations
For North and East City Are Also Needed

The City's Fire, Water and Light Committee met last night, Chairman Ald. Gillespie presiding. There were present: His Worship Mayor Bradburn and Aldermen Anderson, Langford, Buller, Duffus and G. Walter Green.

The question of an increase in salary for Fire Chief Howard from $1,250 to $1,500, came up for discussion. His worship maintained that, so long as the Chief conducts the department as he is doing to-day, he is a valuable city official and deserving of an increase. In fact, said the Mayor, both he and the rank and file of the brigade are entitled to an increase this year, but just what a mount those increases should be, he was not at present prepared to say.

Ald. Duffus thought the Chief had proved to the city that he is the right man in the right place. Were another man engaged with the Chief's qualifications, he could not be secured at Chief Howard's present salary.
Ald. Duffus opined that an increase in all justice due the fire chief.

Mr. Howard, in his policy of insisting that premises shall be clear of combustibles has undoubtedly safeguarded the city against fire.

On motion of Ald. Anderson, seconded by the Mayor the question of an increase in salary for Fire Chief Howard was referred to a Committee of the Whole Council, to be called at an early date.

Some fifty citizens petitioned for an alarm box at the corner of Benson and Aberdeen avenues. This was referred to the Fire Chief and the Committee's chairman.

An alarm lamp at the corner of Avenue and Wolfe streets. At this point
Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Green, that all petitions for additional lights be left in abeyance.

until the Hydro-Electric system is installed—Carried.

Fire Substation.
The committee decided that a fire substation in South City is absolutely imperative for the protection of factories and dwellings in that growing portion of the city.

Ald. Buller offered that a motor chemical engine is also a crying need.

His Worship contended that a substation might be erected on the South City park, west end; the men in charge of the station could look after the park.

Ald. Buller suggested that as increase in salaries all round are on the slate, it might be in order to double up duties somewhat. For instance, the man in charge of the pumping station could be connected with the South City Fire substation.

Ald. Green agreed to this.

Ald. Anderson contended that in the very near future substations for both North and East City will have to be arranged for.

The city has a hose wagon and a hoop and ladder rig which would answer a substation for several years. This was Ald. Buller's suggestion.

Alderman Duffus moved, seconded by Ald. Green, that the Committee recommend that the Council take steps toward the establishment of a fire substation in South City.—Carried.

Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Anderson, that the Mayor chairman of the committee and the Fire Chief be a committee to report on a suitable site for this substation.—Carried.

THIS MAN FOUND HYDRO A BOOM

Minority Report Presented by a Member of the Ferris Committee

MR. BOLTON'S FIGURES

Came From a Former Employee Who Was Discharged Says Mr. Patric.

Albany, N.Y., Jan. 31.—Disagreeing entirely with the criticisms of the Hydro-Electric system of the Province of Ontario, Assemblyman Patric, of the Ferris Committee today presented his minority report.
He asserts that the system is economic and beneficial, and tends to develop to its fullest extent manufacturing and commercial conditions.
It has reduced the cost of light, power, and heat approximately to one-third of what it was before the system was installed.

The report further says that installation of the Hydro-Electric system was opposed violently by the power companies, and that a long campaign of instruction was required to satisfy the people of its real value.

It asserts that the results have shown that it did not work destruction or injury to private power corporations, but that in every instance save possibly one, the value of their stock has increased more than 100 per cent, since the Hydro-Electric system began operation.

More Power Now Used.

Moreover, the quantity of electrical current disposed of has increased several hundred per cent. in every municipality using it, says the report, and this is due to the cheapness of the current.

Local companies have brought their price down to meet those offered, and thus the consumer has benefited. In nearly every municipality using the power, one or more referendum votes have decided in favor of its continued use. In several municipalities the vote was unanimous in favor of the system, in spite of the report of the majority of the Ferris committee to the contrary.

Where Fluegas Come From.
Assemblyman Patric concludes that the opinion formed by the majority of the Ferris Commission was the result of testimony of Reginald Bolton who has heretofore acted as a witness for great corporations opposed to cheaper power. Evidently, the report says, he got his knowledge as to rates from one whom Patric described as a discharged and disreputable former employee of the Hydro-Electric Commission.

The committee sought his testimony in the Province of Ontario, but to some reason known only to himself he refused to give his information in his own country where he was subject to action by the Hydro-Electric Commission, and the jurisdiction of the courts. His testimony was given in New York.

Like Results in Canada.

Assemblyman Patric recommends as an initial step in power development in New York State that action be taken at once to develop the flood waters of the Barge Canal and to transport the power thus developed to municipalities best located to receive and utilize it, and most desirous of doing so. He expresses himself as most enthusiastically in favor of cheap power as he saw its results in Canada.

DEMOCRATS PROVE THAT BILL FOR RECIPROCITY WRONG

Free Entry For Canadian Farm Products—Democrats Are Said to Have Decided on Large List

New York, Jan. 31.—"You would have been very foolish to vote for the reciprocity agreement, for now the Democrats will give everything free entry into the States you would have had, and without a single concession on your part."

These words were spoken by a politician high in the councils of his party, who knows what is going on at Washington—as well as at Albany.

Without Throwing Heritage Away.

If true, they are of tremendous importance. They mean that the Conservative policy of 1911 has won out by "standing pat." Canada gets "larger markets" for much of her produce, without handing over one title of her inheritance upon the northern part of the North American continent. All the advantages of reciprocity without any of the disadvantages. Something for nothing because public sentiment over the cost of living in the United States has forced the Democratic party to lower the excessive tariff wall raised against Canada.

And Canada in her own turn is not compelled to open her markets to American competition.
"I have always been glad Canada rejected reciprocity," continued this well-known figure in national politics —and he was speaking to a Canadian. "The relations, business and personal, between the two countries have been improving steadily the last twenty years."

The Real Reason?

For the year 1912 a good many Roman Catholics in Ottawa have had their names changed to the public school board assessment roll. At present, in Ottawa, no less than $1,498,222 worth of Roman Catholic property is assessed for public schools, according to the Ottawa Free Press. Evidently the owners must have reason to think that the public schools are superior. Is not this the real reason for the change in Saskatchewan's school law?

ALBERTA LOSES IN BANK CASE AND SIFTON WRONG

Privy Council Allows Appeal of Royal Bank in Big Case —Amount Involved is Six Millions

London, Jan. 31.—The Privy Council to-day allowed the appeal of the Royal Bank against the judgment against it in Alberta Provincial Court. The Lord Chancellor in delivering judgment, said the questions were of great importance and proceeded to review exhaustively the grounds for appeal.

He went on to speak of the public uneasiness shown in 1910 about the action of the Government in entering into the arrangements already described. While the Royal Commission inquiry was sitting, there was a change of government.

Passed New Statutes.

The new administration introduced and passed two statutes and on the validity of the first of these the question to be decided in the appeal turns. This statute, after setting out in the preamble that the railway company had made default in payment of interest on bonds and in construction of the line, and then affirming and confirming the guarantee by the province of the bonds it enacted that the whole of the proceeds of the sale of the bonds and all the interest thereon including such part of the proceeds of the sale as was then standing in the hands of the Royal Bank or otherwise comprising inter alia the six million dollars.

Part of Revenue Fund.
The accrued interest on the ap-pellant's bank should form part of the general revenue fund of the province free from all claim of the railway company and be paid over to the treasurer without deduction. It was also provided, notwithstanding the form of the bonds and the guarantee the province should as between itself and the railway be primarily liable on the bonds, should indemnify the company against claims by another statute passed some time before that any person claiming to have suffered loss or damage in consequence of the passing of the act might submit its claim to the Government on the appellant bank claiming.

Concerned Over Politics.

The Lord Chancellor went on to cite the steps subsequently taken in the legal proceedings.

HOME RULERS WIN OUT WITH A SMALL MAJORITY

Londonderry, Ireland, Jan. 31.—
The Irish Home Rule party won a notable victory over the Unionists in the election of a member of Parliament for this city of Ulster yesterday.

The poll, which as usual was a very close one, resulted as follows:
David C. Hoag, Nationalist, 2,489
Col. H. A. Pakenham, Unionist,
2,642.

Majority, 37.
The seat had been held since 1900 by the Marquis of Hamilton, who was recently elevated to the House of Lords on the death of his father, the Duke of Abercorn.

The victory of the Home Rulers gives them a majority of members of Parliament for the Province of Ulster in the House of Commons.

Taken in Ambulance.

Extraordinary efforts were made by both parties to bring every elector to the polls, and as a result of their exertions out of a total electorate of 5,462 voters, 5,341 cast their ballots. Many of the sick and infirm inhabitants were taken to the polling booths in ambulances.
Much fear had been expressed that the election would give rise to serious disturbances, owing to the feverish excitement prevailing in parts of Ulster at the present moment on the Home Rule question. A large force of the Royal Irish Constabulary had been drafted into the city, but their services were not often called into requisition.

Both Protestants.

The election on this occasion was made more interesting by the fact that both the Unionist and Home Rule candidates were Protestants.
The Protestant and Catholic inhabitants of Londonderry are almost equally divided and by putting forward Mr. Hoag as a candidate, it was foreseen that he would carry some of the Protestant Home Rulers with him, who otherwise would have abstained from voting, owing to religious differences.

The majorities in Londonderry elections have always been very small, ranging between 26 in 1892, and 105 in December, 1911.

COUNTY COUNCIL ENDORSES RAILWAY

An Ottawa despatch says: If, as a result of the Senators' and Members' meeting held regarding the Central Canada Railway, the ministers present a bill calling for the use of the railway through the middle of Ontario on a low grade line just north of Stoney Lake. The railway is to connect at Montreal with the Intercolonial and at Midland with the Hill western railroad lines and steamship company and will open up Ontario. The railway is to be completed in two years. The Peterborough County Council has wired its endorsement of the project.

ANNUAL MEETING KNOX CHURCH W.M.S.

At the annual meeting of the Wo-

Twenty-five Dollars Does It

This Helps You Buy a Beautiful High, Dry,
Level Lot in the Fast Selling Subdivision

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

It is selling rapidly to good people of the class who will build homes and improve the property. There are a number of fine houses in course of erection, and many others to follow immediately. The lots are grassy lots without rock. They are level and easy to build upon, and there is abundance of clear, cold, pure water. The view takes in the whole City of Ottawa. Streets are 66 feet wide, and are being well laid out with trees and boulevards, and fine gravelled sidewalks just like every Metropolitan City.

Early connection with the City by no less than three electric railways is expected. The Morrisburg and Ottawa Railway have decided to start building on May 1st, 1913. The C. W. Railway have announced their early start upon their gas electric service, which will run right through RUSKIN PLACE. The Kingston and Rideau Lakes Electric Railway have surveyed right through the property and expect to commence work in the near immediate future.

When any one of these lines commence operations look out for an immense increase in price of RUSKIN PLACE Lots.

Lots at Ruskin Place Now Sell for $275, $300 and $375,

THE NORTH AMERICAN LIFE AS- SURANCE COMPANY

Is practically a mutual one, with the protection afforded by a guarantee fund upon which interest is paid. While each fund is only $50,000.00, the guaranties are liable for five times this amount; so that the position admirably reflects the best points of stock and mutual companies. The Directorate is composed of both policy holders and guaranters.

TREATED FOR NAUGHTINESS

A Correspondent Tells of Experiments
Made in Japan

Writing to the "Times" recently on the subject of naughtiness, a correspondent refers to the possibility of treating children medicinally for naughtiness. "This," she says, "is actually done in Japan. I had charge of some Japanese children, and if they proved unmanageable to discipline, or gave way to prolonged fits of naughtiness, they were taken away for a day or two and invariably came back to me cheerful and good-tempered. On inquiry I found they had been massaged either once or twice, and that it was a very generally practised remedy, all naughtiness being held to proceed from disordered stomach."

SHE MOURNS HER DOG

His Body Was Embalmed and Lies in a Glass Vault

Polaire, the little Vaudeville actress, featured as the ugliest woman in the world, is still disconsolate at the loss of her pet dog, that died a few weeks ago. She has had him embalmed and he lies in a little glass vault in her garden.

The little dog was Polaire's only real friend, and she adored the tiny thing. It never left her once during the twelve years of its life. She used to take it everywhere—to America, to Berlin, to England, and to the Ville Claudine, where she spends her holidays.

"A Progressive Peterborough."

EDITORIAL NOTES

Premier Asquith is beginning to realize that he has no fury like a suffragette scorned.

Special detectives of the Dominion police have been put at work to find the source of circulation of bogus $5 and $2 Dominion bills which the department has been notified are beginning to flood Western Ontario.

Militarism cannot be an active force in this country when a Montreal editor calmly makes the demand on civil court to send the minister of militia to jail because, he says, the minister slandered him and neglected to apologize.

If any of the suffragettes have a sense of humor, how they must enjoy the funny situation presented by their being protected by the police from being roughly handled by a angry populace immediately after they have themselves been assaulting the police according to programme.

A property owner recently called at the City Hall in Jersey City to get his tax bill. He studied the document for several minutes, then protested to Tax Clerk Clarence Miller against the charge of one dollar for poll tax. "When I received the poll tax last year," he said, "I went right home and cut down that pole in front of my house."

A number of proposed amendments to the Workmen's Compensation Act are now being considered by the New York Legislature. Among the demands made by Labor is that instead of the employers paying 90 per cent., the employers pay 10 per cent., and the law at present, the employers shall pay the entire cost.

President-elect Wilson has given a good deal of umbrage to society folk by his veto of the customary inauguration ball. This he has done as a move towards returning to Jeffersonian simplicity. His action has also this further advantage that it is not necessary to discuss whether or not the "turkey trot" will be permitted.

CANADA'S GIFT

Get whizz! Just listen to our esteemed Reform local contemporary! We simply quote a verbatim extract from an editorial in Monday's issue. No comment is necessary for a ten-year-old child, let alone an intelligent man or woman. The extract reads: "A gift of thirty-five millions from the daughter to the mother was made to sound like fifty times the amount, but when reduced to cold fact, it amounted only to a pitiful gift of money in the name of a non-existent 'emergency' as the expression of Canada's duty."

Without comment on the above, we would call attention to the old table of "Sour grapes," as affecting the fox and the bird, or "My we're sorry that we're not!"

SHOULD NOT BE PRIVILEGED

Our contemporary, the Christian Guardian, in a late issue says that at present some of Canada's public men are in a most peculiar and unstable position. Hon Frank Oliver declares that Sir R. Roblin accused him of bringing whiskey and money into Manitoba for the bribery of voters, and on the floor of the House of Commons Mr. Oliver said "Sir Rodmond Roblin, Premier of Manitoba, recently knighted by the King, speaking from his place in the legislature, stated what was untrue, knowing it to be untrue." The difficulty is that both these gentlemen, speaking in the Dominion or Provincial legislature, are speaking as privileged individuals and cannot be called to account in any court of law. Would it not be vastly more courageous to utter any charges outside the Houses of Parliament? As it stands, neither man can be compelled either to prove or to retract his statements.

COMPARING DAIRY COWS

A few days ago Mr. Whitley, of the Department of Agriculture, at Ottawa, made some statements that are worthy of special note by all Ontario farmers who keep dairy cows, says the Guardian. Mr. Whitley and his staff gathered some statistics last year which he rightly characterizes as "amazing." The aggregate performance of the best 300 cows reported in the Province of Ontario was contrasted with that of the worst 300. The average cost of keeping the first class was 40 per head, while the average cost for the other 300 was only $33. But the "best" cows brought in a revenue of $101 each, while the "worst" brought in a revenue of $33.33 per head; i.e., the best 300 averaged a net gain of $64, while the worst 300 averaged a net gain of only 33 cents for the year. This is surely "amazing" information. Ontario has now about 1,250,000 milk cows. If they were all of the "best" variety they would bring in a net yearly revenue of $80,000,000, while if they were all of the "worst" they would yield a net yearly revenue of only $416,666. And the labor of feeding, milking, etc., is just about the same for the worst as for the best. Evidently it takes more than muscle and industry to farm successfully in these days. Probably less toil and more thought would add millions to the agricultural revenue even of this one province.

A Novel Catarrh Remedy Cures Without Drugs

THE HEALING VAPOR OF CATARRHOZONE LOOSENS THE COUGH, STOPS ALL DISCHARGES, PREVENTS SNEEZING.

The real danger of Catarrh lies in putting off treatment. You may have Catarrh yourself, but you may not know it. Before the disease spreads from your nose to the stomach, lungs or bronchial tubes, root it out—cure it with "Catarrhazone." Look over the following symptoms—then examine yourself:

Stuffy Nostrils
Frequent Sneezing
Watery Eyes
Bad Taste
Frequent Cough
Hacking Cough
Drooping
Dizziness
Don't continue to burden your system for another day when the "arms" of such a filthy, loathsome disease as Catarrh. Get Catarrhazone today—inhale its soothing vapor, fill your breathing organs with its balsamic essence, and all trace of Catarrh will forever depart. Read what Edward S. Lee, of Syracuse, Ont., says of his cure with Catarrhazone:

"I was a chronic sufferer from catarrhs in the throat and nose and for many years have constantly had Catarrh. I was recommended to try Catarrhazone and find that by using the Inhaler on the first touch of cold or to relieve the irritation it stays it in a few hours. I have been able to breathe through my nose freely since using Catarrhazone. In fact, I am completely cured." (Signed) EDWARD S. LEE.

Once you try Catarrhazone you'll realize how indispensable it is—the dollar size contains an infinitesimal hard rubber inhaler and sufficient medication to last two months. Beware of the substitute and imitations of Catarrhazone—the genuine and you'll get cured. By mail from the Catarrhazone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

OLD PROSPECTOR TELLS HIS STORY

HIS REAL TROUBLES STARTED WHEN RHEUMATISM GOT HIM

Plasters, ointments and sulphur were alike useless, but Dodd's Kidney Pills made a new man of him.

Princeton, B. C., Jan. 31.—(Special)—All over Canada people are telling of the great work Dodd's Kidney Pills are doing, and even in the rocky mountain fastnesses where nature hides her mines men are telling of cures made and suffering relieved by the great Canadian Kidney remedy. Wm. Murray, sixty-six years old, who has tramped the frontier as lumber jack, rancher, prospector, miner, hunter and trapper, and who has friends all over the west, is one of these. Many a tale of hardship and danger he can tell, but his first real trouble came when Rheumatism claimed him.

"I slipped on the mountain side and strained my kidneys and then my troubles all seemed to set in at once. I had nearly all the symptoms of Lumbago, Sciatica, Neuralgia, Tharbetes, Dropsy and Bright's Disease," Mr. Murray states.

"Then I broke out in a terrible rash that spread all over my body and kept me in tortures. I tried all sorts of liniments and ointments and took sulphur enough to start a little habes of my own. But it was all of no use. Then I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills, and all I can say is they made a new man of me."

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"THE GIRL AND THE DRUMMER"

The title selected for Mr. Byer's new play suggests much that is prevalent in New York, both in the social and the business world. The action of the first two acts takes place in New York, and the last two in Mexico. The leading roles of the "Girl" and the "Drummer," Miss Maudie and Mr. Byer, have parts in which strong dramatic scenes predominate, with a dash of humor to offset the seriousness of the situations. Plenty of comedy fits deftly into the play, with here and there touches of tragedy interest. The scenic investiture of the play is so appropriate that people are enthusiastic in their praise. Mr. Byer and Miss Maudie have surrounded themselves with a most capable company, and the entire production is even more successful than their offerings of previous seasons. (Grand Opera House, Tuesday, Feb. 4th)

Ira Hutchinson rescued a little girl from drowning.

IGNORANCE OF THE BIBLE

Professor H. F. Hamilton publishes some figures respecting the 150 Fresh Bibles which were distributed in Massachusetts, last year. They were set a paper of six Bible questions, of which two were the "easiest" that could be thought of. The two were exceedingly difficult, so as to test the intimate as well as the average knowledge of the men. More than 75 of these undergraduates could recite nothing about the fall of Cain, 37 knew nothing of Cain, 40 knew nothing of Daniel, and 65, 108, and 108 failed to answer questions about Saul, Gideon, and Thobiah respectively. Professor Hamilton also reports that in visiting certain schools in New York he found among pupils preparing for entrance examinations of an age for entrance, whole classes that could not tell the story of Daniel in the lion's den.

$100 Reward, $100

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution, and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address: F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio. Sold by all Druggists. 75c. Take Hall's Family Pills for constipation.

POOR ON $250 A WEEK

Gawkwar of Baroda Cuts Down Son's Allowance at Harvard

Prince Jalmit, the son of the Gawkwar of Baroda, sailed for home after having spent some time at Harvard University, where he had been studying. The Prince did not take a degree, but it was said that he had finished his studies and was going home to take up his position in his father's court. It is learned, however, that the young Indian Prince recently had his allowance cut in half and was unable with the smaller amount to "hold his end up" with the millionaire set with which he was associated. The Gawkwar had been allowing his son $500 a week, but when this was cut to $250 the young man decided that he would return to India. The incident is a revelation to a great many people of how expensively one may live at Harvard.

A TELEPATHIC CLOCK

Here is a strange yet absolutely true story, according to the Liverpool Post, in which a clock plays a mysterious part: It was a small timepiece which stood on a mantelpiece in a sitting room in a Liverpool builder's home. At 11.30 one morning the timepiece fell from the mantelpiece to the floor. When picked up it was found to be quite unharmed and still going, as if nothing unusual had happened. There seemed to be absolutely no reason why it should have fallen, but an hour later when the builder came home to his midday meal he remarked that at 11.30 he felt from the key and told me to go to their side door, open it, and go upstairs. "In the front bedroom," he proceeded, "you will find a top long drawer in a chest of drawers. In the drawer there are some papers. Bring them to me. I did as directed."

The girl told the court that she had been under the spell of hypnotic influence since she was ten years old. She felt dizzy after the man spoke to her, and remembered nothing more until she was seized in the bedroom. Nevertheless, she was found guilty. In binding her over as a first offender the magistrate said it would have been bad for the morals of England had such a peculiar explanation of crime had been accepted by the jury.

LORD DECIES

He is said to be greatly disappointed that the new arrival in his household was a daughter and not a son and heir.

DESPOIT IN TROUBLE

Seigneur of Sark, Erratic and Tyrannical. Lands in Jail

Every traveler who has visited the Channel Islands will recall the picturesque island of Sark, famous for its magnificent cliff scenery and caves. It forms part of the bailiwick of the Island of Guernsey, but is owned by a man of the name of William Frederick Collings, who exercises manorial and feudal rights dating back many hundreds of years, as Seigneur of Sark. The arrest of Collings for shooting with intent to kill a former friend named Lovibond, occasioned little surprise, as Collings was long known to be a man of most eccentric habits.

The shooting occurred when Lovibond, who was visiting the Manor House of Sark, went to the assistance of Miss Collings, daughter of the Seigneur, when the latter attacked her most brutally, breaking her nose and her front teeth with his fist. The consensus of opinion seems to be that Collings' reason is unbalanced and that he is only fit for a lunatic asylum. Indeed, the unfortunate inhabitants of Sark, some 800 in number, and every one of them his tenants, are convinced thereof, since his tyranny is intolerable. His feudal rights, however, are inviolable. The Seigneur prevent his tenants from selling the produce of their holdings without his consent, which has often been refused, and in other cases only granted on their surrender of a portion thereof to himself. The population of the island have a sort of legislature or manorial court, which sits twice a year. But as the Seigneur has a right to veto all its ordinances and decisions, it has become incapable of accomplishing anything. Of course, the Seigneur has magisterial powers and these he uses with the utmost despotism.

Ten or fifteen years ago Collings, as Seigneur, entertained King Edward, Queen Alexandra, and other members of the Royal Family at Sark, but of late he was averse to visitors, and any stranger visiting the island on days of the week other than the ones appointed for the purpose was chased off by the Seigneur with shotguns and dogs.

PLEA OF HYPNOTISM

Gray-Headed Man Influenced Girl and Told Her to Steal Documents

Novel—at any rate, in England—was the defence of hypnotic influence set up by Miss McLaughlin, a typist of Barrow-in-Furness, who was tried for housebreaking. The girl was found in the front bedroom of a neighbor's house while the occupants were at the theatre. By way of explanation she told a strange story of meeting an old, grey-haired man, "who," she said, "asked me if I was a friend of those people. I said I was. He gave me the key and told me to go to their side door, open it, and go upstairs. 'In the front bedroom,' he proceeded, 'you will find a top long drawer in a chest of drawers. In the drawer there are some papers. Bring them to me. I did as directed.'"

The girl told the court that she had been under the spell of hypnotic influence since she was ten years old. She felt dizzy after the man spoke to her, and remembered nothing more until she was seized in the bedroom. Nevertheless, she was found guilty. In binding her over as a first offender the magistrate said it would have been bad for the morals of England had such a peculiar explanation of crime had been accepted by the jury.

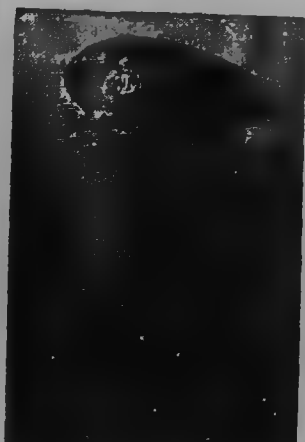

USES APE'S STOMACH

Marvelous Operation Upon a Frenchman and its Dramatic Result

A man's stomach was removed by a French doctor and replaced with the stomach of an anthropoid ape, which of course, an ape very close to a man in the rising scale of development.

No joyous was the recipient of the new stomach that at the first opportunity he became intoxicated. Naturally the ape had never tasted liquor and the stomach he gave was so healthy that it did not suffer by being drenched in alcohol.

This remarkable operation and restoration of the part excised, the first of its kind, was performed by Dr. Rouleux, a famous surgeon in the hospital at Agen, 73 miles southeast of Bordeaux. The patient was a farmer, 27 years of age, whose stomach was worn out and worthless. With the most delicate skill and the latest knowledge of anatomy the surgeon opened the patient's abdomen and trying the great arteries as the operation proceeded, took out the useless stomach. After twenty-five days of treatment the cure was complete, the young farmer left the hospital, and as it to test his new stomach, went on a spree.

LORD CHARLES BERESFORD

He believes with Lord Roberts that Britain is unprepared for war both by land and sea, and that the country is courting disaster by a policy of procrastination.

New Colonial Bishop

The Rev. Joseph Shiel, a native of County Meath, Ireland, who is on the Australian Mission, has been appointed Bishop of Rockhampton, Queensland. The new bishop, who is in his thirty-eighth year, spent five years in Melbourne. Father Shiel was on a visit to his brother in Dublin when the news of his appointment reached him.

Girl Swallows a Hairpin

Lily Smith, a girl of fifteen, died at Aberdeen, Scotland, as the result of swallowing a hairpin. The girl was holding the pin in her mouth while dressing her hair. Commencing to laugh, she allowed the pin to slip down her throat, and, although removed without delay to the Royal Infirmary, where she was twice operated upon, death ensued, the pin having penetrated the heart.

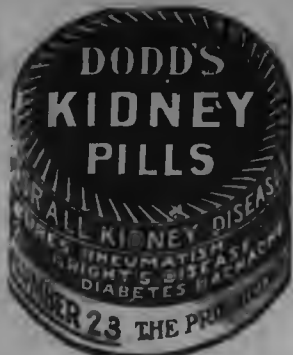

Slums and Crime

In opening the Dublin Sessions the City Recorder said a large percentage of the cases were the inevitable consequence of the poverty, intemperance, and slum environment of an old city. The reduction of the criminal calendar could be accomplished by drastic dealing with what was described by the Prime Minister as by far the greatest blot on their civilisation—the want of provision of clean, decent, humanised housing environment for the poor and toiling masses.

Old Royal Castle

By direction of Captain Hope, of St. Mary's Isle, extensive excavations have been carried out at Castledillon.

the site of the ancient Royal castle of Kircubright. The first time the castle is mentioned in history is in the first volume of the Scottish Exchange Rolls, where, under date 1258, John Cumyn is recorded as "Guardian of the King's castle and lands in Kircubright." The excavations revealed the fact that the castle was a fortress of strategic importance. The building is evidently of twelfth century construction, and a portion can be ascribed to the Edwardian period.

LOOK TO CANADA FOR A NEW START

How the London Emigration Officials Sift the Fit From the Unfit Would-be Canadians

A visit to the various Canadian emigration offices in London brings one into contact with the many types of Britons who are contemplating settlement in the Dominion and affords an interesting insight into the methods of selection adopted by the officials.

What kind of men and women are these candidates for a new life in a new country? The best and perhaps the worst types. It is the business of the emigration officials to see that only the best go. Here is a prominent old man, he says he is 40; his face speaks of the privations and troubles of three score years. With earnestness that is pathetic, he pleads that he is able and willing to take up the arduous work of a Canadian farmer. Indeed it is his only escape from starvation, for he cannot obtain work in the old land. This "case" can be decided instantly. To the discerning official his undeveloped physique and enfeebled frame render him unfit for Canadian farming.

The next is of the right type. A country lad, 16 years old; a six footer with the thighs and muscles of one who has guided the plough from early boyhood. He is from Somersetshire, where he earned $3 a week and kept himself and he is after $30 a month and board in Canada. This man is secured right away.

The "Know-all" Along comes a type which is not liked very much in Canada, at least until he has learned not to emphasize his opinions. With all the assertiveness of the Londoner he, even at this stage, tells the man he has come to for information what he knows about Canada. In a mental vision one can see him telling the Canadian farmer "the best way to do it." The official loses no time in assuring him that his best interests will be served if he is prepared to do things in the way Canadians want them done. "Excellent material," says the official, "he will be all right after a few months in the Dominion."

Then, there is the country gentleman with property who is disposing of his estate which has been in the family for centuries. Here is an old colonel, sunburnt from a score of years in India. He wants his son to go to Canada. "I don't want him pampered, sir, but if he gets in with the right people he will succeed," says the old soldier.

The Case of the Woman A deeper note is struck with the women. Here is one from London's fashionable quarter. Cultured and with the poise of a woman of breeding she is concerned about her son and wants him to go to Canada for his own good. A mother's tragedy is here. If he can get away from his "set" he will be all right. And so the praises of the Dominion, and the mother's pain of parting from her boy is lost in the feeling that if he remains the future will hold a greater grief.

Then we see a woman with a family of no less than eight children. The official's eyes gladden when he hears this. They are country born, robust and healthy. One sturdy youngster of 16 has the sinews of a man, and he is prepared to take the place as breadwinner of the father, who is dead. They are all right and Canada will welcome them. A brave wife whose husband has lost heart in the unsuccessful struggle for a living is the next candidate. She is prepared to mend the family fortunes by taking a place as a domestic servant in Canada.

And so on in an endless procession. One is welcomed, another is warned not to go to Canada. In this way the officials prevent many undesirable from reaching the Dominion. It is the most interesting and perhaps the most valuable Canadian work done in Great Britain.

War and Perfume Prices

It is feared that perfumes may prove more costly because of the Balkan war, inasmuch as Bulgaria is practically the sole source of the supply of attar of roses.

The demand for attar of roses is very great, for it is used in making many kinds of perfumes, favored by society women. It is stated that 150 pounds of rose leaves are required to give one ounce of the precious attar. The principal stills are at Kazanlik, in eastern Roumelia, which, at the time of the battle of Pierva, belonged to Italy.

Lady Shot in Motor Bus

At Ruthin, Wales, Wilfrid Hall, a fifteen-year-old boy was summoned for using an airgun without a licence. A pellet from the gun struck a Miss Felix, who at the time was a passenger on a motor bus. Miss Felix had been undergoing an operation to extract the pellet. The Bench fined the boy $15, and emphasised the fact that a licence was required for an airgun.

Think of it, friends!

Another year nearly gone.

Have you lost—a mother or a relative?

If not possibly so before another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likenesses, and you will never regret it. In this case get a real likeness—a work of art that will not lose its clear-cut lines and beauty.

A STRANGE PEOPLE ARE THE SERVANS

When a Servian widow wants a new husband she hangs a doll in her window. The doll gives fair warning to any bachelor who may chance to pass by.

If a widow or a maiden is very anxious to marry, she also hangs a wreath of corn up on the outside of the house. If the wreath is stolen she will be married soon. If she is very, very anxious to wed she hangs the wreath down quite low so it can be more easily reached.

Servia is the one country where parents are not anxious to marry off their daughters, and want their sons to make early. The reason is, all the women work in the fields along with the men. When a son marries he brings another helper home; if the daughter marries she goes to her father-in-law's fields to work.

Women in Servia work long and hard. The men regard them as inferior beings and treat them so. At the table women are served last, after the men have all the food they wish.

There are no rich folks in Servia, and outside the king's family, no titles. Domestic servants are unknown except in hotels, where Germans are employed, for the Serb regards it beneath him or her to be an "employee." That's why most of them farm, or raise pigs, which is the chief source of the small fortunes some of them have. The Serb is not very religious, and many go to church only when a festival is held.

Every grown man has the use of five acres of land, which cannot be taken from him. He may buy other land, but those five acres are "loaned" to him by the government for life, and the products of those acres cannot be taken for debt.

Belgrade, the capital, is the only city, and it is becoming western in style, while the citizens are slowly moving toward European customs.

The men wear loose trousers or knickerbockers of white frize, and cardigan waistcoats with sleeves lavishly embroidered. Women wear square jackets with loose sleeves, linen skirts, and two highly colored aprons, one in front and the other behind. The aprons look something like small rugs.

The peasant married women dress their hair so it projects in two great ram's horns over their foreheads. The unmarried girl wears a colored handkerchief over her head. The more "fashionable" women wear little red fezzes.

Where the Bulgars are sullen and quiet, the Montenegrins quarrelsome and noisy, the Serbs are merry, light-hearted, contented with very little, and always wear smiles.

WOMAN'S SIX HUSBANDS

Mother and Step-mother of Forty-nine Children, Grandmother of 270

There is a Boer widow residing at Pretoria whose matrimonial record will stand a deal of beating. She is Mrs. Thelma M. de Beer, and is now seventy-eight.

At the age of eighteen she married Petrus Jacobus Lubbe, who died, leaving her with one child. Ten months later she took another husband, a widower with three children. A year and five months afterwards he also died, leaving her with four children.

Within five months she married for the third time, another widower, this time with seven children. With him she lived for eleven years, and had seven children, when he also died. After five years' widowhood she married for the fourth time, on this occasion a widower with eight children. With him she had four children, and after eleven years he, too, died.

Five years later she married a man named Hendrik Kopper. Another eleven years elapsed, and then her fifth husband died, leaving her with ten children.

In two years' time she contracted another marriage with a widower, who brought five children to swell the family. Another eleven years passed, and he, too, went the way of his five predecessors, his death occurring only recently.

Mrs. de Beer is now the mother and step-mother of forty-nine children and the grandmother of 270.

Paintings by Cave Dwellers

A remarkable archaeological discovery was made at Bacon Hole, a few miles west of the Mumbles, Wales, by two distinguished French professors, Messrs. Breuil and Salles. It consists of paintings which are definitely known to belong to the Aurignacian period—the oldest period of cave dwelling. At the level of the cave was seen ten horizontal bands, vivid red, arranged in a vertical series of about one yard in height.

Starved on $40 a Week

Discovered in a semi-conscious state at the House in Kildare Gardens, Bayswater, where she lived alone, Miss Florence Emma Roth, aged sixty, whose solicitor gave evidence that she had been in regular receipt of between $2,000 and $2,500 a year, was found at the inquest to have died of chronic bronchitis, accelerated by self-neglect and want of food.

The Best Investments

WINNIPEG, the metropolis of the West, still offers the best investments in Real Estate. Although values are steadily advancing, Winnipeg has never had a boom. Many are predicting one. That will be the time to sell. Now is the time to buy. Here are some of the best offerings:

Bronx Park

2½ miles from City Hall, having street car service, and in the building district. Prices $11.00 to $15.00 per ft.

Transcona

4 miles from Winnipeg. The first unit of the Grand Trunk shops just been opened. Transcona Heights adjoins the 800 acre shops site. Prices $5.00 to $12.00 per ft. Plans and particulars of the above furnished on request.

The Great Phosphate and Mica Mines of The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.

Non-Personal Liabilities

Capitalized at $500,000. Divided into 500,000 shares of $1 each.
400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

These Mines will be in operation by April next.

The Company possess 607 acres of Phosphate, Mica, Gold and Asbestos Lands, all free of encumbrances.

POSSIBLE PRODUCTION AND PROFITS

The Company has already orders for over 50,000 tons of Phosphate, on which it expects to realize a profit of $5.00 net per ton, or $250,000, which will be equal to 50 p.c. on the capitalization.

Supposing the Company would only realize one-half of its estimated profits, it still would have to its credit 25 p.c., without taking into this estimate the profits from its Mica Mine, which very likely will be as much again. The output of this Mica Mine is almost all sold in advance to large English firms.

PAYING PHOSPHATE AND MICA MINES

are enterprises right from the start of its operation, and are located in the Province of Quebec, near Ottawa, and only a mile from railway station.

THE PLANT, MACHINERIES

required for the exploitation are inexpensive, the operation expenses, such as labor, provisions, supplies, transportation, etc., are all much cheaper than in Porcupine and Cobalt mining districts.

The Shareholders participate in the profits of all the Companies' mines.

If you wish to make your money work

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE.

There are few such opportunities offered where the Public can acquire shares at promoters' prices in a paying mining enterprise right from the start like this one.

A limited number of shares are now offered.

AT 15 CENTS EACH

This price may be increased at any time without notice.

Next April, when the Company's mines will be in operation and shipping, these Shares will be not then sell at 15 cents, or 25 cents, but very likely at 50 cents, if not more.

You have a chance you never had before of doubling and tripling your investment by next Spring, as the Company will be shipping as soon as navigation opens.

It should be remembered that this is not a Cobalt or Porcupine over-capitalized mining scheme, where Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars must be expended before getting one cent back.

PHOSPHATE AND MICA ARE MINERALS.

Are used all over the world, in various industries, and Canada is one of the principal producers; the market is established. The output of Phosphate and Mica is generally sold in advance, so that the shareholders run very little risk, but have an exceptional opportunity of doubling and tripling the money invested.

PROSPECTUS SENT FREE ON DEMAND.

Application may be made by letter, by sending 50 p.c. of the amount subscribed. The balance will be payable after the allotment of shares.

EDUCATION IN BERLIN

Controversy Between the "Classical" And "Moderns."

The longstanding controversy between the supporters of "Classical" and "modern" education has resulted in the establishment of commercial schools and colleges in Berlin where the classics, especially Greek, can be entirely dropped. The Minister of Education has now come forward with an edict applying to all higher Government schools and aiming generally at wider and better acquaintance among the scholars of classical authors and particularly at reducing the time and attention given merely to grammar.

Teaching Fish to Swim

If there is anything a fish is expected to do from the time it is born is to know how to swim. But some fish have to be taught how to swim. Professor W. E. Moberg, of the Philadelphia aquarium, after a series of experiments with baby trout, made the statement that many kinds of fish must acquire the art of swimming just as birds learn to fly.

DEATH MADE BEAUTIFUL
George V. Perkins, the corporation expert, began life as an insurance agent. So good was he at the game that one of his friends described him in these words:—
"George would convince you that the grave was the biggest financial institution, the biggest dividend payer, and the biggest gold-mine in the world. He can build up in your mind the idea that each day you spent on earth was time thrown away. He could convince you that the only real feat for you to perform was to die, be buried, and leave your wife and children to roll resplendent in wealth that he and his company kept waiting for them."
WHERE LIVING IS CHEAP
The food served to the prisoners in the Toronto jail last year cost the city 4.4 cents per prisoner per day. The cost of the jail per prisoner per day for lighting, cleaning and general upkeep was 43 1-8 cents, this not including the officials' salaries.
LESSON IN POLITENESS
Because they did not arise and give their seats to ladies in a street car, two Montreal policemen were punished by being forced to serve an extra hour each day for fifteen days. Chief Campeau, Montreal, is determined to make his men gallant, and is trying this method of enforcing civility.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this 'one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

NEW RANGE FINDER

Will Counteract the Rolling and Pitching of a Battleship

H.M.S. Orion is putting to test a new form of range-finder to be used in the firing of her 18.1 in. guns. This consists of a gyroscope mounted upon which a range-finder is carried. The object is to counteract the rolling and pitching of the battleship in a rough sea, and enable the range to be found more correctly.

The new range-finder is placed in fire-control stations at the top of tripod masts, from which guns are trained and fired by electrical connections with the batteries; and it has been highly successful when tested on shore. During the gun trials conditions will be extremely severe, on account of the intense vibration which the apex of the tripod masts will be subjected to.

The Richest Woman
The richest woman in the world, Mrs. Hetty Green, of New York, owns something like one hundred million dollars.

Interest in England
Foreign investments brought Great Britain interest to the amount of one hundred and eighty millions last year.

Berry He Spoke.
He—'I'd like to know what enjoyment you can find in going from store to store looking at things you haven't the least idea of buying. She—I know I can't buy them but there is a sort of melancholy pleasure in thinking that I could have bought them if I had married George Scuds when I had the chance instead of taking you.

Recollection is the only paradise from which we cannot be turned out—Titcher.

Thanks Either Way.
Pat (to doctor)—If I live, doctor, assure O'll have you to thank for it. Pat's Wife (somewhat prejudiced against the doctor)—And if you die, Pat, you can thank him too.—Judge.

Going Up.
The coast of living's going up. Man stands on the financial brink. The five cent soda water lass Today, to show a little class. Takes nothing but a ten cent drink.—Detroit Free Press.

Took Him at His Word.
Young Husband—What a glorious day! I could dare anything, face anything, on a day like this! Wife—Then come with me to the milliner's!—London Telegraph.

When you get to worrying, stop and think of the unnecessary things you worried about yesterday.—Youth's Companion.

The Explanation.
Robert Henri, the artist, said in New York of a bogus "old master": "Some of these experts must be very ignorant, judging from the facility with which they are duped. They must be ready to swallow anything. It's like the Velasquez story. 'An auctioneer, you know, put up the picture, saying: 'Here we are, ladies and gentlemen—this exquisite Velasquez—'Battle of Waterloo.' What am I bid? One million nine hundred thousand?—'But' interrupted an expert in a pensive voice—'but I thought Velasquez died before the battle of Waterloo!'"

Culture Pearls.
The British commercial attaché at Yokohama reports that considerable export business is done with Europe and America in Japanese "culture" pearls, which, although in appearance and nature the same as the natural oyster pearl, are obtained from oysters by a special process at the Mikimoto pearl culture farm in the bay of Agura; a small bay inside the gulf of Ise. The "culture" pearl has to be cut off from the shell, whereas the natural pearl is found free in the oyster. Consequently, in the case of the former one part of the pearl is inferior in appearance, and this accounts for the large difference in value between natural and "culture" pearls.

The Famous Mamelukes.
The mamelukes were a body of soldiers who ruled Egypt for a very long time. Their name is derived from an Arab word which means "slave," and they were originally slaves from Caucasian countries. In the middle of the thirteenth century, they were introduced into Egypt as the Sultan's bodyguard, but upon the accession of Turan Shah, whom they hated, they overthrew him and elected one of themselves in his place. For nearly 300 years they held the power thus usurped, and even when compelled to resign it they had much influence in Egypt. In 1811 nearly all the mamelukes were massacred by Mohammed Ali, and those who then escaped to Nubia were destroyed.

Whaling.
Walvis Bay, the small British possession in German Southwest Africa, was recently the scene of the unusual spectacle of eight steamers at anchor surrounded by cutters, tugs and lighters. These were the pioneers in what is hoped will soon become a heavy traffic, for Walvis Bay has emerged from obscurity and become the base of a considerable whale-fishing industry. A large factory for the manufacture of whale oil and other products of a similar nature is being erected, and considering how successfully the whaling industry has been established along the Natal coast, the augury for the progress of Walvis Bay is good.

A Remarkable Curiosity.
There is in Connemara, Ireland, a remarkable curiosity, which gives an example of official oversight. When the great famine of 1874 was upon the land the Government of the day conceived the idea of opening a line of navigation from Galway to Ballina by way of Lough Corrib and Lough Mask, so as to avoid the dangers of the western coast. From Connemara a canal was actually made to Lough Mask as part of the general scheme. The work gave a great deal of employment and so far the canal served its purpose. But when it was completed it was found the canal would not hold water. The fact that the rock of the district is of a very porous character had been overlooked.

Puzzles From the Greek.
If two are a few, why not three? If three, why not four, and by a gradually advancing increment of number why not 10,000, or any other number? Or, again, if the loss of a single hair does not make a man bald, why should the loss of two, of three, and so on, and inferentially the loss of all?

If, then, no addition or subtraction of a unit can transform a small number of wheat grains into a heap or a full head of hair into a bald head, how is it possible that either transition should ever be accomplished?
Take a grain of millet out of a bushel and let it fall on the ground, and it makes no noise. Take every grain in succession of 10,000, let the same happen, and no sound is heard. Then collect all the grains back into the bushel and pour it out, and the result is a great noise. How, asks Zeno, can 10,000 noiseless processes make one full of noise?

Enlivened the Dinner.
When Mussaffar-ed-Din, Shah of Persia, paid his first visit to England he was the guest of King Edward VII., then Prince of Wales. On the evening of his arrival a banquet was held at the palace, and on the menu was asparagus.

As it happened the Shah had never heard of, much less tasted, asparagus till that evening. When the dish was brought on he helped himself to half of it, picked each stalk up in his fingers, nibbled gingerly at the head, and then threw the stalk over his shoulder on to the carpet. To have let it remain on his plate would have been a breach of Persian etiquette.

All eyes were turned to the Prince of Wales. What was he going to do? The prince, tactful as ever, glanced at those about him, then at his plate, then he picked up stalk after stalk, ate what he wanted and threw the balance on the carpet behind his chair. A moment later thirty people in that room were eating asparagus in Persian fashion. The air was thick with flying stalks, and the attendants, trained to look more serious than ever on such occasions, never batted an eyelash nor moved a muscle.

Eaten by Lions.
Three natives who were walking along a footpath in the Roubberg district, South Africa, were attacked, a few days ago, by five lions. The foremost lion, a huge beast, sprang at one of the Kafirs and ripped his chest open, afterwards carrying him off. A hunting party was formed, and two of the lions, including the one that had carried off the Kafir, were killed. A few of the remains of the native were eventually discovered.

How He Would Stop Dueling.
Dueling survived in England until about the middle of the forties, "when," says Lady Dorothy Nevill, "an encounter between Lieutenant Colonel Fawcett and Lieutenant Monro, in which the former was shot dead, led to a debate in the house of commons owing to the wife of the former being refused a pension. On this occasion Sir Charles Napier declared that but one way existed of effectually putting an end to dueling. No duel should be allowed which was not fought across a table. Of the two pistols used only one should be loaded with ball, the other being drawn to see who should have the loaded one. If this produced no result, then both pistols should be loaded with ball and the survivor, should there be one, hanged."

A Giant Peppy Saw.
King James I. had a gigantic porter eight feet six inches in height, but he was not perfect, being round shouldered, knockkneed and lame in one foot. Of a similar height was Charles Munster, a yeoman of the Hanoverian guard who died in 1678, and seven years before there was being exhibited in London a Dutchman eight feet nine inches high, a stout whom in Peppy's diary we find the following entry on Aug. 15, 1660: "Went to Charing Cross to see the great Dutchman. I did walk under his arm with my hat on and could not reach his chin with the tip of my fingers."

Made Wonderful Recovery When Dr. Hamilton's Pills Were Used
"I was never actually sick," writes Mrs. Norman La Pierre, wife of a well known resident of Lanesboro, "yet I never could get strong, like other women. I ate well enough, but somehow rich and red blood I could never make. When I married I took a great pride in my housekeeping, but it kept me tired all the time. Mrs. La Pierre, my neighbor, looked well—she told me her health had been made up by Dr. Hamilton's Pills. I only thought of pills as a physic, but now I know that Dr. Hamilton's Pills are more, for they quickened my stomach, liver and bowels—made me stout and stronger, gave me such color in my cheeks, as I never had before. I sincerely believe Dr. Hamilton's Pills should be used by every woman—that's why I write this letter."

No medicine invigorates and renews health and spirits like Dr. Hamilton's Pills. 25c. per box, five for $1. at all druggists and storekeepers, or postpaid from the Cataract Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

Stone For Lindsay Jail
It seems that prisoners have regarded the jail at Lindsay as a haven of rest, and are often anxious to get a return visit. Governor Balfour, of that institution, is having ten tons of stone put in the jail yard to give his guests exercise breaking the rock up for use in the streets.

Chief Thompson Reports.
A meeting of the Police Commissioners has been arranged for next Wednesday afternoon, when Chief Thompson will present his annual report. It is understood that the Chief will make some important recommendations in the interests of the police service.

Boys Sent to Shelter.
Two boys, one of whom said he had attended George street Sunday School, were charged in the juvenile court yesterday with stealing an overcoat from S. J. Murphy's store. They were placed in the Children's Shelter for a night, and enquiry might be made into their respective records.

St. George's Church.
The Ven. Archdeacon Warren will preach at St. George's church tomorrow at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. He will also conduct a children's service at 3 p.m., and will give an address. On Tuesday next a panacea social and entertainment will be held in the parish hall, commencing at 6 o'clock.

Machine Burned Out.

One of the machines at the power house, that supply the street lights, is burned out, and a number of the lights about the city will be out for sometime, until the machine is replaced by a new one from Montreal.

Lack of Sleighing Effects Market.

The local produce market has been greatly affected this week by the almost entire absence of sleighing. A few loads of hay and wood have made their appearance each day, while smaller produce, such as butter and eggs, could be classed as an unknown quantity. This circumstance should justify a fairly active market to-day.

Mr. G. N. Baker Lectured.

Last night Mr. G. N. Baker, manager of the Shovel Works, delivered an interesting address before the men of the Charlotte street church, at their social evening. An orchestra had been engaged and supplemented the regular musical numbers, as previously arranged. Light refreshments were served.

The Barbers Lost.

The barbers went up against the Never-Sleeps at hockey, and lost by a score of 4-0. Now these Knights of the Razor play good hockey, but hockey and thinking of "next," when the puck sizes along are different propositions. When the rubber comes along is no time to consider whether it wants one of Monty's 15 cent English hair cuts, the thing should have been to get busier.

Smith Girl Hurt Coasting.

Lakefield News: While coasting down a hill on a sled on Saturday last, the young daughter of Mr. Fred Heard, of Smith, met with a bad accident. The sled was travelling at a fair rate of speed when the little girl came in contact with a sharp stake which penetrated her body, inflicting a bad wound.

Magistrate's Judgment Sustained.

Yesterday morning, His Honor Judge Huycke heard an appeal against the conviction by Magistrate Dumble, of Alfred Switzer, charged with selling liquor to a minor. It will be remembered, Switzer was fined $50 by the Police Magistrate a couple of months ago. His solicitor, Mr. G. N. Gordon, appealed against the judgment.

Free Report on Old Age Pensions.

Those interested, and who are not (7) in the old age pensions bill, advocated by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., will be pleased to note that the member for West Peterborough, has arranged to have several hundred copies of the Parliamentary Committee's report on this bill, left for free distribution at the Times office. Any one interested in this truly Canadian legislation, may procure a copy of this report gratis.

Lindsay Jail a Death Trap.

The fire escape and water supply of the jail was taken up at the meeting of the county council of Victoria County, Wednesday. Governor Balfour, said: "It is the worst death trap in Ontario. There is no water protection in case of fire and no fire escapes. It is only possible to exit through the front and back doors. The windows are all barred." It was decided that the bars be removed from the windows on the upper and lower flat of the governor's department.

Now Over Anchor Ice.

At yesterday's session of the police court, Joseph Tobin was accused by James Buckingham with assault and found guilty, thereby incurring a $5 fine which he paid forthwith. It seems that plaintiff and defendant were engaged in a fine-tooth-combing anchor ice at Auburn dam. Joseph told James that the latter was not doing his share of the work. Then the fireworks started. Neither plaintiff nor defendant seemed quite satisfied with the court's decision.

Reeve Leaky in Accident.

Yesterday at noon, as Mr. B. Leaky, the popular Reeve of Douro was ascending the Brook street hill, from attending the County Council meeting, this well known resident had the misfortune to step on a piece of ice on the pavement, thus sustaining a heavy fall. Mr. Leaky was thought to have dislocated his ankle. He was taken to his temporary stopping place in a hack. We are pleased to note, however, that Mr. Leaky was sufficiently recovered, during the afternoon to attend the Council meeting.

ENGLISH BEAUTY TELLS COMPLEXION SECRETS.

("Elsie" in American Home)

Through a fortunate meeting with an English lady, noted for her dazzling complexion, I recently learned the full meaning of that old adage, "Beauty is but skin deep." She taught me how to remove my muddy, old skin, revealing the young and beautiful skin underneath. The process is so simple, harmless and inexpensive, I'm sure you'll be glad to know about it. Just get an ounce of ordinary macerated wax at any drug store and apply nightly, like cold cream, for a week or so. Every morning in washing of the wax, tiny particles or worn-out cuticle come off, too. The action is so gentle and gradual, there's no discomfort. It's a wonderful treatment, as it not only peels off the faded or discolored skin, but all of its defects, as chaps, roughness, freckles, pimples, blotches, blackheads.

I am indebted to the same lady for a remarkable wrinkle-removing formula. One ounce powdered saskite dissolved in a half pint witch hazel. Used as a face bath this is so effective that just one application causes the finer lines to disappear, and soon even the deepest ones go.

W. Ryder Went Home.

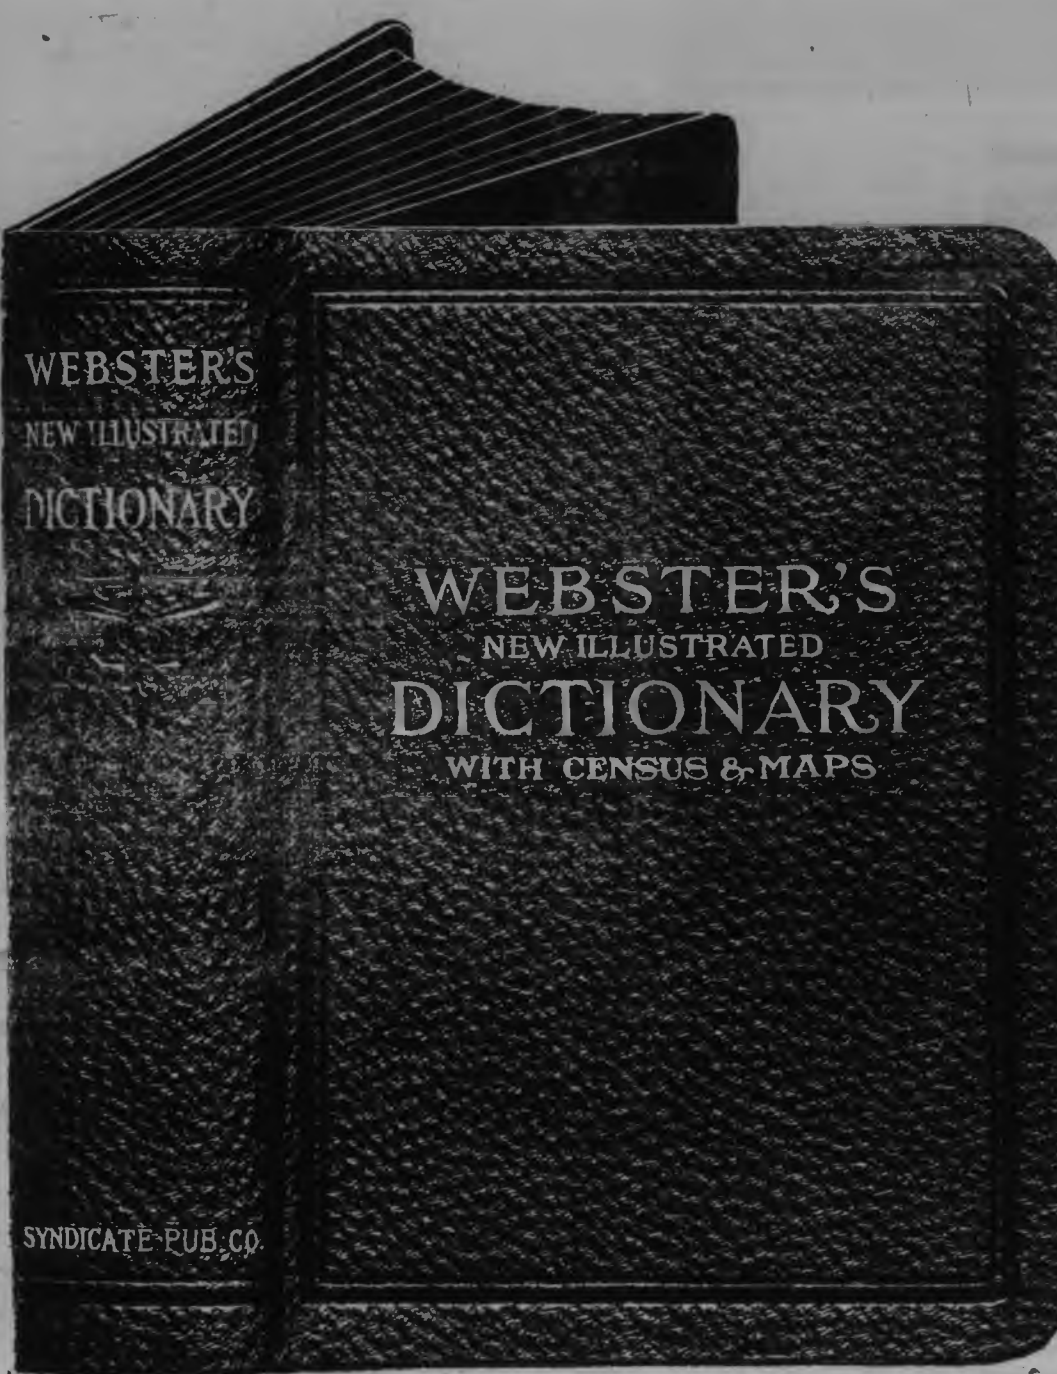

William Ryder lives and has lived for thirteen years in Fenelon Falls. William is getting towards the red and yellow leaf and wears a bunch of spinach whiskers luxuriant enough to make the average barber reach for a mowing machine. At yesterday's police court, William was charged with vagrancy. He said he occasionally honored Peterborough with his presence whilst on intermittent visits to Havlock. Detective Newhall stated that Ryder had been begging around the city for several days and each night was pretty well under the influence of liquor. "Well, he must get out of town and back to Fenelon Falls as fast as possible," was the order, and Ryder departed with a grateful "thank you."

Ernie Marks' Dramatic Co.

Now, while you talking about theatricals, do not forget to say a kind word for the Ernie Marks Stock Company, now playing at the Grand, and the manner in which they put on "Ishmael" last night to a large and well pleased audience was very creditable indeed. Mr. Albert Morton played the title role, that of Ishmael Worth, a child of chance. Deveres the highest praise. Miss Archer as Claudia Merlin was very good and her costumes were a revelation, while Kitty Marks, as Beatrice Middleton was everything that is sweet. As the champion of Ishmael, she won the audience from the start. Mr. Marks as Reuben Gray, and Lida Gardner as Hannah Worth, were very good in their respective roles, while we must not forget to say a good word for Mr. Rawley, Mr. Claxton, Nina Gay, Wesley Barney and Gus Moran. On the whole Mr. Marks' scores another big hit. The specialities were high class and well received. They close their engagement, here to-night, with a three-act farce-comedy-drama, "The Florentine."

OBITUARY

Miss Christine Taylor.

Miss Christine Taylor, sister of Mr. F. C. Taylor, of Lindsay, has passed away. For many years the deceased lady had been an invalid, her death taking place yesterday, at Lindsay. Mr. Taylor and his sisters spent the earlier years of their lives in Peterborough, and afterwards moved to Lindsay.

The funeral will take place from the G.T.R. station, at noon, on Monday, to the Little Lake cemetery.

LITTLE LOCAL LINES

Committee work occupied the attention of the County Council yesterday.

St. Luke's Young People's Association will hold a skating party this evening.

The funeral of the late Mrs. John Henthorn will take place this afternoon to the Little Lake cemetery.

Patay Peters, the boy lost from Lindsay's Children's Shelter, has been found at the home of a farmer in Ops.

Stirling is taking steps towards securing an armory from the Dominion Government and no doubt have good chances of getting it.

A meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee was held last night. The Finance Committee met during the afternoon.

That hockey match at Midland between the home team and the Toronto Canoe Club must have been a hot one. Both spectators and players indulged in several fights.

Rollins, those harbingers of Spring have been seen on the streets of Lindsay. Still, one robin does not make Spring any more than one swallow makes a police court case.

A "route-boy" delivering the Belleville Ontario, night before last, left his bag with 35 papers enclosed down temporarily, whilst he delivered two or three of the issue. On his return he found some sneak thief had stolen the contents of his bag.

Messrs. J. D. Flavell and Alex. Horn, with Dr. Vrooman, M.P.P., have waited on the Provincial Secretary and complained that the voters' lists of that town were padded with income voters, to hurt the cause of local option.

Frank Meenan, who was charged with vagrancy at the Port Hope police court, pleaded for the option of a fine. He did not want to go to jail but had less use for Cobourg, where was proposed to send him. Frank got 3 months.

BABY FACTORY, SAYS KELLOGG

Harvard Professor Declares That Life is Omnipresent in All Things and Can Be Scientifically Created

Boston, Feb. 2.—The possibility of scientifically creating human life by chemical and physical means and the possible existence of a baby factory in the future, were stated today by Dr. Martin Kellogg, Schermerhorn, of the department of philosophy at Harvard, before the Metaphysical club. "Life is not confined to the animal and plant world," he declared. "The whole universe is alive and all that lives is conscious. Animals are conscious and gifted with power of thought and imagination, even though Roosevelt, who thinks himself a great hunter, says that they do not know when they are being slaughtered. 'Plants are conscious,' and Ruskin and Goethe agree that they are capable of exercising strategy and forethought. Even Darwin stated that plants are sensitive and he must have believed that they were conscious. Hence it is obvious that the evolution from so-called matter to human life is possible. The chemist of the future will labor so that men will be made in baby factories, as chickens are now hatched in incubators."

Tecumsehs Won Game

(Special to The Times).
Toronto, Feb. 2.—Last night the big arena was swarmed to the roof with an audience that saw the Tecumsehs beaten in N.H.A., by the Toronto. It required twenty minutes overtime to settle the tie. The final score stood Tecumsehs 5, Toronto 4.

MEN IN SOUTH AFRICA WHO KEEP KRUGER SPIRIT ALIVE

Anti-Imperial Utterance of General Hertzog Create Unpleasant Impression—Racial Animosity Not Yet Banished

Johannesburg, S.A., Feb. 1.—The existing political turmoil in South Africa, occasioned by the anti-imperial utterances of Gen. Hertzog, with the resultant reconstruction of the ministry under the premiership of Gen. Botha, has been the means of fixing once more the attention of the world on the Land of Sunshine, and it is an opportune moment at which to cast a retrospective eye over the developments of the country, since the time when racial animosity is supposed to have been banished under the influence of British generosity. It is beyond dispute that the inauguration of self-government was coincident with a marked recrudescence of those narrow "Nationalist" ideals which gave to the word Krugerism an unhappy significance not yet forgotten.

Dislike Progress.
In the Orange Free State, especially, there was found to survive a dislike for progress. However much one may endeavor to bring into a common mould two points of view so different in their origin and operation, it is obviously a work of such magnitude as only time itself can accomplish. Hence the idea which has been circulated with much zeal on the part of Liberals at home during the past year or two that the Dutch throughout the union have become worshippers of the British flag is one which stands in urgent need of correction.

NEW LONDON SUBWAY PUTS FAMOUS ST. PAUL'S CATHEDRAL IN GREAT DANGER

The view here shown has been drawn to show the proximity of the proposed new underground railway to St. Paul's Cathedral and also the nearness with which the excavation work would approach the water level. It is this danger of drawing off the water from underneath the cathedral foundation which has brought about the energetic protest from the dean to the proposed railway scheme. The cathedral itself rests upon potter's clay and gravel and clay to a depth of twenty feet below the road surface. It will be seen that the railway is separated from the cathedral by sixty-five feet of made ground, which goes down to a depth of fifteen feet. The bottom of the concrete bed of the railway would be only two feet above the twenty-three foot water level. This is one of the vital points of the discussion. The proposed railway scheme suggests that a protective wall should be built in the position indicated under the long black arrow in order to prevent drainage of water from underneath the structure. It is felt, however, that this cutting into the strata underlying the cathedral would be a very dangerous operation, which might not prove to be successful. The only really effective way to protect the cathedral against possible damage would be to underpin nearly the entire fabric, which would be an extraordinarily expensive proceeding.

WEATHER

Toronto, Feb. 2.—Toronto is now in the midst of a cold wave from the northwest, which promises to remain for at least two or three days. While the temperature at 8 o'clock Saturday morning was as high as 10 degrees above zero, we are promised much colder weather during the next few days.

NEW TURKISH PARTY IS AGAINST CONTINUING WAR

London, Feb. 1. Francis McCullagh, in a Constantinople message to the Daily News, sends an interview with Shekiet Pasha replying to the suggestion that his cabinet is a war cabinet. Shekiet replied: "That I emphatically deny. It is utterly false. We came into power not to make war, but to prevent the infliction upon the empire of the ultimate disaster and humiliation of the loss of the whole of Adrianople. 'You know how I came into power; you know of that outbreak of national fury which played me here. That convulsion which was the session of the whole of Adrianople is impossible without chaos throughout Turkey and a general revolution. If I yield my predecessor's fate will be mine and neither Turkey nor the powers will be any better off. In reply to the powers I have ventured as near as any man can to the precipice. 'I do not believe another statesman in Turkey would have dared to approach so near the brink. If I go a hair's breadth further, I tumble into the abyss. We Turks are soldiers, not hucksters. 'The Bulgars have got practically all our European empire, but those grasping, hard-bargaining peasants want two kilometers more and are going to war for these two kilometers. They are not only going to unloose the dogs of war in the near east, but possibly all over Europe. 'We stand on the edge of the unknown. Nobody knows how slight a shock is required to hurl us all together into world-wide catastrophe. 'In my opinion this renewal of the war will be more than sufficient. As for me, I don't want war. I regret it. If blood flows, it will be on the Bulgars' head, not on mine.'"

PETES MADE VARSITY WORK HARD TO WIN IN ARENA

Arena Gardens, Toronto, Feb. 1.—What was promised to be a very lively exhibition, Varsity and Peterborough met here Saturday afternoon in a senior O.H.A. fixture. Peterborough have been coming strong lately and came up prepared to down the college boys at all costs. Their great game against St. Michael's last week pointed them out as serious opponents. Varsity are always strong, however, and the boys from Queen's Park can be counted upon to force things all the way. This game had no effect upon the standing in this group, but each team went out to battle for at least one more victory for this season. With two minutes to play, Peterborough were making a dying effort, but without avail. A mix-up occurred in which everybody was taking a smash at it, just outside Varsity net, but Strume relieved. The game finished, Varsity 7, Peterborough 6.

M.P.'S WADING THRU THE MUD STORM SIGNALS AT OTTAWA

Lively Exchange Between Lemieux and Forget Over the Banque Internationale—Government Supporters Refrain From Discussing Bank Act—Will Parliament Present United Front to the Navy?

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—The parliamentary program during the past week has been as varied as the weather. It was sloppy weather the first of the week with the lively exchange of missiles between ex-M.G. Lemieux and Sir Rodolphe Forget. Then came Tuesday with snow buries and high winds from off the lakes, as the discussions on the Bank Act engaged the attention of the house. Storm signals were flying for an hour or two, and Capt. Borden himself had to take the wheel. By Thursday the air was still but muggy in the green chamber, and some government supporters who wished to talk on the Bank Act, but thought perhaps they had better not, gnawed at their chains uneasily. Friday was bright and clear, with some first-class speeches on the naval question. The naval debate, by the way, in once more to the front and may continue until some definite understanding as to the vote is reached. A good many people on both sides would be glad to see some sensible arrangement come to so that parliament will present a united front to the Empire and to the world.

Wading Through Mud.
One day this week a member of the house received a letter announcing that there was five feet of snow in New Westminster, B.C. "That's nothing," a fellow member retorted, "we have had five feet of mud in the chamber of the house for two days past."

The reference was to the long distance duel between Sir Rodolphe Forget and Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux. Mr. Lemieux on Monday last, made a series of sensational charges against a number of the Forget flotations, alleging that many investors living in France had been defrauded. These charges were contained in no less than six speeches delivered on the same day. Mr. Lemieux opening and closing the debate upon the subject. A peculiar thing about his attack was that he studiously refrained from mentioning the name of Sir Rodolphe Forget, but everyone in the house of course knew who was the object of attack.

MRS. PANKHURST PLANS A NOVEL REIGN OF TERROR

Has Summoned From Provinces Her Fiercest and Least Amenable Followers to the Battle—No Vitriol Used

London, Feb. 1.—It is asserted that the suffragette leaders had planned a campaign of a novel kind of violence in anticipation that the demand for votes for women would be refused by the House of Commons, but one of their number, closely connected with a prominent member of parliament, got frightened and betrayed the whole scheme to his relative. He informed Home Secretary McKenna, who notified the police. What the plan was has not leaked out. Although Mrs. Pankhurst has been good enough to say that militancy will fall short of sacrificing human life, and will use no vitriol or revolvers, there is a firm conviction that something tragic will be done before long. Mrs. Pankhurst has brought up from the provinces all the fiercest, most unmanageable and least amenable followers, who are quartered in London, awaiting an opportunity to demonstrate their fearlessness. Some of these women know of the a hysterical condition, are specially shadowed by detectives who have information that they carry revolvers. Window smashing has become difficult because of the precautions taken by the housekeepers, and molesting ministers is prevented by their detective guards, so Mrs. Pankhurst is at her wits' end to devise some new method of personal terrorism, which her lieutenants can carry out unharmed. Experience has shown that organized demonstrations are dangerous to the suffragettes, because the crowds are likely to treat them roughly, while their going to prison has become so commonplace that the public pays no attention to it. Their latest device is to travel on top of motor buses in London and fire large leaden slugs out of catapults into windows as they pass. These catapults are big editions of the "slingshot," and the missiles are disks with "Votes for Women" stamped on them.

TRADE RECORD BROKEN BOOM WILL LAST

Ottawa, Jan. 2.—Notwithstanding the fact that the Canadian trade figures for 1912 constitute a record in the history of the Dominion the unparalleled activity which then abounded in every industry, continued increases in Canadian trade might be expected for some time. This statement contained in the annual report of the Deputy Minister of trade and commerce just issued. "In my last annual report," says the deputy minister, "I ventured the opinion that the large increase of $76,232,648 shown in the total trade in Canada for the final year 1911 over that of 1910 would be exceeded when the final year of 1912 closed. This prediction has been amply borne out by subsequent returns, the total imports and exports for the last final year amounted to no less sum. 'Again this year, after a careful survey of every source of commercial information throughout the whole of Canada, it is once more apparent, in view of the unparalleled activity which abounds in every industry that continued increases in Canadian trade may be expected for some time. In this connection it may be observed that the total foreign commerce of Canada for the 12 months ended October 31, 1912, amounted to the splendid sum of $901,784,674 as compared with $801,953,387 for the corresponding period of the previous year, showing an increase of $199,831,287, or 23.3 per cent.'"

EDITORIAL NOTES

NOT ONE LIBERAL

British Columbia's Legislature is now in session. It consists of forty-two members, forty of whom are Conservatives and two Socialists. There is not one Liberal. And yet the Victoria Times tells us that the difference between the total vote polled by the Conservatives is not more than 6,000.
The peculiar condition is, of course,
a result of our present majority representation, and seems from every standpoint a most regrettable one.
And yet there is small sign of any introduction of proportional representation.

SUICIDE!

Turkey's revolution may signify her self-destruction. If she is going to defy all Europe her action will be virtually suicidal. Though it is but one of the irreconcilable parties that has assumed this attitude of defiance, the fact of its having gained possession of the reins of power makes the nation responsible for whatever use may be made of the national authority. Turkey, as represented by Kiamil Pasha, the elder statesman of the military party and the national grand council, decided to secure peace by the cession of Adrianople to the Balkan allies and the commitment of the Aegean islands to the great powers;
but Turkey as represented by Mahmoud Shekiet Pasha, and the Young Turks or committee of union and progress, has overturned that decision apparently resolving to disdain the advice and warning of the powers and resume the war with the allies.
This is the only interpretation that can be put upon the resolution of the new cabinet to recall the Turkish delegates from the London peace conference.

The ministerial revolution seems to be complete. In Constantinople it is rioting and bloodshed, which includes the possibly unintentional killing of Nazim Pasha; but the insurgent boys, Enver and Talaat, have evidently got the upper hand, with the aid of soldiery brought into the city for the occasion, and Mahmoud Shekiet Pasha, as grand vizier, is so committed to the movement that he will have to carry out their policy to the end. It may be remembered, however, that as minister of war in Said Pasha's cabinet he was a failure.
He resigned exactly eleven weeks before the outbreak of hostilities, leaving the army so badly commanded and so bare of supplies that as soon as it was put to the test it crumbled most miserably before the Hungarian advance. It passes from Nazim's care in an improved condition, but it has lost a large part of its artillery, and it probably cannot venture from behind the Tchataldja fortifications in any attempt to recover a portion of the conquered territory. This being so, Adrianople will fall from exhaustion, however loudly the new government may declare that never will it be surrendered.

But what have the powers to say about rejection of their advice and resumption of the war? They will have to wait a reasonable time for the Turkish reply to their note, but while waiting they must consider the contingencies and decide upon the course of action that each of these may require. Sir Edward Grey's conference with the ambassadors in London, and the Russian foreign minister's note to the other powers, show that there will be no want of promptitude so far as discussion is concerned. It is most earnestly to be hoped that there will be no want of harmony. The Turks now in office are calculating on discussion almost the powers as to what shall be done; but agreement has been so well maintained up till now, and is so emphatic on the terms of peace, that there should not in this crisis be any doubt of concerted action. If the Turks refuse the terms that have been offered, then indeed, as they were warned, the fate of Constantinople will be in the question, and they may find that they have put an end to their national life in Europe.

Mrs. Anna Rodriguez writes as follows from her home in Valencia:—
"For a long time I suffered with failing strength and nagging headaches.
My condition grew steadily worse,
my limbs became bloated and shaky.
I was sallow and thin, felt rheumatic pains, dizziness and chills. I unfortunately didn't suspect my kidneys and was nearly dead when I discovered the true cause of my sufferings. I read so much about the wonderful health and strength that comes to all who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills that I felt sure they would help me. Such blessings of health and comfort I got from Dr. Hamilton's Pills I can't describe. They speedily put me right, and their steady use keeps me active, energetic, strong and happy. I strongly urge others to regulate and tone their system with Dr. Hamilton's

WOMAN TERRORIZED IN WHITE SLAVE CASE

Silent Threats of Death in Courtroom Result in Extra Guard of Federal Officers.

New York, Feb. 2.—All of the local federal detectives attended United States Judge Hand's court yesterday to protect government witnesses in the trial of two alleged
"white slave" dealers.
A score of foreigners, friend of the accused men, eyed each witness who took the stand, and when Annie Grecco, claiming to be a victim of the defendants, stepped up to testify, movements of fingers and thumbs of spectators conveyed to her what she interpreted as "death threats."
She was seized with a paroxysm of terror and Judge Hand directed that she be removed from the room. While she was absent government detectives separated the other witnesses from court. There was excitement, but no violence during the process.
Annie Grecco returned and told her story. She was threatened with the knife, she testified, and compelled at the command of Frank Filasto, one of the defendants, to leave her home in this city and enter a resort at Paterson, N.J. Joseph Ribuffo, of Paterson is the other man on trial.

VIOLINIST PAYS "KITTEN" $8000

Michalek Finds It Costly to Jilt Benefactor of Youth.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 2.—Mrs. Henretta Simecek, a widow, of 1107 North Homan avenue, related in Judge Pam's court how the artistic temperament of Bohumil Michalek, the noted Chicago violin player, was responsible for breaking her heart.
The jury, after reading more than 20 letters written by Michalek to Mrs. Simecek, returned a verdict for $8,000 in her favor. She sued the musician for $25,000 for breach of promise.

Michalek did not defend the charge.
Mrs. Simecek met him in Prague, Bohemia, where, she said, she loaned him $3000 to pay for his early musical education.
Michalek came to Chicago in 1907, taking offices in the Fine Arts building. Magazine articles made him famous. Nearly every day he wrote endearing letters to Mrs. Simecek back in Prague. Finally he induced her to come to Chicago. She arrived in 1909. The Michalek's love for her cooled, she said, and he became interested in others besides the plain little woman from the old country.
One of the letters to "Dearest Golden Kitten," as the artist usually addressed the widow, tells of Mich-alek's alleged attractiveness for some of his female pupils.

"My dearest Golden Kitten," he wrote on Sept. 4, 1908, "Just this morning I received your charming letter, which pleased me very much.
A few days ago little Monika came.
She is pretty. One could kiss her.
Now they all me that I am the salvation of the family; that I can marry rich."
"One of my scholars is a millionaire, but she is married, although only 18 years old. She comes for her lessons in an automobile. The women are crazy about me. When I speak to one of them or smile, then they are restless. But that is the way with every artist, and for that reason, an artist has the door open for him everywhere."

In another epistle Bohumil inquired
"Did you receive the letter in which I enclosed two American dollars?"

MUSIC AND DRAMA

Sheehan English Opera Company

The Sheehan English Opera Company will be at the Grand Opera House, Thursday, February 6th, in Balfe's charming operatic gem "The Bohemian Girl."

Leading the cast is Joseph H.
Sheehan, America's foremost tenor, tamous opera star and favorite, who has done more to make English opera supreme than any man of his generation.

Mr. Sheehan was for nine years leading tenor and star of the Henry W. Savage Grand Opera Company, New York City, creating the leading role and starting in "Madame Butterfly," three consecutive seasons and appearing in other well-known operas.
This season Mr. Sheehan has secured the most brilliant array of of American and European stars ever heard in English opera. Included in the Sheehan roster are: Francis J. Boyle, John L. Dickinson, William Young, Kenneth Dudley, Miss Gladys Caldwell, Miss Doris Marvin, Miss Helen Jeffries, Miss Louise Hoe-ger, Miss Alma Stetler, Miss Ruth West, Miss Mirth Carmen and others, in addition to Joseph F. Sheehan himself and a chorus of sixty trained voices.

With the above flawless cast of reputable artists, Mr. Sheehan feels confident that his highest ambition has been realized, and that he is now in a position to produce each and every opera in a style never before equalled or attempted by any opera company.

For a special twelve weeks' tour
Mr. Sheehan has secured the services of Mrs. Emily Gray, famous harpist from Covent Garden, London, England; Miss Shirley Remus, violinist virtuoso, Paris Opera Comique, and a special grand opera orchestra, under the baton of Wm. Glover, one of England's foremost conductors.

BULL-FIGHTER'S ROMANCE

"The Little Bombshell" as a Lady-Killer And all Round Sport

The sensation of the day throughout Spain is the news that the most celebrated bull-fighter in the country, known as El Bombita, or "the little bombshell," who received $2,500 for every fight in which he appeared, and now possesses a fortune exceeding $1,000,000, has carried off a beautiful Spanish girl, who has fled with him from Malaga. Bombita does not resemble the old fashioned type of bull-fighter. He speaks French fluently, knows a little English, wears a frock coat, and dresses elegantly, always stays at the leading hotels and frequents the best society, possesses motor-cars and is generally speaking, more a dandy than a bull-fighter.

The parents of the lady have begun judicial proceedings, and the judge in charge of the case has sent telegrams all over Spain ordering the detention of the bull-fighter and the young lady, but the people in general believe that the romance will end to the sound of wedding bells.

Fashions in Dogs

So carefully does the woman of fashion select the dog which is to occupy a seat in her motor or add to her appearance on other occasions that she has become almost a dress accessory, like her handbag or parasol, and as such he is subject to favor or disfavor, according to fashion's dictates.

At the thirty-sixth annual bench show of the Westminster Kennel Club recently held in the New Grand Central Palace in New York, dogs from every Province in Canada and many famous English dogs were shown with the American ones. In reading the entries one notices a distinct falling off in some breeds that have been popular for years. Bulldogs and Bull Terriers are less in evidence, while the great St. Bernard is restored to favor. The Wire-haired Terrier is prominent and many society women exhibited West Highland Terriers. Pomeranians continue in high popularity.

The ultra fashionable, who speedily echo the dernier cri of Paris, are going quite wild over toy dogs of every sort. Toy spaniels and dachshunds were shown at the New York show also Maltese terriers, toy black and tan and graceful Italian greyhounds.

DEMOCRACY IN QUEBEC

A Proposal to Abolish Government Houses Was Voted Down

The Opposition in Quebec endeavored to have the official residence of the Lieutenant-Governor abolished but were voted down. The amendment proposed by Mr. Bernard Shefford, was to the effect that the House requests the Government to adopt the necessary measures for the abolition of the residence of the Lieutenant-Governor of the province, so as to utilize the property for humanitarian and educational purposes, and to give to the Lieutenant-Governor a fixed salary, permitting him to lodge where he liked, so as to make the post of Lieutenant-Governor more conformable to democratic ideas, and thus save considerable expenses to the province. Mr. Cousineau, speaking in support of the amendment, said that while he had respect for the person of the Lieutenant-Governor, he was of the opinion that Quebec should spend much less money for the official residence of the official head of the province. Ontario, he affirmed, spent $5,000, while Quebec spent about $15,000.

IDEALS IN SPORT

Development of Christian Character Should be One of Objects

That there is a higher ideal than that of sport for sport's sake, namely, that of sport for the development of character, was the conclusion of Lou O. Schroeder, in a speech at Winnipeg on "Christian Ideals in Sport." Mr. Schroeder first traced the development of sport very briefly. The Greeks prize the first people who developed sport systematically. They had a double object, that of increasing bodily strength and of gaining beauty of form, but they lacked Christian ideals, and the result was that professional football came to dominate their sport. In the middle ages, asceticism prevailed, and sport was abandoned. The era in physical training began about 100 years ago in Germany and in Sweden almost simultaneously, but was not launched in North America until the early sixties, when clubs began to be formed to promote sport for the profits which were to be made. In a short time other clubs were organized whose motto was, "Sport for sport's sake." Within the last 15 years a great change had come, and it was now becoming recognized that the proper ideal is that of sport for the development of character. Dr. Luther Halsey Gulick had been the pioneer in bringing out this new conception by means of a triangle with which he portrayed the connection between the three sides of man's nature, thus for the first time bringing on the connection between the physical and the spiritual.

Travelling Stock School. Arrangements have been concluded with the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway by the Hon. Duncan Marshall, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, for a special live stock train to be run over the company's lines throughout the province. The train will be a travelling stock school, run upon the most practical lines and dairying and hog raising will be the special subjects dealt with by lecturers of the provincial department of agriculture.

Think f, f, d!

Another year nearly gone.

Have you lost—a mother or a relative?

If not possibly so before another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likenesses and you will never regret it. In this case you get a real likeness—a work of art that will not lose its clear-cut lines and beauty.

HANGMAN'S TRADE AS A FINE ART

Gruesome Lecture on Old and New Methods of Putting Criminals to Death

Many strange subjects on the outskirts of science were discussed by the British Association at Dundee, but it was left to Dr. F. Wood-Jones of Epsom, to reach the limit of the gruesome. Before the anthropologists he explained what Professor Elliot Smith, called "Hanging as a Fine Art."

The matter arose as an issue of the question: "How did certain ancient inhabitants of Nubia, whose skeletons were unearthed in an old Roman frontier fort, come by their death?" Practically all of the hundred or more skulls were noticed by Dr. Wood-Jones to have been wrenched in a peculiar manner. Moreover, a stout hangman's rope was found round one neck.

The obvious conclusion was that the men were hung, but when the skulls were submitted to museum authorities in England they declared that none of the skulls in a collection of men known to have suffered the extreme penalty of the law exhibited similar lesions. Thus Dr. Wood-Jones was induced to embark upon an investigation of what he admitted to be "not a very nice subject." But it is, nevertheless, a subject of importance, because "if you are going to hang a man at all you might just as well hang him in the best way."

Waterproof Victims. A study of the evolution of hanging, the doctor explained, at once divides the subject into three sections, viz.: Hanging as a warning to other offenders; hanging as an anesthetic; and hanging as a method of execution.

Under the first head comes the old English custom of hanging in chains, the last instance of which occurred as late as 1834, the victim's widow dying only a few years ago. In order that the body might be exposed for as long a period as possible it was enclosed in a sort of iron cage, having previously been soaked in pitch so as to render it waterproof.

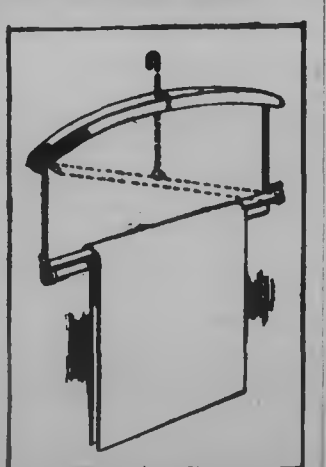

"Once the hanging of 'Thames' pirates was one of the sights of London," remarked Dr. Wood-Jones, "and there was tremendous disappointment among the public when the practice was no longer allowed."

"Hanging as an anesthetic," was resorted to in order that the senses of drawing and quivering might be carried out. "Drawing and quivering," observed the lecturer, "was, of course a heathen process, but it was made nicer for the man by hanging him first thus rendering him semi-conscious."

ARE MEN THE WEAKER SEX?

An English college professor expresses the conviction that women are gaining the muscular supremacy over the men. He attributes this to their taking a more active interest in outdoor sports, while the men are becoming indolent in that respect, and prefer being spectators to participants in athletic exercises. With their admitted superiority in all the arts and sciences, and in the domain of expression, and to add to this physical predominance, there seems to be little left for more man but to plod mechanically along in the realm of the producer, and continue to reap his great earnings to his mental and physical superior every Saturday.

A Soap Lake. There is a soap lake in Nicaragua. This sheet of water, the Lake of Napa, contains a strong solution of bicarbonate of soda, bicarbonate of soda, and sulphate of magnesia. The water, when rubbed against any greasy object, at once forms a lather. It is used as a hair-wash, and enjoys a local reputation as a cure for external and internal complaints.

GARMENTS CAN'T SLIP OFF.

ment under it, or lap it over. Then drop the bar into place again and lock it. In this way the garment is kept from slipping off the hanger, as sometimes happens, and does not wrinkle in the least. After the skirt or trousers have been adjusted, and more than one can be placed on the same hanger, the coat can be slipped over it.

Special Train Managerie. A special train recently left Nairobi for Zanzibar containing a record shipment of wild animals intended for a menagerie at Hamburg. The game was collected by a hunting party in British and German East Africa. This is the largest shipment of game which has ever left the country. It embraces eight giraffes, 11 hippopotami, two rhinoceroses, and about 50 antelopes and gazelles.

SHE MOURNS HER DOG

Its Body Was Embalmed and Lies in a Glass Vault

Polaire, the little vaudeville actress, featured as the ugliest woman in the world, is still disconsolate at the loss of her pet dog, that died a few weeks ago. She has had him embalmed and he lies in a little glass vault in her garden.

The little dog was Polaire's only real friend, and she adored the tiny thing. It never left her once during the twelve years of its life. She used to take it everywhere—to America, to Berlin, to England, and to the Villa Claudine, where she spends her holidays.

Fet Man. An eastern servant tells us that men rarely are criminals. Julius Caesar had the same idea—at least according to Shakespeare, or Bacon, or whoever it was.

A Skeleton's Age. A skeleton found in England is said to be 100,000 years old. This may be remarkable, but is there any limit to the age that a skeleton may eventually attain?

For Notoriety. The Chicago girl who got into print on the assumption that she wanted to marry an Indian has gone on the vaudeville stage. Might have known it from the start.

The Great Phosphate and Mica Mines of The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.

Non-Personal Liabilities

Capitalized at $500,000. Divided into 500,000 shares of $1 each.
400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

These Mines will be in operation by April next.

The Company possess 607 acres of Phosphate, Mica, Gold and Asbestos Lands, all free of encumbrances.

POSSIBLE PRODUCTION AND PROFITS

The Company has already orders for over 50,000 tons of Phosphate, on which it expects to realize a profit of $5.00 net per ton, or $250,000, which will be equal to 50 p.c. on the capitalization.

Supposing the Company would only realize one-half of its estimated profits, it still would have to its credit 25 p.c., without taking into this estimate the profits from its Mica Mines, which very likely will be as much again. The output of this Mica Mine is almost all sold in advance to large English firms.

THIS PHOSPHATE AND MICA MINES

are paying enterprises right from the start of its operation, and are located in the Province of Quebec, near Ottawa, and only a mile from railway station.

THE PLANT, MACHINERIES

required for the exploitation are inexpensive, the operation expenses, such as labor, provisions, supplies, transportation, etc., are all much cheaper than in Porcupine and Cobalt mining districts.

The Shareholders participate in the profits of all the Company's mines.

FISCAL AGENTS—

J. T. ARMAND & CO.,
(RESPONSIBLE AGENTS WANTED.)

If you wish to make your money work

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE.

There are few such opportunities offered where the Public can acquire shares at promoters' price in a paying mining enterprise right from the start like this one.

A limited number of shares are now offered.

AT 15 CENTS EACH

This price may be increased at any time without notice.

Next April, when the Company's mines will be in operation and shipping, these Shares will not then sell at 15 cents, or 25 cents, but very likely at 50 cents, if not more.

You have a chance you never had before of doubling and tripling your investment by next Spring, as the Company will be shipping as soon as navigation opens.

It should be remembered that this is not a Cobalt or Porcupine over-capitalized mining scheme, where Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars must be expended before getting one cent back.

PHOSPHATE AND MICA ARE MINERALS.

Are used all over the world, in various industries, and Canada is one of the principal producers; the market is established. The output of Phosphate and Mica is generally sold in advance, so that the shareholders run very little risk, but have an exceptional opportunity of doubling and tripling the money invested.

PROSPECTUS SENT FREE ON DEMAND.

Application may be made by letter, by sending 50 p.c. of the amount subscribed. The balance will be payable after the allotment of shares.

FOUGHT IN A GRAVEYARD

Slovaks and Roumanians Mocked at Earth Other's Crosses

A sanguinary free-fight between Slovaks and Roumanians occurred in a cemetery in Hungary the other day, on the occasion of the consecration of two crucifixes there. The cause of this extraordinary collision is thus stated: Both the Slovak and Roumanian inhabitants of the village decided to erect a crucifix in the cemetery, but as they could not agree regarding some trifling details, the parties resolved to raise two crucifixes, which were consecrated simultaneously. The Slovaks mocked at the cross of the Roumanians and vice versa, and after the sermon of the Roumanian Pope a free fight followed. Knives, and later, bayonets, being freely used. When the gendarmes succeeded in separating the hostile parties and restoring order thirteen persons were lying in the cemetery seriously wounded. One of the injured died before he could be removed to a hospital.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

Dr. Grenfell Tells How to Reduce the Cost of Living

There is still a chance that the high cost of living, will be reduced. Dr. Grenfell told the members of the Canadian Club, Toronto, in speaking of the latent resources of Labrador, about how the reduction can be brought about by merely changing the dinner course from beefsteak to reindeer.

At present too little attention is paid to the conservation of animal life in the northern country and reindeer are left to be exterminated and killed. The reindeer development is in its infancy, but despite this fact, the herds number 30,000, and with regular breeding it is likely that 50,000 fawns will be added this season.

"Here is an opportunity for large investment of private capital, which would be a profitable money making proposition," said Dr. Grenfell. "The meat of the reindeer could be made to add much to the world's supply at a low cost, the animal's milk could be exported, and the skins could be made an important factor in the fur market. The skin could also be tanned, creating another industry, and used for the making of gloves. Three or four millions of deer could be maintained within the bounds of Labrador."

He said the possibilities of fur trapping had only begun. He pointed to the fox farming in Prince Edward Island as a good example to follow, which would mean much profit to Labrador. He believed that in the future more attention would be paid to the commercial breeding of reindeer.

STRUCK BY A FLYING BLADE

Italian Aviator Met Death in an Extraordinary Manner

Signor Jughetti, an Italian Aviator was killed at Rome by an extraordinary accident. He was disassembled with the working of the propeller of his machine, and placed upon the shaft six supposedly steel blades.

Starting the motor at high speed he stood nearby to watch the effect. One of the blades, which proved to be of cast iron, snapped, and flying through the air, struck Jughetti, killing him instantly.

Old Coins in a Tree

While some boys were playing among the bushes of Swan's Well Walk, May, Herefordshire, Wales, fully three dozen old copper coins fell to the ground from the trunk of a tree. They were coins of the reign of George III.

SLIPPED ON A GLACIER

A sixteen-year-old boy, named Walter Allant, living in London, had a narrow escape from death while descending the Gorner glacier from Gornergrat, accompanied by his father. He slipped on the snow, fell 150 feet into a crevasse, and was only rescued after great difficulty. A party of guides carried him to Zermatt, where it was found that his only injuries consisted of cuts on the head.

DO PLAYS TEACH RELIGION

He Attributes People's Ignorance of the Bible to Stamping Out of Simple Plays

Is the Anglican Church for the revival of the miracle play? Father Ardery discusses the question in the parish magazine, just issued. "Modern drama," he says, "owes its origin to the service of the Church," and he pleads for their revival. He attributes the people's ignorance of the Bible to "the stamping out of these simple plays, which taught people the Catholic faith in the best possible way." While he hopes for a revival of the miracle plays, he confesses that it will be a difficult thing to do.

"They cannot be acted with their old fervor," he says sadly, "except by devout Christian people. The cinema photograph might be a great power in these days if we would get Christian actors. Meantime we must wait till a new generation of Church people arise who are not afraid to combine an intelligent use of the drama with religion."

Dressing Cows With Weed-Killer

A farmer named Wilkinson, of Drave Green, Cheshire, lost fourteen cows through inadvertently dressing their hides with weed-killer containing arsenic in mistake for a fly-preventive preparation. The animals were treated early one morning, and by evening they were all dead.

Surprise Sentence

When a man named John Jones was sentenced at Llangollen, Wales, to three months' imprisonment with hard labor for stealing a bottle of port wine from the vestibule of a private house, he exclaimed, "Oh, dear! Why! I should have thought I could have taken the whole town for three months."

Bogus Theatrical Agent

David Reynolds, alias Cook, who pleaded guilty at Edinburgh City Police Court to charges of having obtained board and lodgings without paying or intending to pay therefor, and of having attempted to defraud a number of young women by representing that he was authorized to procure for them theatrical engagements, was sentenced to sixty days' imprisonment.

Policeman in Tree Top

At Yatrad, Wales, a number of young miners were fined sums ranging from $2.50 to $5.00 for gaming with cards on Sunday. Concealed in a tree-top, a constable watched through a telescope a number of card-players having a game in a hollow on the mountain side.

Tobacco Annuity to Workhouse

A somewhat singular bequest was made to the inmates of the Carnarvon Workhouse. Ten shillings were bequeathed by a man named J. W. Williams, a native of Llanrug, as an annuity to provide the inmates with tobacco.

Catch of Whales

The Canadian Northern Pacific Fisheries' steam whalers (Victoria) had the largest catch in their history last season, whales to the number of 1,600 being taken.

Fine Moose Head

Three hunters recently brought into Edmonton one of the finest moose heads ever found in the Province. The spread of the antlers measured exactly 5 feet.

FOXY JOHN CHINAMAN

When a Chinaman wishes to catch wild ducks he mixes an intoxicating spirit made of rice with corn and leaves the mixture for the birds. They become intoxicated, and are taken in their cups, so to speak. Another way is to put a gourd on his head and swim gently among the ducks. They are not frightened, because they only see the gourd and are accustomed to that, and the artful John pulls one duck after another by the legs into a bag attached to him. Everyone knows that John Chinaman trains cormorants to catch fish, not for themselves but for him.

PERILOUS BOATING

British Sailor Unsuccessful in Perilous Trip to Stockholm

William Westlake, a London seaman, who attempted to sail from Dover, England, to Stockholm in an eighteen foot outrigger boat, had to put in at Dunkirk after being buffeted and nearly swamped by a succession of gales which set in shortly after he started his perilous trip. It was with the utmost difficulty that he prevented his boat from sinking in the heavy seas that were running, being constantly engaged in bailing out water. After many hours of this perilous experience, during which the lonely voyager was at the mercy of the wind and sea and lost all he had in his little craft, he sighted a lightship. He succeeded in getting alongside the vessel, which proved to be the Sandet-He Lightship, about half way between Dover and Ostend. Under the lee of the lightship Westlake rode out the storm in his small boat, and when the weather moderated he renewed his voyage and reached the little port of Gravelines in a very exhausted condition. After resting there for a day he continued his voyage, but was again compelled to take refuge in Dunkirk, where he learned of the anxiety as to his safety, and abandoned the trip.

FINE HOODED SEAL

Eight-foot Specimen of the "Bladder Nose" Variety at University

A fine specimen of the hooded seal, or "bladder-nose," as it is called by the sealers, has just been placed on exhibition in the Biological Museum at Toronto University. It is a large specimen, about eight feet in length. There was no room for it in the ordinary cases, and it could not be exhibited until a special case had been constructed for its reception. The male has a peculiar bag of skin on its muzzle, which it has the power of inflating when excited. The present specimen shows this bag fully blown out, and certainly the name of "bladder-nose" very appropriately describes its curious appearance.

BOILING WATER FOR FROST BITES

Dr. J. M. Johnston Claims It is a Real Cure in Spite of Popular Fanc

Frost bite, frozen ears, noses and fingers may be cured without any ill effects by boiling water, according to Dr. J. M. Johnston, Toronto. The doctor stated that in spite of the popular fallacy to the contrary boiling water was the best remedy which could be used. He had said, used it himself and on his patients, and it always gave perfect results. Dr. Johnston told of experiments on rabbits, which were carried on in Germany. Two ears of a rabbit were frozen, one of which was treated with boiling water, and the other with various other cures. The result, he said, was always the same. The boiling water cure worked while the others were quite inadequate, and often brought on serious complications.

5 Years Throat Trouble And Influenza Cured

EMINENT DOCTORS FAILED TO CURE—HAD GIVEN UP HOPE.

This Case Does Prove That When Catarrh is Breathed Every Trace of Catarrh Disappears.

Millford Haven, De., Dec. 31. — Everyone in this neighborhood knows of the long suffering from influenza and catarrh endured by Mrs. D. Gurney. To-day she is well. Her recovery is due entirely to Catarrh-rhine. This is her own statement: "I was a great sufferer from catarrh in the head, throat and nose, and all failed to cure me. I had given up hope of ever being well. Then I read of a wonderful cure made by Catarrh-rhine. Immediately I sent for Catarrh-rhine, and before I had used one bottle I was greatly relieved. To-day I am cured. We would not be without Catarrh-rhine in our home—it's so sure in colds, coughs, bronchitis and throat trouble. I feel it is my duty to publicly recommend Catarrh-rhine."

Get the large dollar size of Catarrh-rhine; it contains a beautiful hard rubber inhaler, and medicine that lasts two months. Smaller sizes, 25c and 50c each. Jennings was remanded for a week and the four parties concerned will all come up before the Magistrate at the one time.

Farmer Touched For Fur Coat.
David Jackson, a farmer of this county, on Jan. 20th, bought a fur coat from Messrs. Lech. The coat was ornamented with an otter collar and cost $200. The coat, after its purchase was left in the King George Hotel, in a carton; the purchaser being a guest there. Mr. Jackson put the carton in his rig, and, later on, after returning from the hotel, found that the contents had vanished. A reward is offered for the return of the garment.

Chief Howard With Water Can.
Fire Chief Howard is admittedly an expert on chickens and pigeons. There is nothing as far as we know to intimate that he is an expert on gardening. Still, this civic official, and may his shadow never grow less, was out Saturday afternoon, temperature -1, with a watering can in the yard behind the station. There was hot water in the can. The trouble was that the door of the station house had frozen tight to the jamb, and the chief got nervous about those white minnows or wyandottes and thawed the clinging frost away.

ANOTHER VICTIM TO OUR SLIPPERY WALKS

We were pleased to learn on Saturday that Mrs. Fred Blastorah, of the Palace Hotel, is doing as well as could be expected after her accident a week ago yesterday. On the latter date as Mrs. Blastorah was on her way to St. Peter's Cathedral, she slipped on the icy pavement (incidentally another monument to the pennywise policy of the city in not protecting the ratepayers) and falling hurt her arm. After entering the church Mrs. Blastorah felt severe pain and went to the vestry. The injured limb was broken. Dr. McGrath, who fortunately was among the congregation, was summoned, and finding one of the lower bones of Mrs. Blastorah's arm was broken, gave "first aid," and later on placed the limb in a plaster cast. The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Blastorah will hope for a speedy and complete recovery.

POLICE COURT CASE FROM FALSE ALARM

On Saturday morning the local fire fighters were kept busy. At 8:58 an alarm came in per telephone from the corner of Burnham and Robinson streets. This alarm, which was a seemingly false one and the third of its kind alleged to have been sent in by the same woman within three months. The chief realizing the unnecessary expense and work for his department by false alarms, has laid an information against the sender of the alarm. The woman has been summoned for to-morrow morning. Another alarm came in from box 23. It was a fire caused at the "Ree-hive" George street dry goods store. The cause of the incipient conflagration was careless storing of ashes and inflammable substances in the cellar. The brigade quickly extinguished the fire with small loss. A third alarm took the brigade to 214 Dublin street, a chimney fire. No damage.

CHIEF HOWARD'S REPORT SHOWS EXCELLENT WORK BY BRIGADE

City Fathers in Regular Monthly Session—Many Demands For Increased Salaries Will Be Taken Up By Committee of the Whole

The City Fathers met in regular monthly session last night. There were present Mayor W. H. Bradburn, Aldermen McIntyre, Anderson, Langford, Johnston, G. W. Green, Duffus, Gordon, Gillespie, Duncan and Buller.

City Treasurer Frank Adams and Tax Collector W. J. Green, both applied for an increase in salary. This matter was referred to the Committee of the Whole Council for consideration, in conjunction with similar requests from Fire Chief Howard and other city officials.

Mr. Davis, a south city resident, asked that he be allowed a rebate on his water rates. He lives on George street, south of Romaine and is charged full water rates despite the fact that no sewerage connection has yet been furnished him. This matter was referred to the Mayor and Ald. Buller for adjustment. Eleven citizens are interested in this particular question.

MUST REMOVE SIGN.

Council endorsed the Property Committee's recommendation that Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons be requested to remove Fairweather's sign from off the city's island in the river near the C.P.R. bridge.

FIRE SUBSTATION.

Ald. Duncan took exception to the erection of a fire substation in South City at present. He thought the council had its hands full this year without extending the fire protection system.

Ald. Johnston approved of this scheme, still he thought the matter would keep for another year.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee's recommendation that steps be taken to secure a suitable site in South City on which to erect a fire substation was adopted.

LEGAL REPORT.

Ald. Gordon submitted the following report:

Gentlemen,—Your Legal Committee beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

- 1.—That no action be taken on the claim of Mrs. Mary E. Wynne for damages on account of an accident and that if action is brought, the Solicitor be instructed to defend it.
- 2.—That the Petitioner of the claim made on behalf of Robert Gibbs on account of the death of a horse through an accident on Water street, and that if action is brought, the City Solicitor be instructed to defend it.
- 3.—That no action be taken on the claim of Mr. Sutton for $4.00 compensation for damages to his automobile and that if action is brought, the City Solicitor be instructed to defend it.
- 4.—That the City Solicitor be requested to notify those who occupy part of the reserve along the river north of Charlotte street that they must take a lease from the city at a minimal rental.

The report was adopted as read.

CHIEF HOWARD'S REPORT.

Fire Chief Howard's report was received as satisfactory and showing excellent work on the part of the brigade. The report read as follows:

To His Worship, the Mayor, and Aldermen of the City of Peterborough.

Gentlemen,—I have the honour to submit herewith my fifth annual report of the Fire Department for the year ending, December 31st, 1912.

During the year the Department responded to 131 alarms of fire, and the fire apparatus travelled 874 miles we laid 23,650 feet of 2 1/2 inch fire hose, and raised 726 feet of ladders. In addition to attending the number of fires mentioned, fire drill was conducted at intervals throughout the year, laying 42,900 feet of hose and raising 2,868 feet of ladders.

In extinguishing fires we used 434 gallons of chemicals.

The total damage by fire as near as could be estimated for the year 1912 was $20,970.00. Divided as follows: $12,632.00 damage to contents, and $8,338.00 damage to buildings. The fire loss per capita for this city is about $1.07, which is much lower than the average for the Dominion, which is estimated by the Monetary Times at $3.05.

While the Department was called upon to extinguish some very serious and dangerous fires, we have been exceptionally fortunate in keeping the fire loss down, and at the same time being entirely free from any accidents. The figures given in my report make a creditable showing for the City of Peterborough.

The systematic inspection of public and mercantile buildings conducted by this department has been continued throughout the year. During the year your fire chief made 275 inspections of buildings and premises, divided as follows: 11 schools, 170 stores, 12 hotels, 14 churches, 32 factories, 4 theatres, and 24 special calls. And I am pleased to be able to report to your honourable body that the City of Peterborough is classed as one of the cleanest cities in the province from a fire standpoint. The introduction of the collection of garbage last year has had a far reaching effect. I found the premises of our business district in better shape last year than ever before. And during the year we did not have a cellar fire nor a fire caused by the accumulation of combustible rubbish. There is considerable carelessness with electric wiring and I believe a by-law should be passed providing for the inspection of all new work, and alterations to existing wires.

During the last five years the city has been growing in population and area and to such an extent that it is absolutely necessary to make considerable extension to the Fire Department. As I have previously suggested the Department is badly in need of a Chemical Engine, and from present conditions there is likely to be an enormous building boom in the southern portion of the city. And therefore it will be necessary to build a substation, to take care of the factories and buildings in that locality.

There is not a sufficient number of fire alarm boxes in the streets. Five or six should be added this year. With the introduction of Hydro-Electric power and underground cable work, provision should be made to place the fire alarm telegraph wires underground wherever possible.

I have much pleasure in reporting the excellent behavior of your firemen, the general good health of the Department, and the happy absence of accidents.

The re-arrangement of salaries will need to be taken into consideration by your committee.

In conclusion I desire to express my sincere thanks to the Mayor and Council of 1912, for their generous support and co-operation. To the Chief of Police and his staff of constables who have rendered valuable assistance from time to time. To the city officials, the public and the press for the kindness to this department during the year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

I have the honour to be Sirs,
Your obedient servant,
W. A. HOWARD,
Chief Fire Dept.

BY-LAWS.

A by-law re-appointing Mr. W. H. Moore a member of the City Trust passed its several readings. This appointment stands good for five years.

C.P.R. STRIKE IS NOW OFF

BROTHERHOOD MEN GO BACK TO THEIR WORK.

Officials of Union Say That a Substantial Increase of Pay Has Been Secured.

The strike of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees has been called off by the union. Instructions were issued to the strikers to return to work. They have been told, according to union officials here, that they will be given an increase of pay.

Many of the strikers resumed work yesterday. Practically all that could be learned of the reason for calling off the strike was given out by Vice-President Swan, of the Brotherhood.

"We have been requested to instruct the men to return to work and have been assured that a satisfactory settlement will be arranged," he said. He, however, refused to say from what source this advice emanated.

SEA BREAKING OVER THE BOW OF STEAMSHIP CRUSHES TWO OF THE NOORDAM'S LIEBOATS

CRUSHED LIFE BOATS ON BOARD OF THE NOORDAM

The power of the sea to destroy was visible on the forward deck of the Noordam, of the Holland-America line, when she reached New York, in the form of two of her lifeboats, which three days after she left Rotterdam were ruined by a great sea which broke over the steamship's bows.

Like all the steamships which have arrived in New York over the North Atlantic lane within the last month, the Noordam encountered weather heavier than any ever met before in her career as a transatlantic steamship. There had been no such sea in the North Atlantic in twenty years as those reported recently.

The boats which were ruined are beyond the powers of sea carpenters to repair, according to her commander.

NEW YORK DOCTOR SAYS HE HAS A TUBERCULOSIS CURE

Uses a Serum Taken From Healthy Pigs, and Claims That He Has Tested It on Half a Dozen Patients, With Cures Effected in Each

New York, Feb. 3.—A cure for tuberculosis is claimed by Dr. Burman of this city, which is said by physicians here to rival that of Friedrich Friedmann of Berlin. Dr. Burman also uses a serum, but works on a different theory as to the cause of the disease. The method he uses is to inject serum taken from healthy pigs in such a way as to strengthen the resistance of the cells in the body.

He disputes the theory of Dr. Koch as to the cause of the disease. He says that the germ known as the Koch tubercle is a negligible factor and that weak resistance is the real cause. His cure, therefore, disputes that of Friedmann in that he goes on the hypothesis that injecting serum to kill tubercles is of no avail and that the only way is to strengthen the resistance of the body so that germs cannot live in it.

By research lasting thirteen years, Dr. Burman has developed a serum which he says can accomplish this. He has tested it on a half a dozen patients and given the records of cures effected in each. He says he will furnish this serum to public dispensaries and hospitals at the cost of making it, so that it will be available to the public at a cost low enough to be of service even to the poorest.

KING AND QUEEN CAREFULLY GUARDED FROM SUFFRAGETTES

London, Feb. 3.—No British Rulers of modern times were ever so closely guarded as were the King and Queen when they to-day motored up from Windsor Castle for the pre-luncheon Court at Buckingham Palace. The militant suffragettes were ostensibly the reason of the unusual vigilance, and the cheering crowds believed that, but the real cause, it was hinted, was to guard against a possible Indian plot.

Indicative of the extreme caution was the slowness of the journey. It is 21 miles from Windsor to Buckingham, and the royal automobile consumed one hour and ten minutes in making the run. The pilot car was filled with Scotland Yard detectives and another carload of them brought up the rear. Detectives were in the car containing the King and Queen. Every inch of the roadway was inspected to see that suffragettes had scattered no broken glass to puncture the royal tires, as a gentle reminder of "Votes for Women."

The journey, though, was made without incident and a large crowd gathered at the Buckingham gates to cheer the sovereigns as their automobiles rolled into the grounds.

The first levee will be to-morrow, for men only, and the first court will be held Friday night. The functions will be under the most rigid precautions and all women guests, to guard against suffragettes' antics, will have to be identified.

HEROIC MEANS TO SAVE LIFE

Student Accidentally Poisoned Took Enough Antidote to Kill Him DID NOT LOSE NERVE

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Miraculous was the escape on Saturday from death of Hector C. McAllister, of Exeter, a second-year medical student at Toronto University, who accidentally swallowed an enormous quantity of nitre and then took enough caustic potash to kill him, as an antidote. He is ill from the effects but is getting better. The means he took to save his life were even more deadly than the poison he drank in the first instance.

Swallowed Nitric Acid.

McAllister is a second-year student at the University of Toronto and Saturday afternoon he was working at an experiment which required his siphoning in a tube a certain amount of nitric acid, and to do this McAllister drew the poison into the tube by sucking at one end of the tube.

Something distracted his attention with the result that the air got under the submerged end of the tube and suddenly forced the nitric acid into the young student's mouth and throat, the amount taken in being according to his own statement, about 10 centimetres.

Liberal With Re-Agents.

Here McAllister exhibited extraordinary presence of mind and nerve. Instead of dropping to the floor, choking, gasping and burning in the throat, as he was, he rushed to the reagents. First he swallowed a quantity of ammonia, then a quantity of potassium hydrate (caustic potash) and then some sodium chloride. This, however, he thought, was not enough to save his life, and so he rushed into another room in the laboratory and then swallowed over a pint, he says, of potassium hydrate.

Enough to Kill a Horse.

The fact is, according to Professor Ellis, Provincial Analyst, MacAllister took enough of the potassium hydrate, if he were strong, to kill a horse. So that the young medical student nearly met death, first by nitric acid poisoning, and next, by the reagents he used as an antidote, the caustic potash.

EXCITING CIVIL WAR SAY SUFFRAGETTES

Mrs. Pankhurst States That They Will Use Every Means They Can Think Of.

London, Feb. 4.—The suffragettes in London are planning "an exciting civil war," according to an announcement made by Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst at a meeting of the Women's Social and Political Union to-day.

The militant suffragettes, said Mrs. Pankhurst, are preparing all sorts of effective strokes. She specially rejoiced over the exploits of the Tower of London, where a case containing some of the Crown jewels were attacked, and she praised the raids made by the suffragettes on the gold links. She concluded:

"The Government must quickly give us the vote or go. The women will use every method constitutional as well as unconstitutional, to turn the Cabinet out."

Detectives in great numbers are on watch in all London streets, but the suffragettes continue their successful raids. Another batch of letter boxes was defaced to-day, but the perpetrators of the outrage escaped without detection.

BALKAN-TURKISH WAR TO HAVE BEGUN LAST NIGHT

Allies to Open Fire First—Adrianople Assault Resumed— Albanians in Field

London, Feb. 3. War between Turkey and Bulgaria, Greece, Montenegro and Serbia will begin again at 7 o'clock this evening, according to the schedule, unless the last faint efforts of the European powers to prevent a resumption of the fighting should succeed or Turkey decide at the eleventh hour to surrender to the allies.

It has even been decided who shall fire the first shot, as Turkey has stated that she will allow her adversaries to do that.

To Tie Up Turk Forces.

For the present, at any rate, the Bulgarian generals will simply try to hold the large forces of Turkish troops concentrated behind the line of fortifications at Thessalonica or the defence of Constantinople.

King Nicholas of Montenegro has already started again for the Turkish fortress of Neustari, which also has hitherto held out bravely against every assault. The King will himself take the direction of a renewed attack in the hope that by capturing the city and thus establishing an accomplished fact, Montenegro will obtain a better chance of keeping definite possession of it when peace finally comes.

It is declared that the Albanians with 30,000 rifles under the command of Austrian officers are taking the field and it is stated that they have fought a battle at Dibra where the Serbians lost heavily.

"No Reporters Present."

The Turkish Government like that of Bulgaria announces that it will not allow newspaper correspondents to accompany the armies in the field. Mahmud Shekief Pasha, the Grand Vizier, stated emphatically the course of an interview to-day, that he would not allow any of them within twenty miles of the lines.

DUTIES OFF FOR ALL COUNTRIES BUT CANADA WILL GAIN MOST

Ad Valorem Instead of Specific Duties Will be Followed by Democrats—Necessaries of the Table on Free List—Lumber Possible

Washington, Feb. 3.—In discussing the probable details of the benefits Canada will derive from the opening up of a market for her products in the United States by the voluntary action of the Democrats, and without any return privileges in Canada, a prominent member of the Ways and Means Committee said:

"We are not going to do this, of course, with the intention of favoring Canada. For Canada will get the same rate as any other country. We are doing it for the sake of our own consumers. But there is no doubt that Canada will derive more benefit in one or two directions at any rate than any other country. Take lumber for instance. I feel perfectly confident that lumber will go on the free list. I do not mean rough lumber merely, but the partly finished product. In this Canada supplies more to the United States than any other country, and in the stand for free list lumber we are supported by many Republicans."

Urges Food on Free List.

"Personally, I shall support putting all food products so far as possible on the free list. I think, too, although I am only giving a personal impression, that cattle, meat, wheat and flour, in which Canada deals so largely, will go on the free list. I stand also for putting raw wool on the free list. But I have my doubts whether duty on this will be entirely removed although reduction will undoubtedly be made."

"In this again Canada will benefit. Although our primary objection in reducing the duty will be to encourage the raising of mutton sheep at home. I need hardly say perhaps that our aim in taking off the duty on cattle and meat will be to bring good food within the reach of the poor and to attack the problem of the increasing cost of living."

THE DOMINION BANK

Annual Report Shows the Bank to be in a Flourishing Condition.

Improvement in every respect characterizes the forty-second annual statement of the Dominion Bank, which covers the year ended the 31st of December, 1912. During the year the bank increased its paid-up capital, its reserve fund, made gains in deposits, in circulation and in total assets. Its net profits amount to $101,000. Its paid up capital now stands at $5,000,000 and the reserve fund at $5,000,000, the deposits total over $24,342,000, showing a gain of $5,400,000 during the year.

An examination of the bank's assets show a very satisfactory condition of its affairs. The total of them amount to $79,224,000—a gain of $9,000,000 or 23.8 per cent. of the liabilities to the public, while the immediately available assets, Government and other bonds and stocks, readily convertible into cash amount to $29,000,000 or over 34 per cent. of the total liabilities to the public—an unusually strong showing.

Another feature, worthy of special comment is the fact that the current loans amounted to $48,400,000 showing that the bank is doing a full and increasingly large share in providing for the business needs of the communities where its branches are located. This is plainly apparent and is the cause of a new issue of capital stock at $200 a share which when all paid up will give an increased facility of $2,000,000. The bank gave a bonus of 2 per cent. to shareholders besides the regular dividend of 10 per cent. making total disbursements to them of 12 per cent.

The importance of the Western business is shown by the appointment of two new directors, one a resident of Winnipeg, and one in Vancouver.

The local branch, under the management of Mr. John Crane, enjoys a large and growing business.

LEFT ESTATE OF $8,000

FORMER PETERBOROUGH WOMAN DISPOSED OF PROPERTY.

Mrs. Eliza Reyer Leaves $2,000 to Two Sisters, $1,000 to Her Niece and Other Bequests.

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

Is Destined to Revolutionize Ottawa's Manufacturing Facilities

SITUATED on a high plateau overlooking the Rideau River, at its most picturesque point, Ruskin Place occupies one of the finest situations to be secured in Eastern Canada. Not one hundred yards away is the "Diamond" that marks the crossing of two of Canada's Greatest National Railways. Exactly opposite, the new $40,000 solid brick plant of the Bishopric Wallboard Co. is completed and a high-grade of Wall Board is being turned out. Two other large companies also have have secured land accommodation right alongside of Ruskin Place, one promising to employ at its inception from 800 to 1000 hands.

To-day Lots in RUSKIN PLACE may be bought at comparatively low prices. Within the very near future announcement may come of definite arrangements for immediate building by one or more additional large industries. This announcement should be sufficient to double the value. It may come any day now.

Learn all about RUSKIN PLACE. Investigate it thoroughly. Already one half of the Lots have been sold. There are only 171 lots in all. Get in early, secure the best choice.

LOTS AT RUSKIN PLACE ARE NOW SELLING AT

USES OF ELECTRICITY

In the Homes and on the Farms of Germany and Switzerland

Rev. W. B. Findlay spoke to the Canadian Household Economic Association about the uses to which he had seen electricity put in Germany, Switzerland and part of France. The people of the new world are apt to think themselves very advanced along these lines, but Germany and Switzerland have got far ahead in putting electricity to practical uses. In Germany many electricity is generated chiefly from steam. A group of townships will engage an engineer who decides upon the geographical point best suited for the placing of an electrical power house. From this station, which is made a thing of beauty as well as use, transmitting lines run out through all the townships which are assessed for the cost of it. A community of farmers then get together and contract for a definite amount of power, which runs at a voltage of about 230v. and each farmer must provide a place where it may be stepped down to a voltage at which it may enter his house at 110. For this purpose he has a small transforming station which is often placed on wheels and can be moved to the part of the farm at which he needs it, for farms are very large in the north of Germany. These stations are also built in such a way that connection cannot be made until all doors leading to the dangerous parts are closed. With this plant installed a great deal of work can be saved. A farm of 125 acres had a two horse-power motor which lighted the house and barn, milked the cows, separated the cream, churned, chopped food for the animals and sawed wood. A small motor for the kitchen will run coffee grinders, meat choppers and slicers, knife cleaners and sharpeners and dish washers, in which the dishes are put on shelves and lowered into a box-like arrangement where the water is heated by electricity and agitated by electricity. These latter are chiefly seen in hotels, as they are still quite expensive. Electric ploughs are adjustable to different depths and will plough twelve acres where formerly only two were done, but they cost a good deal. In Switzerland the electric oven with its perfectly even heat, was brought into use in 1902, and is now used very extensively. Mr. Findlay drew attention to the fact that Ontario gets all her coal at a profit to outsiders, while a million horse-power that might be used for the same purposes goes to waste in the rivers of North Bay.

EDITORIAL NOTES

British women seem to have set back the clock by their violence.

Mr. Pankhurst says it is necessary for the suffragettes to strike the government through other people. But suppose the "other people" may object and strike back.

Manitoulin Island people have adopted the Scott Act, which is some degree closer to absolute prohibition than a local option by-law would be. Manitoulin Island, by the way, is entirely surrounded by water.

A reporter on one of our esteemed contemporaries, seeing that Rev. Canon Montgomery, of Port Hope, had accepted the rectory of St. Barnabas, spent twenty minutes looking up St. Barnabas in the official post office guide to ascertain where the good pastor had been moved to.

President Taft says that when he retires he will work for the Republican party. This will be bad news for the leaders who realize that his work is responsible for the present moribund condition of the organization. They will probably suggest the advisability of his expending his energy in some other way.

Nazim Pasha, commander-in-chief of the Turkish army, has paid for the defeat of his troops with his life. The commander was not entirely to blame for the series of reverses and if the assassins who shot him down really intend to avenge the defeats they will now have to shoot the rest of the army.

AMERICAN THRIFT.

According to a Washington statistician, nearly one person for every five of the entire population of the United States, or every family in the nation, has a savings account. This estimate is arrived at through the discovery, after a careful scrutiny of the books of all the financial institutions of the country, that there are 17,600,000 savings accounts on record.

While, of course, there is considerable duplication in the individual possible sizes of such accounts, it is reasonable to assume from the figures given that one out of every five people in that country, including children, is a capitalist to a greater or less degree. Canada is not likely to show such results, although the masses are becoming bank depositors.

The French people are being constantly held up to us as examples of thrift in contrast with the alleged extravagance and profligacy of Americans and the high cost of living. It is commonly being attributed by public and college chair to our "characteristic wastefulness." The Social Uplifters and the Hard Time Howlers are constantly warning us against reckless expenditure and admonishing us that it will be impossible to make both ends meet by our present method of existence.

THE KAISER'S BIRTHDAY

The Emperor of Germany recently celebrated the completion of his fifty-fourth year. He has been on the throne since 1888, or nearly full twenty-five years. In his earlier years he was accustomed to speak somewhat impetuously and express himself as a ruler of divine right. He had a notion of himself so exalted that it made the world laugh, and when he spoke it was occasionally with such apparent indiscretion that it was common outside of Germany to describe him as "William the Sudden."

He laid such stress on the army and worked so hard to build up a navy that he was called the "war lord" and yet, in spite of the size of his head in one respect, he was proved to be on the whole about the ablest ruler of his day.

The stride that Germany has made industrially under his leadership have taken his country into the second place in the extent of foreign trade. That is, the over-sea trade of Germany exceeds that of the United States and is smaller only than that of England while in the output of domestic manufactures, Germany quite surpassed England in the totals.

During William's reign the German navy, which was of no consequence in his beginning, has become so formidable as to have given England repeated scares and filled the country time and again with terrors. In international affairs of all kinds Germany has taken an active part under the initiative of the Emperor and made herself felt as a world power of the very first rank.

What William has done for his country in foreign affairs is far less, however, than the impulse he has given to industry in domestic affairs. Germany is not only a workshop, but it is perhaps the most intelligent workshop in the world. The industrial school has been carried to a higher pitch there than anywhere else, and the result is seen in the high average skill of the German worker, whether man or woman.

Perhaps the most striking phase of the Emperor's career is his devotion to peace, though always preaching the necessity of an invincible army and an unsurpassed navy. The program of German building is about equal to that of the English now while the English army is, of course, far below the German in effective strength. The theory on which Germany fortifies herself and trains every citizen to arms is naturally the passion for independence, for security against the encroachment of neighbors.

Situated in the very midst of Europe surrounded by a ring of nations not by any means friendly, the salvation of the empire lies in its own right hand, at least until the powers of the world are united in a passion for peace that all together are strong enough to enforce against any who would break it.

There is, on the whole, no more remarkable career in royalty in our time than that of William II. There are still years in which his mind may expand and wisdom be gathered for the service of his people. The Kaiser is accomplished in many things, such as music, art and literature, but, above all, he seems to be one of the great administrators, and already has won a position for himself among the strong-willed of the Hohenzollern line, even though not a shot has been fired in war under his leadership.

Brock, J. C. Eaton, Joseph Wainwright, C. A. Bogart, W. C. McFarlane (Port William), G. E. Gross, Captain Dudley Jessop, Rev. T. W. Paterson, David Kidd (Hamilton), Sylvester, C. Halligan, H. S. Oslet, K.C., W. K. Pearce, L. S. Hamilton, Harold W. A. Foster, Dudley Hill (Gravenhurst), John M. Baldwin, C. A. Ross, (Hamilton), Col. Sir H. M. Pellatt, Thomas Meredith, W. C. Lee, R. M. Gray, C. H. Edwards, T. W. Porwood, T. O. Anderson, A. H. Black (Oshawa), W. C. Armstrong (Chatham), E. T. Hepburn (Exbridge), N. F. Davidson, K.C., E. H. Osler (Cobourg).

It was moved by A. W. Austin, seconded by F. W. Hamber, that Sir Edmund B. Osler, M.P., do take the chair, and that C. A. Bogart do act as Secretary.

Messrs. A. R. Boswell and W. Gibson Cassels were appointed Scrutineers.

The Secretary read the Report of the Directors to the Shareholders, and submitted the Annual Statement of the affairs of the Bank, which is as follows:-

TO THE SHAREHOLDERS:-

The Directors beg to submit the Forty-Second Annual Report of the affairs of the Bank, and the result of its operations for the twelve months ended 31st December, 1912, which they feel will be received with satisfaction by the Shareholders.

Balance of Profit and Loss Account 30th December, 1911 $ 500,116.00
 Net profits for the year, after deducting all charges and making full provision for bad and doubtful debts 901,529.44
 Premium received on new Capital Stock 297,200.63

Making a total of $1,698,846.17

Which has been disposed as follows:-
 Dividends quarterly at Twelve per cent. per annum $588,536.53
 Bonus, Two per cent. 100,000.00

Total distribution to Shareholders of $688,536.53
 Fourteen per cent. for the year 25,000.00
 Contribution to Officers' Pension Fund 25,000.00
 Transferred to Reserve Fund-Premium on New Stock 297,200.63 $1,010,737.1

Balance of Profit and Loss carried forward $ 68,109.01

Balance at credit of account, 30th December, 1911 $5,702,799.37

Transferred from Profit and Loss Account 297,200.63

RESERVE FUND $6,000,000.00

There has been a further gratifying increase in the business of the Bank as evidenced by the figures of the Statement presented. The prosperity of the country, and the consequent demand for banking accommodation, permitted the employment of its funds to unusual advantage throughout the year, resulting in earnings sufficient to enable the Directors to distribute a bonus of 2 per cent. in addition to the usual dividend of 12 per cent.

To meet the general expansion of business in Canada, in which this Bank continues to participate, your Directors decided to issue to the Shareholders of record of the 15th of February, 1913, a further $1,000,000 of new Capital Stock at a premium of 100.

This issue is a part of the $5,000,000 of new Stock authorized by the Shareholders at the Annual Meeting of the 26th January, 1910, and approved by the Treasury Board at Ottawa. Particulars of this allotment will be given forthwith to the Shareholders by circular. When payment of this issue has been made in full, the paid-up capital of the Bank will amount to $6,000,000, and of the total Authorized Capital of $10,000,000 there remain unused $4,000,000.

Owing to the growing importance of the Bank's business, the Directors considered it advisable to recommend an increase in their number from nine to eleven, and a By-law will be submitted to you covering this change.

You will also be asked to give your sanction to a By-law increasing the remuneration of the Directors, made necessary by these additions to the Board.

In connection with Bank Premises, the year just closed was one of unusual importance, several transactions of great moment having been brought to completion.

You were informed at the Annual Meeting in 1911 of the purchase of the property on the Northeast Corner of King and Yonge Sts., Toronto, for purposes of the Bank's business, as your Directors were at that time unable to acquire sufficient land immediately adjoining the present site. Last year, however, they succeeded in purchasing the property directly south of that now occupied and extending to Melinda street. A sale of the Northeast Corner was subsequently effected at a satisfactory price.

Plans have been prepared, and it is the intention to begin active operations at an early date for the erection of a building that should meet the Bank's requirements for many years to come.

Necessary outlays have been made for improvements to several Offices already established, for new Branches opened, and for the purchase of the premises which the Bank has for many years occupied at the Corner of Queen and Sherbourne Streets, Toronto, and at Oshawa, Ont.

Sites were also secured at West Toronto, Edmonton South (formerly Strathcona), Elmwood (Winnipeg), and additional property was acquired adjoining our Windsor, Ont., branch.

Branches of the Bank were opened in 1912 as follows: In Ontario:- Dupont and Christie Streets, Keweenaw and High Park Avenues, Dufferin St. and Lapping Avenue, Dufferin St. and St. Clair Avenue, Toronto; By Ward Market Branch, Ottawa; and Port Arthur.

In the Western Provinces:-Swift Current, Moose Jaw (South Hill Branch), Saskatchewan; Edmonton (First St. Branch), Calgary (River-side Branch), Alberta; North Vancouver, British Columbia; and New Dundee and Malton, Ont. and Wawota, Sask. Branches were closed in 1912.

Every Branch of the Bank has been inspected during the year by Head Office officials, specially qualified for such duties, and, as is customary, the Balance Sheet of the 31st December, 1912, including the Cash Assets and Investments of the Institution, has been verified by a Committee of your Directors.

E. B. OSLER,

President.

Toronto, 29th January, 1913.

The Report was adopted.

A By-law was passed, authorizing an increase in the number of Directors from nine to eleven.

The thanks of the Shareholders were tendered to the President, Vice-President and Directors for their services during the year and to the General Manager and other officers of the Bank for the efficient performance of their respective duties.

The following gentlemen were duly elected Directors for the ensuing year:-Messrs. A. W. Austin, W. R. Brock, James Caruthers, R. J. Christie, J. C. Eaton, J. J. Fox, K.C., M. S. Bogert, E. W. Hamber, H. F. Hutchinson, W. D. Matthews, A. M. Nanton, and Sir Edmund Osler, M.P.

At a subsequent meeting of the Directors, Sir Edmund B. Osler, M.P., was elected President, and Mr. W. D. Matthews, Vice-President, for the ensuing term.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution, and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

"THE TRAVELLING SALESMAN"

The auspicious attraction for the Grand Opera House next Saturday, February 8th, afternoon and night will be James Forbes' whirlwind comedy triumph, "The Travelling Salesman," which has probably made more people laugh than any other similar play ever written. Its popularity has never waned during its five years of life, and it is only fair to assume that its vogue will extend over many more years of prosperity. That it will be a most welcome visitor on its visit to this city is amply testified by the widespread demand for seats.

One can enjoy a serious play several times because of its educational value and intellectual qualities, but for a comedy to be attractive after once having been seen stamps it as a rare avis in its class. That this attractiveness is possessed by "The Travelling Salesman" is strong proof of its power to entertain and satisfy the most exacting playgoer. Its presentation at the Grand Opera House therefore is a red-letter event in the annals of that popular playhouse.

As "good wine needs no bush," "The Travelling Salesman" and its accomplished author need no endorsement beyond that which it has achieved during its already extended career. It has been presented in every city of importance in the United States and Canada, and always with that unvarying success that characterized its premier in New York. It is therefore apparent that its merit must be of intrinsic character; otherwise, it could not have achieved its present vogue. The management has supplied the comedy with a cast of uniform excellence and is headed by Shep Camp who plays the jolly drummer, and he possesses that rare attribute of the comedian, the laughing spirit. Whenever he comes on the stage the audience instinctively feels that he will laugh himself into the good graces of even his enemies. The comic equipment is of the characteristic Harris completeness, and local amusement seekers may enjoy themselves to the fullest extent during the engagement of this remarkable comedy which presents familiar current scenes in a mirthful manner.

EGGS FROM UNCLE SAM

Some Details of the Canadian Trade in Eggs.

Canada imported 2,500,000 dozen eggs from the United States during the fiscal year 1911, when the exportation of eggs from the Republic, notwithstanding high prices, was the largest ever recorded. While current market reports and current discussions of the cost of living indicate unusually high prices in the United States for this article of consumption and commerce the Bureau of Statistics in reporting a larger exportation in this line than ever before. The number of eggs sent to foreign countries in the year ending with December, 1911, was 13,250,000 dozen, valued at $2,175,000, while the highest record of any earlier calendar year was 9,250,000 dozen, valued at $1,750,000, in 1907.

Cuba, Canada, Panama and Mexico are the chief countries to which eggs are exported from the United States. Of the 1500,000 dozen eggs imported in to the United States in the fiscal year 1911 1,250,000 dozen were from England and about a quarter of a million from China and Hong Kong. This item of eggs imported does not include the yolks brought from other countries, of which the quantity imported from Canada amounted to 250,000 pounds and from Germany 75,000 pounds.

Admire Canadians

In the comparison of the numbers of millions of population our country is so far ahead of what we call Canada that the figures are never used in relation to respective advancement. We think not so much about the increase of population up there as upon the magic development of vast stretches of plains; the rapid opening of a new country. And those who have had opportunity to observe with their own eyes must admit that our neighbors in the north-west, in Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta, and British Columbia, have been doing things in a few years past to satisfy our pride in them as neighbors and relatives. They show vigor, enterprise, daring and the nerve for great expenditures—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WHAT IS A LADY?

Sometimes the Definition is Made Apparent in a Strange Way

Some one has defined a "lady" as one who talked in a low tone, and thought in a high tone. There are other definitions, many of them, but most people travel through the world wondering just what is the difference between a woman and a "lady." Some think that perhaps money makes the difference, others consider that it is an accident of birth.

It was on a crowded Vancouver street, at a time when the working men were piling in, crowding and struggling for a place. Women were in the minority, and most of them were forced to stand. Near the back of the car where the crowd was thickest, two women stood together. One was a tiny Japanese, no longer young, her arms encircling a huge bundle, her face half closed. Beside her was "a lady." Young and charming, dressed as for some smart social function, and carrying herself with the unconscious arrogance which provokes against unusual and unpleasant surroundings, she appeared oblivious of the heaving crowd of roughly-clad men. At her side one rose to leave the car, leaving the tempting seat for whoever could snatch it from the others. About to sit down, the girl caught sight of the pathetic little figure. She hesitated, and a man attempted to slide past her into the seat. With one hand she held him back; the other was placed gently about the shoulders of the little Japanese, who was drawn protesting to the vacant seat—Vancouver Sun.

Nasal Discharge Proves Catarrh Is Active

THE PURE BALSAMIC ESSENCES OF CATARRHOZONE AP-FORD SUREST AND QUICKEST CURE

Catarrhozone is certain to cure because its healing vapor is carried with the breath direct to the seat of the chest, nose or throat trouble. Being composed of the purest balsams and pine essences, it immediately allays irritations, facilitates the expectoration of mucus, soothes and stimulates the lungs and bronchial tubes. The marvel of the age in curing winter ills—that's what thousands say about Catarrhozone. There is nothing so sure to cure, and to those in fear of changeable weather—those who easily catch cold—those who work among lung-chilling surroundings, or where dust, impure air, fog, or damp can effect them—let them get Catarrhozone and use it several times daily—it will cure every time.

BAD CASE CURED IN TWO DAYS

"I was unfortunate enough to catch a bad cold from sitting in a draught in my bare head," writes Miss Nora E. Jamieson, well known in Sagre Grande, Td. An acute condition of catarrh developed in my nostrils, and for three days my eyes and nose ran most copiously. The usual remedies entirely failed to relieve. I read in The Mirror newspaper about Catarrhozone, and sent to Smith Bros.' drug store for a dollar outfit. In two days Catarrhozone cleared out my nostrils, eased the sneezing, coughing and all traces of catarrh."

Large size Catarrhozone, sufficient for two months' use guaranteed, price $1.00; smaller sizes, 25c and 50c. Beware of imitations, and substitute, and insist on getting "Catarrhozone" only. By mail from the Catarrhozone Company, Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Ont.

The Great Phosphate and Mica Mines of The Progressive Mining Company Ltd.

Non-Personal Liabilities

Capitalized at $500,000. Divided into 500,000 shares of $1 each.
400,000 shares in the Treasury

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

These Mines will be in operation by April next.

If you wish to make your money work

HERE IS YOUR CHANCE.

The Company possesses 607 acres of Phosphate, Mica, Gold and Asbestos Lands, all free of encumbrances.

There are few such opportunities offered where the Public can acquire shares at promoters' prices in a paying mining enterprise right from the start like this one.

A limited number of shares are now offered.

AT 15 CENTS EACH

The Company has already orders for over 50,000 tons of Phosphate, on which it expects to realize a profit of $5.00 net per ton, or $250,000, which will be equal to 50 p.c. on the capitalization.

This price may be increased at any time without notice.

Supposing the Company would only realize one-half of its estimated profits, it still would have to its credit 25 p.c., without taking into this estimate the profits from its Mica Mines, which very likely will be as much again. The output of this Mica Mine is almost all sold in advance to large English firms.

Next April, when the Company's mines will be in operation and shipping, these Shares will not then sell at 15 cents, or 25 cents, but very likely at 50 cents, if not more.

You have a chance you never had before of doubling and tripling your investment by next Spring, as the Company will be shipping as soon as navigation opens.

It should be remembered that this is not a Cobalt or Porcupine over-capitalized mining scheme, where Hundreds of Thousands of Dollars must be expended before getting one cent back.

PHOSPHATE AND MICA ARE MINERALS.

Are used all over the world, in various industries, and Canada is one of the principal producers; the market is established. The output of Phosphate and Mica is generally sold in advance, so that the shareholders run very little risk, but have an exceptional opportunity of doubling and tripling the money invested.

PROSPECTUS SENT FREE ON DEMAND.

Application may be made by letter, by sending 50 p.c. of the amount subscribed. The balance will be payable after the allotment of shares.

THIS PHOSPHATE AND MICA MINES

are paying enterprises right from the start of its operation, and are located in the Province of Quebec, near Ottawa, and only a mile from railway station.

THE PLANT, MACHINERIES

required for the exploitation are inexpensive, the operation expenses, such as labor, provisions, supplies, transportation, etc., are all much cheaper than in Porcupine and Cobalt mining districts.

The Shareholders participate in the profits of all the Companies' mines.

JOHN SMITH AT HOME

MAIL CONTRACT
 SEALED TENDERS addressed to the Postmaster-General, will be received at Ottawa until noon, on Friday, the 14th March, 1913, for the conveyance of His Majesty's Mails on a proposed Contract for four years as required times per week, between Peterborough Post Office and Street Letter Boxes, Parcel Receipts, Branch and Sub-Post Office, etc., from the pleasure of the Postmaster-General.
 Printed notices, containing further information as to conditions of proposed Contract may be seen and blank forms of Tender may be obtained at the Post Office of Peterborough.

G. C. ANDERSON,

 Post Office Department,
 Mail Service Branch,
 Ottawa, 24th January, 1913.
 29 M.C.B.—1,500-24-6-12.

The good old name of John Smith does not suggest in English any great degree of aristocracy, and transferred to other languages it seems to climb the ladder, so to speak.
 Thus, in Latin it is Johannes Smithus, the Italian smooths it off into Giovanni Smithi the Spaniards render it Juan Smithus, the Dutchman adopts it as Hans Schmidt, the French fatten it out into Jean Smeet and the Russian says Jonioff Smittowski.
 When John Smith gets into the tea trade in China he becomes Jovan Shimmat; if he clambers about Mount Hecla the Icelanders refer to him as Jahne Smithson; if he trades among the Tuscans he becomes Ton Qa Smith; in Poland he is known as Ivan Schmittewick; should he wander among the Welsh mountains they talk of Jihon Schmidt; when he goes to Mexico he is called Jontil F'Smitti; if a classic turn he flings among Greek ruins he turns to Ion Smikton; and in Turkey he is utterly disguised as Yoe Seef.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

If you are interested call on or address

A. J. M. HOBBS,
Oriental Hotel, Peterborough.

He tells all his friends that he would never have got to the summit of his career without my help. I do not think he quite realizes that the real value of my services has all in the constant attention to what he generally considered but the trifling attentions of domestic life.

Perhaps the maternal elements must play the largest part if a wife really wishes to keep her husband in such mental and physical trim that he can fully develop all his faculties, and she must watch over him as a mother watches over her child, thinking nothing too small to escape her attention and planning out her daily routine always with the idea that the house must be run with a view to his comfort and interest.

For instance, it may seem a trifling matter to many women who are absorbed in some great artistic career that I made it my first business to study my husband's digestion. When I had discovered the diet that suited him I learned to cook the meals myself in order that I might always be able to instruct my servant to serve them in the right way.

To look after a husband's physical health means incessant attention and care, but to worry and fret a man about his muffer and overcoat and to suggest continually that he will catch cold if he omits certain wifely precautions is a great mistake.

Silence is a wonderful minister to a tired man; all the little attentions to his physical comfort could be offered without any great show of words and I found that such a small service as quietly leaving a cup of tea in readiness when my husband was at work was more likely to be accepted than if I had spent ten minutes in imploring him to drink it and expatiating on the benefits it would do him later.

Domestic worries were never even breathed to him, and I have no doubt that to this day he thinks the whole household machinery goes on oil wheels because he has never been permitted to hear any of its creaking.

But there are other ways in which a wife can materially help her husband. She must make him feel that she is the comrade as well as the wife.

There are two kinds of women—the one who takes the heart out of a man and the one who puts it back, and the wife must be the one who restores the heart and energy when the fight against obstacles has been fierce and exhausting.

She must therefore learn, as I learned, to wear a smiling face when disaster threatens to engulf her husband's schemes. It may seem a trifling thing to strive to appear disheartened when a man pouring out tales of loss and disappointment but I am not naturally a heroine, and I confess that many a time I would gladly have burst out weeping at the recital of cruel disappointments had I not proved by experience that my husband would have been truly distressed by the sight of any tears or expression of grief.

I was resolved, too, that there should be no open disparity of tastes and sympathies, and I learned to interest myself in my husband's hobbies as well as in his actual profession.

All the applause you get is second hand and comes by way of your husband," was the remark of another friend to me when someone was speaking of my husband's distinguished career.

But I am more than contented. My husband and I are true partners. I can only give the small services and ministrations of daily life, and my reward is to see that his career has been built upon this foundation and that I have had a hand in his success.

HEADACHE POWDERS

Powerful Drugs Disguised Under Technical Names

A bulletin issued by the Chief Analyst of the Inland Revenue Department contains important warnings and recommendations in regard to the sale of headache powders. The report is the result of three hundred analyses, or two tests each of 150 samples of patent or proprietary medicines purchased throughout the Dominion as headache powders. It is the first test since 1905. In some of the patent medicines there is found to be acetanilide, and phenacetin is found in a number of samples, while in a few cases the chief ingredient was found to be aspirin, a drug not scheduled in the patent medicine act. The analyst points out that the drug used are known to the medical profession by other names than those by which they are known to the public. "To employ a synonym of technical import only," says Mr. McGill, "is as effectively to disguise the presence of the drug as the omission of the name altogether for most people. I would suggest that a departmental ruling be made so as to make compulsory the employment on the label of the commonly accepted names of drugs."

ENDED LIFE IN ASYLUM

Business Reverses Preyed on Mind of "Big Griffs," Causing Insanity

Billie Griffs died from self injury in the asylum at Mimico, to which institution he had been committed from Kenora. He had for some time been afflicted by morbid fear that he was going to die, and his mind became unbalanced. "Big Griffs," Jr., was a character some years ago. He had seen much of life, had been a sheriff in Texas and had traveled in all parts of the continent. The northwest attracted him, and out there he became quite a figure in business and politics. He and a Winnipeg friend took a big contract for ties for the Grand Trunk Pacific and had them already out for delivery, but the coming of spring early precluded getting them out of the woods and they lost heavily. It is probable this misfortune preyed upon his mind and led to insanity and suicide.

The Victoria County Council has decided to proceed with the construction of Mud Lake Narrows Bridge. The structure will be on cement piers, having a reinforced steel cement top with steel railing.

COLLIE DOG AS WOLF

Bounty of $15 Claimed From Government Under a Sworn Affidavit

Coyotes have been palmed off on the Government as Ontario timber wolves by bounty snatchers, and various other crooked jobs have been put over in the same connection. The pelt of a collie dog was shipped in from the North country as a wolf skin and accompanying it was an affidavit sworn before a notary public, stating that the maker had killed a wolf and claimed the $15 bounty. A most convincing illustration of the extent to which such claims had been put forward prior to the event of the new law requiring the whole pelt to accompany an affidavit, instead of the ears merely, is given in statistics. For three years prior to investigation conducted by Inspector Greer, which resulted in 27 convictions, the Government paid in bounties, as follows:—In 1908, $16,898; in 1909, $18,135; in 1910, $14,951; since the new law came into operation, only $3,863 had been paid, and this includes a portion of the animals killed in 1910. Bounty fees have been reduced by one-half.

Bounty hunters formerly collected on the ears of coyotes killed in Manitoba and Alberta, and in many cases double bounties were collected on single animals, notaries having neglected to cut off the ears, and second affidavits being sworn to before other notaries.

MAKING PATENT FUEL

In the coal-mines a large amount of small coal is sent up, and although the miner is not paid for it, it is far from being worthless or useless, the coal-owner selling all the small made at the pits.

In Cardiff, Swansea, and Port Talbot there are works where small coal is converted into blocks called patent fuel. The method is by tipping the coal into a large bin, after which it is mixed with pitch, and all ground very fine. It is then conveyed into pug-mills, and super-heated steam is passed through it, knives revolving on a shaft keeping it in motion while this is being done.

Afterwards, being then in a sticky condition, it is passed into a press, and a tremendous pressure applied. This turns the mass into hot, steamy blocks, which are then pushed off either on to endless travelling wires, which convey them into canal-boats, or to a jetty, whence they are loaded into ships for conveyance abroad. The different Governments use a great deal of it for naval purposes.

In the pit itself much of the small coal that is cut is thrown back with the rubbish, and only large coal is loaded and taken up.—G. F. Bunde, 6 Brookland Terrace, Caerphilly, Glamorgan.—6s.

Splinter Caused Death.

Parquhar McKee, near St. Thomas, was struck in the eye by a splinter while splitting wood on his farm in Denwick, and went for treatment to Detroit, where it was found the injury had caused a clot of blood on the brain, causing death.

WOMEN AS M.P.'S

Sweden Decides to Allow Them to Sit in Parliament

Women are being offered in Sweden what they are fighting and rioting for in England. In the speech from the Throne, which was delivered by the King of Sweden in the Riksdag, it was stated that "the Government regards it as right and in the interest of the State to demand the right to vote and eligibility for election for both men and women under like conditions, and a Bill providing for this will be introduced in the Riksdag."

CARE OF THE HANDS.

During the cold weather the skin on the hands is liable to chafe and the finger nails are liable to become brittle and break off. Both give the hands a very neglected appearance, which with just a little care and time can be avoided.

Before retiring for the night rub cold cream or a preparation of rose-water and glycerine on the hands till it has been entirely absorbed, also after washing the hands rub on a bit of cold cream, not enough to make them oily but enough to soften the skin. This will prevent chapping.

MANY MINERAL DISTRICTS

Mr. J. Parke Channing Speaks of Canada's Possibilities

To the Canadian Mining Institute, Prof. R. W. Brock, Director of the Geological Survey of Canada, said that the development of Northern Ontario was absolutely dependent on the success of the mining industry. Beyond a certain line north is a region not favorable for ordinary agricultural development, and it would be necessary to have a local market, and the local market would depend upon mining. So they all asked with confidence that the various Governments should contribute much more to the betterment of the industry they had at heart.

Mr. J. Parke Channing, who was described as the Copper King, said that Canada was a country with the greatest possibilities. Sudbury, Cobalt and Porcupine had been discovered, and he believed there were dozens and dozens of mineral districts which were undiscovered and which would be discovered in the future. The day of the rich small mine had gone by, to-day was the day of the low grade deposits, and the highly skilled technical mining man was required to develop it.

THREW CHAIR AT M.P.P.

Two a Colleague in the Quebec House Who Lost His Temper

A sensational incident occurred in the smoking den of the Parliament Buildings when Donat Caron, the veteran member for Matana, hurled a chair at the head of Lester Roy, M.P.P. for Levis, the youngest representative in the Legislature. The quarrel arose about Roy jokingly passing his hand in the hair of Caron. Roy luckily evaded the chair and was not hurt.

Dizzy Headaches

Cured in One Night

If Troubled With Head-Pain, Ringing Noises, Spots Before the Eyes, the Stomach is at Fault.

Quick Relief and Certain Cure Come From Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

"I had terrible pains in my head. My appetite faded away, and when I did eat anything it disagreed and made me very sick for hours after each meal. The pains in my stomach and the dizzy headaches I had to endure almost set me wild. Sometimes attacks came on so severely that I had to go to bed. I would feel so worn, depressed and utterly miserable that for hours I wouldn't speak to my family. My system was poisoned with wastes and nothing helped me till I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. Without this grand system-cleansing remedy I would still be sick, but each day brought me better health and spirits. I was cured and made strong, ruddy, and healthy, and will always use and recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Pescion Falls Hotel Licenses.
At a meeting of the Pescion Falls Board of Trade, Mr. W. M. McCallum presented a resolution which he had received. The resolution stated in brief, that the cutting off of two of the three licenses was an injustice to a number of ratepayers, that the by-law was passed without due consideration, that it would cause a congestion at one hotel, etc., and ended with a plea for unity and concord, and a discontinuance of bickering and strife. The resolution was dropped.

The body will be sent to Lakefield, for interment to-morrow afternoon.

SUCCESSFUL BALL HELD AT LOCAL ARMOURIES

Last night the recreation room at the local Armouries was a scene of gaiety and beauty. The occasion was the annual ball given by the non-coms of No. 6 Company, Capt. McLean, of our gallant 57th Regiment. The floor was in good condition, and as pretty girls with their smartly clad soldier boys whirled round in the dizzy mazes of the waltz, or stepped lightly through the evolutions of quadrille or lancers, Peterborough's youth and beauty were seen to advantage. The music was good and furnished by the Grand Opera House Orchestra. There were about 50 couples present. All went merry as a marriage bell, and love looked love to eyes that (when the right warrior looked love a gain. Supper catered for by Mr. T. Hooper, was served at midnight. The

MEN-YOU NEED NERVE

EARLY INDISCRETIONS AND EXCESSES HAVE UNDERMINED YOUR SYSTEM

The nerves control all actions of the body so that anything that debilitates them will weaken all organs of the system. Early indiscretions and excesses have ruined thousands of promising young men. Unnatural drains sap their vigor and vitality and they never develop to a proper condition of manhood. They remain weak, mentally, physically and sexually. How you feel? Are you nervous and weak, dependent and gloomy, spectra before the eyes with dark circles under them, weak back, kidneys irritable, palpitation of the heart, headache, debilitating dreams, excitement is urtic, pimples on the face, eyes swollen, hollow cheeks, careworn expression, poor memory, listless, distrustful, lack energy and strength, tired mornings, restless nights, changeable moods, premature decay, bone pains, hair loose, etc.

This is the condition our New Method Treatment is GUARANTEED TO CURE. We have treated thousands of men for almost a lifetime and do not have to experiment. Consult us FREE OF CHARGE.

GOLD LACE, FLUTTERING PLUMES, AND SMART GOWNS AT OPENING

Thousand Guests Witness the Impressive Commencement of the Second Session of the Thirteenth House---
Out of Honor to Late Col. Matheson,
It Was Shorter

Toronto, Feb. 4.—It was a stately distinguished cavalcade which swept up University Avenue shortly before three o'clock this afternoon, to the accompaniment of prancing steeds and liveries outriders, rounded gracefully into the circle of Queen's Park drive, and inspired the preliminary cannonade of fifteen gubernatorial guns. The occasion was the opening of the second session of the thirteenth Legislature of Ontario, and the procession was the very necessary one of his honor the Lieutenant-Governor of the Province, Sir John Gibson, K.C.M.G., K.C., on his way to the Assembly Chamber to read the formal speech from the throne and lend the King's grace to the Parliament of Ontario which begins its sitting.
At first, following the death of Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, it was feared the time-honored opening of the House would be a gloomy one, but the thousand odd guests who attended, many of them women in evening dress, made the spectacle glittering enough. Sir John Gibson's travelling escort numbered 20 mounted men from the Royal Canadian Dragoons, under the command of Lieut. Colville, the guard of honor, drawn up before the Parliament Buildings to extend their salutations, numbered an hundred infantry, chosen from the 10th Grenadiers, under the command of Capt. Campbell, while the salute of the fifteen guns was under control of Capt. Wainwright of the Canadian Field Artillery.

Within the Assembly hall was bled to overflowing, the visiting elite having so crowded the seating capacity that the members of the House were forced to spend their time outside. From without they could hear the booming of guns, through the windows they could catch glimpses of the drifting smoke, and above was the tri-color Union Jack with the Ontario coat-of-arms floating languidly from the Parliamentary flagstaff. Scattered through the distinguished gathering were to be seen the wives of Cabinet Ministers, judges and consuls, sheriffs and Mayors, the garb of clergy, the High Chief Justice of the Province, and many other functionaries of high office.

BOARD OF EDUCATION IN REGULAR MONTHLY SESSION

The Board of Education met in regular session last evening. There were present Chairman Dr. Morrison, Dr. Geo. Burnham, Dr. Middleton,
Messrs. John Crane, J. J. Turner,
W. H. Hill, L. M. Hayes.
The Queen Alexandra and Collegiate Institute boilers were reported satisfactory by the inspector.
Principal H. R. H. Kenner asked for increased grant towards apparatus in the Science Department and the Library. This was referred to the Supervision Committee.

The military department notified the Board that a physical training school for instructors (in English) will be conducted at Toronto, and one at Quebec (in French). Referred to the Supervision Committee. The object of these schools is to qualify candidates as physical instructors in public schools, high schools and Normal schools.
On motion of Dr. Burnham, the City Council will be requested to build sidewalks to the two new schools, on lines to be indicated by the Board's Building Committee.
Miss Clara Adams resigned from the Public School teaching staff.
This resignation was accepted.
Mr. J. J. Turner Jr. was warmly welcomed as a new member on the Board, and fittingly responded.

EARL DUDLEY OR LORD ABERDEEN

London, Feb. 4.—It is rumored Earl Dudley is likely to succeed the Duke of Connaught, though it is also believed Lord Aberdeen would welcome returning to Canada.

Port Hope Defeated

Last night the Petes went up against the Port Hope bunch at the rink of the Lakeside town. When the final bell rang the team stood even.
The audience went wild and demanded overtime play. This was allowed.
After a few minutes play the curtain dropped on a score of Peterborough 5, Port Hope 4.

This was one of the hardest fought games of hockey ever played on Canadian ice. A large number of the Kingston fans were present, and from snatches of conversation to be heard on all sides, it looks as though the Kingstonites are a trifle afraid of the Petes.

LIBERALS WANT MORE MONEY

Special to The Times.

Ottawa, Feb. 4.—The Free Press, official organ of the Liberal party in the capital, in to-day's issue has an article with savage head type above, calling attention to the necessity of an increase in the seasonal indemnity for members of Parliament and members of that reform padded institution, the Senate. The Liberal organ wants the seasonal indemnity increased to $4,000 per head. It intimates that this proposed hold up on the Dominion emanates from the Conservative party and claims that a "round robin" is being circulated among that party to affect this reason to Canada's treasury.
This latter claim, on exhaustive and minute enquiry, has proved to be an utter canard. The truth is that the Liberals, debarred from the public trough, are moving heaven and earth to grab more seasonal indemnity. It is said that this quest for increase originated with the French Liberals and has been eagerly adopted by their confreres.

BIG WORK UNDER WAY

New Order of Things Will Mean Useful Investigations Into Problems
Of Producing and Marketing.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—The Conservative members of the House of Commons, who are farmers or interested in agricultural problems have been planning to make the Agricultural Committee of more practical value. In the past this committee, which should be one of the most important, has done little real work. Some members of the agricultural branch have testified before the committee. Evidence has been presented and several thousand reports sent to favored constituents. This

DUKE DE RICHELIEU'S FIANCEE IS TO BECOME A CATHOLIC—WEDDING TO BE GREAT SOCIAL EVENT

The wedding of Miss Eleanor Douglas Wise, of Baltimore, to Duke de Richelieu, which is to be performed by Cardinal Gibbons in the Cathedral there, promises to be one of the big social events of the season.
The engagement follows a romantic courtship in Paris. Miss Wise is by no means an heiress, but the Duke is very wealthy. Miss Wise, who is to be taken into the Catholic Church before her wedding, is well known in New York and Newport society. The couple on their honeymoon are to have an audience with the Pope in Rome.

THE DUKE TO VISIT

Special to The Times.

Brantford, Feb. 5.—The Brantford Expositor was yesterday advised that His Royal Highness, the Duke of Connaught, Governor-General of Canada, is to visit this city on February 12th. After the civic functions are performed and a due welcome given to this popular representative of the Mother Country is over, a long line of automobiles will convey His Royal Highness out to the Seneca Indian Reserve, some eight miles from the city. The Duke, who has always taken a deep interest in every Canadian affair, wants to meet the Indians of that section. It is understood that Mr. T. H. Kendry, of Peterborough, will be present at the Seneca Reserve to secure talent for some Indian show he intends to produce.

CHILD, MATCH, AND AN ABSENT MOTHER

Toronto, Feb. 5.—So seriously injured that her recovery is deemed improbable, three-year-old Annie Vor-zimask is in the Sick Children's Hospital as the result of burns sustained through playing with matches in her home in 177 Jarvis street, yesterday morning. The child lives with her parents, who are newly arrived Poles, in a two-roomed apartment on the third floor of the Jarvis street address. This morning her mother left her alone while she went to purchase some groceries at a nearby store.
On her return as she climbed the stairs to her apartment she heard the agonized shrieks of the little girl running into the room, the mother found the child enveloped in flames which had almost destroyed the tiny garment she was wearing. There was no water in the house, owing to the pipes having frozen, and the distracted parent seized a bottle of milk and flung the contents over the shrieking child.

DIGNITY AND IMPUDENCE.

ADRIANOPLE IN FLAMES, SCUTARI MAY HAVE FALLEN

Bombardment Was Resumed This Morning, With Growing Intensity Both by Bulgarians and Servians—Scutari.
If Captured, Will Be a Feather in the Cap of King Nicholas of Montenegro

Sofia, Bulgaria, Feb. 4.—Some quarters of Adrianople are in flames as the result of the bombardment by the Bulgarians and Servians, which was resumed with even more intensity this morning, according to unofficial advices received here from the front.

Quiet at Tchatalla.

London, Feb. 4.—All was quiet along the Tchatalla lines up to half-past ten this morning, according to a news agency despatch from Constantinople.

Scutari Reported Fallen.

London, Feb. 4.—An unconfirmed dispatch this afternoon from
The Hague said that Scutari had fallen.

The reported capture of the fortified city of Scutari, if true, is a feather in the cap of Montenegro. The city was besieged by the Montenegrins under the personal command of King Nicholas, with General Martinovitch in charge of field operations.

The Bulgarians are said to have no fewer than 550,000 men in the province of Thrace, with 45,000 Servian soldiers and perhaps a few divisions of Greeks assisting them. The greater part of this force, however, is compelled to remain in front of the line of fortifications at Tchatalla and at Gallipoli, in order to hold the Turkish armies concentrated at those places.

THE BIG GUNS ROAR AS BALKAN-TURKS TREATY OFF

Over Half Million Bulgars in Trenches Fire on Turk Lines
—Ottomans Improved—British and German Warships Patrol Straits

London, Feb. 4.—A terrible bombardment of the forts surrounding the Turkish stronghold of Adrianople was begun last evening by the Bulgarians and the Servians surrounding the city to the number of 100, 000. Almost at the moment of the conclusion of the armistice at seven o'clock siege guns and field guns from various points commanding the forts opened fire, and it is believed that not even the residential portion of the city was spared.
The vigorous attack by the besiegers was made with the hope of bringing about an early fall of the fortification, which the allies consider will mean the end of the war.

Two Weeks Will Do.

There is considerable difference of opinion as to the length of time the fortress will be able to hold out. One despatch from Mustapha Pasha, which reported that the heavy campaign continued throughout the night, concluded with the prophecy made by the Bulgarian staff that two weeks would suffice for the besiegers to force the Turks to capitulate.

Military men, however, who know something about the several lines of forts which form the defences of Adrianople—for the outer ring which the besiegers have been facing since the war began, is connected with and supported by other circles of forts just as strong—look for a prolonged defence by the besieged garrison which comprises many of the best of the Turkish regular troops.

PREMIER WHITNEY ANNOUNCES BIG GRANT FOR OLDER ONTARIO

Toronto, Feb. 4.—The Ontario Legislature sits to-day. The booming of artillery about Queen's Park, the flash of redcoats through the trees and the interest and excitement of thousands of gaily clad spectators, who swarmed all afternoon up the wide walks and about the corridors of the Parliament Buildings proclaimed the re-assembling of representatives to the seat of Provincial government.

The occasion was as brilliant as any in the past years, perhaps more so because of the artistic and acoustic effect of the newly decorated chamber. The light which filtered through the south windows rested upon a dishing-hall assemblage.

The sudden burst of gunfire in the park heralded the approach of His Honour, Lieutenant-Governor Sir John Gibson with a party of aides and a travelling escort from the Royal Canadian Dragoons. An Infantry
Guard of Honor from the Royal Grenadiers stood lined at attention at the entrance to the buildings.

From 1:30 the crowds had begun to assemble and an hour later the galleries were packed and the doors closed. The floor of the House presented an unusually pleasing spectacle, the brilliant gowns of the ladies showing up with splendid effect against the background of judicial and clerical representatives in black robes.

WHY JUDGE QUASHED CHARGES AGAINST DR.

Toronto, Feb. 4. The grounds upon which Mr. Justice Middleton quashed the indictments against the late Dr. W. Beattie Nesbitt last Friday were stated by him in a written judgment at Osgoode Hall this morning which says in part:
"I gave judgment quashing the indictment, saying that my reasons for so doing would be handed out later.
Afterwards on the same day, I was informed that the accused had died.
Nevertheless, I think I ought to formally state my reasons for the action taken."
"The accused was president of the Farmers Bank, now in liquidation, and, after having left Canada, he was extradited from the United States upon several charges of having made false returns to the Minister of Finance under the Bank Act.
"The Provision of the Bank Act applicable is Section 153 which renders penal "the making of any willfully false or deceptive statement, return, report or other document respecting the affairs of the bank."
"The extradition treaty schedules a list of the extraditable crimes. The Crown relies for extradition upon number 9, which is as follows:
"Fraud by a bailor, banker, agent, factor, trustee, or by director or member or officer of any company, which fraud is made criminal by any act for the time being in force."

RUSKIN PLACE

Right in the Heart of Ottawa's
Manufacturing Area

At the Junction, Ottawa
South

Is Destined to Revolutionize Ottawa's Manufacturing Facilities

SITUATED on a high plateau overlooking the Rideau River, at its most picturesque point, Ruskin Place occupies one of the finest situations to be secured in Eastern Canada. Not one hundred yards away is the "Diamond" that marks the crossing of two of Canada's Greatest National Railways. Exactly opposite, the new $40,000 solid brick plant of the Bishopric Wallboard Co. is completed and a high-grade of Wall Board is being turned out. Two other large companies also have secured land accommodation right alongside of Ruskin Place, one promising to employ at its inception from 800 to 1000 hands.

To-day Lots in RUSKIN PLACE may be bought at comparatively low prices. Within the very near future announcement may come of definite arrangements for immediate building by one or more additional large industries. This announcement should be sufficient to double the value. It may come any day now.

Learn all about RUSKIN PLACE Investigate it thoroughly. Already one half of the Lots have been sold. There are only 111 lots in all. Get in early, secure the best choice.

LOTS AT RUSKIN PLACE ARE NOW SELLING AT

BRITAIN AND HER COAL

Supply Sufficient for Four Hundred to Six Hundred Years

Based on statistics compiled in 1908, and on an increase annually of 2 1/2 per cent., the coal consumption of Great Britain is as follows:

Railways	16,000,000
Coasting Steamers	9,000,000
Factories	44,000,000
Iron and Steel Works	25,000,000
Other Metal and Mineral Industries	1,250,000
Brick, Pottery, Glass, and Chemical Works	6,500,000
Gas Works	19,000,000
Private Houses	46,000,000

4 to 5 tons of coal per household is burned in open grate fires of British homes per annum.

Output of coal in British mines increases 2 1/2 per cent. per annum.

Exports of British coal increase 4 1/2 per cent. per annum. Coal resources estimate sufficient for from 400 to 600 years.

SCIENCE IN BUNTING

An Essential Part of a Player's Knowledge, Says Larry Doyle

Larry Doyle has been interviewed on "how to bat." This is what the captain of the Giants had to say:

"While Keeler said in one sentence all there is to batting. His advice was 'Hit them where they ain't.'"

"One of the first things that a batter should learn is bunting—how to lay the ball down, as ball players say. The value of the bunt can't be overestimated. I think that some teams play a bunting game too much and Manager McGraw has always been up and down about it, but when you want to win a game, you want to win it the hard way, and you want to win it the easy way, and you want to win it the smart way."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The frostbitten oranges from sunny California are already getting into the eastern markets.

Unlike the suffragettes, the Balkan allies give four days' notice before resuming hostilities.

Even they will shiver at the "first inhabitant" in 1913 or thereabouts when he tells them about the January weather of 1913.

Uniform naturalization laws for the whole empire is one of the good things which are coming.

Most of the corners in life are sharp but the man who keeps straight ahead will not encounter many of them.

The civilized world is hoping that hereafter Turkey in Europe will be represented by a small spot on the map that looks like a cemetery on the outskirts of Constantinople.

It is a curious coincidence that four prominent citizens of Hamilton who have died within the last five days were all of them identified with transportation interests.

New York Sun—"If King Alfonso comes over next summer, as we all hope he may for our own pleasure as well as for the strengthening of the amiable relations that already exist, he will find ninety millions or so of friends and a welcome that no man of his discommodation can mistake for a merely courteous expression of profre-quency hospitality."

LONDON'S POOR.

A book concerning the way the responsible London poor just manage to maintain themselves on the right side of dissolution for long periods on fairly regular but very small incomes is in preparation by Mrs. Pamher Reeves, says the Daily News.

The book will certainly surprise lacious trade unionists, and indeed ac-tural reformers of all kinds, for it will deal, not with the poorest, the folk who make the usual dramatic figures of extreme poverty, but with the families of men who have been in regular work as long as, in some cases, 15 years; and yet, in spite of thriftiness, temperance, and general respectability have never more than a few pence, and a few days between themselves and the poorhouse. These are the poor who never complain, who are not visited by the usual social workers, who are never written about, who rarely apply for aid under the poor law, who are not in trade unions and whose children, though often, indeed always, necessitous, get no meals at school because their fathers are in regular employment. Their fathers, in fact, have fairly regular wages, ranging between 15s and 21s a week.

Four years ago Mr. Reeves began investigating on behalf of a committee formed of the Fabian Women's Group in Kensington and Lambeth for some leading facts concerning infant mortality. "Naturally," she says, "in getting at the causes which led to such deplorable wastage and deterioration
I began to collect the budgets of these people as evidence, for I found what I was discovering was unknown to most of those interested in social questions."

One curious fact about these people is that cow's milk is almost an unknown luxury. They use only condensed separated milk.

Sufferer of Twenty Years States Dr.
Hamilton's Pills are a Real Cure
"I can't remember any time during the past twenty years when my heart wasn't aching. If I bent over, dark spots would come before my eyes, and it seemed as if all the blood in my body wanted to rush to my head." Thus opens the letter of Mrs. Enoch S. Spry, of Putnam P.
O., and continuing her interesting statement she says: "Work or exertion made my heart beat terrible, and going upstairs caused such shortness of breath that it fairly frightened me.
I tell you how I feel to-day and you can understand what a great cure
Dr. Hamilton's Pills have made.
I feel strong as for going upstairs on the run, it doesn't bother me at all.
I eat and sleep as any person ought, and as for diseases which used to frighten me so much, it has entirely disappeared. Dr. Hamilton's Pills

THE TITLES' BILL.

Editor Morning Times

Sir,—In Saturday's Examiner appears a letter that reminds one of the snarling of a little black and tan dog, snapping at a passer-by through the safe protection of a picket fence. The literary concoction referred to speaks of the anti-Canadian titles bill, so strongly advocated by Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., and is signed "A Titleless One." The signature, whilst a nom de plume, was evidently chosen with judgment and discretion. The "titleless one" complains that a letter, on the same subject, in the columns of The Times, was from "some gentleman not very well known in Peterborough." How strikingly ingenious and how convincing is this argument! When writers from Winnipeg and Purple Creek give their views in the Peterborough press on National affairs, does the fact that they are not known personally by the "titleless one" lessen the weight of their argument?

Again the "titleless one" complains that Mr. Burnham uses the "title" of M.P. on his professional cards.
Cannot the "titleless one" see that this is not a "title" but the significance of a degree from one's Alma Mater? I do not think that Mr.
Burnham's bill threatens to divorce a Protestant clergyman from his title of "Reverend" nor a Catholic priest from the title "Father." Mr.
Burnham's bill is designed to eliminate the now too cheap title of "Sir," so generally given, but particularly to time serving politicians. The "titleless one" asks "why does not
Mr. Burnham look after the interests of his constituency?" I think Mr.
Editor, in the short time Mr. Burnham has represented this riding, he has reared monuments to the memory of his record, in public works for Women Smokers

It is estimated that the number of women smokers in New York City alone is nearly 100,000, and that they consume 35,000,000 cigarettes a year.
The heaviest trade is done in the Fifth Avenue and other fashionable districts. The women of San Francisco have gone still further, some of the smartest of the smart set there, it is said, being devotees of the pipe.

TURKISH SOLDIERS
WITHOUT FEZES

For the first time, when war broke out between Turkey and the Balkan allies, the Turkish soldier went to war without the fez. Mahmud II, when he changed the uniform of his army, tried to introduce the shako, but the opposition of the soldiers was too strong for him. The fez is a poor covering for men on active service; for even the change of its color to khaki did not get over its feebleness as a protection against sun or bad weather.
Hence the headshawl devised some time ago to be worn twisted around the head. The Turk's devotion to the fez is clearly explained by Duckett Farriman. "The prejudice against the hat rests on a religious basis. If the form of prayer is rightly performed the forehead must touch the ground.
The brim of a hat or the peak of a cap would prevent this."

GERMANS EATING DOGS

One way to Get Around the High priced Meat Question Scores of stray dogs were slaughtered at Halle, Germany, and meat sold to the public in the city market. There was a rush to obtain the canine "steaks" and "chops" as if they were a great delicacy.
The city authorities ordered the slaughtering of the animals, which had been gathered up for a month. It is planned to combat the meat famine with domestic animals, and the possible of the city may next go for "rabbit pie."

AN UNKNOWN KING

In a gloomy niche half way down Westminster Hall there is dimly to be discerned a gray stone statue of a king which recently was taken out of the Architectural Museum and placed in its present position. There is a heavy crown on his head over long wavy hair in his beard is rippled and majestic. In his left hand he holds the orb, but the sceptre hand is gone.
The old king broods over the hall of kings.

The experts are puzzled over his history. He stood in Westminster Hall for many centuries side by side with other stone kings and all were hidden away by the Government in 1858. Lately it occurred to Lord Beauchamp to try the effect of bringing them back. Several of the beautiful Gothic windows are blind, forming niches suitable for statues, and all the old forgotten kings may take their places in them.

This first one is a beautiful personage. No one knows what king he is or whether it is merely an ideal figure of majesty, but it is certain that he is the work of some fine fourteenth century craftsman.

The battered king is the grandest statue in the hall. Below him lie in ghostly row the kings done with the petty realism of the modern age. Immediately under his blind Majesty's gaze is the broad face, cynically furrowed, of the merry monarch. The unknown king towers over these people like a visitant from ampler times.

HYDRO-ELECTRIC POWER

Editor Morning Times.

Sir,—The citizens having decided to enter into the business of supplying electricity for light and power, we wish to remind them that the success of their enterprise will depend upon themselves taking light and power from the city's system. The more light and power that is used from the city system the cheaper it will be. Consequently no citizens should enter into a contract for light or power until the city is ready to supply them.

The Hydro-Commission and the Power Committee are making all possible speed to have everything ready to begin work when spring opens, and there will be no delay. Every citizen should be ready to support them and thus enable all to get the light and power at the cheapest rate.

Yours truly,
W. J. Johnston,
Chairman Power Committee.

PRIEST FALLS IN LOVE

GIVES UP CHURCH TO WED
LADY OF CHOICE.

Beautiful Nurse Attracted Him, and After Two Years of Consideration They are Married.

Seattle, Washington, Jan. 31.—Conflict between mortal passion and his vows of eternal celibacy raged for two years within the breast of Rev.
Father Daniel J. Gallagher, and love triumphed.

Miss Florence Laver, twenty-four years old, daughter of Mrs. and Mr.
William Laver, of No. 124 North Hite avenue, Louisville, Ky., who became his bride at Christ Church Cathedral in St. Louis recently, is now here, where the former priest will go into business.

For many months the priest weighed his churchly duties against his love for a woman. His struggle raged in sentiment the old story of Abelard and Heloise, whose attachment triumphed over their vows as monk and nun.

Cupid Conquered.

Father Gallagher was assistant rector of the most important church in the Roman Catholic Diocese of Louisville—the Cathedral of the Assumption, possibly the oldest church in the state, and one in which hang paintings given the bishop of that day by the refugee, Louis Philippe of France.
But tradition, religion and all other considerations stood for naught. Cupid conquered.

That the girl herself battled against her inclinations repeatedly and declined to consider proposals of marriage putting him off time and time again because she did not want him to make the sacrifice, are additional facts which all intensity to the romance.

Fell Before Nurse.

Miss Laver was a nurse. She is a graduate of the Deaconess' Hospital Training School and was given a position as chief surgical nurse in Louisville city hospital upon her graduation.
It was not until two days before Christmas that the girl's mother realized that she was in love.
"I had suspected it for some time," admitted the mother in her Louisville home. "The priest had frequently telephoned her. Two days before Christmas he called at the house and gave her an engagement ring. Florence loved him, but she was devout in her adopted faith. She did not want him to make the sacrifice, for she knew he would have to give up the church."

Had to Wait a Year.

Florence told Father Gallagher a year ago when he proposed they be married that he must consider the importance and the serious nature of the step he wanted to take at least for a year. When the year was up at Christmas, he came to her and declared he had decided to give up the church and the priesthood.
"My daughter implored him to wait another year, but he would not listen."
"The priest came out here a second time. He was much perturbed.
He wore a muffler about his neck.
We talked the matter over, the three of us."
"Finally I gave my consent to the marriage. I wanted only to be sure that they would be happy. My husband came home from a trip and gave his consent."

VALUABLE LAND WITHOUT OWNER

That area of valuable freehold building land in an English agricultural county should be apparently unowned does not appear very probable at first sight, but the fact remains that in one of the most productive areas of Hampshire, and in the heart of a rapidly growing urban district there are now several plots.

Fleet, a small town within a few miles of Aldershot, with a population of 3,500, has greatly developed of late years, and five or six years ago two or three of the principal streets were "made up" by the urban district council under the Private Street Works Act. The cost was apportioned to the frontages, but in a number of instances the owners of vacant plots of land could not be traced.

The amounts apportioned to them were entered in the council's books, and there they remained ever since, unpaid, and with little likelihood of the owners appearing to make payment. The council therefore erected noticeboards on at least five plots of land in different parts of the town informing the owners, known or unknown, that unless the sums due are paid the land will be sold. In two or three cases the charge only amounts to about $20 while the land is in some instances worth $5,000.

SERBIA'S CAPITAL

Bright Colors Seen on Every Side But Little Civic Enterprise

An interesting glimpse of Belgrade, the capital of Serbia, is given by Lady Jephson, who in the "Evening Standard" wrote that she found the combination of gorge, rock, river and mountain of the Balkans not unlike Scotland. In Serbia's chief city Lady Jephson put up at what proved to be a "lethargic hotel," where sleep was impossible.

"A wash and breakfast in the courtyard somewhat restored our spirits. The bread and butter and fruit were excellent and the scenes about us novel and amusing. Facing our hotel lay the market place, and under stumpy trees sat the market folk surrounded by their wares. Tomatoes, capers, horseradish, pumpkins, melons, pears, and apples lay in tempting heaps—a pathetic contrast in their freshness and beauty of coloring to the wrinkled old women who sold them!—meat and bread were on wooden stalls, and Serbian ladies bargained and bought in captivating costumes of velvet jackets with wide hanging sleeves over muslin chemises, and little scarlet cloth caps fastened to the backs of their heads by a braid of hair.

"But not only ladies in Serbia dress well; the clothes of peasants are picturesque in the extreme, and women young and old wear beautifully worked aprons of scarlet, yellow, and blue, whilst gay handkerchiefs bind their heads. Men look their best—and the Serbian is a handsome creature—in cream-colored bloomers and shirts, souvise jackets, leggings, and sandals; whilst the saash knotted at one side gives a finishing touch to what is a charming dress.

"Streets in Belgrade are paved with stones and very ill-kept. The abnormally heavy rains carry all before them, uprooting stones and washing away pavements. Nothing, in fact, can stand against their force. Most of the houses are yellow-washed and severely plain. Shops carry outward and visible signs of their trades on their shutters, rows of hanging boots marking the abode of a shoemaker, and bright colored rugs adorning a carpet seller's shop. Belgrade streets, indeed, present a wealth of color, to be found in few other capital cities. There is, for example, the soft green of the poplar trees, the red, yellow and blue of the peasant, ecclesiastic, and military dress, the cream of the bullocks, the grey and black of herds of goats, and the yellow washed walls on either hand.

"Outside Belgrade lies a glorious avenue of trees, and not far off the King's park and country seat. Serbian country is undulating, well wooded, and beautiful—extremely like English scenery in character."

Death of Naval Hero

Stoker Brown, a Navy man, who had an eventful career, died at Aberdeen. One incident in his life has been enshrined in standard history books as a type of the valor of the British Navy. Brown was one of the crew of the ill-starred transport-boat Mageria. When off the island of St. Paul, in the Southern Ocean, the Mageria sprung a leak. All hope of saving either crew or vessel was given up, when Brown crawled down into the hold of the vessel, found the leak, and successfully fixed an iron plate over it. The vessel had to be run ashore at this island, where she lay a derelict for three months. The crew had very little to eat, and were on the verge of starvation, when Brown went down to the disabled vessel, and by firing the boilers was the means of refloating the boat.

THE BULGAR ARMY AND ITS LEADER

Military Genius Long Foreseen Struggle With the Ottoman and Laid His Plans Accordingly

General Savoff of the Balkan army, to whose brilliant generalship was due the crushing defeat of the Turkish forces at the hands of the allied troops of Balkan States, is a product of the Russian school, although he also studied in France and Italy. In the war of 1885 he played a brilliant part, and when the Bulgarian Cabinet resigned in 1903 Savoff was appointed Minister of War. It was then that his genius for organization became apparent, for the modern Bulgarian army, which proved such a splendid fighting machine in the creation of Savoff, and was built up in the past decade.

For some time he combined the offices of War Minister and Chief of Staff, but four or five years ago he left the Ministry and went to Paris on a special, secret mission. There he spent several years, and it is supposed that in those years he conferred with military representatives of other powers as to the strategy to be employed in the war with Turkey that was then recognised as inevitable.

Bulgaria has a system of universal military service. Every able-bodied youth in the land is liable for military service, either for two or three years, the longer period being for the mounted troops. After this period he becomes a member of the reserve, and for 16 or 18 years is called upon to put in three weeks' annual training. He then becomes a member of the territorial army, and up to the age of 46 serves a week each year at the manoeuvres. By this system a country whose population is not much more than half that of Canada was able to put an army of 275,000 in the field with 150,000 reservists ready and available to fill up gaps when and where needed.

Think of it, friends!

Another year nearly gone.

Have you lost—a mother or a relative?

It is not possibly so before another year. Now is the time, do not put it off. Secure their likeness, and you will never regret it. In this case you are a real likeness—a work of art that will be a treasure to you and your family.

HEAD OFFICE . . . OTTAWA, ONT.

These Mines will be in operation by April next.

The Company possess 607 acres of Phosphate, Mica, Gold and Asbestos Lands, all free of encumbrances.

POSSIBLE PRODUCTION AND PROFITS

The Company has already orders for over 50,000 tons of Phosphate, on which it expects to realize a profit of $5.00 net per ton, or $250,000, which will be equal to 50 p.c. on the capitalisation.

Supposing the Company would only realize one-half of its estimated profits, it still would have to its credit 25 p.c., without taking into this estimate the profits from its Mica Mine, which very likely will be as much again. The output of this Mica Mine is almost all sold in advance to large English firms.

THIS PHOSPHATE AND MICA MINES

are paying enterprises right from the start of its operation, and are located in the Province of Quebec, near Ottawa, and only a mile from railway station.

THE PLANT, MACHINERIES

required for the exploitation are inexpensive, the operation expenses, such as labor, provisions, supplies, transportation, etc., are all much cheaper than in Porcupine and Cobalt mining districts.

The Shareholders participate in the profits of all the Companies' mines.

SAYS INDUSTRY IS HAMPERED

Iron and Steel Plants are to Extend Present Schedule MuR be Overhauled

It is generally recognized that iron and steel are the basic industries of Canada. Think for a moment of the great variety of articles into whose manufacture iron or steel enters. The following despatch, therefore, to the Globe, from Saint Ste. Marie giving a statement of T. J. Drummond of the Lake Superior Corporation is of interest:

"In regard to further extensions, I may say that we have had under consideration certain extensions of our

Iron and steel plant, but we have decided to postpone definite action in the meantime, pending possible consideration and action of the Dominion Government in regard to the iron and steel tariff.

"The existing tariff in iron and steel is so torn up by special dispensations, exemptions and rebates, that the progress of the industry is retarded, and in many cases made absolutely impossible. Under the existing tariff we are encouraged to manufacture in small lots, giving small tonnages, and then discouraged in progression into the manufacture of heavier sections, which give larger tonnages. In other cases industries are practically banned to purchase their pig iron, merchant steel, etc. abroad, and so in one way and another the industry is hampered, and the tariff in many cases by these exemptions made absolutely illogical and inconsistent."

"If the iron and steel industry is to go forward this tariff must be overhauled, and such matters as I have referred to must be dealt with in a common sense manner, and especially in connection with pig iron, merchant mill products and structural steel. A present practically one million tons of iron and steel are annually being brought into the country, and the bulk of this tonnage could and should be made in Canada. We placed our case before the Government during the last session of Parliament, and we are hoping that something may be done this session, but pending the outcome of what consideration the Government is giving to our case, we can only mark time, and hope that such action will be taken as will warrant us in going ahead with the extensions we have in view."

One thing that the settler misses in certain parts of this country is the tree. He misses the tree. However, in another ten years' time even this will not be missed for we are conducting extensive experiments with many varieties of trees with a view to filling out those most adapted to the climate.

SYNOPSIS OF DOMINION LAND REGULATIONS

ANY person who is sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years old, may homestead a quarter section of available Dominion land in Manitoba, Saskatchewan or Alberta. The applicant must appear in person at the Dominion Lands Agency or Sub-agency for the district. Entry by proxy may be made at any age, on certain conditions by father, mother, son, daughter, brother or sister of intending homesteader.

Duties.—Six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each of three years. A homesteader may live within nine miles of his home stand on a farm of at least 80 acres solely owned and occupied by him or by his father, mother, son, daughter, brother, or sister.

In certain districts a homesteader in good standing may pre-empt a quarter-section alongside his home stand. Price $3.00 per acre.

Duties.—Must reside upon the home stand or pre-emption six months in each of six years from date of home stand entry (including the time required to earn homestead patent) and cultivate fifty acres extra.

A homesteader who has exhausted his homestead right and cannot obtain a pre-emption may enter for a purchased homestead in certain districts. Price $3.00 per acre. Duties.—Must reside six months in each of three years, cultivate fifty acres and erect a house worth $300.00.

At a meeting of the Fenelon Falls Board of Trade, Mr. W. M. McCallum presented a resolution which he had received. The resolution stated in brief, that the cutting off of two of the three licenses was an injustice to a number of ratepayers, that the by-law was passed without due consideration, that it would cause a congestion at one hotel, etc., and ended with a plea for unity and concord, and a discontinuance of bickering and strife. The resolution was dropped.

Amusing Londoners

It has been calculated by industrious statisticians that London, England, spends about $12,500 per waking hour on its amusements, or more than $45,000,000 a year, the principal items being theatres, $15,000,000; music-halls, $10,000,000; cinematographs, $15,000,000; dancing, dancing, concerts, etc., $4,000,000. If betting can be regarded as an amusement, another $50,000,000 must be added, making some $95,000,000 a year.

Welcoming the New Laird

Laird Seaford, the new laird of Grant, was welcomed home by a gathering of some 500 clansmen, who marched in procession from Grant town to the house of the laird. All the 500 clansmen, without exception, answered to the name of Grant. Pipers thrilled the clansmen with the music of the ancient clan gathering.

Hair to 148,000 Acres

The coming-of-age of Mr. Watkin Williams Wynne, heir of the ancient Wynnastay Estates, covering 148,000 acres in Wales, was commemorated on the Llangedwyn and Llanfardd Estates, when the tenant presented the heir with a silver tea urn, while Sir Watkin Williams Wynne entertained 1,000 people at Llangedwyn Hall.

Oil is The Fuel of The Future

In 1911 California produced more than 77,000,000 barrels of oil. The fuel product of this was equal to 20,000,000 tons of the best coal. Geological authorities say California can keep up this rate of production for a century without exhausting the fields so far discovered. The coal wealth of Alaska does not compare with the oil wealth of California. Nor does the wealth of the sea reach the value of this one product of the Sunset State. DID YOU KNOW that California's oil product at the wells last year was greater measured in dollars than ALL of the fisheries products of the three Pacific States, the Province of British Columbia and the territory of Alaska combined!

Many huge fortunes have been made in the industry, but even greater fortunes are yet to be taken from the virgin oil territory of the Pacific slope. The value of oil as a clean and economical fuel has been established. This has brought production in California fields to the high mark reached last year.

Production in the Pennsylvania petroleum fields is going down, and now regions must be developed to furnish the higher grade paraffin base product. Katalla, Alaska and East Kootenai, British Columbia, produce the oils which are the nearest like the Pennsylvania petroleum. These are the fields for profitable investment.

The Colonial Oil Company of Seattle has holdings in all the oil regions of the Pacific Coast, and are prepared to develop and exploit some great and profitable properties. Our representative in Peterborough wants to tell you all about it.

WOMEN IN FACTORIES

How Their Employment in Lancashire Affects the Birth Rate

Dr. Hugh R. Jones, an eminent English physician who investigated the influence that the industrial employment of married women has upon the birth rate and the sex ratio at birth. Some elaborate tables of statistics which on analyzing he sums up as follows:

1. That the employment of married women in industrial occupations tends to diminish the birth rate.
2. That such employment tends to the birth of a large proportion of girl infants.
3. That low birth rates tend to the birth of a larger proportion of girl infants.
4. That the rate of infantile mortality is higher as the proportion of employed married women rises.

BABY O'TOOLE

The American Medical Association Define Him a Perfect Child

Do you want to know what a perfect three-year-old baby should weigh and measure, and what he should eat and do each day? There are a pair of proud grandparents in Toronto who can tell you.

This model child lives in Chicago, but his father, Mr. C. J. O'Toole, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. J. O'Toole living at 189 Beattie street, Toronto. The boy who is claimed to be a physically perfect child for his age is Master Charles Elmer O'Toole, and his measurements, taken on his third birthday, the 23rd of August last, have been adopted and copyrighted by the American Medical Association and the National Congress of Mothers as a perfect standard of physical development for babies.

His development is all the more that a few days after birth several physicians considered him too delicate to live. But last summer at the State Fair in Iowa, where his parents then resided, he was scored 98 1/2 points out of 100 on the score card adopted by the New York Child Welfare Exhibit. With his score as a basis, a uniform score card has been compiled and copyrighted, to be used in future competitions and these cards, with medical facts printed on the back, are to be distributed in every waiting-room throughout the States, in pursuance of a plan of campaign by the American Medical Association and the National Congress of Mothers for the improvement of the human race.

The following are the measurements of the boy as taken a few days ago:—Weight, 35 pounds; height, 35 inches; chest, 20 inches; head, 19 inches. His day is planned very systematically, as follows:—7 a.m., breakfast of soft boiled eggs, toast, milk and orange juice; 8 to 11 a.m., walk and play; 12 noon, lunch, consisting of three saucers of cereal, with half a pint of cream, Graham bread and one glass of milk; 3 to 4 p.m., afternoon nap; 4 p.m., supper, of one shirred egg, Graham bread, milk and apple sauce; 7 to 8 p.m., exercise and bed.

MEAT IN THE WEST

Attention Is Drawn to the Demand for Mixed Farming Products

The seriousness of the food supply problem of the prairie provinces is being rapidly realized by wide awake citizens. Recently a conference composed of leading railway men, meat packers, representative farmers, and officials of the Provincial Government was held at Winnipeg to devise way and means to save the West from a impending meat famine. The moral is that western farmers must devote more attention to mixed farming; there is to be any permanent improvement in the situation. Referring to this the Toronto Globe says:

"The moral for the Canadian farmer is that he should consider the practicality of increasing his production of beef and thus take advantage of a market that is becoming increasingly profitable. There is no danger of glutting that market if the farmers will only by wise breeding and careful feeding keep up the quality of the animals they rear for food consumption. In Ontario there are many farmers who would find this sort of industry a good way to lesson their perplexity over the scarcity of labor, and to improve at the same time the quality of their farms. There are great unfertilized areas in this Province not adapted for general farming, but admirably adapted for ranching young cattle. Many Western grain growers who foresee the necessity of mixed farming to preserve their farms from sterility, could usefully resort to beef products as a means of accomplishing the desired result. And the Canadian consumer is quite as much interested in the problem as the Canadian farmer.

Without a plentiful supply of meat at reasonable prices it will be difficult to develop factories in Western Canada.

WHEN COOKING POTATOES

The only way to test a potato so you will know to a certainty what it is and what it will do is to cook it. For the potatoes which are to be cooked up light by the kind that will, when cut in two, stick together. They will make fluffy-ruffie potatoes, but when you want potatoes which, when cooked, will hold their shape, and do things in the manner you want them to, buy yellow ones that won't stick together.

Potatoes cooked in dry heat, as by baking in the oven, roasting in ashes, frying in deep fat, or steamed in their skins, retain all their good qualities and flavors very much more than those cooked in water, but potatoes so cooked must be served just as soon as they are done or they will become soggy and bad flavored.

AGED COUPLE IN CAVE

Strange Story of Miserable Life Led Close to Pembroke.

Francis Henry Switzerburg and Mary Summerfeldt, both about seventy years of age, have been living together in a cave or dugout, for years, within ten miles of Pembroke. They have lived the life of animals, sleeping and eating, the woman begging food from the neighbors, the man never showing himself. The cave in which they spent years is built up with stones, covered with slabs, brushwood and earth. The door is about two feet wide and four feet high. Inside there is nothing but the old man's bunk, and in another small cave dug back from the main small one, was the woman's "bedroom." They were taken from their hovel to Pembroke. The old woman went with

Stops a Cough IN ONE NIGHT

CATARH AND WEAK THROAT
NOW CURED WITHOUT SWAL-LOWING DANGEROUS DRUGS.

By Breathing the Soothing, Healing
Vapor of Catarrhose All Throat and Catarrhal Troubles are Quickly Cured

It's simply wonderful to think how quickly a bad throat or catarrh can be cured by Catarrhose. Its rich balsamic vapor is carried along with the breath into the innermost recesses of the lungs, bronchial tubes, and throat, making it impossible for the germ of any disease to live. Thus soreness in the chest is at once alleviated—phlegm is loosened and ejected from the throat, old-standing coughs are removed.

"I suffered from an irritable, weak throat for three years. I had a severe cough, pain over the eyes, constant bad taste in my mouth, and noises in my ears. It was chronic catarrh. Nothing gave permanent relief till I used Catarrhose. In one hour it relieved, and in a few weeks drove all trace of catarrh from my system."

"T. M. THEO'S A. SALMON, No. 6 Lopez street, Kingston, J. A. REMEMBER THIS—You breathe Catarrhose and it will cure any throat, chest or bronchial colds. Large size, guaranteed, costs $1.00, and lasts two months; smaller sizes, 25c and 50c. Beware of imitations and insist on "CATARRHOSE" only. By mail from the Catarrhose Co., Buffalo, N. A Hint in Needlework.

As a hint to the young ladies who are on the look-out for novelties in needlework, we might note that yesterday we were shown a very pretty sofa cushion by Mr. Alex. Acheson, of the Windsor Hotel. One front of this is made of silk badges taken from boxes containing a certain brand of Turkish cigarettes, very popular in the city. These little varicolored badges are of many designs, showing the various Provincial Coats of Arms, flags of all nations, etc. The other side of the cushion is of plain satin with fancy trimmed edges.

A Very Old Peterborough Paper.

How many of our readers are aware that there was once a paper published in Peterborough called the "Backwoodsman"? Still such was the case. In an August edition, issued in 1838, is an advertisement of a recital to be held that month at Sturgeon Point. There were ten events on the programme, consisting of a gig race, canoe sailing races, skill races, log canoe races, etc. The prizes were in shillings and pence. The fact that recitals were held at Sturgeon Point as far back as 1838 will be interesting information for those who often visit that popular resort. The same issue has an advertisement of a boat that ran from Fenelon Falls to Chemung Lake, where passengers were transported by stage to Peterborough.

SUFFRAGETTES VAINLY SEEK ENTRANCE TO BUCKINGHAM

Special Precautions Are Being Taken by Police to Prevent Any Disturbance at Friday Night's Court

London, Feb. 5.—Special but unostentatious precautions are being taken to prevent any untoward happening at Buckingham Palace through the action of the militant suffragettes. If anything is attempted by them there, their reception is likely to be particularly warm.

The King's principal London residence is in direct communication, not only with Scotland Yard, but with Wellington Barracks, close by, and the military protection of the Palace can be increased almost immediately by a preconcerted signal.

Seek to Enter Buckingham.

It is known that certain suffragettes have done their utmost to obtain the necessary passports to be present at the court that takes place in Buckingham Palace on Friday evening, and officials have received stringent instructions as to the manner in which they are to act in the event of any suspicious stranger presenting himself or herself for admittance. The staff of police, both uniformed and plain clothes, detailed for duty will be greater than ever before on a similar occasion.

The police seem to have caught a start in Margaret Morrison, a suffragette, arrested outside the Leven Town Hall last Wednesday, during the visit of Premier Asquith to that town. The charges brought against her yesterday were:

Throwing pepper in a constable's face.

Smashing twelve pails of glass in the Leven Police Station.

Throwing a bucket of water over a police sergeant in his office.

There Were Lively Scenes.

Lively scenes seem to have occurred while she was in custody. The evidence given showed that she managed to lock a policeman out of the passage leading to the cells and then smashed the windows, and as the police broke open the door she threw a bucket of water over the first to enter. She has been on a hunger strike in Dundee prison since last Friday.

The sheriff asked her to lift her veil for identification, but this she refused to do, and there was a scene when an officer attempted to raise the veil which was torn in the struggle. She was sentenced to thirty days' imprisonment.

CHIEF OF POLICE MAKES A GOOD YEARLY REPORT

Yesterday afternoon the local Police Commissioners met in the City Hall Committee Room, with His Honor Judge Huycke, who was re-elected, in the chair. The principal business transacted was receiving the annual report of Chief of Police Thompson, which showed that the city's morals, health and sobriety are well looked after. The Chief said in part:

Chief's Report.
I take this opportunity of thanking the citizens of Peterborough for the kind assistance they have given the Police Department at all times during the year. I also desire to thank your Honourable Board personally for your untiring efforts in endeavoring to keep the department up to a high standard of efficiency, and also for the courtesy that you have shown me. I desire to express my thanks to Chief Howard and his associates on the Fire Department for their willingness to assist the Police Department at any and all times.

The number of cases summoned or apprehended during the year 1912 was 690 against 590 in 1911. Statistical reports show the number of persons apprehended or summoned during the year 1912 was 690.

Recommendations.

I am again forced to recommend increased police protection, as we are all aware of the increase of population of this city, and the census shows us that during the past 10 years, Peterborough has increased 63 per cent, which is far ahead of other cities in Ontario.

There are streets in our city with thousands of people living on them and much valuable property unprotected. Life is the most important property comes next.

I think that this is (and other reasons given) sufficient to warrant the increase of police service which I am about to recommend, without taking into consideration that the number of police here are far below the average, namely the addition of two extra men to the department.

Another matter which I wish to bring before your Honourable Board is the unsightly part of police duty where constables have to fight, and drag drunken men through the streets of our city in order to get them to the Police Station, in the presence of ladies and children, which is one of the most unfortunate matters in connection with our work. I would therefore ask your Honourable Board to consider the advisability of purchasing a Patrol Wagon.

THE CABINET SNEEZES; AS PEPPER IN LETTERS

London, Feb. 5.—The Express says that the whole Cabinet was wet sneezing yesterday by the simultaneous receipt by each Minister at the House of Commons of suffragette letters containing red pepper.

DID McCAFFREY DIE FIRST

Legal Point Settled in Connection With Recent Drowning at Omamee

Toronto, Feb. 5.—The interesting legal point as to whether Mr. or Mrs. Wm. McCaffrey died first in the Omamee drowning tragedy last fall, was decided yesterday afternoon by Mr. Justice Brannon.

The action recalls the dreadful tragedy of Sept. 28th last year, when Mr. and Mrs. McCaffrey, of Toronto, their daughter, Marine, aged 13, and son Howard, aged 8, were on a visit to Mr. McCaffrey's parents in Omamee and with Mrs. McCaffrey, Sr. went on a fishing trip in a canoe on the Pigeon River. The craft capsized, presumably when Mr. McCaffrey was trying to land a monster lunge from a trolling line, and all five were drowned.

The relatives of Mrs. McCaffrey brought action in the Non-Jury Assize Court, for judgment giving them a share to Mr. McCaffrey's estate of $12,000. They based their claim on the ground that as no one saw the accident, it was not known, but that Mrs. McCaffrey may have lived some time after the death of her husband.

This point was met by Counsel for the husband's relatives, he referring to a decision handed down by the House of Lords in 1860, in which it was stated that in cases of persons dying in common disaster, no presumption is allowed as to the probable survivor, thus leaving the point to be settled solely by facts. As no acts could be presented by Mrs. McCaffrey's relatives on this point, the action naturally failed for lack of proof. The case was therefore dismissed without costs.

Kingston Defeated

Last night the Brock street rink was crowded to witness the game between the Limestone hockey team and the Petes. The ice was in great shape and an interesting tussle took place. When the referee's bell rang at the final, the score stood, Petes 17, Kingston 7.

A feature of the game was the brilliant playing of Morrow, who is yet only a junior, and he promises to be a good one in future hockey.

LOCAL CHILDREN ARE GIVEN A FIT SUBJECT

What might reasonably be assumed to be a sly dig at the recent, cold-blooded neglect of local ratepayers, was in evidence yesterday in Central School when the offer of a silver medal and two certificates were offered the children for the best three drawings on the subject of "Slippery pavements." Whilst it was not noted as a "sine qua non," the contestants might put their drawings in a border of medical bills, with a scene of Little Lake cemetery in the background.

SYLVIA PANKHURST IS GIVEN 2-WEEKS TERM

Or a Fine for Raid on House of Commons When Franchise Bill Was Dropped.

London, Feb. 5.—Sylvia Pankhurst, one of the militant suffragette leaders, was sentenced to weeks' imprisonment, or a fine of $10, by the magistrate sitting at Bow Street Station to-day, for participating in the raid on the House of Commons together with nineteen other women under the leadership of "General" Mrs. Flora Drummond on Jan. 28.

On that occasion the women tried to force their way into Parliament to obtain an interview with David Lloyd George, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and they were arrested and charged with resisting the police.

As Miss Pankhurst was leaving the police court for the cells to-day she shouted: "I shall not serve this sentence."

This is probably correct, as the leaders of the militants have become tired of jail, and their fines are now invariably paid within a few hours of their imposition.

THE WEATHER.

To-day—Strong westerly winds; mostly fair and decidedly cold weather with local snow showers.

THOUSANDS FLEE FROM VOLCANO IN ERUPTION

MT. COLIMA IN ERUPTION.
About Colima, volcano, in the State of Jalisco, is in violent eruption. Smoke, ashes, sand and poisonous gases are pouring from the crater. Thousands are fleeing from the danger zone. A possible heavy death loss among the inhabitants of villages near the volcano is feared.

ROBS JUDGE'S ROOM AFTER WARNING POLICE TO MOVE

Chicago, Feb. 5.—When Alex. W. Davidson, Chief investigator of the Chicago Law and Order League, testified last Friday to theft of records from the Irving Park Police Station, he told Chief of Police McWeeny, who was present, that it was very easy to rob a police station and to prove which statement he promised to burglarize four other police stations.

Despite this warning the Irving Park station exploit was repeated last night at the Desplains street Station, one of the biggest in the city and one of the most numerically manned.

Municipal Judge Mahoney's Court is in the Desplains Police Station. When court adjourned yesterday the judge locked his files in a drawer and locked the room door.

Somewhat later someone entered the station, nodded cheerfully at a desk sergeant, wandered through the quarters and the office of the Lieutenants' Gallery and Hutchinson on a flight of stairs. He then forced open the judge's chambers and the locked drawer and with the files under his arm retraced the course by which he entered, passed several detectives and officers who were in uniform. He excited no suspicion.

When the robbery was called to the attention of Davidson to-day, he laughingly evaded answer, but gave an outline of his movements during the night, calculated to baffle if not to satisfy Chief McWeeny.

annual congregational, a very satisfactory report of the session of the church for the past year was given. A pleasing feature of this report was the great increase in the membership of the church, which now reaches 1,007, an increase of about 130 since the last report was given.

The following reports were also read and adopted: Board of Managers, Sabbath School, Missionary, Ladies' Aid Society, Women's Foreign Missionary Society, St. Paul's Guild and the Fraser Mission Band.

The receipts of the missions of the church amounted to $5,067.

The reelection of Messrs. Madill and A. P. McLean as auditors, was adopted.

The election to fill the vacancies on the Board of Management resulted as follows: Messrs. A. P. McLean, W. A. Logan, R. Harstone and E. R. Wood.

The pastor in concluding the meeting, spoke in very favorable terms of the splendid reports that were received and said it was gratifying to note that every department of the church was in a very flourishing condition.

KING WANTS NEXT DEFENCE CONFERENCE HELD IN CANADA

His Majesty Watching Closely Evolution of Real Empire Navy—Britain Building Most Dreadnoughts

London, Feb. 5.—The King's visit to the Dreadnought battleship New Zealand at Portsmouth to-day is commented on as a Royal recognition of an event, charged with deep historic significance, namely the accession to the navy of the first ship of the line completed by the patriotism of the Dominions. It is understood that when Mr. Churchill said, in acclaiming Canada's gift, that it came like the clasp of a friend's strong hand in the hour of doubt and peril, he was using words previously used by the King, who, as a sailor himself, is watching the evolution of a real Empire navy with the deepest personal interest.

The King's Desire.

It is also understood that the King expressed the hope that the next defence conference of Empire statesmen, representing the Motherland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa, would be held on Canadian soil, so that in the permanent co-operative defence policy of the Empire, the special interests of each, both on the Atlantic and Pacific, could be carefully considered with the fullest local knowledge.

To-day's papers publish pictures of the New Zealand and her officers. It is noted what prominence is given New Zealand firms, and other indications that in the New Zealand, as the original vessel, it is the Admiralty's obvious desire to officer the ship by New Zealanders. It is also noted that experts say that had New Zealand insisted, the ship would have been colonial-built, but this was not possible for at least another five years.

Great Nations Depend on Britain.

Archibald Hurd, in the Fortnightly Review, says the construction of the Dreadnought is a matter for such a nice industrial organization, and requires such a varied and specialized plant, that even Greece, the Argentine Republic, Brazil, Chili and other fully established countries, have refrained from embarking on such an enterprise, while Russia, Spain and Japan rely partially or entirely on the United Kingdom.

CATHOLIC PRIEST SUES HIS BISHOP AND GETS DAMAGES

Ogdensburg Jury Awards Rev. L. A. Klauder $15,000 for False Arrest and Imprisonment—Was Put in Insane Asylum

Ogdensburg, N.Y., Feb. 5.—Fifteen thousand dollars damages for false arrest and imprisonment have been awarded to the Rev. Father L. A. Klauder, by a jury in the Ogdensburg court. The verdict was returned late last night after a trial lasting ten days.

The defendants in the action were Bishop Henry Gabriels, of the Catholic diocese of Ogdensburg; Coadjutor Bishop Joseph Conroy and Mrs. W. B. Hamblin and W. G. Cooper, of the Ogdensburg State Asylum for the insane.

The plaintiff set forth and convinced the jury that the defendants had caused him to be placed in the asylum after his refusal to relinquish his parish at Faust, N.Y., near here. Transferred by the bishop, he declined to accept the change and going to the Cathedral, started to read an address in defence of his stand. It was then, as he alleged in his suit, he was seized and subsequently committed to the asylum. He obtained release through a habeas corpus writ and brought the suit just decided.

ARE LOCAL GAME FISH BEING EXTERMINATED?

Ex-Fishing Inspector Dave Johnston Talks With The Times Regarding Bass and Maskinonge.

Yesterday a Times representative had a chat with Mr. Dave Johnston, who lives on the Otonabee River near Robinson's Island. Mr. Johnston is an ex-game warden, who used to supervise the fishing between here and Rice Lake. This gentleman, seemingly without prejudice, remarked that it is a shame the way fish, game, bass and maskinonge, every spring in the Otonabee. Both gill nets and spears are used in the creeks which the fish frequent in spawning time.

Hundreds, if not thousands, of female bass and maskinonge, heavy with spawn are illegally killed, as well as the male fish with its necessary milt. These fish, at spawning time, to put a darker on such illegal methods, are comparatively of little value. While many are thus illegally captured, and as illegally sold, many are actually thrown away and wasted. It would seem that these illegal fishermen have as bad a blood thirst as a drink or a wash.

Mr. Johnston reminded that the worst offenders are not residents along the river, but pot hunters from the city, who, for a few dirty dollars annually, at that season of the year, destroy the embryo bass and lunge by hundreds of thousands. It is known to almost every patron of a former local hotel, except possibly the fishery inspectors, that the proprietor, every spring used to buy many bags of illegally caught bass and maskinonge. These fish were stored in a bin near the livery stable to the rear of the hotel.

Mr. Johnston thought that the matter of our local game fish is becoming an economic, as well as a sporting tragedy. He suggested that, with residents along the shores of the river and Rice Lake, that a fishery inspector can accomplish much more good by a campaign of education and mutual trust than by wielding the power of the law. He noted that the maskinonge are being rapidly exterminated by city pot hunters and whilst not criticizing the present fishery overseers, individually, was of the opinion that something should be done, in a wide-awake and fearless manner this spring to stop the awful and illegal slaughter of spawning fish.

A Chicago preacher blames overfeeding for many of the ills which blight society. Does he speak from Observation or Experience? If from Experience he ought to take a country circuit for a while at $500 a year.

THE BECKER BABY DIES IN A HOSPITAL
Condemned Man and Invalid Mother Kept in Ignorance of Death.

New York, Feb. 5.—The baby girl born to Mrs. Charles Becker, wife of the condemned ex-police lieutenant, has died in the Woman's Hospital. The infant was extremely weak and lay almost inanimate from the moment of its birth. Word of the death was kept last night from Mrs. Becker, who was said by the physicians to be in grave condition in the hospital.

Unless Mrs. Becker shows signs of regaining strength to-day it is probable that the doctors will keep her in ignorance of the baby's passing away.

Nor was Becker in the death house at Sing Sing awaiting execution for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, told of the baby's death.

TRIBUTE TO THE LATE KING

East End Jews Have Erected a Fountain in Memory of Edward VII.

In memory of King Edward the Jewish community in the East End of London have erected a fountain in the Whitechapel road. The fountain is surmounted by a bronze figure of Peace, and on either side are figures of Liberty and Justice. Facing the fountain is a plaque bearing a portrait of the late King, and the inscription on the opposite side reads: "In grateful and loyal memory of Edward VII. Rex et Imperator. Erected from subscriptions raised by Jewish inhabitants of East London." The fountain cost over $40,000.

The Hon. Charles Rothschild in unveiling the fountain, said that many of the Jews of East London were aliens, and the reason they came to the more hospitable land of England was to try a change of fortune. One could not but feel that they received in England a toleration and a kindness far in excess of that for which they hoped. Under these circumstances it was not surprising that the Jews of London should wish to show some small token of their appreciation of the ruler under whom their lot had been so much improved.

DEFENDER OF MAFKING

Soldier Who Headed Successful Sortie in an Armed Train

Captain Ashley P. W. Williams one of the gallant defenders of Mafeking in the Boer War, died at his Dorsetshire home at the age of forty-five. At the commencement of the siege of Mafeking General Buller determined not merely to protect the town, but to assume the offensive, and on Oct. 14, 1900, he sent out an armed train, under Captain Williams with about fifty men, two Maxims, and a Hotchkiss, to attack some Boers to the north. The operation was successful, and Captain Williams on his return home for this and other services received the D.S.O. distinction. The borough of Dorchester also conferred upon him the Freedom.

Whole Crew Malaria-Stricken
All the crew, numbering twenty-one, of the German steamer Walkure, which arrived at Derry Doela, Wales, from the West Coast of Africa, were attacked by malaria during the voyage. Only the captain escaped the malady. One man died and was buried at sea, two were left in the hospital at Las Palmas.
